Debators Win Finals

by Virginia Clift Editor__

Two Fresno City College student debators walked away with awards at the Annual Community College Speech Finals held at the Orange Coast Community College in Santa Ana last weekend. This is the second year in a row that FCC students have won the state championship.

Alexis Anderson, a sophomore, and Robert Hendricks, a freshman, teamed up in the two-person team category and won in the cross-examination debate. The two competed against the top debators from 32 community colleges across the country.

Anderson also won the gold medal for the Lincoln-Doublas one person debate. This is Anderson's second state championship. She won a gold medal in Lincoln-

Douglas last year.

Hendricks carried away the 1987 state championship title in impromptu speaking.

"They were up against the very best speakers," said forensics coach Jim O'Banion.

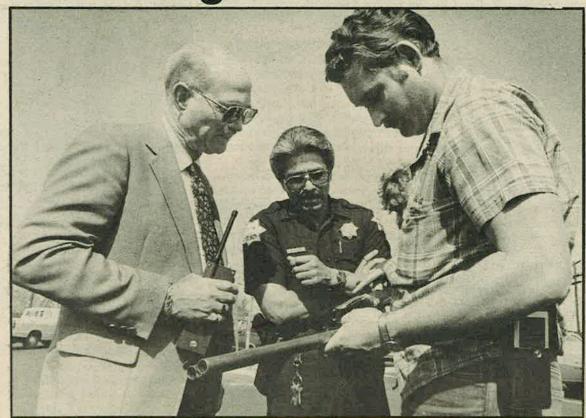

The team's success was gained by analyzing and arguing the issue of whether drug testing of employees is justified invasion of privacy.

Last month at a Sacramento meet, Anderson defeated all Lincoln-Douglas debators from over 40 four year colleges and universities throughout the west. Hendricks placed first place in impromptu at the same meet.

The forensics team will travel to the national finals in Texas in two weeks.

"You have to have a reasonable record to keep from getting laughed at," remarked O'Banion.

Two fugitives with outstanding arrest warrants were captured by campus police on Wednesday after being observed burglarizing parking meters on campus according to Sgt. Charles Anderson of the FCC campus police.

Michael Raymond McGrew, 41, and Kevin Lane Russell, 32, were taken into custody on charges of possession of a concealed weapon, possession of stolen property, conspiracy to commit theft and petty theft.

"We're just damn lucky that the officer took them outside the car," said Kenneth Shrum, campus police chief. "If they'd have took them inside the car we might of had a shootout right here," he continued.

After searching the suspects' vehicle, a fully loaded

357 Magnum, a sawed-off shotgun, hypodermic kit, a small amount of what appeared to be narcotics, homemade skelton skeys, bagged coins and iced-down beer were discovered. After running a trace on the vehicle, police found neither of the suspects is the registered owner.

McGrew, a transient, has a no-bail extradition warrant for his arrest out of Oregon on burglary charges. Russell, an Oregon resident, has a warrant out for his arrest from Kern County for driving under the influence and traffic violations.

According to campus police, five parking meters were broken into on campus. Shrum said from the amount of money found, they had apparently hit other parking meters in lots other than on the FCC Campus.

AA Requirements

by Randy Risner Managing Editor

Community college students seeking an associates degree may face stricter academic requirements if a Board of Governors proposal goes into effect in 1988 as expected.

Under the Board of Governors "Proposal for Strengthening Academic Standards" students will face more extensive prerequisites and will be required to "demonstrate a reasonable chance of success" before eligibility to enroll is determined, according to Fresno City College Dean of Instruction Dr. Arthur Ellish.

The proposal also places a 30 unit limit on the number of remedial courses taken for credit that count toward the associates degree.

However, courses that put the student over the 30 unit limit would still carry credit for other than academic purposes such as financial aid or student government.

English as a second language courses will not be considered as remedial courses

Under the proposal, the general education requirements for the associates degree will be the same as those at colleges and universities in the California State University system. This will enable students to transfer their associates degree to a four year college without taking transfer courses presently not required for an associates degree, said Ellish.

The proposed changes are expected to take effect in July

Hudson Named to CACC Post

by Stacie Puma Staff Writer

California Association of Community Colleges President, Dr. Lois Callahan, appointed the State Center Community College district Board's student trustee, Renee Hudson, to a one year term as the Center California student board member for the CACC.

The CACC board is made up of administration, faculty, trustees and student trustees from three regions of the state. The board is currently working on a master plan for higher education, the governor's budget, and improving the state's community college system

Many busy plans are all ready scheduled for Hudson in her new position. She is now in the process of writing the first statewide newsletter. As students Service Commissioner of Public Relations she will attend a conference in Lake Arrowhead on April 8-10th. Also coming up is the Silver Anniversary of the Research Conference.

Hudson is highly appreciative of all the donations to the board. "The campus has been very supportive of me," she commented. Donations of paper given by the community and 10 computer discs are a small portion of the contributions.

Hudson plans to interview Governor Deukmejian and will concentrate on a united student voice being presented by the state's student leaders.

Hudson's other involvements include her title as Associated Student Body Legislative Vice-President at Fresno City College.

Board Decision SetsA Dangerous Precedent

by Randy Risner Managing Editor

When the State Center Community College District Boards of Trustees reassigned Financial Aid Director Joseph Salazar rather than firing him earlier this month, they may have set a precedent they'll find hard to reverse in the future.

Earlier this year, Salazar's bosses recommended that the board fire him because of poor job performance. When word reached Salazar about his impending dismissal he supposedly filed a complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission alleging racial discrimination.

In fact, David Rodriguez, director of Fresno's EEOC office, denies any knowledge of a Salazar EEOC complaint.

In true governmental fashion, the board cowered to political pressure from Salazar's alleged EEOC complaint and the Hispanic community and reassigned him as Fresno City College Special Services Coordinator instead of firing him.

By bowing to political pressure in Salazar's case, the board proved its lack of resolve and direction in solving difficult personnel problems at Fresno City College.

With the absence of other facts, and Salazar's unwillingness to talk about his reassignment, it appears that his discrimination complaint was intended simply as a political move to place pressure on the Board.

Indeed, does Salazar's acceptance of the Board's decision, mean that his boss' recommendation to dismiss him may have in fact been valid?

The Board's placidity in dealing with Salazar creates a whole new avenue for future FCC employees facing similar fates. That is, by threatening litigation against the SCCCD and building support from a powerful political group, the employees can manipulate the board into a decision that is not only unfair to the majority of FCC employees that do an outstanding job but also goes against basic common sense.

New Rape Bill Introduced

California Assemblyman Tom Hayden (D-West Los Angeles) introduced legislation on March 17 designed to deal with the problem of rape on California's college and university campuses.

The proposed legislation would require California college and universities to introduce mandatory student rape education programs and would create a campus judicial process to serve guilty student rapists, according to a news release from Hayden's office.

Hayden cited an increase of in rapes reported on University of California campuses. "Figures show a system-wide increase in reported rapes from eight in 1985 to 16 in 1986."

Wheelin' Through Life

My brother Marty and I had a lot of fun growing up. I wanted to do everything he did. If he had a friend over, I would pound on the door of his room until he let me in.

Sometimes, he got tired of me hanging around. Then, he would come mess my hair and I knew everything was ok.

My favorite thing to do was to have fights on our parents bed. First, Marty would lift me out of my wheelchair and throw me on the bed. Then I'd scream and beg for more. That was my exercise. He got pretty rough sometimes, but I didn't stay down for long.

Marty started playing football in junior high school and wasn't home very much. He still made time for me even if it was just watching televison. Our favorite show was Gilligan's Island. I like being with him.

I loved listening to Kiss and AC/DC in his room. He taught me the words and we sang every song.

Marty never treated me differently because of my cerebral palsy. I was just his little sister. His friends would come over and play with me. When they did, it was like my handicap disappeared. I didn't have many friends, but Marty shared his with me.

Marty's first year of college was very hectic so he didn't have much time. We didn't talk like we used to and that felt strange. I knew he still cared, but our relationship had changed.

One day, I needed help with an algebra problem so I asked Marty. He spent half an hour explaining one problem to me. After that I knew we had found our connection again. Marty was my friend and my brother. I liked that.

Joan Jett Rock, Rolls, and Acts

by Eric Hansen Movie Critic

"Light of Day"
Directed by Paul Schrader
Starring Michael J. Fox and Joan Jett
Rated PG-13 105 min.

When the Blackhearts, with lead singer Joan Jett came out with 'I Love Rock and Roll' in March 1982, I was hooked. Ever since then, I've collected records and posters of them which decorated my room. When "Light of Day" was released I had to see Joan in her first acting role.

The Barbusters are a local Cleveland rock and roll band fronted by Patti Rasnick (Jett) and her younger brother Joey (Michael J. Fox). Things on stage are going fairly well, but things at home with ultraconservative religious mother (Genna Rowlands) are very confrontive. Joey knows how to deal with mom, but Patti doesn't.

Pattie breaks free of her ties with Cleveland and gets a job as lead singer of a heavy metal group, 'The Hunzzs' and starts to travel the midwest with them. She leaves her 5-year-old illegitimate son with Joey and begins to really separate herself from family influence. Mom develops terminal cancer and Patti comes back to town to confront her mother one last time.

The national reviews of this film have been mostly negative, but I don't find the faults. One reviewer referred to this film as a glorified soap opera. I found it to be very realistic. The title tune was written by Bruce Springsteen and there are several other songs such as my favorite "This Means War" in which Jett and Fox get to play and sing together. There is nothing special about Paul Schrader's direction. If I find fault with the movie it would lie there. Schrader also wrote the screenplay. I found the dialogue to be crisp and without excess fat. It was, however, a little jarring to see 'Family Ties' Alex Keaton (Fox) drink, smoke and swear.

Rated PG-13 for strong language, "Light of Day" is a worthwhile film to see.

western China's Yunnan Province. Farrington was accepted and taught for one year at the university's foreign language department. Following his stint in China, Farrington went back to the United States by way of the Trans-Siberian Railway across the Soviet Union. Farrington spoke of the emphasis on rail transportation in both the Soviet Union and China.

Not all of Farrington's time is spent on Chinese trains however, because he enjoys racquetball, golf, and backpacking. Talking about athletics, Farrington said, "I'm very competitive in that context." He mentioned his wife Judith, who teaches at Bullard High School, and his daughter Jacelyn as being of great importance to him. Farrington said his future plans include participating with his wife in the Fulbright teaching exchange program to England, and a plan to travel on the "Blue Train" from the tip of South Africa to Egypt.

Nevertheless, the bottom line is that we all receive the same 24-hour day. How does Farrington manage to fit his multifaceted interests into the common time constraits? "I've always worked full time," he remarked. Farrington stressed, "Learn to accept and enjoy life's struggles.' Then perhaps it is possible to be an FCC instructor, a practicing attorney, and a world traveller under the guise of one name. Just ask Gerald Farrington.

"HOW I MADE $18,000 FOR COLLEGE BY WORKING WEEKENDS."

When my friends and I graduated from high school, we all took part-time jobs to pay for college.

They ended up in car washes and hamburger joints, putting in long hours for little pay.

Not me. My job takes just one weekend a month and two weeks a year. Yet, I'm earning $18,000 for college.

Because I joined my local Army National Guard.

They're the people who help our state during emergencies like hurricanes and floods. They're also an canes and floods. They're also an important part of our country's military defense.

So, since I'm helping them do such an important job, they're helping me make it through school. As soon as I finished Advanced Training, the Guard gave me a cash bonus of $2,000. Then, under the New GI Bill, I'm getting another $5,000 for tuition and books.

Not to mention my monthly Army Guard paychecks. They'll add up to more than $11,000 over the six years I'm in the Guard.

And if I take out a college loan, the Guard will help me pay it back—up to $1,500 a year, plus interest.

It all adds up to $18,000—or more—for college for just a little of my time. And that's a heck of a better deal than any car wash will give you.

THE GUARD CAN HELP PUT YOU THROUGH COLLEGE, TOO. SEE YOUR LOCAL RECRUITER FOR DETAILS, CALL TOLL-FREE 800-638-7600,* OR MAIL THIS COUPON.
