

Club Backs School Issue Successfully

Red Key, a Fresno Junior College service organization, successfully backed a campaign for the $11,750,000 bond issue of the Fresno City Schools.

The group's president, Dolores Critz, said 250 managers of business establishments in the district were convinced by the members of Red Key that posters promoting the bond should be displayed in their windows.

The posters were made by Walter Witt's art classes at FJC and had a map outlining the expanding City of Fresno.

The following slogans were used on the posters: "Fresno City Grows. Help Your Kids Avoid Half-Time Schooling. Vote Yes Nov. 6, School Bonds."

The bond allots $2,995,000 for FJC, of which $1,000,000 will be used for the purchase of the old Fresno State College campus on University Avenue, $1,650,000 will be used to build shops and buy land for them near the University Avenue campus, and $345,000 to repair the buildings already on the campus and for incidentals.

The campaign was organized by the group's officers; Miss Critz, Rochelle Harford, vice president; Dorothy Rubald, secretary; Mary Lanotte, treasurer; Gene Francis, membership chairman; and their advisors, Stanley Bennett, Noel Frodsham, and Joseph Rice.

Six Students To Attend Conference

Six members of the FJC Student Council will attend a student government conference in Sacramento on November 15, 16, and 17.

The six delegates, who will be accompanied by Joseph King, an advisor to the council, are Ben Eichman, Ruben Barrios, Muriel Maxwell, Ralph Lawrence, Rochelle Harford, and Frankie White. Mary Lanotte and Harold Neilson are the alternates.

Each of the representatives will attend a workshop during the conference.

Barrios, president of the Interclub Council, received a vote of commendation at the last meeting of the council for his work in helping to organize Ram Week.

PE Is Required By State Law

All students under 25 enrolled for eight or more credit hours in a curriculum leading to the Associate of Arts degree are required by state law to take two hours of physical education per week. Four semesters of physical education fulfill legal requirements.

FJC offers several types of physical education. These are as follows: Physical Education 1-29, Activities; Physical Education 30-34, Techniques in Sports; Physical Education 35, Orientation in Physical Education; Physical Education 40-44, Competitive Sports; and Physical Education 45e, Fundamentals of Social Recreational Activities.

POSTERS: Three officers of Red Key, the Fresno Junior College student service group, are shown with one of the 250 posters they had placed in business establishments in the Fresno City Unified School District. Sam The Ram, Fresno JC Mascot Has Long History

Sam the Ram, Fresno Junior College mascot, has a long history.

The original, Sam the Ram I, was donated by Lester Parks of the Kaiser-Frazer Agency. After he was cleansed and beautified, he made his first appearance in a rally on Sam died apparently of a heart attack while out on the pasture of J. B. Soares.

The flag was lowered on May 9, 1951, commemorating the death of Sam the Ram I.

Sam the Ram II made his debut on November 9, 1951.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nowotny on Highway 41 loaned the Ram to FJC.

He also went through the cleaning process before leading a 20 car caravan through the Visalia streets before the COS game.

Sam No. 3 Sam Junior, the newly born, replaced his father on October 22, 1954.

Samson III was purchased for the student body by W. B. "Billy" Reed.

Finally he returned to his rustic life and he was put out to pasture.

Sam the Ram IV was acquired on November 12, 1954 as a tiny lamb. He has grown to stout proportions this year and is pasturing in the sunnyside neighborhood at the home of Kenneth Say, a Ram supporter. He was given to FJC by Gene and Joseph Yparrea, ranchers.

Sam has been missing from FJC activities since school started but with his appearance will probably get into action now.

Fresno School Issue, Prop. 3 Pass Easily

By EDDIE BRIGGS

Certain victory seems inevitable for the Fresno Unified School District Bond Issue on which local voters passed judgment at the polls Tuesday.

The $11,775,000 bond was leading by an overwhelming majority at press time with 54,751 "yes" votes against 8,257 "no" votes with 316 precincts out of 535 reporting.

Fresno Junior College will benefit by the bond, by receiving $2,995,000. The money will be used to move shops presently at the "O" Street campus to the University Avenue site, besides allotting $1,000,000 for the purchase of the University Avenue campus.

Fresno JC Fall Budget Is Approved

The Fresno Junior College student council has approved the fall semester budget of $11,135.

The spring semester budget was $6,410.81, and the fall semester budget a year ago was $12,681.

The funds budgeted for the fall semester include assemblies, $200; baseball, $200; basketball, $1,000; football $5,000; track, $100; awards, $300; conference, $400; guest fund, $100; oral arts, $175; publicity, $400; Rampage, the school newspaper, $1400; social affairs, $500; student welfare, $50; Rambler, the school yearbook, $700; tennis, $100; wrestling, $300; and cross country, $150.

The student body has received $11,352 from the sale of 1,419 student body cards to date this year. The card sales last semester brought in $6,378.

Tomorrow Is Reg Deadline

Tomorrow is the deadline for the pre-registration for classes for the spring semester, 1957.

Students who have not yet done so, are asked to see their counselors before tomorrow. Pre-registration will assure students of getting into proper classes at more convenient hours. The registration procedure will be completed by the completion of preregistration and students will save many hours of regular registration procedure.

George Holstein, Dean of Admissions and Records, said that when the preregistration is completed, the counselors will meet to set up a definite plans for next semesters classes.

The latter is considered by officials to be a bargain price for the old campus previously housing Fresno State College. Various sums of the remaining money will be used for repairs, alterations and contingencies.

Press and television reports indicated an early lead for the bond issue.

The television media reported that Fresno voters have failed to turn down a school bond proposal in over 20 years, which in itself shows a trend by local pollsters for bettering the schools.

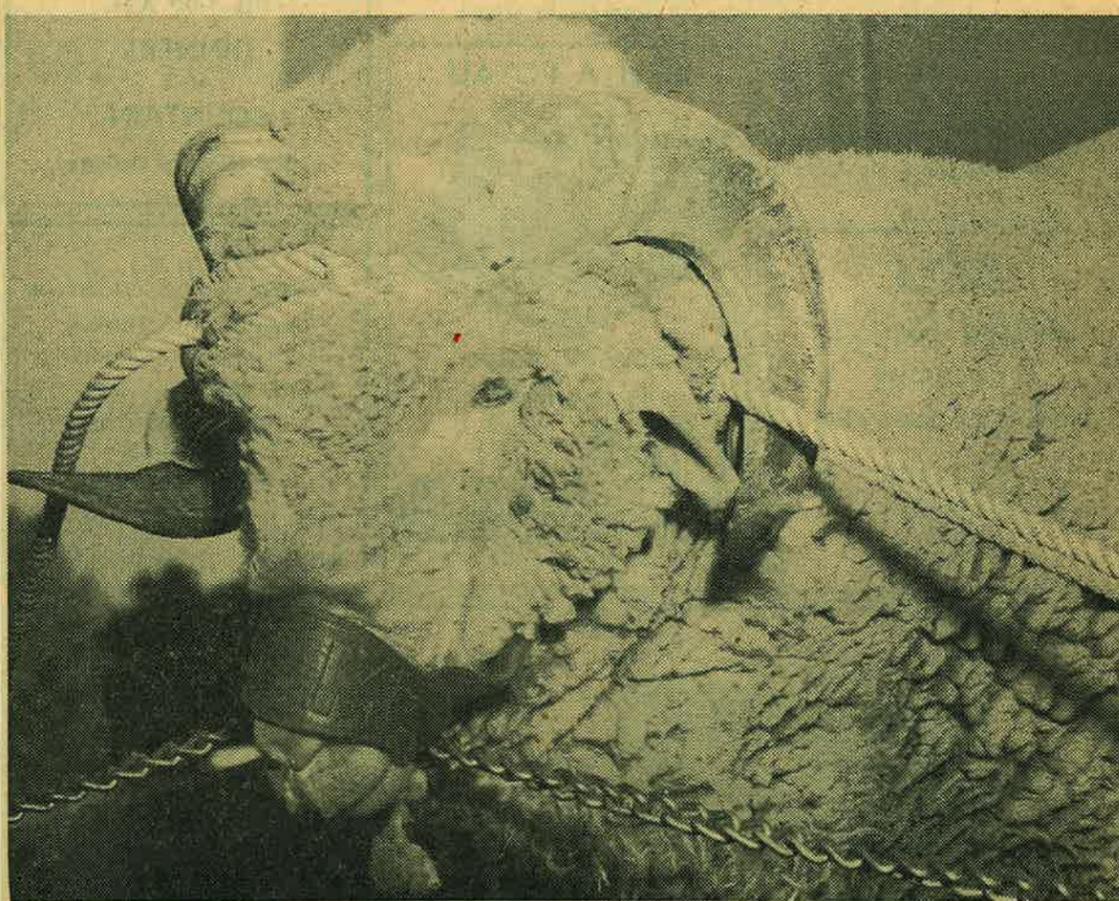

The State School Construction Bond, proposition number 3, also was in the lead as far as Fresno County is concerned. At press time, with 316 precincts out of 535 reporting, the bond was ahead with 48,168 "yes" votes against 9,811 "no" votes tabulated.

Schools Will Benefit

The schools of Fresno and California are certain to benefit by the two bonds, although Fresno will benefit from both. Apparently local voters kept in mind the over-enrollment experienced by FJC this year. Complications such as over-enrollment are sure to be erased with the passing of the Fresno Unified School District Bond.

Rampage Reporter Finds Mascot, Alive, And Content

Three weeks ago, a Rampage reporter was given an unusual assignment, to find Sam the IV, the school mascot, if he still existed.

Well she did find him, at the home of Kenneth Say, a Ram supporter.

Now, what I want to know, is why didn't anyone know where he was in the first place? In my opinion things are getting in a pretty sad state of affairs when no one knows where the school mascot is.

This reporter was put on the trail because we reported that Sam would appear at the Ram Week assembly. However, Sam didn't show up, because no one picked him up. Reason: no one knew where he was.

World Champion Typist Will Appear Tomorrow

Cortez Peters, the acknowledged world typing champion, will give a public demonstration of his ability and virtuosity tomorrow in M-200 at 10:30 AM.

His visit is being sponsored at the college by the Fresno Junior College chapter of Phi Beta Lambda, the FJC chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America.

He will be introduced by Joe Parker, chapter president.

World champion of both portable and standard typewriters, the Washington, D.C. expert will give demonstrations of his gifted virtuosity by typing blindfolded with mittens on his hands, and reciting poetry while typing to music. He is said to sound like a tap dancer when typing to the music.

About six years ago, Peters began to practice with a portable typewriter in order to perfect his speed and ability. He admits that the portable is his personal favorite, although he is as efficient in the standard version.

Peters is being sponsored in his travels around the country by a national typewriter manufacturer. His Fresno visit is being sponsored by a local typewriter concern. Joe Romano of the Fresno store, will bring the talented typist to FJC.

Classes Dismissed On November 12

Fresno Junior College will not resume classes on Monday, November 12, Veterans' Day, originally known as Armistice Day. FJC students will have three big days in which to relax.

Big Hearted

Criterion, Mesa College, Colorado, think that men have bigger hearts than women. To prove this point, the autopsies show that the average male heart outweighs that of the female by 1.8 per cent.

Homecoming

The Collegian, Stockton College, celebrated their homecoming the week of October 22, by selecting Cynthia Surber. Attending Queen Cynthia at their festivities was Mary Fraga, Sylvia Bradbury, Barbara Heston, and Marilyn Shuman.

Distinctive Decade

The Pacific Weekly, College of the Pacific, Stockton, happily announces the celebrating of President Robert E. Burns' tenth anniversary as president of College of the Pacific.

During his ten years as head of the college, President Burns has earned the love and respect of not only the students and faculty, but also of the citizens of the communities in which he has traveled and lectured.

Students of 30 Countries

The Collegian, Fresno State, reports having students from 30 countries; in which Ecuador to Afghanistan, are represented by 80 foreign students attending Fresno State College this fall.

The Spartan Daily

San Jose State might be known as California State today, save for a letter to Thrust and Parry.

On March 10, 1952, the Spartan Daily ran an editorial entitled Why Not California State? Earlier, a story against the change was run.

A poll of student opinion was formed by the Daily and found that 71 per cent were in favor of the name change and only 29 per cent against the change.

Student feeling still ran high and more arguments in favor of the switch were brought out. The suggestion of putting San Jose State on the map and other arguments were proposed. One name suggested was Pacific State College.

When the Associated Student Body elections were held, 1,159 opposed Cal State, 805 were in support. And so the issue died.

Pakistanian Student Admits US Elections Are Democratic

"I like Ike."

"Vote for Stevenson."

We have heard and shouted these campaign slogans for many days but not any more. The elections are over. President for next term has been elected. People have decided whom they like, whose policies they approve.

Now the atmosphere is quiet and silent, except for a few echoes of congratulations to the winner. Yes, this is the way democracy works; revolutions come peacefully, not by bullets but through ballots. Things return to normal gear without any loss of life, property or peace.

It is an interesting experience to watch the American general elections as an impartial observer. Though in Pakistan the elections are similar to the elections in this country, I don't approve some of the tactics used by the politicians and the political parties here. For instance, name calling and voting the personalities instead of policies should be avoided.

The only major and interesting difference I see between the elections of the two countries is that in the United States the loser admits defeat and sends his congratulations to the winner but in Pakistan the loser never admits his defeat and accuses the election officers of being partial, of course in the favor of the winner.

He keeps saying, "Public opinion still wants me in the office." In fact he starts the campaign for the next election right after the election results are generally ascertained.

Hill States Requirements For Success

"Persons who wish to enter an interesting business field and who have a creative ability should be successful in the field of marketing," stated Jack Hill, instructor of marketing classes.

"The most promising individual is the one who enjoys working with others, and who is not afraid to work in an interesting field which involves selling, advertising, and marketing research," continued Hill.

More people are realizing every day that their opportunities are being passed away just because they do not have enough education or business experience, he disclosed.

Adds Two Classes

"The Fresno Junior College Business Division started two new classes this semester and will start many more in the future as a result of the Distributive Occupational Survey held last year," reported Gervase Eckenrod, the placement officer.

These classes are opened to help the people interested in marketing.

Two of them are marketing and salesmanship, each having 25 students. Marketing deals with the important points, such as principle and policies, price control, trade channels, merchandising marketing research, and advertising. Salesmanship teaches the techniques in applying psychology in selling services, goods, and ideas. This course also can help the students appraise themselves with the view of improving their own personalities. Another sales class currently held in the extended day program has 50 students.

Scheduled for next semester are salesmanship, advertising and product analysis in day and marketing and salesmanship for extended day classes.

Students Have Chance To Visit Midwest

Foreign students have the opportunity of visiting the Midwestern section of the United States during the Christmas holidays.

The Christmas Adventure in World Understanding offers these opportunities and many other interesting experiences to a select group of students from distant lands.

The program is held at Michigan State University in East Lansing, Michigan. Ten American students will act as hosts to the group in the modern Kellogg Center located on the University campus.

The program includes visits to Detroit industrial firms, a trip through an automobile plant, discussions with business and labor leaders, overnight visit to a farm, Christmas Eve with a Lansing family, a meeting with prominent public officials at the state capital, The Adventure Christmas day celebration at Kellogg Center, and parties, discussions, movies, sports, and relaxation on the campus.

A cost of $85 includes room, meals, and entertainment. Transportation costs to and from East Lansing will be left to each student.

A number of $50 scholarships are available and are awarded on recommendation of your school's Foreign Student advisers and Michigan State University admission committee.

Application blanks may be obtained from George Holstein, Foreign Student Adviser. Since a group of only 125 is accepted, it is important that your application is made now so that your name can be given full consideration. Applications will be accepted until November 24th. Confirmations will be mailed as soon as possible, but the list closes on December 10th.

FJC Makes Survey Of Night Pupils

The Fresno Junior College recently made a survey of the extended day program.

The purpose of the survey was to improve its services to its 1,500 night students.

A survey was made of 461 students concerning their reasons for attending evening classes, their objectives and recommendations for additional subjects and facilities.

Robert M. Kelly, the dean of the extended day program, said there were six reasons for making the survey. They were,

- (1) To determine what courses are necessary to meet the needs of the students;
- (2) To determine their educational objectives;
- (3) To formulate a basis for preparing for future expansion in instructors, facilities, and courses;
- (4) To classify the people in the communities served by the junior college;
- (5) To predict a long term trend for the FJC extended day program;
- (6) To determine if more counseling is necessary for night students.

More than two-thirds of the students participating in the survey plan to graduate from FJC with an Associate in Arts degree.

All but 44 indicated they plan to enroll for the spring semester, and 226 said they desire counseling, while 195 said they didn't want it. Only 183 said they had counseling to assure they were satisfying requirements for the AA degree.

More than two-thirds of the students plan to transfer to a four year college. 60 of them are attending night classes in both the junior college and the Fresno State College, and 47 are attending both day and night classes at FJC.

There were 421 students asked reasons for attending the FJC night classes.

To improve on my job was the reason given by 99 of the students. Other leading reasons included working days, 82; preparing for AA degree, 73; preparing for bachelor of arts degree, 68; and self employment, 58.

Recommendations for improving the night program included larger selection of business education, general education, science and mathematics classes, 52; better equipment in laboratory, 24; better lighting in laboratory, 24; late afternoon classes, 14; and same subjects but on different nights, 10.

Teacher Likes Facilities Provided By Fresno JC

Joseph P. Rice, a new psychology instructor at Fresno Junior College, stated that he likes the many facilities provided. Before he came here, he taught for two years at the Mitchell Junior College in New London, Connecticut.

He graduated from the Classical High School in Springfield, Mass. He received his MA degree in guidance and clinical psychology at the American International College.

He is a candidate for a PhD degree at the University of Connecticut.

JOE RICE
... Instructor

Difference Between Schools

Rice stated that there is quite a difference between FJC and Mitchell JC. Mitchell is a small private school of the dormitory type. Because only a few can afford to attend, students are on the snobbish side.

Rice said that the FJC student body acts more sophisticated, but on the other hand, acts less intelligent.

He also thinks that students should know more about industrial or cultural activities. As an example, he said that if he asked his general studies class to name at least one book that they have read, two-thirds of them couldn't, whereas, back at Mitchell, at least two-thirds of the class could name dozens.

Writing Thesis

Rice is writing a thesis on the New England Junior College for his PhD. He is a member of the American Psychological Association and is also a professional member of the National Vocational Guidance Association. He also has worked during the summer at the Norwich State Hospital in Connecticut.

Another difference between the schools, Rice said, is a lack of spirit and enthusiasm here compared to Mitchell's.

The reason he selected FJC is because one of his old professors is familiar with the Fresno area.

Rice was the director of student personnel services at Mitchell JC. He stated that Mitchell JC started about 20 or 30 years ago.

The next meeting will be Monday in Room 114 of the Administration building.

Fresno Rams To Meet Pasadena City College

The Fresno Rams play their last home game of the season Saturday night, when they meet the once defeated, powerful Pasadena City College Lancers in Ratcliffe Stadium.

The Pasadena Lancers, a member of the Far Western League, boast a better than average array of stars in Ross Matranga, one of the finest passers in the southland; Hal Sellers, hard-hitting fast back, that can break a game wide open at any time; John Hardy, a two year veteran end who excels in catching the hard ones.

The Lancers grid crew are mostly two year veterans who were on last year's squad that handed the Fresno Rams a disappointing rout of 40-6 in the Rams' first trip to the bowl.

The Lancers only defeat came at the hands of a perpetual powerhouse, Compton Junior College, which is working on a winning streak of three years and is rated number one in junior college play.

The Rambling Rams' opportunity to avenge last year's loss was somewhat hurt when key injuries were suffered by Tony Florentino and Leo Hall in last week's clash against Coalinga.

Hard Running Guinn Boosts Fresno Backs

The Rambling Rams boast one of the hardest running backs of the Central California Junior College Athletic Association in the form of Kenny Guinn. Coach Hans Wiedenhofer feels that Guinn is one of the best all around backs on the football squad.

Guinn is a San Joaquin Valley product and hails from Exeter. He played prep ball for Exeter and was named to the South Sequoia All-League football squad for three years running.

Aside from football Guinn also holds honors in basketball. He was chosen on the Valley All-Star cage team along with ex-Ram cager Gary Alcorn, and won the most valuable player award for two years.

Rounding out his prep career, Guinn holds a berth on the high school All-America swimming team.

Guinn, on graduation, enrolled at the University of Southern California where he played one year of frosh football before transferring to Fresno Junior College.

He is a sophomore and is making physical education his major. Guinn has professed interest in several four year institutions but has not made up his mind where he will transfer after graduation at FJC.

Falcons Capitalize On FJC Miscues, Tie Fresno 13-13

The Rambling Fresno Junior College Rams, fought the Coalinga Falcons to a 13-13 tie last Saturday evening despite Coalinga interceptions, Ram penalties and Falcon quarterback Willi Wood.

The Rams put together a scoring march early in the second quarter. Utilizing the line plunging of Kenny Guinn, J.C. White, and the passing of Dick Valentine, FJC went 70 yards with White busting over from eight yards out for the Ram TD. Guinn notched the point after.

Not to be outdone, the Falcons recovered a Valentine fumble on the Ram 46. Combining the running of Barry Stewart, an FJC offside penalty, a 28 yard Wood pass to Rudy Quesada, with Wood finally going over on a quarterback sneak play. The point after, by Bob Buffalo, was good.

Kickoff Returned 56 Yards

Willi Wood proved to be a runner, besides an able field general, by taking the second half opening kickoff and going 56 yards to the FJC three. The Rams held for two plays and then Wood drilled a short pass to Ross Bracket standing in the end zone for the Falcon six pointer. The extra point was no good.

The Falcons appeared to be end zone bound in the third quarter with two opportunities. Coalinga recovered a Valentine fumble on the FJC 21 and a Flaherty fumble on the Ram 23, but the Rams stove off both Falcon threats.

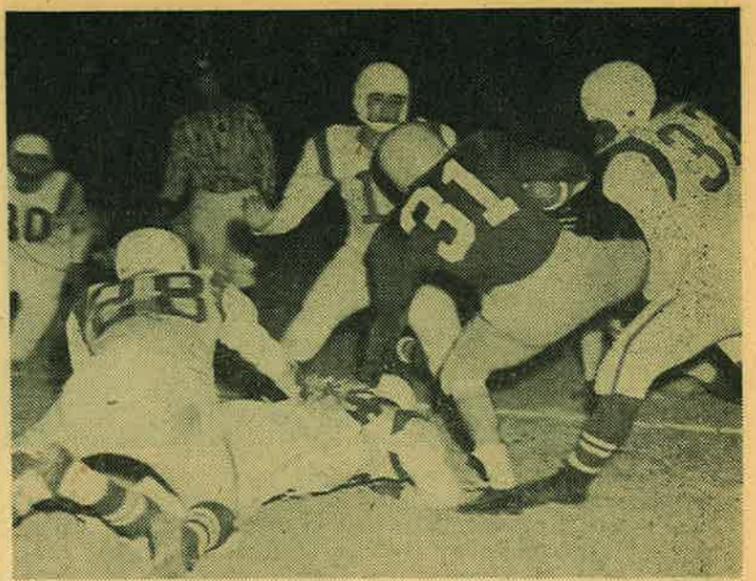

Rams Tie Score

The Rams fought back in the last quarter. A Valentine pass to end Bill Herron on the Falcon one yard was no good, but pass interference was called, giving the Rams a first and goal to go on the one yard line. Valentine promptly knifed over for the six points. The all important PAT hit the goal post and was no good.

Receiving injuries were Leo Hall, out for the Pasadena game with a broken rib, Paul Ledbetter out of action for the season with his second head injury and Tony Florentino down but not out with a twisted knee.

Coach Hans Weidenhofer feels his boys were not mentally up for the Coalinga game but now that the pressure is off in league competition the team should pick up considerably in the two remaining games.

CJCA Rejects State Athletic Residence Rules

Stuart M. White, president of the Fresno Junior College, said two athletic resolutions that were of great interest to several of the top grid powers in the Central California Junior College Athletic Association were defeated when 50 per cent of the voters were undoubtedly against these two issues at the annual fall conference of the California Junior College Association in the Ahwahnee Hotel in Yosemite National Park last week.

Out of state and out of country students shall be ineligible for athletics for a period of one year, except in the case of bona fide change of residence. Exceptions may be for junior colleges who draw students from adjacent out of state areas. These exceptions may be made through the recommendation of the conference and approval of the State Athletic Committee.

A student whose legal residence is not in a junior college district is eligible for athletics in any junior college in the county of his residence or in any county adjacent to the county of his residence. If there is no junior college in his county or an adjacent county, the geographical area will be enlarged to such an extent that the student will have a choice of three junior colleges.

Lowdown

By BOB & JOHN

The Rambling Rams' hopes for regaining the long lost conference football title were somewhat extinguished last Saturday night at Coalinga, where an impudent lad by the name of Willi Wood, field general for the Falcons of Coalinga College, rallied his club from behind and gained a game ending tie 13-13, dropping the Rams from contention in their final league game.

This unforeseen tie with Coalinga left the Rams 3-1-1 in conference play, which put a damper on the Rams' chances of bringing back the CCJCA crown to the land of Fresno.

Game Of The Week

The titanic clash between Coalinga and Taft Saturday night at Taft will decide the pending CCJCA Conference Title. A Taft win or tie could keep the conference title in the city of oil. Coalinga pits Wee Willi Wood, the sensational youngster from Washington, D.C., against the Cougars in a must or die game.

The Coalinga Falcons first CCJCA title hangs in the balance in an unseemly precarious situation — a tie or loss to Taft would end their long awaited dream of capturing their first league title.
