Nine Clubs File Names For Queen Candidates

Parade Tomorrow, Game Saturday

By FRANCES KAISER
Rampage Staff Writer

A parade, a coronation, a dance, queens and a football game await the student body as the 1964 homecoming becomes a reality.

The two day homecoming celebration, which will begin tomorrow with a parade of floats and end with a game against the College of the Sequoias, will have a Roman Adventure theme.

Candidates for homecoming queen this year are Peggy Hinrichs, Miss Associated Women Students; Cecily Nyeland, Miss Circle K; Margaret Munoz, Miss Latin American Club; Shirley Munson, Miss Associated Men Students; Margie Ciano, Miss Phi Beta Lambda; Joan Simpson, Miss Delta Psi Omega; Elaine Silveria, Miss International and People to People; Susan Ortega, Miss Marketing Club and Gail Tipton, Miss Rally Club.

Record Number

"We've never had so many queen candidates," commented Miss Doris Deakins, dean of women.

A parade at noon tomorrow will give the student body a chance to view the queen contestants on their club floats, while five students and five faculty members judge the floats for beauty, theme, and originality.

Campaigning for homecoming queen will end tomorrow when voting takes place from 8 AM to 3 PM with booths in the student center, the library, and the main foyer of the administration building.

Queen Presentation

The semi-formal homecoming dance, which will feature the presentation of the queen hopefuls and their escorts, will be held in the social hall tomorrow.

The dance, which will be from 9 PM to midnight, is sponsored by the Rally Club, with John McDaniel as the general chairman. The homecoming game between College of the Sequoias and FCC will begin at 8 PM Saturday in McLane Stadium.

During half time there will be the queen's parade, the coronation of the queen, trophies presented to the club and organization with the best float and a show provided by the marching band and the majorettes.

Once Around

The float parade will circle the stands once before the queen is announced. She then will be crowned by H. E. Comstock, student body president.

The master of ceremonies for the halftime game, Robert Taylor, will announce the winning float entries and present the trophies.

Homecoming is being sponsored by the Inter Club Council, with Larry Krum as the general chairman.

McDaniel, Porter Win Top Fall Class Positions

Porter won the presidential race amidst charges by Luis Mestas that Wayne Martin, commissioner of elections, and Dianne Heller, vice presidential nominee, started campaigning before the official campaign date.

Mestas made his charges at the council meeting prior to the election.

Other candidates for freshman class president were, Martin, Mestas, Buddy Tackett, John Lynch, and Thomas Little.

Writein

In the freshman class secretarial race, Laura Conner won as writein candidate.

Dee Anna Preclado became the new freshman class treasurer. Her opponents were Donald Owens, Rick Sander, and John Vlahakis.

Unopposed

In the sophomore class the contestants were unopposed.

McDaniel won the presidency decisively, as he was unopposed.

Carol Cloves and Margaret Sadler, also running unopposed for sophomore class vice president and treasurer, respectively, won handily.

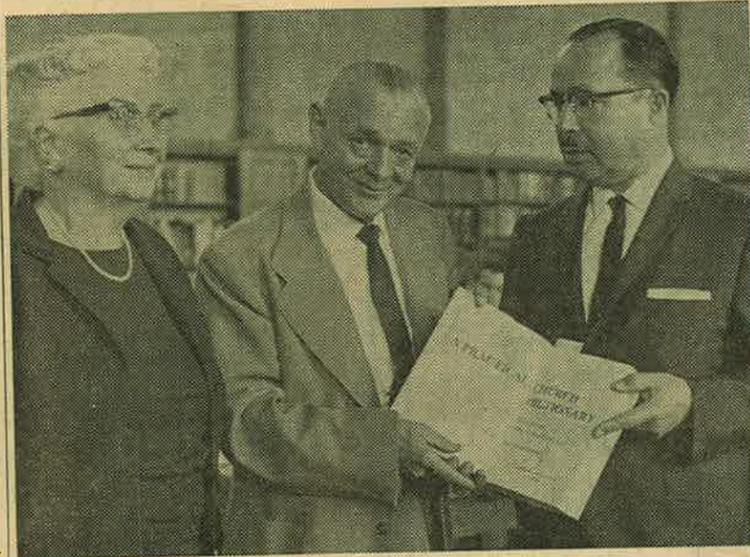

Donald Winslow won the sophomore secretarial post as a writein candidate.

The commissioner of elections, Martin, the controversial figure in the election, and the winning presidential candidates were unavailable for comment.

A total of 602 students voted in this semester's election.

One observer said the reason for the large turnout was that the campaign was a "rough one." This accounted for a greater interest.

— Bulletin —

Tomorrow is the last day to drop classes with out penalty, announced Merle Martin, dean of students.

A student who drops a course after tomorrow will have a grade of "W" if he is doing "O" or better work, he said.

Martin stressed that the student must still petition for withdrawal from his class or classes.

He added that if the student is doing "D" or "F" work, his grade will be recorded as a "WF."

Council Moves To Endorse Statewide College Bond Issue

The Student Council went on record Tuesday as supporting Proposition 2, a bill which will provide junior colleges in the state with $50 million out of a total of $380 million for campus improvements.

The council unanimously approved a resolution which places the student body in favor of the bond issue.

H. E. (Rick) Comstock, student body president, is chairman of the San Joaquin Valley region of the Students for Proposition 2 committee.

According to Comstock, FCC will get "a fair share" of the funds if the issue is passed.

The resolution passed Tuesday placed FCC "standing behind Proposition 2."

RAMPAGE HOLDS FIRM: WILL PRINT ALL NEWS

As an instrument to the public, it is the Rampage's duty to gather and interpret all available news for the benefit of the students at large. This is the duty of any news publication.

Although the facts uncovered by the Rampage are not always harmonious with the image the student government would like to reflect, students deserve and need to know these facts. This is the only way in which the student body can understand the campus situations and understand the actions taken by their representative government.

Most students are certainly mature enough to interpret the news for themselves. They do not need a "guiding hand" to decide which unglorious facts should be left out of print.

In striving to do the best possible job in informing the public, the Rampage must present the facts as they are. Many officers in the student government have offered comments about the Rampage "sticking its nose in anywhere." Council affairs are student affairs, since the body was elected to represent the students to the best of each members ability.

The Rampage will continue to "stick its nose into council affairs" and print the news as it is. If the student council is doing its job and properly representing the student, there is nothing to hide. —Barbara Ehrenburg

ENTHUSIASM MARKS RECENT ELECTION

Election results are in after a week of serious campaigning from all candidates. However, more important than the fact that there were clear cut victories after hard campaigns is the number of students that voted.

In this latest class election, there were 602 students who registered their opinions by casting a ballot at the polls. This means that approximately 17 per cent of the full time students at Fresno City College were interested enough in their class activities to take the time to vote.

These results show that the apathy which was demonstrated by the student body last semester in school affairs is lifting.

Last semester the class officers were elected by the vote of only 150 students. The majority was slightly better represented in the student body election last semester, as about 350 people registered their opinions. Even this, however, was so small a portion of the student body as a whole that a candidate could have won just by getting all his friends to vote for him, requiring no real campaigning at all.

The interest shown in this class election makes it possible to call the results a "decision of the student body" rather than a decision made by a few students who are active in school affairs.

Whether prompted by interest in the upcoming national election or due to the ambitious campaigns of the candidates themselves, the turnout for this election was a good sampling of the student body opinion. —Derry Modlin

NAME CHANGE MEANS LOSS OF IDENTITY

One member of the newly formed board of trustees of the State Center Junior College District has suggested to change the names of Fresno City College and Reedley College to State Center Junior College at Fresno and State Center Junior College at Reedley, respectively.

This is a bad move for several reasons. The first is that the schools would lose their individual identity. Through the many conferences and conventions attended by FCC and RC students and faculty, the schools have become well known by students throughout the state and at other colleges. To change the name of the schools would be to start over.

Secondly, there is the financial basis of objection. Many dollars of student body and district funds are tied up in equipment bearing the name "Fresno City College." To change the name on them would take additional money and hours of manpower.

The Rampage, for example, has four nameplates which would have to be redrawn and reengraved. This would cost at least $90. And this is just one example; how many other names would have to be changed at an equal or greater cost?

The Rampage hopes the board realizes that changing a name is not as simple as just casting an affirmative vote. —Charles Wright

Bolshoi Ballet Heads Shakespeare Films

"The Ballet of Romeo and Juliet," the first in a series of six films commemorating the quadricentennial celebration of the birth of Shakespeare, will be presented at Fresno City College Monday.

The performance will begin at 8 pm in room 200 of McLane Hall. The public is invited and there will be no admission charge.

Shakespearian Plays

The films, all based on the plays of Shakespeare, are Orson Wells's production of "Macbeth," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which won two Academy awards; "Richard III," "Throne of Blood," "The Moor's Pavane," and "The Rest is Silence," a contemporary West German version of "Hamlet" in modern dress. "The Ballet of Romeo and Juliet" is an interpretation in dancing with a running commentary in English.

Open Performance

FCC spokesmen expressed hope that many Fresnans would be on hand for the performance, in addition to the students.

Franz Weinschenk, speech and English instructor, who helped obtain the films said that interest in the program could lead to further cultural projects.

"We hope the films will go over this year," he said. "We have every reason to hope that a similar project might be undertaken next semester."

Alumni Chairman

Archie Bradshaw, president of Fresno City College, has been reappointed as Fresno-Madera district chairman of the scholarship program of the University of Southern California alumni association.

The 1964-65 appointment marks the 15th year Bradshaw has held the post for the local area.

The post was offered Bradshaw Tuesday in a letter from Don Eckdahl, general chairman of the general alumni association of USC.

Rabbi Gives Memorial Book

Rabbi David L. Greenberg of Beth Israel Temple donated a copy of the "Practical Church Dictionary" to Arch Bradshaw, president of Fresno City College, at the college Tuesday morning at 10 AM.

The dictionary, which has just been released by its publisher, was written by the late Dean James M. Malloch, former dean of Fresno's St. James Episcopal Cathedral for many years. Greenberg was associated with Malloch for 17 continuous years — together with Monsignor James G. Dowling — on the Radio Forum of Better Understanding on KMJ.

"It's an appropriate memorial gift for friends of the Dean to present to church and college libraries," said Greenberg. "The value of the book is that it's written in the language of the laity."

Greenberg explained that Dean Malloch, who served on the Fresno City Board of Education from 1941 to 1960, had a special interest in Fresno City College.

"I'm giving it personally, in his memory," Greenberg said. "It's a fine tool for those who are interested in the comparative study of religion."

The dictionary is an interdenominational dictionary, although published by the publishing house of the Episcopal Church.

'Ah, Wilderness' Cast Next Week

Prospective actors and actresses can try their hand at reading lines Oct. 22 and 23 as the try outs for the drama department's newest project, "Ah, Wilderness," get underway.

Parts for the play will be cast between 2:30 PM and 5:30 PM on both dates. The comedy written by Eugene O'Neill features places for six women and nine men.

According to drama instructor Fredrick Johnson, the tryouts will be open to all FCC students. Johnson added that besides the actors a backstage crew will be needed to put on the production.

"Ah, Wilderness" is scheduled to appear Dec. 11 and 12 in the social hall. The play is the only comedy written by O'Neill. It concerns the growing pains of a young man fascinated by poetry and literature.

The dramatic production will be the drama department's first in almost two years. Clyde Sumpster, the previous drama instructor, is now teaching drama in Pittsburg, Kansas.

Humor In Uniform

A promotion is always gratifying to a career officer. So a brand-new colonel was understandably pleased when his 13-year-old son asked him to remain in uniform to drive the youth and his girl to a dance. He was quickly deflated when the lad added, "She'll think I have a chauffeur."

Student Ambassadors Tour, Get First Taste Of Europe

By VICKI LEE ANDERSON
Rampage Staff Writer

Suzanne Reid and Carol Cloves, both from Fresno City College, were chosen through the People to People organization to represent the United States as junior ambassadors in Europe.

Miss Reid, being interested in the program last semester, sent in her application and was interviewed, along with many others, by members of the faculty.

She was chosen along with Miss Cloves to represent Fresno City College as an applicant to go to Europe. Their applications then went to the main office in Kansas City, where they were finally accepted.

"Where to Go?"

Their plans were underway immediately. The choice of where to go was first on the agenda. They had to choose from the following destinations: British Isles (which they chose); Scandinavian countries; Germany; France and Belgium; Greece; Israel; and free travel areas. After months of planning and preparation, the trip began on June 23, 1964, when Miss Reid and Miss Cloves left for a week's orientation in Washington, D.C.

There were about 320 students staying at Howard University (an all Negro university in Washington) until their departure. The People to People Organization took the group on a tour of Washington.

Miss Reid stated, "We met our congressman, B. F. Sisk, and were part of the group in a special ceremony that put a wreath on President Kennedy's grave."

Taste of Europe

On July 1, 1964 the group boarded Sabena Airlines from Baltimore, Md. for a scheduled non-stop flight to Brussels, Belgium. Due to a shortage of gas they had to stop, however, in Shannon, Ireland.

"This is where we got our first taste of Europe and being away from home," stated Miss Reid. When they arrived in Brussels, members of the group departed for their home stay areas. "Since ours was the British Isles," she said, "we boarded a bus immediately (we were already an hour late) to the train station. After missing the first train we caught the second one leaving for the small fishing village of Oostande, Belgium, where we were supposed to take the boat across the English Channel to Dover, England.

"We missed the boat by five minutes, and since we had been up all of 43 hours we decided to try our luck the next morning. The next morning the boat was overcrowded, which delayed our arrival in London, England, by two days.

"Consequently, when we did arrive we found that our home stays had been taken up by all the earlier arriving students. It all turned out for the best, however, as I stayed with three very interesting college girls."

Home Stays

Miss Reid and Miss Cloves were part of a group of 18 who stayed in homes throughout the British Isles. Their stay in London was for one week. They visited such places as the House of Parliament, where they had tea with some members, attended the Henley Regatta, and saw the Tower of London and the London Bridge.

They stayed in an hostel, which is student lodging for minimum rates, for the night and the next day hitch-hiked (which is acceptable in Great Britain to Oxford, England where they had another home stay planned.

While there they visited Oxford University and went punting on the Avon. Punting is similar to keel boating. From Oxford they hitched back to London for another home stay with a Persian family.

"I didn't care for the goulash and yogurt buttermilk," said Miss Reid. "We left early for Scotland and spent two days touring and then hitched to York, England for our last home stay.

"We stayed with an above average English family in a 14th century home. The three story brick house surrounded by 360 acres of farm land had a billard room, and the mother cooked on an old wood burning stove.

We got spoiled as she brought us breakfast in bed every morning. We were there for seven days."

Hitchhikers

The girls hitch hiked back to London and caught a train to Dover, England. They took a boat to Dunkirk, France and a train to Paris, where they slept in the depot until another train came which took them to Rome, Italy.

They took their longest trip (25 hours on the train) to Switzerland, where they had quite an experience with an "Ugly American" image.

"Carol and I were in a small restaurant where the people spoke only French, and we asked for a cup of coffee, in English, and the waitress didn't understand," she said.

"After about five minutes of our trying to explain and put the point across, the waitress finally understood. There was an American couple sitting across the way from us, and they were being loud and boisterous because no one could understand them.

"They disappointed Carol and me very much, and from that time on we tried to change the 'Ugly American' image."

Sightseeing

They went back to Italy and saw The Tower of Pisa, Florence and Venice. They went on to Munich, Germany, where they stayed for three days. They took the trip on the Rhine to Cologne, and went on to Amsterdam and then to Rotterdam for the night.

They spent one week in Paris and then went back to Brussels, where they met the People to People group again. On Sept. 3, they boarded the charter flight on the Sabena Lines. Destination: New York.

"It was a very welcome sight to see the United States again and when I stepped off the plane I had $1.50 in my pocket," Miss Reid said. Luckily my mother had sent some money, and it was waiting for me when I arrived at the hotel."

While in New York they visited the World's Fair. They departed for home and arrived in Fresno on Sept. 9.

NAVAL RESERVE PROGRAM ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS

Rear Admiral John McN. Taylor, comamndant, Twelfth Naval District, announced today that applications are being accepted for the Naval Reserve Officers Candidate Program. This program is open to male members of the Naval Reserve and to civilians if they are attending an accredited college. Qualified individuals should submit their applications prior to February, 1965. Civilians selected for this program will be enlisted in the Naval Reserve.

The Reserve Officer Candidate Program leads to the qualified individuals, appointment as a Naval Reserve Officer in the grade of Ensign, in the General Line, Supply Corps or the Civil Engineer Corps. While enrolled in this program, the college student will accumulate service credit and will attend regular Naval Reserve Meetings for which he will be paid.

As a key part of this program, the student will receive two eight week summer sessions of training at the Officer's Candidate School at Newport, Rhode Island. These sessions will be conducted during the summer and will in no way interfere with the students academic progress. They are designed to provide the basic skills and knowledge necessary for the student to qualify for his appointment as a Naval Reserve Officer.

After the successful completion of these two 8 week sessions and the receipt of his college degree, the candidate will be commissioned an ensign in the Naval Reserve and will be eligible for assignment. Available assignments include duty with the globe-circling fleets, pilot training, or advanced schooling in military specialties. In addition, the candidate may apply for additional academic study toward advanced college degrees.

Interested Naval Reservists and civilians can obtain information and application forms, regarding this program from their nearest Naval Reserve Training Center, or Training Facility, or by visiting or contacting the Twelfth Naval District Naval Reserve Recruiting Office located on the U.S. Naval Station, Treasure Island, San Francisco, California.

The nearest Naval Reserve Training Center in this area is located at 4590 East Ventura Avenue, Fresno, California.

Fresno City College Begins Faculty Advising System

This is the first in a series explaining the system of faculty advising, the first topic "Why Faculty Advisers?"

Many years ago faculty adviser programs developed as a result of the increase in college enrollments coupled with complexities involved in programming students as curricular offerings became more numerous and varied. The first faculty adviser program was started at John Hopkins and Harvard universities in the 1800's, and the idea spread over the entire nation.

Today faculty advisement is an accepted and essential practice in all colleges, universities and junior colleges. It is considered an important instructional task.

Bowlers Open Fall Season

The Fresno City College bowling league teams rolled their first games of the season last Thursday afternoon at Mid State Bowl.

There were nine full teams last week, but this afternoon, the last chance for teams to start in this season's league, there will be at least ten, and possibly twelve, four-member teams vying for supremacy, said Ronald Primavera, league secretary.

In the number one position after three games of league play are the two teams, AMS No. 2, and the Pin Spotters, both with a perfect score of three wins.

The high series bowlers so far are Derry Modlin, with 544 pins for 3 games, Richard Hughes with 535 and Primavera with 533.

Any student wishing to bowl in the league, either as a substitute or on a team, should be at Mid State Bowl this afternoon at 4.

Fresno City College with a record enrollment of over 4,000 day students decided this was the best solution in meeting the needs of its students.

Faculty adviser programs serve important instructional needs as well as those of students. For FCC, adviser-student contacts coupled with the registration process enable faculty members to influence course selection, enforce sequence requirements, and to exercise other controls desirable in providing order and continuity in educational experiences afforded students through curricular programs.

Junior college students need help in assessing their individual potentialities in relation to curricular choices and personal aspirations; they need information useful in establishing realistic educational and vocational goals; they need assistance in program planning to achieve their goals; they need help to articulate transfer work with that taken on this campus. The junior college student needs to feel that the institution is interested in their welfare and personal identity.

In meeting student needs of the kinds cited, faculty adviser programs have special merit. They afford a kind of professional assistance by those who have special competencies in their respective fields.

In light of the numbers of students to be served, faculty advisement programs afford the only practical and realistic means of providing such assistance.

FCC Rams Vs. COS In VC Opener

Rams Must Fight To Topple COS

One of the fiercest rivalries in the game will be played this Saturday night when the explosive Fresno City College Rams, opening Valley Conference action, collide with traditional foe and defending league champion College of the Sequoias Giants in McLane Stadium at 8 PM.

Coach Clare Slaughter said, "COS is a tough team. They are the defending champions, have 27 lettermen returning from last year, and were picked by the coaches to repeat as valley champions."

The Ram mentor said that he planned to use the same line-up against the Giants. He said, "We have a couple of boys that are injured, but they'll be ready Saturday night, with maybe the exception of fullback Larry Mai."

"We would like to win this one since it is the opening conference game. We will play each game one at a time, I don't plan to play this game any different, but we'll have a few surprises."

Fresno's Rams, 3-1 in non-conference action, including last weekend's 28-6 victory over the Cabrillo SeaHawks, have defeated San Jose (44-6), Reedley (20-13), and lost to Los Angeles (25-8).

COS squeaked by the Reedley Tigers last Saturday night 30-29 on an intercepted pass and a two-point conversion in the final seconds to stay undefeated.

COS, attempting to notch their fourth consecutive win, has defeated Hartnell, 26 to 0, Chaffey, 36 to 0, and was held to an 0 to 0 deadlock by the Los Angeles Cubs.

Coach Al Baldock's COS Giants are led by signal caller Fred Preuss, hard running backs Don Srabian, Andy Thornburg, and Jerry Jones.

The Giants operate from a straight T offense, mainly relying on a bone crunching running attack. This year Preuss has not been effective in his passing attack but is a capable thrower.

Baldock's team is tremendous on defense; called the "Butchers," they should give the Rams' suicide squad a real test. The "Butchers" are led by 231 pound tackle Eli Setencich and 226 pound linebacker Hap Horn.

HEAD FOOTBALL Coach Clare Slaughter wonders if his "Suicide Squad" can match the COS "Butchers." He also hopes the Rampage predictors have picked the game right.

GABE WARNED

By JOE ARMAS
Rampage Sports Writer

Gabriel Terronez. Professional boxer. Softspoken, well-mannered. A great guy.

In the last couple of weeks you have beaten two of the best fighters in the world.

You beat Rip Randall worse than he has ever been beaten. Last week you showed flashes of greatness in whipping Gaspar (Indio) Ortega. No one can now deny that now you are among the best welterweights in the world.

But beware, Gabe, for the public is mean and hard. It has a short memory. The world is full of fighters who were great one day and nobodies the next.

"Hurricane" Jackson got beat fighting for the heavyweight title of the world in 1957. The public balked him, his trainer dropped him, and today he shines shoes in San Francisco for five dollars a day.

Sugar Ray Robinson, former world champ, was one of the few fighters to ever show any "class" in the ring. Everyone loved him. Women wanted to marry him. Men held anything he said as gospel. Mothers wanted him to kiss their babies.

An example closer to home is Ben (the Bandit) Medina. Five years ago, "The Bandit" was a household word in Fresno. He drew the biggest crowds Fresno has ever seen. He was a crowd pleaser like you, Gabe. He even fought in your division.

Then he lost a couple of unpopular decisions.

Ben was there the night of your last fight. His face was anxious as he passed through the crowds, hoping maybe someone would recognize him. Wave to him. Anything. No one seemed to even notice he was alive. He wasn't even introduced by the announcer. He was visibly hurt.

Don't quit a loser, Gabe. Be cautious about taking the "just one more." The money you're making can't possibly compensate for the hurt, the agony, or the pitiful loneliness if the public tires of you.

Ram 'Suicide Squad' Faces COS 'Butchers'

By DAVID R. PACHECO
Rampage Columnist

The game of the year is here!

Fireworks don't always have to be saved, for the Fourth of July and Saturday night's homecoming clash between the Rams and the College of Sequoias, Giants will ignite what promises to be an explosive football game.

Coach Clare Slaughter would like nothing better than to knock off the highly touted Giants in the first Valley Conference encounter.

Likewise, the Giants would like to do the same.

The Giants are undefeated thus far and probably will be the favorites to topple the Rams. Ranked 15th nationally by the national junior college grid poll, Coach Al Baldock's crew had been unscathed on before last weekend's Reedley game.

The Giants and Rams have played two common football rivals — the Rams overcame Reedley

20-13 and lost to LACC, 25-8 — while the Giants were deadlocked by LACC, 0-0, and beat Reedley, 30-29, in the last seconds.

The Rams will have to play at their best Saturday night to upset the Giants.

Last Saturday the gridsters played and completely dismantled Cabrillo, led by the broken field heroics of Ken Long, and the tough hard-nosed defensive play

Sports editor Don Mencarini hit it right on the nose last weekend, picking Fresno by 22! The prediction baffled the coaches. Was it just luck? We'll see this week as again we look in our crystal ball to predict the outcome.

The sports staff hasn't decided what prize to award the poll winner. Maybe a merry-go-round ride at Roeding Park.

Rams Face Sac.

Coach Gene Stephens' tankers are busily preparing themselves for their second week of Valley Conference action as they travel to Sacramento this week-end to face the two Sacramento members of the VC (American River and Sacramento on Friday and Saturday respectively.

The Rams last week-end split when they defeated San Joaquin Delta, 14-6, and lost to defending Valley Conference champions Modesto, 11-17, in the Fresno pool.

"I was real pleased with the team's performance last week-end," Coach Stephens said, "American River and Sacramento rate about the same as Modesto as far as talent goes in the Valley Conference this year."
