Board Of Education Officially Changes JC To City College

By IRENE BRIETIGAM

Fresno Junior College is no longer in existence. Last Thursday the name of the college was officially changed to Fresno City College. This action was done at the meeting of the city board of education.

Dean James M. Malloch made the motion, which was seconded by Mrs. Margaret R. Robinson. The proposal was adopted unanimously.

The name of the institution has been Fresno Junior College since its founding in 1910 as California's first junior college. Although it was part of the Fresno State College from 1921 to 1948, it was still listed in yearbooks and almanacs as "Fresno Junior College."

Presents No Problem

"The college catalogue for next semester has not been printed yet and it is just a matter of taking the word 'junior' out and replacing it with 'City,'" stated John S. Hansen, FCC administrative dean.

The other California junior colleges that are designated as "city colleges" are Long Beach, Los Angeles, Pasadena, Riverside, San Francisco, and Santa Monica.

Is Current Trend

The current trend of eliminating the word "junior" from the name of the college has been maturing a long time. When it was first proposed, FJC did not have a campus and felt it a little pretentious with the student body crowded into old buildings and wherever else any space could be found. Now that the school has a new campus, to which the new additions are being built, it's only right that the school should have a more deserving name.

California's 61 other public junior colleges include six "city colleges," 25 junior colleges, and 30 colleges.

Graduates Will Be Honored

The advisors and members of the Fresno City College freshman class will sponsor a reception honoring the 1958 graduates on Thursday, June 12. It will be held in the cafeteria following commencement exercises.

Ted McCaleb, freshman class president, appointed several committees to help with the arrangements. The committees and their heads are Sharon Lovine, reception; Virginia McKenney, decorations; Norma Pilegard, refreshments; Helen Carrillo, invitations; La Juana Rickles, commencement; Margaret Christensen, decorations; Art Livingston, doormen; and Miss Rickles, usherettes.

Floyd Quick and Miss Gertrude Stubblefield are the freshman class sponsors who are helping with the class in arranging for the program.

Today Is Preregistration Deadline For Classes

"Today is the last day to preregister," stated Archie Bradshaw, Fresno City College dean of students.

September 26 is the last date on which day students and extended day students, except in short unit courses and apprenticeship classes, may register.

Judy Unruh, Others Receive Various FCC Scholarships

Archie Bradshaw, head of the scholarships committee, announced that a $25 scholarship in music has been awarded to Judy Unruh, an education major at Fresno City College.

A graduate of Kerman High School, Miss Unruh was valedictorian of her class, editor of the annual, and president of the girls' league. She plans to become a teacher.

A 1958 Bank of America Achievement Award for $100 was recently presented to another Kerman graduate, Lladona Miller, who also won a $120 scholarship to FCC.

The FCC scholarship was furnished by the Men's Club of the St. James Episcopal Church in honor of Dean Emeritus James M. Malloch.

Carl Hiser, of Roosevelt High School will receive the $100 scholarship from the FCC Faculty Club. Jesse Soldana was supposed to receive this scholarship, but due to the fact that he accepted a $100 scholarship from the Fresno Kiwanis Club, another applicant had to be picked.

Two Sophomores Win $25 Awards

Veloyce Rowe, a music major, and Robert McGee, an education major, will be the recipients of the $25 sophomore leadership award for 1958-59.

"The awards were made available by the student council," said Archie Bradshaw, the dean of students. "Part of the financing was derived from the sale of theater tickets at registration time."

The winners were chosen by a committee headed by Shirley Ecker, student council scholarship commissioner.

First City College Graduation Will Be Held June 12

The first commencement of Fresno City College will be held June 12, at 8 PM, in the University Ave. campus auditorium. It will be the tenth graduation since the college's recognition in 1948 as a separate institution from the Fresno State College.

Awards Are Presented At Assembly

The Associated Men Students, Associated Women Students, Inter-Club Council, and the Student Council gave special awards at an assembly held in the Fresno City College auditorium yesterday at 1 PM.

AMS presented their one award to Pete Mehas for being FCC's best scholar-athlete this year.

Inter-Club Council gave two awards. One was an award given to Al Grace of Phi Theta Kappa for being the outstanding club member during the past year. This award was judged upon attendance, participation, and service rendered to his own club.

Their other award went to Caduceus Club for being the outstanding club. The club trophy was judged on active participation, percentage of club's attendance at meetings, and cooperation with Inter-Club.

AWS gave talent keys to Karen McDougald, Billie Jean Trout, and Yvonne Street. Miss McDougald won her key for outstanding literary work, Miss Trout won hers for outstanding work in the field of art, and Miss Street won her award for outstanding work in music.

The Student Council gave a special plaque to the Technical and Industrial division. The plaque was awarded to them because of outstanding cooperation.

Overdue Library Books May Be Returned Gratis

"All students who have overdue books from the library may turn them in on Monday, June 2, free of charge," stated Jackson C. Carty, head librarian at Fresno City College. "No fines or questions will be asked."

President Stuart M. White will award associate in arts degrees to 188 sophomores, the largest graduating class in the college's history. George C. Holstien, the dean of admissions and records, will present the class.

Nine of the graduates will be awarded medals. They will include awards for scholarship to Sharon Cummings as the honor student and top in the business division; Harry Hale, first in the general education division, and Richard Armstrong, first in the technical and industrial division.

Other medals will go to Bill Sewall and Billie Jean Trout, journalism; Carl Allen Grace and Kenneth Pipes, leadership; and Nate Hygelund and Mary Bagdasarian, music.

Dr. Herman Spindt, the director of admissions of the University of California in Berkeley, will speak on the Talents of American Citizenship. Jesse N. Jones, representing his classmates, will speak on Education and the Contemporary. White will introduce the speakers.

The Very Rev. James M. Malloch, dean emeritus of the St. James Episcopal Cathedral and a member of the Fresno City Board Of Education, will congratulate the graduates. Dr. John Gregg, the pastor of the First Congregational Church, will pronounce the invocation and benediction.

C. Lowell Spencer, a music instructor, will play the processional and recessional on a new organ purchased by the student council. He also will lead the audience in singing the national anthem.

An instrumental quartet will play Musette. The students include Glenn Foster, George Kennedy, Henry Kubota, and Veloyce Rowe. A choral ensemble directed by Spencer will sing Ecstasy.

Editors Express Thanks

As the 1957-58 school year comes to a close, so does the weekly publication of The Rampage.

The Rampage observed its 10th year of publication last September, and as we wind up our final issue, the editorial staff of your campus newspaper would like to express their sincere thanks to Fresno City College President Stuart M. White, Administrative Dean John S. Hansen, Dean of Students Archie Bradshaw, and the various members of the FCC faculty whose cooperation the past year was greatly appreciated.

This past year was especially gratifying because The Rampage received the coveted All-American Honor Rating presented by the Associated Collegiate Press. Since it was the first such rating that the FCC weekly has received, we are doubly proud and honored.

We have made an effort to give each and every club and activity at FCC complete and fair coverage, but it is a task that the staff could not possibly have done without the complete cooperation of all groups concerned.

Next semester, Gary Becker, a journalism major, will assume the editorship. He has been chosen because of his apparent ability in journalism and we wish him the best of luck. He has an obligation to the school, its students, its faculty members and an obligation also to extend his most able efforts to The Rampage.

Our thanks to the members of the student body, who, during the past year have been our critics, and our guides.

Our thanks for guidance and wholehearted assistance go to Philip D. Smith who served as Rampage adviser. Without his help the honor accorded us this past year would have never been realized.

Exam Fever Runs Rampant

This time of year on college campuses is traditionally the period of the most intense activity of the entire school year.

Along with packing clothes, planning for the homeward trip, and arranging for summer employment, time must also be set aside to catch up on neglected studies and to complete overdue term papers.

Coffee cups, no-doz tablets and electric lights enjoy a peak of popularity unequalled throughout the rest of the year.

It baffles efficiency experts that students are able to accomplish more in these final two weeks than in the previous four months.

A contestant's efforts to bone up for a quiz program would look quite feeble as compared to the scholarly pursuits of most students at this time of year.

As the students at FCC ride the inevitable merry-go-round of preparing for their final efforts of the school year, I will only say that I wish them all a successful grab at the gold ring of passing grades and a year of genuine achievement in school.

After several installments, this is my final editorial to appear in The Rampage.

In everything which I have written throughout the school year I have attempted to choose subjects which I believed to be relevant to the interests of the readers of a college newspaper. I hope that most of the time my editorial comments were in relation to the interests of this paper's readers.

In closing I wish to express my gratitude to FCC and all of the elements combined into it for the opportunity of gaining invaluable experience by being allowed to serve in an editorial capacity on The Rampage.

—Patrick Rafferty

MOTHER AND SON TO GRADUATE TOGETHER

A combination of a mother and son will be in the graduating class of Fresno City College this spring.

Mrs. Edythe Gordon, a vocational nurse, completed her nursing course in 1953. Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Gordon was a student nurse at the Fresno General Hospital in 1935-36.

Stanley E. Gordon, a chemistry major, will receive his associate arts degree this spring. After graduation Gordon plans to attend summer school and complete his education at Fresno State College.

Education Division Meeting Is Held

The Fresno City College division deans and counselors met with the members of the general education division, held in the committee room of the student center building.

The theme of the meeting was "General Education Looks Toward The Future." The main topic discussed was how the general education division could be of further assistance to students through screening devices and techniques in relation to class enrollment.

New Classes To Be Offered By T & I Division

Six new classes have been added to the Fresno City College trades and industrial division day program for the fall semester of 1958-59.

Robert Hansler, dean of the trades and industrial division, reported that if the building program continues as rapidly as it has been, the division will be moved to the University campus by early next fall instead of the previous Feb. 2 deadline.

Two new courses in the aircraft section, air science and airline hostess training, will hold class in the quonset huts previously used by the engineering department of Fresno State College.

The study of power plants is a third new aircraft class. The electronics section will add basic radio communication to its schedule, while manufacturing processes will be added to the engineering department. Industrial Arts for elementary schools will be added to the Industrial education section.

The tentative schedule for new night classes lists three new classes. Power steering and air suspension will be added to the auto mechanic section, while conference leading will be new in the industrial education section.

Speech Dept. Adds Drama Classes

John Hansen, administrative dean, revealed that three new classes are scheduled for the speech department of Fresno City College next year, and another is under consideration. All are three unit classes.

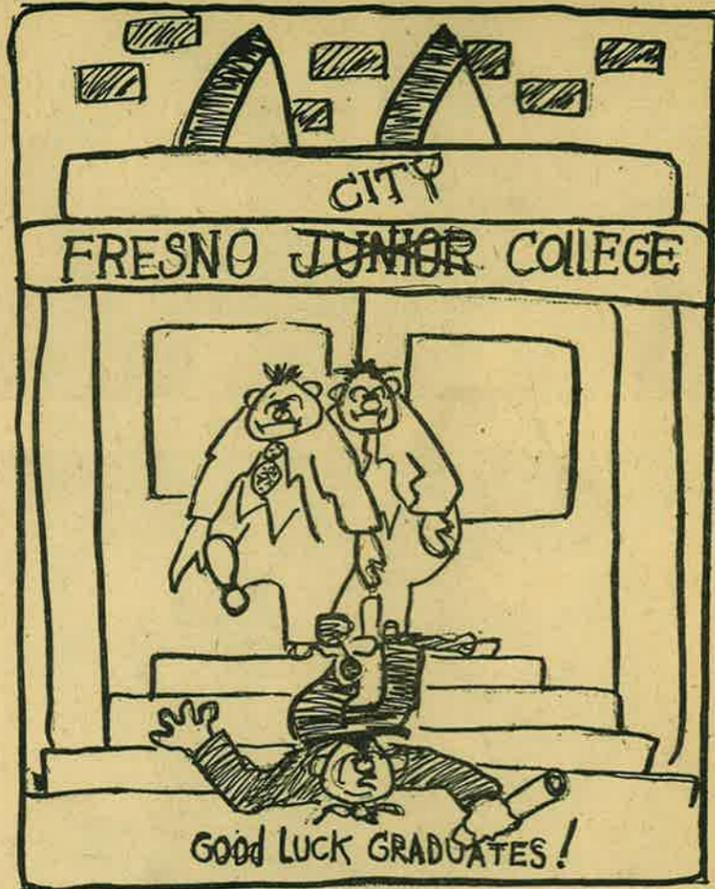

Drama will enter the fall curriculum picture in the form of Speech 33, Elementary Techniques of Acting. The techniques of dramatic presentation and concentrated laboratory procedure are offered by this class.

There is a possibility that the class will present two actual plays, once each semester. Hansen mentioned also the possibility of FCC negotiating with Fresno State College to obtain the facilities of the "theater in the round," Theater 133.

The other two classes scheduled will not be open until the spring semester. They are Speech 25, Argumentation and Debate, and Speech 22, Fundamentals of Interpretation. Speech 21 is a prerequisite for both of these classes.

Scientist Discloses Results Of Studies Of Student Behavior

Recently, a lecture by David Riesman, a social scientist of the University of Chicago, was given to some college students on the student of 1958.

Riesman began his lecture with the thought that the college student is studied almost as much as he studies. Much research is done on the student, thus enabling him to better understand himself. In comparing the student of today to the one of ten years ago, it is found that today's student is more cautious and conservative. To the world situation around him, he is more or less apathetic.

Riesman went on to say that marital relations are of utmost importance to students. By the fourth year of college, he is either married, engaged, or foreseeing marriage.

Graduate Has Certain Goals
The male student wants a college-educated wife, a comfortable home atmosphere, and anticipates the standard two-car, four-child, suburban situation.

Riesman pointed out that the students of today show less of an attachment toward their work and prefer the non-work side of life to that of the career side.

Realism is becoming more a part of the student than before. One illusion they do form is that they can do nothing about their academic environment, which, of course, is not true. The student's general opinion of the faculty is that it is a monolithic, tight organism.

Lack of Maturity Evident
Students show so little maturity in relation to their curriculum that it is questioned why they are so interested in each other, sex, and their leisure activities.

Riesman finished his lecture by saying, "Apathy towards crusaders and revivalists is a sign of maturity. But when one becomes apathetic about one's work, it is hard to prevent this from spreading to other situations."

Oldest Grad Has Varied Background

Mrs. Erma M. Peirson, general education major, has the distinction of being the oldest member of the class of 1958. She admits to being over 60.

Mrs. Peirson had several professions before coming to Fresno City College to complete her undergraduate requirements for a teaching career.

She taught in five western states, taking examinations in each state to qualify for teaching.

Mrs. Peirson and her husband are retired civil service employees. They retired from the Naval Ordnance Test Station at China Lake.

Mrs. Peirson was managing editor of the base paper, the Rocketeer, for 15 years. She developed her hobby of writing about desert lore into a journalistic career. A regional column on the desert was included in the base paper. It was also carried in other papers.

A book, Kern Desert, was published in 1956. Mrs. Peirson has another book almost ready for publication. In the future she hopes to compile her column into book form.

Mrs. Peirson took advantage of the University of California seminar and adult education at the naval base to obtain 46 units.

Spotlighting the Sports

By BILL SEWALL
Sports Editor

Mr. Paul Starr, our director of athletics, was quite right in saying that Fresno Junior (City) College has had a good sports year during the past two semesters.

As he said, we have been represented in four major sports and in four minor sports.

Undoubtedly the best representation came early in the year with the football squad. Once they got started, they mowed down all opposition. Maybe they weren't lucky enough to get the Junior Rose Bowl bid, but they did take the laurels in their conference.

They Started Slowly

At the first of the season, the Rams got off to a slow start by losing to Stockton and barely getting by with ties against Fullerton and College of Sequoias. By the time that had happened, Wiedenhoefer knew just what to do with the players he had. As a result, the team neither lost or tied in their remaining games.

Basketball coach Joe Kelly had his first losing season as an FJC coach with a 14-16 record. Only by losing the last game of the season, did he fail to accomplish playing even .500 ball.

On the minor sport scene, swimming got a start at FCC this year. Dr. Paul Pastor coached the swim team during its first year. Although the swim team didn't win any matches, man for man they were a better team than almost everyone they came up against.

COS Is Jinx

No matter what sport it was, the team that gave FCC the most trouble this year was COS. No Ram competitive team beat COS this year. The closest they came was a 20-20 tie during the football season. COS beat the swim team, the track team, the tennis team, the golf team, the basketball team, and the baseball team.

This year, losses to COS dropped the Rams out of league competition in baseball, golf, tennis, and, in a sense, track.

Major FCC Sports Fare Well With 34-27 Overall Mark

The Fresno City College Ram athletic teams fared pretty well over the 1957-58 sports year by winning the league football championship, placing second in the league track meet, and placing third in basketball and baseball competition.

The Ram gridders posted an overall record of six wins, one loss, and two ties. Coach Hans Wiedenhoefer's men compiled a league mark of five wins and one tie for the championship.

Vestee Jackson was selected the most valuable player. Bill Herron was selected as the outstanding lineman and Alex Kobzoff as the outstanding back.

Cindermen Place Second

The track and field team under coach Erwin Ginsburg, placed second in the league meet due to the efforts of pole vaulter Joyce Hendrix, weightman Frank Eller, and distance man Paul Richardson.

Coach Joe Kelly's basketballers ended up the season with a 14-16 mark. They had an 8-4 league record. The highlight of the season was a 51-49 upset of the Allan Hancock Bulldogs.

Polly Carver was selected as the most valuable player and Larry Gambrell as the honorary captain.

The Ram baseball team finished the season with 14 wins and 10 losses. Coach Len Bourdet's men had a mark of eight wins and four losses in league play.

Noakes Wins MVP

Mike Noakes was selected as the most valuable player and Stan Busch as the honorary captain.

Footballer Pete Mehas was selected as the best scholar athlete during the year at FCC.

The basketball team had its first losing season under the guidance of Joe Kelly. A 63-48 reversal at the hands of the Stanford jayvees on the last day of the season prevented him from playing even .500 ball.

All Minor Fresno CC Sports Have Good Seasons This Year

Fresno City College minor athletics fared well this year with wrestling, golf, swimming, and tennis all having successful seasons.

Al Cunningham and Bill Moore anchored the wrestling team in all matches. Both won medals in the state junior college tourney held at El Camino, Calif. Coach Hans Wiedenhoefer and other conference wrestling coaches are working to expand the wrestling program in junior colleges.

Jim McCrory shot consistently in the low 70's to lead City College to a 4-1 record in league standings. The local team's only league loss was to the College of Sequoias of Visalia. Wiedenhoefer, who is also head football mentor, coached the golfers to a 4-4 overall season record.

Bill Glasson, singles player, and Ramon Melendez and George Sarantos, who formed the doubles team, paced the tennis squad to a winning season. The local team lost only one match in league play, that being to COS, the loop champions. Miss Margaret Tylor coached the netters to their winning season.

Wiedenhoefer said, "We have contacted many high school prospects, and I hope many of them will be members of the squad next year."

Wiedenhoefer feels the big problem is going to be replacing Bill Herron, Fred Raco, and John Lujano. These three men figured very prominently in the FJC attack last year, and in winning the league for the Rams.

Any men currently enrolled in school that are interested in playing football are urged by Wiedenhoefer to contact him or one of the other coaches soon.
