Talent From FJC Sought By Legion For Musical Show

Wanted — talent for Centennial Capers, a musical review sponsored by the American Legion. The show which is recruiting talent from throughout Fresno, will be held December 7-9.

John Duncan, professional Hollywood Director, is conducting all rehearsals, and costumes will be furnished. Everyone interested in joining the cast should be present at the first casting rehearsal tonight at the Legion Hall on Mariposa.

Needed for the show are a dance chorus, consisting of 35 to 40 girls, and 25 to 35 men to work as girls' partners in some of the production numbers. The only requirement is that they should be attractive and be able to do average ballroom dancing.

MALE CHORUS SOUGHT

A singing chorus of thirty-five to fifty men who enjoy group singing is also needed. They need not be able to read music. Eight girls who have voices of solo ability to form an octette that will sing with the men's chorus. Any girls that sing in trio, quartette, sextette, or octette may be used.

Two girls and eight men will take part in comedy skits. Such things as comedy songs, and stooge parts, will be their part.

Specialty numbers will be used throughout the show. Cowboy singers, solo dancers, magicians, and novelty trios, are the type of talent that they are looking for.

Business Class To Hear Industrial Welfare Leader

Mrs. Rena Brewster, Chief of the Division of Industrial Welfare of the State of California, will speak to the Business Orientation class on "Industrial Welfare" tomorrow at 11:00 a.m. in M-36.

Mrs. Brewster came to California in 1915. In 1929 she served as secretary to the President of the Los Angeles City Council and the next year became executive secretary to the mayor of Los Angeles. She handled public relations work for the mayor's office for three years.

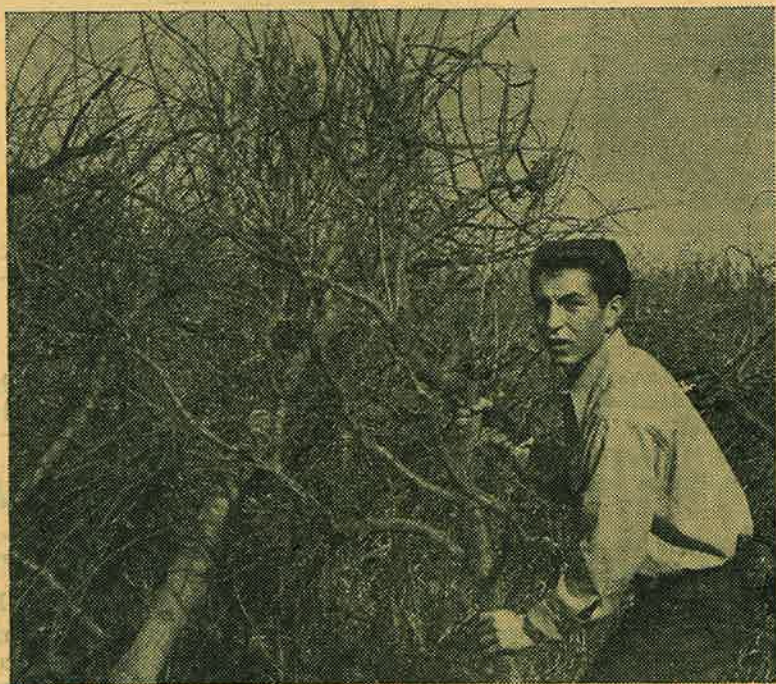

ATTENDED USC

After this Mrs. Brewster attended the University of Southern California and for five years studied law at night school. In 1933 she was admitted to the Bar and practiced law for five years.

In March of 1943 Mrs. Brewster was appointed by Governor Warren as Chief of the Division of Industrial Welfare, a division of law enforcement for the protection of women and minors in industry.

PAST PREXY

She is the past president of the National Business and Professional Women of Los Angeles; a director of the Women's Auxiliary of the Chamber of Commerce; a member of the Soroptimists, Women Lawyer's Club, and various other civic organizations.

SHOWN BUILDING the foundation for the big bonfire to be burned at the rally tonight at his home is Ed Kashian, general chairman for the Bonfire Rally.

Rooters Will Witness Huge Bonfire Rally Tonight At 8

A bonfire rally to precede the Taft-Fresno Junior College football game tomorrow will be held tonight at 8 at the farm of Ed Kashian. The location of Kashian's farm is the corner of First and Ashlan, five miles northeast of town.

The program for the evening will be a skit by Don Putman and Don Bischel, music by the Lawrence Smithers combo, dancing by Connie Rider, and singing by Jeanette Neal.

The honored guests for the evening will be the coaches. Coach "Stoney" Johnston will light the bonfire after a short pep talk.

"Let's show the faculty and students that we still have school spirit and make this bonfire rally a huge success," says Kashian, chairman.

A forty minute talent assembly was presented to the students today at 11. Henry Potere served as Master of Ceremonies and Smithers' combo furnished the music. Those on the program were Tommy Russell impersonations; Nick Millasich, piano; and Jeanette Neal, singing. A rally was held immediately after the assembly.

Putman, Bischel, Kashian, and Tom Con put on a skit concerning a new football player at JC. Great things were expected of the new football player.

The pep girls blossomed out with a new routine to the music of the school band. A speech was given by Coach Johnston concerning the game with Taft tomorrow night.

CALENDAR NOVEMBER

- 17—Bonfire Rally at Ed Kashian's ranch at Ashland and First Streets.
JC Administrative Conference at Bakersfield, Wednesday through Friday.
Variety Assembly, 11 a.m., boys' gym.
- 18—Taft game at 8 p.m., at Ratcliffe Stadium.
Dance after game 11 to 1 a.m.
- 19—Thanksgiving holidays.

CCJC Championship Goes On Block In Crucial Contest

A battle for the California Junior College Conference championship is in the offing Friday night in Ratcliffe Stadium when the league-leading Taft Junior College, rated third in the nation, will meet the once-beaten Fresno Junior College in an all important game.

Coaches, Players Will Be Honored At 'Turkey Hop'

The coaches and football players of the Fresno Junior College will be honored at the Turkey Hop, after the FJC-Taft game tomorrow night. The dance will be sponsored by the 12th year class and held in the boys' gym.

The dance committee is making plans to extend an invitation to some of the 2,000 Taft rooters expected to attend the game.

Laura Henton is the chairman of the decorations committee which also includes Katherine Ascrizzi, Dona Hinds, Joan Brase, and Joyce McCann.

The publicity committee is headed by Katherine Ascrizzi and includes Don Putman, Dona Hinds, and Joan Brase. Joyce Ortiz has charge of refreshments.

The FJC Dance Band is to play for the affair.

Band To Perform At Football Tilt

The Fresno Junior College band will march on the field at 7:45 tomorrow night to open the last game of the season. They will form in the center of the field and play the Star Spangled Banner.

As the lights of the stadium are dimmed and the band plays a fanfare, a spot light will center on a picture of a Ram under the goal post. Ed Kashian will introduce the eleven men on the JC team who will burst through the Ram and form on the twenty yard line. The Taft first string will be introduced in the same manner through a Cougar's head.

Halftime activities will be presented by the band as a salute to the Taft rooting section.

NEWS STAFF TO MEET

There will be a meeting of the staff of the "Rampage" today at 12:30, in M-22. All staff members and any person who wishes to write for the paper are requested to attend.

Taft's only loss this season was an early-season defeat by the Loyola Frosh. The Cougars have defeated the College of the Sequoias and Muir J.C. of Pasadena who also defeated Compton College, the Little Rose Bowl Champion of 1948. Taft took the championship last year and is currently leading the league this year. If Taft wins they will have the championship outright. If FJC wins, there will be a three-way tie between Taft, College of Sequoias, and Fresno.

TAFT HAS GREAT PASSER

Bob Burleson, acclaimed one of the best T-formation quarterbacks in the state, sparks the Cougar team. Gene Taft and Dick Colburn are the leading ground gainers and can go all the way. From tackle to tackle the line averages 230 pounds.

Larry Kelley, 245 pound guard, heads the line which will be the toughest the Rams have met to date. Last week against Coalinga eight men played sixty minutes of football for Taft. The team is well balanced and has an excellent aerial attack with Bob Burleson tossing.

RAMS UNDERDOGS

The Rams of FJC, fresh after their 22 to 6 victory over the Cal Poly Frosh, will definitely be the underdogs. Coach Stoney Johnston used the platoon system freely against Cal Poly and may use it again against the Cougars in an effort to keep fresh strength against the Taft line. The Rams have won five games and lost only one, that to the College of Sequoias, 28 to 14. The Rams can match the Cougars in the backfield with such men as Larry DeCarlo, Mike Ryan, Bob Cobb, John Savona, Duane Lyman, Mel Wagner, Pete Toomajian, and Al Mendoza. The line, however, will decide the game.

TAFT LINE HEAVY

The Ram line will be outweighed plenty, especially at the guards, and will have to outcharge the Taft forwards to come out on top. If the platoon system works as it did against Cal Poly, the Fresno team will make a good showing.

As far as Fresno fans are concerned this is the BIG game of the week. The Student Body is urged to come out and support the team, which is reported "very high" for

JC Student Tells Of Life In War-Torn China

Herbert Lee, a student of the Fresno Junior College, has nothing but dislike for the Communist Regime which rules the greater part of China at present and a permanent bad impression of the Japanese who ravaged his homeland.

Lee was born in Canton, China, in 1929. His education was shortened by the war to four years of grammar school. His parents and brothers and sister came to the United States for a vacation when Lee was in school.

Herbert remained with his grandmother and when war broke out in China in 1939, his family was in the United States and could not return. The Lee home was located in the country and, when the war started, Herbert was forced to stay away from school and work with his grandmother.

CANTON OCCUPIED

The Japanese war machine reached Lee's town late in 1940. The Japs had been bombing Canton months before; their planes showed no mercy on the people, dropping bombs where the majority of people were congregated.

Punishment administered to the Chinese was mostly comprised of starving the masses. The Japanese killed most of the Chinese livestock and took a great deal of rice and grains to feed the Japanese occupation forces. The factor that angered the Chinese people was that sometimes the Japs would kill the animals and leave the carcasses out to have the birds and dogs prey on them.

CHILDREN STARVE

Many times streets and alleys were cluttered up with bodies of under-nourished children, starved by the militaristic foes.

People walking through mountains provided good targets for the Japanese soldiers who took shooting them down as regular sport.

When the war ended in 1945, the Japanese soldiers were imprisoned. The Chinese people, foolish as it seems, did not execute any of the Japs, but forced them to clean the refuse from the streets that they, the war lords, had created themselves.

COMMUNISTS TAKE OVER

As soon as the war mist had cleared away, some of the top men in Canton started holding meetings where they preached the principles of Communism. These Red preachers then passed out food and clothing — something that couldn't help but influence these people who had been enslaved for years. Lee commented that he didn't like the Communists because of their totalitarian rule over the masses.

Late in 1947 Herbert's parents went back to China and in September Herbert came to the United States. At present Herbert's family lives in Armona.

Asked how he felt toward the United States, Herb immediately said "China no good." He continued "The Chinese are always fighting."

Lee also expressed a great desire to play basketball; but, please "no wrestling."

Thanksgiving Day, 1949

Since the beginning of the world, man's faith in God has never wilted. Wars, famines, and other discouraging events have not lessened man's faith in Him. Instead these destructive forces have given man a chance to rely on God to carry them through, and thus have strengthened man's faith in God.

Thanksgiving gives one a chance to thank God for His help. As Merriam Webster says "Thanksgiving is the act of rendering thanks to God." Thanksgiving has an old history in the United States. The first authentic Thanksgiving was held by the Pilgrims in 1623 when a group of settlers were isolated in the Plymouth Colony with very little food on hand. The people were depending on the summer crops to carry them through the year, and when summer arrived bounteous nature, with the pride of a milliner at a fall opening, spread all her treasures before them. Three days of feasting were held. The colonists thought it only right, in acknowledgment of all these blessings, to hold a public service of prayer and thanksgiving. Thus was held the first Thanksgiving.

Probably no other work is more appropriate for this occasion than George Washington's Thanksgiving Proclamation of 1789. After announcing the holiday, Washington continued, "And, also, that we may then unite in most humbly offering our prayers and supplications to the great Lord and Ruler of Nations, and beseech him to pardon our national and other transgressions; to enable us all, whether in public or private stations, to perform our several and relative duties properly and punctually; to render our National Government a blessing to all people, by constantly being a government of wise, just, and constitutional laws, discreetly and faithfully executed and obeyed; to protect and guide all sovereigns and nations (especially such as have shown kindness to us), and to bless with good governments, peace, and concord; to promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue, and the increase of science, among them and us; and, generally, to grant unto all mankind such a degree of temporal prosperity as He alone knows to be best."

As we sit down to Thanksgiving this year, let us pause to thank God for everything He has done for this confused and unstable world.

Homemakers, Band Praised

The junior college dance band and the homemaking department deserve much praise for their wonderful showing at the opening of Ramble Inn last week.

The lack of a sufficient size has kept the JC marching band from doing very much this year; the director has done his best to get more members, but he has had very little success. Nevertheless, the dance band, consisting mostly of members of the marching band, has done a remarkable job playing at all dances gratis. Many of the musicians in the dance band are members of the local musicians union and yet they give up working time to play at our dances. Keep it up, men!

The homemaking class, which has been very active lately with their formal teas,

HOT STUFF With Chili

I WAS THERE

I had the opportunity to drop in at the FBLA meeting Tuesday last. I thought it meant Future Business leaders of Armenia; and I happened to meet young, chivalrous Tom Bayless hesitating at the door. He thought it meant Free Beer, Ladies, and Adrenaline.

So, Bayliss and I, by this time creating a disturbance out in the hallway concerning the true interpretation of the letters, were invited into the meeting. Carefully scrutinizing the group, I quickly noticed that I wasn't far from the smartest kid in the room; only three seats. Noticing all of the intellectuals in the room, I suddenly felt out of place. Picking myself up off the floor, (darn Bayless had pulled the chair out from under me), I waited patiently for the guest speaker to (maternity speaking) deliver his speech. . . . And lo and behold the guest speaker was none other than the watermelon eater, himself, (I call him watermelon eater, because he knows how to suc-ceed), Professor Walter Eschebeck, prominent school psychology instructor and part-time cotton picker.

The Prof gave quite a sermon on the age old "How to Win Friends and Influence Bradshaw" routine. A few times he swayed away from the trend of thought in his carefully prepared speech to give his ardent listeners a chuckle or two. One time he quipped, "I like the Andrews Sisters and the Pied Pipers, but my favorite vocal group is Kate Smith."

Prof Eschebeck wound up his informal talk by making the startling revelation that 2 and 2 is 4; 2 and 1 is 3; and 3 and 1 is machine oil.

About 45 students attended the gathering. The sponsors of the org are Mr. Stanley Bennett, econ instructor; Miss Nancy Webster, business math instructor; and Miss Gertrude Stubblefield, shorthand instructor.

Another one of the commerce department's crack accounting tutors, Mrs. Ana Mae Turnipseed, was also present at the meeting. Mrs. Ana Mae had been plugging the meeting to her classes for about four days. And she could be credited for the attendance of about 15 new faces there.

A HIGHLIGHT ON A SIDELITE

If some of the other instructors in this school had half as much school spirit as Mrs. T possesses, it would be wonderful, simply wonderful. And I'm not just saying this because I have a class from her. I really mean it!!!!

Getting back to the FBLA: One of the purposes of the club is to bring downtown speakers before the group. Among the distinguished businessmen scheduled to speak before the mass are Joe Phafuffnick, local H Street pawn shop operator; Reginald Mogul, manufacturer of the popular Federal Moguls; and Quincy Beetsen, local merchandiser who sells underthings to nudists — cushions.

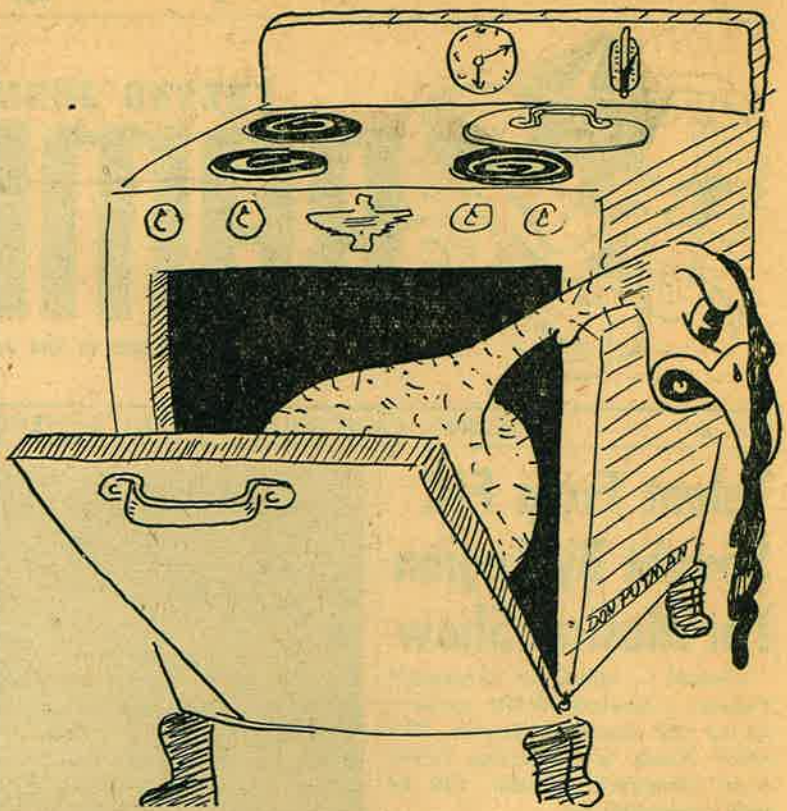

Seriously though the org is open to all the commerce students of the school. Last year, aside from the visits of the businessmen from town to address the group, the club put on some mighty fine social deals. Keep posted on the calendar of events and attend the next meeting of the FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS OF AMERICA.

continued to do fine work making and serving punch and cookies to guests and students at the canteen's opening. Some departments in this school are really on the ball. Congratulations homemakers.

Student Opinion Outlet

Many students have approached the staff of "The Rampage" asking to have editorials written on the lack of cooperation in the school, poor spirit, and many other matters that need to be brought before the students.

The Exhaust Valve, which appears for the first time in this issue, will be used as a letter to the editor column, and if any student wishes to have his opinion printed in the aper all he need do is to type a letter 150 words or less and bring it into the publications office. Students must sign their letters.

"Either turn on the heat in here, or give me back my feathers . . . I'm getting colder than H . . ."

Industrial Education History Is Traced By FJC Instructor

By O. D. CARTER

When you look at the front of the Fresno Junior College shop building, you will notice that the central section differs in construction from the remainder. The two shops, now numbered 3 and 5, which this central portion houses, composed all that could be classed as trade and industrial education in the Fresno High School at the time the first junior college was established. That junior college was added to the program of the Fresno High School.

This small structure, with its classes in forging and woodworking, brought Fresno abreast of the times when "manual training" was new, a fad in education. As people became aware of industrial progress, shop courses acquired more prestige, and manual training became industrial arts. About this time the high school occupied the new south section of the building, and expanded the woodworking facilities to include more power tools.

NEW SHOPS ADDED

Just before World War I, the annex to the north was built to house the machine shop, an automobile repair shop, and a mechanical drawing room. These shop advantages were available to the students of that first junior college as long as the Fresno High School continued to occupy the building. They are available, and in increased measure, to the students of our college. However, they are again under a new classification.

During the first world war, the lack of trained mechanics set industrialists and educators to thinking of a training program which would eliminate the chances of another such condition. As a result, Congress passed the Smith-Hughes Law, 1918, a bill that provided Federal aid in support of vocational training programs in public schools. This law, with related laws, enabled our schools to provide the basic training for the millions of mechanics who equipped and operated a vast mechanized army.

California quickly qualified under the law and the Fresno Public Schools immediately added vocational classes in mill cabinet, carpentry, forging and welding, machine shop, electricity, and automobile repair. These classes gradually superceded the industrial arts classes in the Fresno Technical School and are continued in the Fresno Junior College program. The class in Electronics was added at a much later date.

PART OF CURRICULUM

Since the chief purpose of the junior college is to prepare students for industrial pursuits, this vocational program is a vital part of the curriculum. This new college welcomes you with shops that are far superior to the shops used by the first junior college students. The students who enter have a far richer background of mechanical and scientific knowledge. The instructors are qualified journeymen in their subject, with more and better teacher training than the teachers in the older school possessed.

A student in our vocational training classes enjoys opportunities which are as superior to the opportunities which those first vocational courses afforded as the original vocational courses were superior to the 1910 brand of manual training.

A bulletin, published by Dean of Students Willa Marsh and Mrs. Lena Fuller, will be distributed every Monday in order to let students know what's coming up on the school social calendar. They will be placed in the red Rampage boxes in the halls, and students are asked to read them carefully.

Wonders Of New Duplicating Machine Explained To Writer

By NICK MILLASICH

So this is the Multigraph! Standing before the machine I saw it as the enormous, complicated mechanism that it is. Undoubtedly it had been designed to confuse even the smartest of chess players, for it certainly confused me.

Mrs. Dorothy Gossett, who is directly in charge of the machine and instructor of classes in N-33, however, cleared up some points in question by first explaining that reports, bulletins, all kinds of forms, illustrated posters, and other material may be produced on the machine — in color if desired.

In addition, this model may be used in two ways, either with the paper "Duplimat," or with a photographically produced zinc plate. The advantages of the "Duplimat" masters are that they are easier to type, correct, and proofread than stencils. When desiring to reproduce combinations of printed office forms or letterheads with photographs the zinc plate is used. The actual preparation of the zinc plate for printing is done away from the school.

LAZY MAN'S MACHINE

The machine, in addition to combining speed, volume, and quality, features an automatic feed which cuts the amount of labor ordinarily used. (I wonder what the labor commission thinks about this.)

Ink used in printing with the machine is combined with a clear liquid called Repellex (they must have looked a long time to find that word), the combining mixture of which produces the desired shade of work.

SIMILAR TO MIMEOGRAPH

Some person may ask in what way in the printing process this machine differs from the mimeograph (the resemblance is highly obvious.) The differences lie in the fact that whereas the mimeograph uses the direct method of reproducing from stencils, the Multigraph works on the offset principle (printers kindly take notice!)

Miss Ethel McCormack, chairman of the Business Education Division, said that she believes this machine will offer unlimited opportunities for duplicating work done in the combined departments of art, business, and photography.

"The machine at present," she said, "is being used for general duplication purposes on program schedules and office forms. The uses for the machine will be greatly expanded as progress is made in training operators here in FJC."

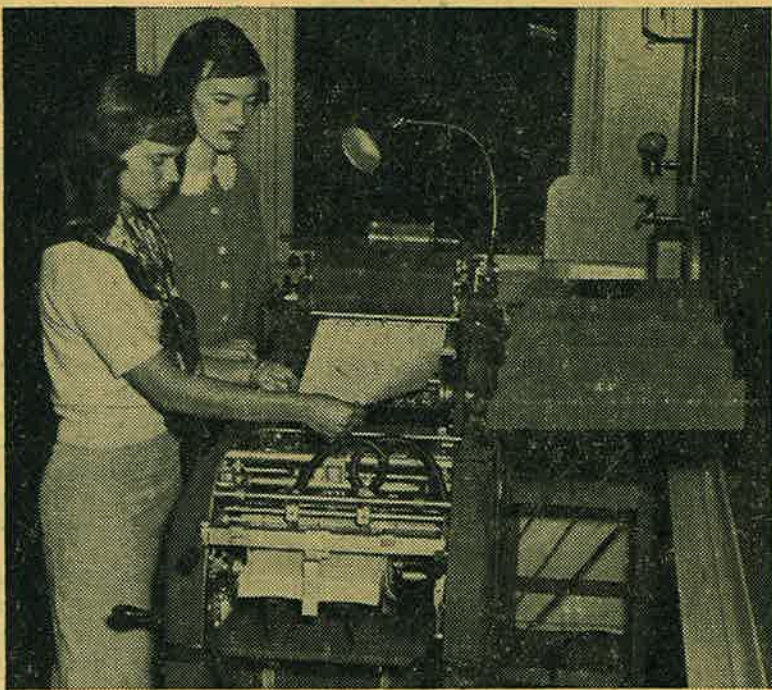

The Multigraph in N-35 is on display for all those curious souls who may desire to take a look at it.

KEY MYSTERY SOLVED — OR IS IT NOW?

The mystery of license number 5K-6879 has been solved. No, they didn't have to call in private eye Sam Spade.

A young man called for the keys shortly after the Rampage (Fresnan) was off the press last week. How he managed to get along without the keys for over a month, however, is still a question.

Miss Edna Price, JC receptionist, is still pleading that the owners of the textbooks "College Law" and "Business Orientation," call for them soon.

WORKING with the latest addition to the Business Education's office duplicating machinery, the Multigraph, are Lila Isheim (left) and Anna Lawrence.

Alpha Zeta Club Receives Charter

The Alpha Zeta Chapter of the Alpha Gamma Sigma received their charter at installation ceremonies last night in the Ramble Inn social room. Mr. Andrew W. McLain, state treasurer, officiated.

Angela Minnette was installed as president; Leo Margosian, vice-president; Joan Koller, secretary; Jack Ralston, treasurer; and Larry Luna, marshal. Dr. Lucille Williams and Miss Mary Harney were installed as sponsors.

Other members initiated were Evelyn Steinkamp, James Taylor, Shannon Fowler, Lois Cole, Margie Woodfin, Carol Wick, Virginia Gillis, Joyce McCann, and Joe Osida.

The state secretary and the state president took part in the ceremonies also.

Refreshments were served in the flower-decorated room after the installation to the members and their parents.

Eschebeck Speaks At FBLA Meeting

"To be a success you must achieve what you set out to achieve" said Mr. Walter Eschebeck, guest speaker at the Future Business Leaders of America meeting Tuesday in Room N-35.

"We must sell ourselves to others. People think too much about themselves and not enough about the other person."

"Your employer will expect you to do your work, but unless you sell yourself to him you may never advance."

These are a few of the ideas Eschebeck pointed out to students.

Other business at the meeting was the election of officers. Those elected were Ken Kafeyan, president; Ray Hatch, first vice-president; Dorothy Green, second vice-president; Virginia Bier, secretary; Fred Millgram, treasurer; and Phyllis Daugherty, reporter. Installation of officers will be held November 29 at 11 a.m. in N-35.

Exhaust Valve

The Ramble Inn Council requests that the students of Fresno Junior College please refrain from:

1. Scuffling in the fountain or lounge.
2. Dropping cigarette butts on the floor.
3. Marking up walls and furniture.
4. Gambling.
5. Eating home lunches in the fountain (please use the lounge).

This is our canteen. In order that it will continue to function as such, we must have certain standards to abide by.

Our Ramble Inn is operated by the students and for the students and faculty of FJC.

Let's stand behind our Ramble Inn 100 per cent and make it function smoothly.

can do excellent solo work will sing lead songs in various numbers. An attractive man to introduce song numbers and act as a straight man to the comedians is needed for Master of Ceremonies

No one is expected to be a professional. The girls' dance lines will be formed of girls that have the ability to do any standard ballroom dancing. The director will teach them the necessary dance routines. The men's singing chorus need not be of a professional nature.

The director will want to meet all prospective cast members at the first casting rehearsal tonight. At this rehearsal, the procedure will be to call all dance chorus prospects for 7 p.m. at the rehearsal hall. Then at 8 p.m. the specialties will be auditioned. This will be followed by skit tryouts at 8:30 p.m. and the selection of members for the men's singing chorus at 9 p.m.

Prospective cast members should be impressed with the fact that the work is simple and that they will be given a part that they can do, declares Ben Dutrow, chairman.

Proceeds from the show will go into the funds used by the Legion for their work with the Boy Scouts, junior baseball team, the junior band and the child welfare activities.

OVER THE CENTER

By ART MARGOSIAN

Sports editors of the Central California Colleges including Coalinga, Porterville, Reedley, Taft, College of Sequoias and Fresno, will select an all-conference football eleven next week. The results will be in the next issue of the "Rampage."

The Fresno Junior College Rams will close their season tomorrow night when they meet the highly touted Taft Cougars.

Comparing the records of the two teams one finds the Rams are the underdogs. But, Coach "Stoney" Johnston's Rams are not looking at the scores; they'll be out there to battle to victory come rain or come shine.

Coach Johnston feels a little better after the team's showing last week with the Cal Poly Colts, in which regulars Larry DeCarlo and John Savona got back in the spotlight sparking the Ram offense with some beautiful runs. The return of hustling Jay Hathaway, out for weeks with a broken leg bone, has helped the team defense considerably.

BURLESON GREAT

The Taft Cougars have one of the best junior college passers in the nation in quarterback Bob Burleson. Burleson's completion average is tops. Gene Taft, shifty Taft half-back, is another backfield spark for Student body cards will be acknowledged only at the East gate of the stadium tomorrow night. Card holders are asked to cooperate so there will be no confusion at the game.

the Cougars. The Cougar line, which averages 230 pounds from tackle to tackle, is really tough.

Last Thursday the Cougars clawed out a 20 to 7 victory over the Coalinga Falcons to keep their record in CCJCC play unblemished. Taft and Burleson continued to run and pass their opposition blind.

In other CCC play Reedley got back into the win column clubbing the Porterville Pirates to the tune of 13 to 0. Fullback Howard Johanson played top offensive ball for the Tigers.

POOR BAKERSFIELD

Another member of our conference (non-participating in sports), the Bakersfield College Renegades bowed to a top East Los Angeles College eleven to add another defeat to their record. The Renegades are having a rough season this year.

BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

Coach Paul Starr has been working the JC basketball squad on offensive patterns and defensive drills during the last week of practice. Coach Starr has cut the squad and will now be able to work with his top material.

Lloyd Heavin looked good at forward while Dick Keoshey and Willie Perry set up plays beautifully and hit the bucket consistently at the guard spots. Charles Cady, Bill Jucksch, Joe Lett, Don Bischel, and Don Arakelian also look good.

News from College of Sequoias sportsmen indicate that the Giants should have a top year again. With a 46 game schedule ahead the Giants will have to be good.

COACH PAUL STARR

Basketball Coach Previews Season

By PAUL STARR

Visalia has won the CCJC conference title in basketball for the last seven or eight years. Their outstanding team most recently was their 1947 to '48 quintet, which went undefeated in league competition and reached the state finals in the JC tournament and the quarter finals in the Compton Invitational tourney. The Tartars had a great team with Bob Pounds, Bobby Dean Thrower, Paul Starnes, and Louie Papac pacing the quintet.

COS DEFENDING CHAMPS

Last year the Visalia five (now the COS Giants) won the CCJC conference title with such stars as Romero, Dunning, Dow, Mims, Campbell, Rudi, Aguiar, Jones, and Pounds.

Reedley has consistently been a conference great. Previous to Visalia's long string of wins, Reedley was a power in CCJC basketball play.

Porterville, Coalinga, and Taft will all be strong this year with the College of Sequoias and Reedley the teams to beat. San Luis Obispo and Santa Maria JC's have forfeited their games to Fresno and the College of Sequoias, because they feel that Fresno and COS are too big.

FJC FREE LANCED

Fresno JC, free lancing last year, won two games from Porterville, Reedley, Coalinga, Bakersfield, San Luis Obispo, and one from the Visalia Tartars, while losing two to Menlo, and one to Grant Tech, FSC JV's, Modesto, and the Branch Agricultural College of Utah. Our season's record last year was 14 wins and 10 losses.

The race this year should be a hot one.

Our schedule this season is almost completed and includes participation in the annual NCJCC tournament in Modesto, January 4 to 7. Other games on tap, but as yet not definite are with Yuba, San Dimas, Ventura, and Bakersfield.

Football Players Will See UC-Stanford Game

Twenty members of the Fresno Junior College football team will sit in on the traditional battle between California and Stanford Saturday.

Starr Cuts Squad As Opening Hoop Game Date Nears

The Ram basketballers are back in practice in the Hamilton gym after head coach Paul Starr cut the squad to an even 16 men over last weekend.

Another cut will probably take place after a few of the football boys turn out for the hardwood sport and show their stuff. Warren Wright and Otis Harris, both from last year's team, and Bob Cobb, Lyman Ehrlich, and Joe Ybanez are expected to join the team next Monday.

Back from last year's hoop squad at forward is Lloyd Heavin, six foot one inch hook shot artist. At the other forward position is steady playing Charles Cady from Roosevelt High.

The center slot is being filled by 6 foot 3 inch Don "Stretch" Bischel, a reserve from last year's team. Willie Perry, a tricky little guard from Edison, and Dick Keoshey, a regular at Fresno High last year, make up the first team at present.

SECOND TEAM LISTED

The tentative second team is made up of Lowell Ede from Roosevelt and Gene Hambelton from Bakersfield at the forward spots; Keith Vind, with little experience, at center; and Bill Jucksch, Dick England or Don Arakelian at guards.

Joe Lett and Jim Hampton are other forwards on the squad. Norman Gross is another pivot man, and Jim Wilkie and Leo Margosian are out for guard.

The squad is hampered by lack of height, with only a few of the players over six foot. This will be a serious handicap in conference play, and will be an even greater handicap when the Rams meet strong traveling non-conference opponents. "What the squad lacks in height," Coach Starr says, "they will have to make up for in scrap."

The hoopsters will open against the Fresno State Frosh in the Roosevelt High gym at 6:30, November 26. The following week they travel to Sacramento to meet the always powerful Grant Tech team.

Rams Continue Win Streak By Downing Cal Poly 22-6

The Rambling Rams of Fresno Junior College downed the Cal Poly Frosh in a hard-fought but unimpressive victory in San Luis Obispo last Saturday night, 22 to 6.

The Rams, using the platoon system, held the Colts in check and the second time they got the ball drove to the Cal Poly 15 yard line where Mike Ryan passed to end Lyman Ehrlich for the touchdown. Ehrlich's kick was wide.

RYAN SCOOTS

Early in the second quarter, the Rams started another drive featuring runs by John Savona and Bob Cobb down to the 20 yard line. On the third play from scrimmage Ryan went around end for the TD. Ehrlich's conversion attempt was good, making it 13 to 0 at the half.

Midway in the third period FJC started from their own twenty putting together 2 first downs. Savona then rambled 60 yards behind beautiful blocking to score Fresno's third touchdown. Ehrlich's kick was good.

WASHER SHOWS UP

The last FJC tally came when Don Washer, sturdy tackle, blocked a kick on the Colt ten yard line for a safety making the final score read 22-6.

The Rams went to the game underdogs and although they defeated the Colts the Rams missed out on a couple of sure scoring opportunities.

JC's defense was strengthened much by the return to the lineup of Jay Hathaway

Washer and George Bundy played excellent defensive ball while Cobb, Savona, and Larry DeCarlo stood out in the backfield.

Coach Stoney Johnston used the platoon system for the first time with considerable success. However, the Rams will have a big job cut out for themselves this Friday night in Ratcliffe Stadium in their final game of the season against the league leading Taft Cougars.

RAMBLE INN GRID GUESS

Here's the deal: You only have to encircle the team that you think will win the game. You don't have to foretell the score.

The winner of the contest will receive a free dinner from the newly-opened Ramble Inn.

All entries must be in "The Rampage" office by noon Friday.
