

JC Hoopsters Meet Stockton Tonight In Home Opener

Games In Menlo, Modesto Also On Tap For Weekend

The Fresno Junior College basketball team will play host to the Stockton Junior College tonight at the Roosevelt High School gymnasium. After dropping two opening games, the Rams will be shooting the works for a win in their first home appearance.

Tomorrow night the Rams travel to Modesto for a game with the powerful Modesto Junior College Pirates. Modesto was runner-up in the invitational basketball tournament held last year at Modesto.

MODESTO TOPS

Modesto figures to be tough this year. The Pirates have been ceded number two in the invitational tournament to be held in Modesto in January. Last week the Modestans squeaked past the Fresno State College Frosh in a high scoring fracas.

Saturday night FJC will play the Menlo College Oaks in Menlo. Last year the Rams dropped two close games to the Oaks and will be gunning for an upset win.

PROBABLE STARTERS

The probable starting lineup for the Rams will be Charles Cady and Lloyd Heavin, forwards; Warren Wright and Willie Perry, guards; and Otis Harris, center. Also slated to see action are Joe Ybanez, Bill Jucksch, Gene Hambleton, Don Bischel, and Keith Vind.

The Fresno Junior College hoopsters will return to their home floor next Thursday night when they will meet the Hartnell College five of Salinas. Hartnell has a tall and rough team and Coach Paul Starr expects a rough time from the coast quintet.

Fresno JC, Two Other CCJC Teams Join New League

"The Fresno, Taft, and Monterey Junior Colleges, the College of Sequoias and Hartnell College of Salinas, will compete in a new league next year," Mr. Maurice Reetz, FJC dean of instruction, announced late last week.

Two meetings, one two weeks ago in Santa Rosa and the other last Friday in San Mateo, were called by prospective members of this new league and problems of combining were discussed. Members of the Northern California Conference were present at the meeting in San Mateo. Reetz also announced that even though the formation would not be formally recognized by the state JC association the league leader would be recognized as a league champion.

REMAIN IN CCJC

Fresno, Taft, and College of Sequoias will remain in the Central California Conference for all other activities other than athletics, indefinitely.

Reetz stated that the new formation would be a big jump in the football status for FJC. Fresno's two new opponents, Hartnell and Monterey had top football teams during the last year and should afford top competition for the Rams, Taft, and the College of Sequoias.

LEAGUE SCHEDULE

The following is a partial schedule of the Fresno Junior College for the coming year: September 22, in Monterey; October 7, Hartnell here; November 3, Sequoias College here; and November 10, in Taft.

The Rams are trying to line up games with Stockton, Modesto, FSC Frosh, and some teams from Los Angeles.

Milton Martin, AMS president asked that all boys get their dates early so that the ladies can get prepared for the gala affair. "The spring formal at JC last year was a huge success and let's try to make the Christmas Formal a bigger one yet," Martin continued.

"Tickets should be purchased as soon as possible so that the various committees may plan for the number of people to be present," said Art Margosian, ticket chairman.

Radio Class To Present 'The Valiant'

"The Valiant," a play which will be adapted to radio has been selected by the Radio Production class of FJC for broadcast in the Fresno State College Radio Production Tournament.

"The big project of the moment is to adapt the play to radio form from stage medium, the process of which will take the wholehearted cooperation of the entire radio class," stated Mr. King.

An important thing is that in stage plays the audience is a part of the play and watches every move of the players thereby necessitating much visual acting which in radio is all unnecessary since most of the audience only hears the voice and other such things as sound effects which make up for all this on the stage.

The first four pages of the script were rewritten and revised in the class under the supervision of Mr. King after which the rest of the play was handed out to the class members individually to work on in their spare time.

After the play has been reworked sufficiently, the entire production will be produced and recorded by wire recording in class as a final test of the adaption of the show and will be criticised at that time by the class.

A committee on the possible construction of a new radio studio for FJC — composed of Mr. Robert Hansler, head of the Industrial Education Department, Mr. Louis Kozub, head of the radio department, and Mr. King — are working out the details on plans of the contemplated broadcasting studio in M-46.

Preliminary sketches of the studio will be sent to the drafting department as soon as they are finished for final touches in the hope that the studio will be constructed in time for use by next semester's radio broadcasting classes.

Rally Group Members Asked To Return Jackets

All members of the rally committee are asked to return their jackets to Mr. Joe King immediately. All jackets are to be kept in Mr. King's room.

JC Alumni Group Is Organized By Former Students

Establishment of an alumni association for the Fresno Junior College took place last week and the group held their second organizational meeting last night in the Ramblers Room.

The need for an organization to promote the welfare of the Junior College in the community has been expressed by students since the Junior College was established last year.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Officers elected for the year were Jake Helmuth, president; Lloyd Harris, vice president; Robert Walters, secretary-treasurer; Paul Burgess, business executive; Kerry Avedikian, publicity director; and Jim Jayne, public relations.

"The purpose of the association," according to Walters, secretary, "is to bridge the gap between the student who is just out of school looking for a job, and the employer, who is always on the lookout for up and coming young graduates."

SOCIALS COMING

Social functions will also be a big part of the group's activity and, as years pass, the secretary said, "alumni will get a greater satisfaction out of associating with former classmates."

All students of Fresno Junior College who have attended for a year or more may become members of the alumni association, and are asked to attend future meetings.

Twelfth Graders Plan Noon Dance

"Holly Hop," a noon dance sponsored by the 12th year class, will be held next Wednesday, December 14, in the boys' gymnasium.

The Junior College dance band will provide music for the affair which will have a Yule season theme.

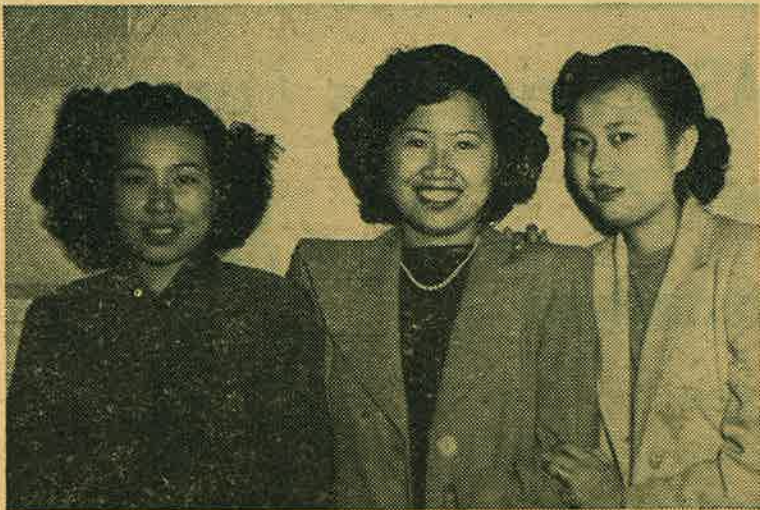

Tickets for the dance are 10 cents, and sales will be in charge of Evelyn Phillips and her ticket committee composed of Mabel Lancaster, Lueanna Henson, Margie Woodfin, and Juanita Dowland.

Making posters and preparing other publicity for the noon hop is a committee headed by Laura Henton. Members are Katherine Ascrizzi, Frances Ascrizzi, Joan Brase, and Dona Hinds.

War Brides Attending JC Tell Of Marriage Customs In China

The old Chinese custom of having the parents select the proper mate for their children did not avail in the marriages of the three Chinese war brides who are members of the L & C class at Fresno Junior College. Chinese children are sometimes said to be betrothed before they learn how to walk. But since the western civilization has slowly been seeping through China's barriers, the Chinese women are demanding their rights to choose the man they desire.

Mrs. Judy Wong, youngest of the three war brides, says she met her present husband Mr. Wai Wong through her school teacher. Apparently when the war ended Mr. Wong decided to go back to his homeland and visit his rela-

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT

Judy and Wai didn't take long to find their love for one another and after a short engagement of 20 days they were married. Judy reports that she and her husband were one of the many couples married at a simple ceremony at the American consulate in Canton.

Following the ceremony the couples and their friends retired to a cafe where they celebrated the occasion.

Mrs. Amy Quan, another student who received her education in Hong Kong, married a soldier in the U. S. Army after being en-

Election Problem Eminent

With the election of new student body officers comes a very definite problem — that of finding students good enough to fill the many offices which have to be filled are president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and four representatives-at-large.

Past officers of the associated student body here at FJC can verify the fact that any student office is a difficult, time consuming, and thankless job. The present student council, under the reins of Larry DeCarlo, is doing a top-notch job. Having started the school year unaware of what was to come in the financial set-up, the student council got on its feet, hustled, and finally got the ball rolling.

One thing which hampers student body officers is the non-participating attitude of some students here at JC. This attitude makes the task for other students much more difficult and involved.

Yes, the job of selecting candidates for offices is a puzzling and an important one. When thinking of a person who would be a possible candidate for the different offices, first find out if he would be competent for the job. Other characteristics of a good officer are intelligence, fairness, tactfulness, and possession of good old common sense.

Students should learn to select persons by their mental attributes and not because of their athletic contributions or good looks.

Congratulations are forthcoming to the outgoing officers and warnings are pointed towards the JC students for the nomination of candidates for the officers of the second semester.

Remember before you nominate a person pause for a second and ask yourself, "Will this person be a good representative of FJC, and does he possess tact, use common horse sense, and have a good knowledge of parliamentary law?"

Canteen Rules Abused

In the November 17 issue of the Rampage a list of laws were published for observance in JC's Ramble Inn. Among the don'ts was the statement "No gambling."

These laws were not set down to be disobeyed. Just recently in the Ramble Inn some students were playing cards and on the playing table at the time were stacks of pennies. Whether or not these pennies were being used to tip the waiters in the cafeteria is unknown. Regardless of the intended purpose of the "portraits of Lincoln" on the table, the impression created in the minds of members of the school board or other dignitaries who visit the school would be detrimental to the good name of the school.

To have a group of students spoil the

HOT STUFF With Chili

JC DEMOCRATS ARE IN A PICKLE
— OR —
THE NEW DILL

Election time is growing nigh. Some of you "leaders" should start thinking about the possibilities of running for office. With the "cream of the crop" here from the various high schools, we should have some up and coming young men and women that would make excellent student body officer meat.

In the last spring election, we had quite a gay time witnessing the promotional stunts put on by the two presidential candidates. Some of the promotional gimmicks were special talent assemblies, leaflets galore, outdoor entertainment, free (spiked) punch, (Eschebeck threw a railroad spike in the punch bowl). All these stunts plus the different array of banners and the clever and very original posters tended to add just that much more spirit to the institution.

We need spirit at JC; lots of it!!! The students here are interested and want to "do things." The majority will turn out for the different events. — But it's going to take "a gang of pushers" to get this majority on the ball!!!!

We've got the Annual ultra Christmas Formal coming up. (Eschebeck couldn't make it last year — Cotton picking season lasted longer than usual). We've got a whole slough of dances lined up, basketball games and the rallies to go with them, plus plus plus, that day of days—Rambler's Day!

The main thing now is to get the right people running for office. If you know of a person (if you, yourself, don't fit the bill) that "has it" approach him and make him understand that JC needs him!

Right now, two good men are planning to run for the office of president. Larry De Carlo, the incumbent, and Gene Hambelton, present SB Vice Prexy, are planning to throw their hats into the ring.

For vice president the writer has learned that Don Bischel, present SB treasurer, and Ed Kashian, JC organizer, are contemplating; and for the office of member-at-large, our boy, Tom (FBLA) Bayless, is, "by all means," he says, running.

John Savona and Art Margosian are planning to run for the treasurer's post. Carl Keosheyian is going to run for secretary. . . . and Boots Edmundson is planning to run for the border. Boots, a taxidermist by trade, served a short one at Tehachapi (I said, "But Boots, that's a woman's prison." Boots answered, "Details, Details!") As we were saying . . . a taxidermist by trade. He was carrying it a bit too far, though—they caught him stuffing a ballot box.

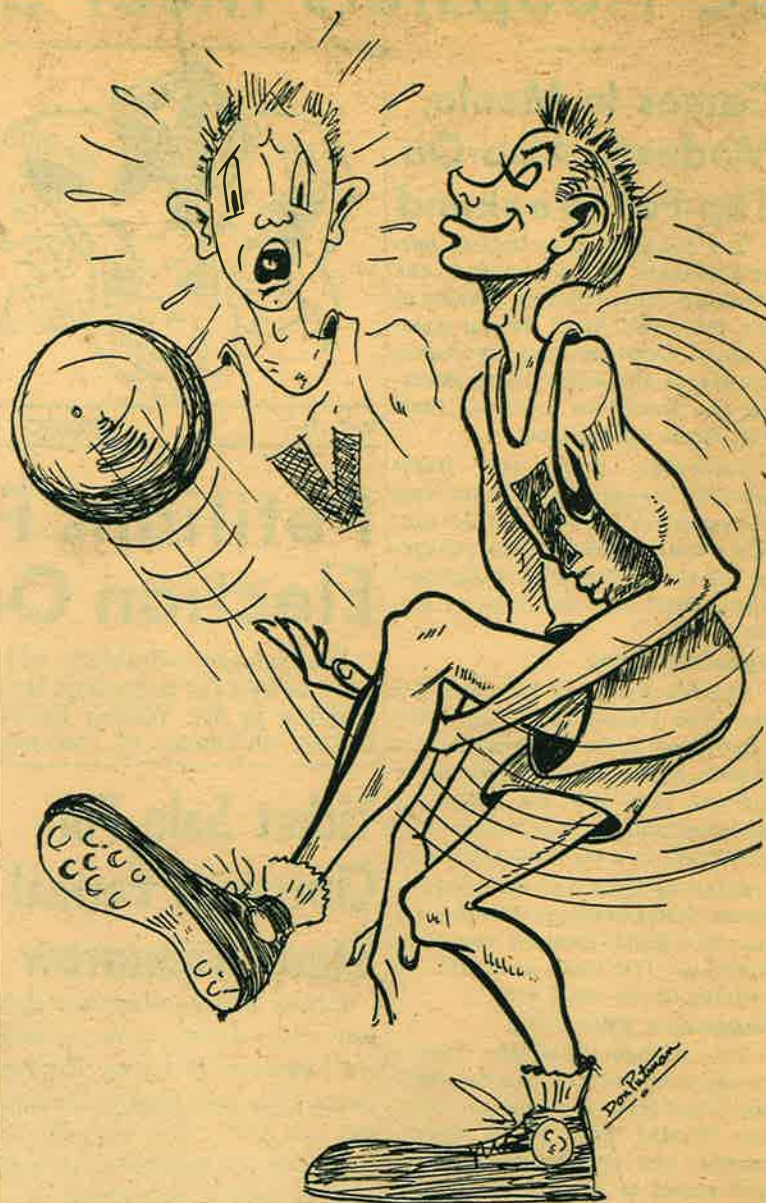

Look at the whole thing from the spirit angle again. To create a lot more of this thing we call "spirit," these men need competition! Look about you, pick out the leaders, and petition them into candidacy.

Yes, election is in the air again, which brings to mind Arch Bradshawian's campaign speech in his younger high school days . . . "What we need here is tax reform, education reform, teaching reform . . . Just then, Eschebeck from out of the audience gave out with, "Give that guy chloroform."

Come on, students; let's have a good ole-fashioned hot election this year. Let's go all out!!!!

chances of the entire student body from obtaining continued good will from the board of education would be unfortunate. The school board gave the student body a chance to show how they could govern a project by giving them the canteen, and if things such as gambling are not done away with, the Ramble Inn will no doubt be closed and JC will probably never get such a fine opportunity again.

If gambling is not stopped in the Ramble Inn, the committee regulating student conduct in the canteen should outlaw card playing entirely.

FACULTY SPEAKS . . . Dean Outlines Long History Of Fresno Junior College

By MAURICE REETZ

In 1895 the Fresno City Board of Education purchased a site of less than three acres on "O" Street between Tuolumne and Stanislaus for Fresno's first high school. Construction on the 22 room Fresno High School was completed in time for the opening of the fall semester in 1896, at which time C. L. McLane, pioneer Fresno educator, was appointed principal.

In 1899 McLane was chosen to succeed the late Morris E. Dailey as superintendent of the city schools. Early the following year, after surveying the needs of the community, McLane recommended to the board of education that Fresno take advantage of recently enacted legislation making it permissive for a local school district to offer instruction approximating that of the first two years of university courses.

On May 6, 1910, the Fresno City Board of Education adopted McLane's report in full. A new south wing was added to accommodate the anticipated increase in enrollment, and in the fall of 1910 junior college instruction was started in the 14-year-old Fresno High School plant. This action combined under one roof instruction in grades 9-14.

In September, 1911, the Fresno State Normal School was established and housed temporarily in the same Fresno High School building along with the new junior college, thus adding two additional years of college level instruction under a single administration.

In 1913 the Fresno State Normal School had completed enough of its own building program to move away from the Fresno Junior College and High School to the present site of the Fresno State College.

Evidence of public acceptance and popular support of the junior college program in Fresno may be seen in the fact that in 1914 a shop building was constructed to meet the needs of local trades and industries, and in 1916 a north wing was added to the original Fresno High School.

The original Fresno High witnessed many changes in 1921. Legislation was enacted making it permissive for a junior college district to contract with a state teacher's college for the maintenance of junior college courses of instruction, and the Fresno Junior College joined forces with the Fresno State Normal School. A new Fresno High School had just been completed in another part of the city, and the original Fresno High School lost not only its name but also its college preparatory function.

Facilities for offering vocational training were again improved in the Stanislaus and "O" Street school, and the 25-year-old plant which had housed Fresno's first high school, junior college, and normal school reverted to its high school status and was renamed the Fresno Technical High School.

For twenty-seven years following the 1921 changes the Fresno Junior College remained under the protective custody of its own stepchild. Under the able leadership of Presidents McLane and Frank Thomas, the Fresno State Normal School developed its services to the community and its stature as an institution of higher learning. In 1935 an act of the California legislature authorized the change in nomenclature from Fresno State Normal School to Fresno State College.

In the spring of 1948 a committee led by George D. Strayer completed a survey of the system of publicly supported higher education in California, including the junior colleges. This survey predicted that Fresno County would sustain a jun-

'Hundred Grand' Machinery Used By Shop 7 Students

By NICK MILLASICH

One hundred thousand dollars worth of training and experience awaits anyone who wishes it in S-7, in the form of some of the finest machinery in Fresno. This fact, given by Mr. E. J. Smith, instructor in charge of the class, proved quite dazzling, but understandable upon looking over the equipment.

The shop is crowded with machines; so crowded that an idle person might get claustrophobia if he spent too much time in the room.

I asked Mr. Smith for some information on the shop and about the instruction given there. He obliged:

"The work done in here is for both instruction and training for the student. The finished products are utilized by this school and other schools in Fresno."

MAKE MUSIC STANDS
As an example he pointed to a pile of long strips of metal which would be eventually made into music stands by individuals working in the class.

My attention was next drawn by a student working on a piece of pipe next to the future music stands. Seeing my interest, Mr. Smith revealed that the piece of pipe was being made into an oil burning unit for heating soldering irons in high school metal shops.

"Besides saving the school the expense of actually purchasing the tools by making them in the shop proper," Mr. Smith stated, "the work provides much valuable and practical experience."

The machines include: engine lathes, shapers, drill presses, milling machines, grinders, turret lathes, Du-All saws, tool grinders, planers, power hacksaws and a hydraulic press (all which make the machine shop reasonably complete) and are all for student use.

Purposes for some are: (milling machines) cutting gear, and keyways; (shapers) for dove-tailing slots and shaping flat surfaces; (drill presses) drilling holes in layouts and fixture work; and (grinders) for sharpening lathe tools and machine cutters.

LECTURES, TOO

In addition to actual work on the machines, instruction is given on various phases of the work in form of visual aids and oral lectures. He stressed that in this kind of work individual attention and help is given to each student to allow them more independence in their work.

Some people frankly wonder if this doesn't leave Mr. Smith lots of time for reading and chess-playing. (I'm just crazy about chess playing). However, judging from the number of students that come up to him for advice, help, or just tools, he apparently has little, if any, spare time.

"The shop," concluded Mr. Smith, "has been given a general reconditioning and going over." Safety devices are being improved, and overhead pulleys have been done away with, each machine now having its own motor.

IVCF Collects Charity Food

A drive for food, clothing, and toys for needy people in the community is being sponsored by the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship. Boxes will be placed in the library this week, wherein students may deposit donations.

"One can of food per person contributed by everyone attending FJC would feed quite a few families for several days," said Walter Smith, president of the organization.

"If it is impossible for you to bring your contribution to school, please write your name, address, and the names of articles to be donated on a piece of paper and put it in the box. An Inter-Varsity representative will pick up such contributions as soon as possible," said Smith.

On Friday evening, December 9, at 7:30 p.m., members of the IVCF are invited to a Christmas party to be held by the Fresno State College Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship in the Student Union at Fresno State.

LOSE ANYTHING? CHECK IN OFFICE

Famous private-eye Nick Carter has been called to aid Miss Edna Price, FJC PBX operator, in finding the people who belong to the articles in the "Found" department. Miss Price is getting desperate. "Please, students, pick up your belongings," pleads Miss Price.

New additions to the department are two necklaces, one gold and the other pearl, a glasses case, a red lead pencil, two blue fountain pens, and a baby lizard (on sale in downtown stores).

Some of the articles in the office are gathering dust. A red, white, and blue sweater, a white windbreaker, a Tech graduation ring, and a text book, "Business Law" are among articles which have been in the found department for weeks.

OFFICE ASKS STUDENTS TO LIST NEW ADDRESSES

Students who failed to list their local addresses at registration or have since changed their addresses are asked to file their correct address with Miss Edna Price, receptionist, in the main office.

Figure Facts

By EVELYN STEINKAMP

Looking at the picture of our models or reading the first few paragraphs of this article you will probably ask yourself "what style is there in wearing pajamas. All you do is sleep in them?"

Well, JCers, we spend one-third of our time in bed, why not dress for it?"

Stop to realize that manufacturers would not put so much time and effort into developing new styles in night wear if there were no reason for it.

The shortie gown is very popular right now. Our model, Helen Larabee (on the right) is modeling one of the many types of shortie gowns. For the more conservative person there is the striped or flowered gown. For the person that goes out for the latest in styles, the newest type is the red flannel, chinese collared, long-sleeved gown. These gowns are featured at Gottschalk's in the lingerie or teen department starting at four dollars.

LIKE LONGIES

Pajamas can be made out of any type of material. Some girls like the nice warm woolie flannels while those sleeping under electric blankets prefer cotton.

Dress up your pajamas with ruffles or lace. For the practical person ruffles made out of the same material are wonderful. If no one ever sees you in your night clothes, they may look in your dresser or even on the clothes line.

ROBES FOR LOAFING

Robes are essential for that sick day. When hopping out of the shower or when greeting the early riser at the door you need something to cover your night clothes. There is a definite style to wearing a robe. It is just as important to look nice in a robe as in your every day wear. There are many, many types of robes — quilted, checked, brunch coats, turkish towels, and flannel. The new checked robe is very popular for the college girl of today. Remember to buy the robe that looks best on you; get away from the idea of buying certain clothes just because they are stylish. You can wear the simplest and most practical clothing and look more trim than the person in the latest style.

Now that Christmas is just around the corner we will be thinking about what we would like for Christmas. Slippers make an inexpensive but practical and well accepted gift. Our model on the right (Loretta McLean) has on a pair of red slippers with rabbit fur around the top, which are very warm and cozy. There are many, many types of slippers to fit all individual personalities. An assortment of slippers such as our models have on can be seen at Gottschalk's in their new shoe department.

This decision was influenced greatly by the fact that here was to be found a superior instruction-

FBLA Installs New Officers

Ken Kafeyan was installed as president of the FBLA, Tuesday in M-43 at 11:00. Rounding out the slate of officers were; Ray Hatch, first vice president; Dorothy Green, second vice president; Virginia Bier, secretary; Fred Milgrom, treasurer, and Phyllis Daugherty, reporter.

The newly elected officers were told their duties, and the oath of office was administered by the retiring president, Evelyn Steinkamp.

Miss Ethel McCormack, head of JC's commercial department, spoke to the group on the value of student participation in organizations.

The FBLA was organized last semester through the national organization. The purpose of the organization is to build better friendship among business students and to prepare students for the business world through introductions and speeches by business men of Fresno. The local chapter received its charter last Spring from national headquarters in Washington, D.C.; the FBLA is sponsored by the National Council for Business Education.

Choir To Present Christmas Cantata

The Fresno Junior College Choir will present their Christmas Cantata next Wednesday at a noon meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Californian Hotel.

The assembly committee is also planning to stage the Cantata at the JC Thursday, December 20. A third performance at the Methodist Church is also scheduled.

The program by the 25-voice choir, under Lowell Spencer, director, is about 40 minutes long.

Soloists on the program are Dona Stone, Jeanette Neal and Marilyn Lauderdale, sopranos; Carol Johnson and Pat Christian, altos; Don Moulden, baritone; and Ted Robertson, tenor.

Armande Sigmund will read for the Cantata.

RETURN TO U.S.A.

Alfred and Amy returned to the U.S.A. in late 1947 and settled in Fresno. Amy attended a school in the basement of the Chinese Baptist church before coming to JC. She is taking sewing, typing and dancing besides her literacy and training class at JC.

The oldest war bride, Mrs. Nancy Chin, who finished high school in Canton, refers to her wedding as a very beautiful and exciting. Nancy was attired in a white outfit very similar to the wedding attire worn in the Americas. Her husband, Mr. Bing Chinn, was also a U.S. Army man. Nancy and Bing first saw each other at a mutual friend's house and after running around together for three months they got married.

WEDS IN CHURCH

Nancy was the only one of the three war brides to wed in church and have a big celebration where they had many delicacies including much citrus fruit. (Not common to the Chinese.)

The three girls spent their honeymoons in Hongkong. In late 1947 the couples came to the United States and are now enrolled in some of JC's daily classes.

Similar to all newcomers to the United States the three girls appreciate America very much.

Students Urged To Talk With Advisors Before Jan.

To avoid the rush during pre-registration for the spring semester, division chairmen are requesting that students contact their advisors before the Christmas holidays to discuss their study lists for the new semester.

Pre-registration will be held between January 3 and January 13, according to Maurice Reetz, Dean of Instruction. Schedules of course offerings will be available by January 3, the Dean stated.

Rambler's Day is a key day in the lives of every Fresno JC student. It is for this reason that this outstanding event should be fully represented in the 1950 edition of the Rambler. Due to deadlines, it can, however, be represented in the annual only if the date of this important day is changed from May 12 to the first of April.

The following students of Fresno JC were asked if they would mind having the date of Ramblers' Day set back approximately one month so that a written and pictorial account of this day of all days can appear in the 1950 year book.

Helen Trask, a 22 year old home economics major had this to say, "I think we should have Ramblers Day in the Annual. The first part of April is close enough to the end of the school year to climax the year's events

John Travis, a potential criminology major said, "I didn't go here last year, but from what I've heard Ramblers day must really be a riot of fun. I would like to see it just a little earlier so that I can rest up before final exams."

Donna Adams, a very pretty 12th year student thought it was a wonderful idea. "Ramblers Day is loads of fun," she said. "I'd like to see it in the annual if it is at all possible. Why not fix it so that we will be able to recall with visible clarity this event of the year?"

"They didn't have it in last year's annual," said Phyllis Dorady, and a lot of the kids were very disappointed. I am willing to see it much earlier if it will help to get it in the yearbook. The date is not so important that changing it would lessen the spirit of the day.

Louie Ingraham, a versatile bookstore employee got right to the point and said, "In rendering my opinion I would say yes. It is far too important to leave out. Such a day would bring back many memories to the students of Fresno Junior College in the next ten years."

Grant Tech Team

The Fresno Junior College Ram basketball team bowed before the mighty Grant Tech quintet 55 to 32 last week in Sacramento. Loaded with top material, the Grant five led all the way.

Grant Tech, paced by their great center Jim Loscutoff grabbed a quick lead in the opening minutes and about midway in the first half had worked themselves to a 22 to 7 lead.

Lloyd Heavin, sharp shooting Ram center, racked up five points in the waning moments of the first half to help the Rams come within nine points of the Techsters when the first half ended.

Grant Tech coach "Hutch" Hutchinson put his first team back in the game to open the second half, and the first stringers rolled up a comfortable lead. With the second team playing again in the last minutes of the tilt, Tech went on to win easily 55 to 32. The Rams scored only 13 points in the second half, missing many shots from all corners of the court.

Heavin was high point man for the Rams, scoring 11 points with Bill Jucksch the runner-up with six. Veteran Tech center Loscutoff led the Tech scoring parade with 15 points, while Davis, a new face to the Tech lineup countered 11 points.

On Quiz Program

Al Radka, top notch Fresno entertainer, appeared as master of ceremonies of the quiz show "Pay-Off" in today's assembly. The show was designed to be both entertaining and profitable to the students.

A transcription of the radio program was made during the assembly and will be broadcast on Tuesday, December 13 at 7:30 p.m. over radio station KFRE.

Arrangements for presentation of the program were made by Duke Potere, head of the assembly committee, and were made public in last week's issue of the Rampage.

The show, sponsored by the Fresno Agricultural Company and produced by Ed Frech, local radio man, gave FJC students a chance at valuable cash prizes.

The assembly committee is seeking programs similar to the one held today for release over local radio stations in the future.

Fresno JC's entrance into a new league for football has stirred up much enthusiasm in the Ram sports department. The league will not rise to formal status until 1951.

Taft Junior College's football team was smothered 25 to 6 by the Boise JC eleven from Idaho last week in the Potato Bowl of Bakersfield. The powerful Eastern eleven had a slam bang offense which puzzled the Cougars thru-out the game.

The Reedley College gridders bowed before the Palo Verde College football team in the Desert Bowl last week to the tune of 21 to 13. Reports from down South show that the game was one of the poorest exhibitions of good, clean football ever to be played in football history. The Palo Verde team, after being held to a 0 to 0 tie at half, started to play malicious football. The second half featured poor—very poor—sportsmanship by the Palo Verdeites. What is happening to the fine American game of football?

ROUGH WEEKEND

Having lost their second game to the Grant Tech five last week the Rams will return to action this weekend when they face Stockton, Modesto, and Menlo.

Modesto should furnish the toughest competition of the three. In their opener last week the Modestans defeated the highly touted Fresno State Frosh in a high scoring game. The Frosh defeated the Rams earlier in the season. Lloyd Heavin continued to lead the Rams in scoring, chalking up 11 more points last week to make this season's total 30 points.

Forward and guard Bill Jucksch was the most improved Ram hooper last week. Newcomer to the squad, Bob Cobb, and sharpie Joe Ybanez looked good in practice last week.

MODESTO TOURNEY

Word from the twelfth annual state basketball tournament to be held at Modesto January 4 through the 6th has put San Francisco, the defending champion, as the top contender for the title again this year. The Fresno Junior College Rams will play Monterey in their first tilt of the tourney.

Two CCJC conference teams have been seeded within the top eight. They are the College of Sequoias and Reedley College.

AMS EXECS TO MEET

There will be a meeting of the executive committee of the Associated Men Students this noon in the publications office, M-22.

All executive members are requested to attend. The problem for discussion is sale of tickets for the Christmas Formal.

"Duck," says Willie Perry, fancy ball handling guard of the FJC Rams. Perry will see plenty of action tonight when the Rams play host to the Stockton Junior College in their first home encounter.

"Good morning, sir," said the efficiency expert when he was ushered into the President's office. "I'm Smith who sent you those ideas on how to increase your business. Did you carry any of them out?"

"Did you notice that office boy with the wastebasket who just passed you as you were coming in?" asked the President.

"Yes, I did," was the reply. "Well," said the President, "he was carrying out your ideas."

The average age of all passenger cars in U. S. was 5½ years in 1941. It reached 9 years by 1946, and now is down to 8.4 years.
