

Athletic, Other Awards To Be Presented; Installation Slated

Coaches will present athletic awards to FJC team men, newly-elected officers will be installed by out-going office holders and instructors will present accounting and Smith-Hughes certificates to business education and shop students at the final assembly of the year on Friday, June 1, at 10:15 in the south gym.

Stoney Johnston will distribute the football and baseball awards; Paul Starr will take over for presentations in basketball and track.

Five students will receive certificates declaring that they are licensed by the State Board of Public Accountancy as accountants. Shop students who have completed their courses of instruction will receive Smith-Hughes certificates of trade proficiency. The Alpha Zeta scholarship society will present certificates to two students, the man and the woman who have the highest grade point average.

New officers will take the oath of office from each retiring person now holding the office. Officers are Ward Longueville, president; Beatriz Ciesielska, vice president; Marian Hardy, secretary; Richard Soares, treasurer; Smiles Raymos, Pete Belden, Jerry Halvorsen, and Kary Oyer, representatives at large.

New Courses Are Planned For Fall

New courses, expansion of present ones and a major cooperative venture in the Trades and Industry department are new features planned for classes opening the fall semester in September.

A $7,000 revolving fund has been established to enable shop students to build and completely finish a model home. A new class in carpentry will do the construction and have actual job materials and equipment to use. The electric shop students will do the wiring, students in the plastering class will do interior work, and the plumbing class will install the plumbing.

After completion the house will be sold by bid and a new building project of another house will be started. Actually building a house is an innovation that only Fresno Junior College is known to be planning. No other college has such a project.

The art department will offer all

PHILLIP SMITH

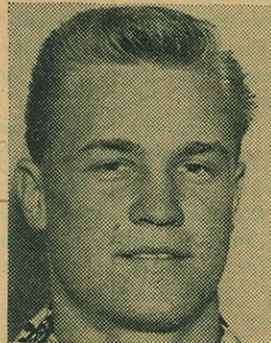

Smith, Journalism Instructor Chosen For Fall Semester

The new journalism instructor for the fall semester at Fresno Junior College will be Phillip D. Smith, who for three years instructed English A and journalism and sponsored the paper at Bakersfield College. While he was at Bakersfield, the college paper was judged best in the state among junior college publications.

At present Smith is a lecturer in journalism and newspaper staff adviser at the University of Southern California. He has had 48 semester units of journalism and several years of newspaper experience. He has a BA in journalism from USC and a MA from the University of Minnesota, where he was also a teaching assistant and journalism counselor.

Smith is qualified to teach English A, history and political science in addition to journalism, public relations-publicity and public opinion. He will instruct all journalism courses at FJC and handle publicity and public relations for the school.

Under the terms of the tentative budget approved by the student council, funds earmarked for publication of the Rampage next year will be sufficient for weekly publication. If enough students interested in journalism will enroll in the courses in September, the Rampage may be among the top junior college papers in California.

WARD LONGUEVILLE

Officers Elected In Two Day Vote, Vice Prexy Runoff

Eight student officers were elected last week in voting Tuesday and Wednesday, with a runoff for vice president Friday. Balloting was lighter than in previous years and voting in two cases was close.

Ward Longueville won the top man post as president by a comfortable majority. Marion Hardy was the victor of a close contest with Pat Wiley for secretary; Richard Soares was unopposed for treasurer. New representatives at large, also unopposed, are Karl Oyer, Smiles Raymos, Jerry Halvorsen and Pete Belden.

Beatriz Ciesielska had a nine-vote plurality over Tom Belden for vice president at the close of Wednesday's voting, but did not have a majority of the votes cast in the three-candidate race. After a decision of the student council Thursday to have a runoff, Miss Ciesielska, in Friday's balloting, was declared the victor—by nine votes.

New officers will be sworn in at the installation assembly Friday, June 1, in the south gym. Retiring officers will administer the oath of office to the newly-elected leaders who will officially take office on the last day of final exams.

Longueville said today that he has big plans for next fall and that he hopes to see more students participating in all phases of student activities.

Several new officers attended Thursday's student council meeting and all who have not already taken the course will enroll in Student Government in the fall to equip themselves for their new duties. Longueville is a representative at large and a member of the student council now. Miss Ciesielska, also a member of the council, is president of the Associated Women Students.

AMS-AWS Plan Party Tomorrow

Celebrating the end of the year the Associated Men Students are inviting members of the Associated Women Students to a swim party at the Plamor Swimming Pool, Pinedale, Friday, May 25 at 3 p.m.

Only AMS and AWS card holders will be admitted. Students wishing to attend must sign their name and card number on the sheet which will be posted on the Ramble Inn bulletin board.

Free hot dogs and soft drinks will be served during the day. Students will swim, play volleyball and other games for entertainment.

Fresno JC Will Be Host To Junior College Students At November Conference

Looking ahead to next year, one major student event is in the offing. The California Junior College Student Government Conference will be held in Fresno, November 16-18 and many FJC students will have an opportunity to take part in plans and arrangements for it.

Over 400 student representatives and faculty sponsors will attend the state junior college convention in November, with probably all JC's in the state represented. John Mullins will preside over the three-day meet as president and Marie Lipscomb will provide news coverage as the convention reporter.

The student government class and faculty sponsor Joe King have been working on plans for the event for several months. Delegates to the convention will be housed at the Californian Hotel and will hold their meetings at the Californian and at the Memorial Auditorium.

Tentative plans include two dances, one a dinner dance at the Rainbow Ballroom. Entertainment programs will be arranged for the two nights delegates will be here. During the day, they will have sessions from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Regional meetings will be held in the Northern, Central and Southern sections prior to the state meet in Fresno. The Central California Conference will be held at College of Sequoias in Visalia.

Questions to be presented later at the state conference will be resolved in the regional gatherings, which are two-day affairs patterned after the state meets. Most fall student officers will attend the regional convention and all will be present at the state convention in Fresno.

All Fresno Junior College students will have an opportunity to help with the conference. The host school must make arrangements to house and entertain the delegates and direct the meetings.

DR. THOMAS BLAKELY

Dr. Blakely Thanks Students, Faculty For Cooperation

During the past year it has been a pleasure to be here in Fresno and particularly at Fresno Junior College. We have an excellent staff of instructors and non-certificated personnel. They have all been most cooperative, and I have enjoyed working with them.

We have been indeed fortunate this year in the high quality of the student leadership which we have had. Both of our student body presidents have been outstanding in their ability, enthusiasm, and in the way in which they have directed the activities of the student body. In both cases they were assisted by conscientious and capable assistants.

In sports we have enjoyed a successful year, having won the championship in football, having been in second place in baseball, and having done well in both basketball and track.

The year has also been a good one from the point of view of employment of our students. There has been no difficulty whatever in finding excellent jobs for those students who qualified for them.

Taking all things into consideration, it is my feeling that the prospects for Fresno Junior College are very bright and that it will continue to grow and improve.

May I take this opportunity to wish all of you a very pleasant and profitable summer, and I hope that many of you will return to Fresno Junior College in the fall to further your education.

Sincerely,
Dr. Thomas Blakely

SO LONG NOW—IT'S BEEN FUN

The editor and staff of the Rampage here present their last effort for Fresno Junior College this school year. We have tried to make this last a super edition, with brief coverage of some of the more important activities and events of the year.

We wish to say thanks to Dr. Blakely, the deans, faculty members and students who have helped us to report the news throughout the year, and to our two sponsors, Gordon G. Scott and Mrs. Edna Hartley. Without help and cooperation from all these people, the newspaper could never have operated as successfully as it did.

Many times we have felt like tearing our hair, have cursed the deadline, kicked about the limitations of time and space but, after all is said, we have enjoyed it and are sorry to go to press for the last time.

Speaking of presses, we mustn't forget the Central California Typographic Service and its owners, Ernie Benck and Bob Jones. They have worked with us every Wednesday night until midnight or after to put this paper out. Ernie is also the censor of all our last-minute fillers and wouldn't let us print our favorite jokes—or the one Dr. Blakely told us either.

DON'T FORGET ADVERTISERS

Throughout the year readers of the Rampage have seen several of the same names over and over. Those names—Rampage advertisers—should be remembered for several reasons.

Many business establishments in Fresno have offered special rates to Fresno Junior College students and faculty. Others have used the Rampage to notify students that they had stocked items that might appeal to them. All have helped make it possible for FJC to have a paper, because no paper can long survive without advertising unless it has the proceeds of a gold mine or a couple of oil wells to finance it.

Remember those advertisers during the summer months and next fall when making preparations to return to school. Quality merchandise at competitive prices is one of the features of America's system of free enterprise. Advertising is another and the Rampage is glad to be a part of it.

When you patronize our advertisers, you help not only them but yourself as well.

TRAINING SHOULD BE COMPLETED

The demand for well-trained office personnel has far exceeded the number of qualified students available this year—especially in the stenographic and secretarial fields.

Temptation of high wages and often times low entrance requirements cause students to cease training before they are qualified for jobs with well-established local business firms which offer real security, advancement, and known working conditions.

When the question arises as to whether or not a student should return to school in the fall, students should make comparisons between salaries and advancement of those who have completed their training as against those who have entered vocations with a short grasp of fundamentals.

Qualified, well-trained people will always have opportunities for employment; those who are not thoroughly trained may find competition too great.

Students To Approve Constitution

Copies of the revised constitution for government of the Associated Students of the Fresno Junior College will be posted on all centrally located bulletin boards for a period ending June 6. Students are urged to read the document and to file any objections with the president of the Associated Student Body.

If no written objections are filed before Wednesday, June 6, the constitution will be considered approved by the associated students and therefore adopted by the Associated Student Body and the student council.

In filing objections, article and section referred to must be stated along with reason for objection.

Uncle Willie's Wandering Wit

Question of the week—ARE YOU GOING TO TRAVEL THIS SUMMER?

Summer is almost here and since this paper will be the last issue this semester, let's find out what the FJC students are going to do.

Uncle Willie finds, as he roams around, that most other students are planning to take jobs this summer but some are going to escape the boredom of summer, also the heat, and float away to the paradise of their choice. Santa Cruz, Monterey, and Yosemite seem to be the most popular spots.

Bobbie Miller and Marilyn Coffman are taking a sojourn to Aca-pulco for the summer. They will stay for a month at the classical Hotel Majestic. They will then journey to Guatemala for two weeks before school starts.

About two weeks after school is out, Nick Elias is taking a pleasant trip down to San Luis Obispo and later to Camp Cook. He plans on staying about two weeks. He cannot divulge what he will do there, since it is a military secret.

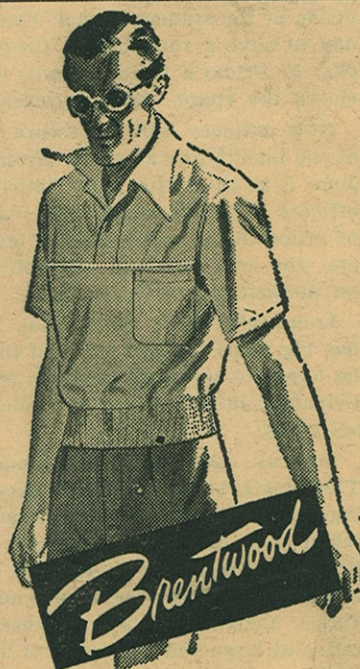

Beatriz Ciesielska plans to leave for Monterey on the afternoon that school is out to spend the whole summer swimming and relaxing. She will return just in time for Registration.

Mary Janney plans to swim the surf at Santa Barbara. She loves the salt water and especially the sun tan.

Francis Gougasian and Janet Ochirero plan to get their sun tans at Santa Cruz. There they can swim, lie in the sun, ride the roller coaster and eat hot dogs all at the same time.

Jim Telegan plans to team up with three other fellas and hike back into the Sierra Nevadas. Purpose of the trip—trout fishing and scouting for a good deer hunting spot.

Well, I see that middle aged Father-Time is cranking the old clock 'round and 'round these days, bringing the much dreaded final examinations closer and closer . . . but at the same time, old cotton top is bringing the much desired summer vacation over yonder horizon. It's the same story that has been repeated time and time again, "It takes lots of hard work to get the really worth while things in life." So here come the exams and then three months of wonderful vacation.

Of course, P. G. & E. will probably hail the coming exams with great zest and enthusiasm . . . after all, they stand to make a cool lump of cash from all the electricity that you and I are going to burn while studying. The major coffee companies will chart the tremendous increase in sales in and around our raisin city . . . and Lucky Strike will surely send us some kind of special award for consuming more "coffin nails" on this campus than anywhere in the U. S. And so, after three weeks of all night study sessions, gallons of black coffee, and cartons of smokes, we finally arrive at that grand and glorious day—FINAL EXECUTION—er, exams, and guess what? You and me, with blood shot eyes, and a numb brain just manage to "crack" a big fat C for all our effort.

MARQUEE MERRIMENT: Have you ever thought what would happen if certain cinema flickers played at the same theatre, and were billed on the same marquee? Here are some possible mix-ups: "The Time Of Your Life With The Weaker Sex." "Our Relations—Show Them No Mercy." "Every Girl Should Be Married and Manhandled." "The Fleet's In and Julia Misbehaves." "Boy Meets Girl—Bingo—Four Daughters."

UP, UP, UP, GO THE MEAT PRICES: Songstress Eileen Wilson explained why she bought an expensive Cadillac convertible: "It's not so expensive. It cost $4,100 and weighs 4300 pounds. That's cheaper than steak!"

THE BLUSHING BRIDE: Displaying her gifts, the young bride came to one from the groom's Army buddy. "I just adore these personalized gifts," she said. "We received towels and washcloths with HIS and HERS on them, but" she blushed, "this is even more personal," and she held up an olive-drab blanket with the letters US stamped in the middle. (Goodnight Irene).

SENATOR SMART SAYS: What is going to happen to all the ex-Senators and ex-Congressmen after the 1952 elections? Guess they'll all settle down and raise chickens . . . and if the chickens lay as many eggs in the hen house as their owners have on Capitol Hill there will be plenty of scrambled eggs for all.

AWS-AMS Organizations Sponsor Several Student Activities In Year

The two largest organizations on the Fresno Junior College campus are the Associated Women Students and the Associated Men Students. Any student enrolled in the college may join upon payment of 50 cents per semester membership fee and the membership card will entitle the student to take part in all AWS or AMS sponsored activities.

Presidents of the two organizations in the fall semester were Lois Tvede and John Mullins. Spring semester officers are Beatriz Ciesielska and Jim Telegan.

The AWS had a pot luck dinner early in the fall semester and the AMS had a smoker to further acquaintance between new members and those who had belonged to the organization before.

Both organizations joined forces to sponsor school activities throughout the year. Together they worked on the Armistice Day float; students of many nationalities dressed in their native costumes and sat on the tiered platform as the float went through the downtown area.

Another joint effort of the AMS-AWS was the Christmas Formal at the Rainbow Ballroom in December. The two organizations and the rally committee cooperated to make the affair successful and enjoyable for all who attended.

Several activities at the carnival were sponsored by the two clubs, whose members also worked with the student council to make Ram-the classes now available; also a new series in crafts being planned. Some features of the proposed expansion are instruction in weaving, metal craft, jewelry construction, silk screen printing, block printing, and leather craft.

The final social event on the AWS-AMS calendar is the swimming party tomorrow afternoon at the Play-mor swimming pool in Pinedale. All students who have AWS or AMS cards may attend the affair.

Miss Kate Darling will continue to instruct the classes she is now teaching and completion of plans for the expansion depends upon appointment of an instructor for the art crafts.

The music department will increase its facilities with the employment of Lowell Spencer on a full-time instead of a part-time basis.

A greater emphasis will be placed on music training for individuals who are majoring in other subjects, but who wish to start or continue their music training for their own pleasure or as a hobby.

Appreciation courses in both art and music will also be offered for students who are interested in learning about the great masters of music and art.

If there is sufficient demand, shorthand may be offered two hours daily next fall to speed up the training program. Students taking the two-hour course could complete the regular four-semester shorthand training program in two semesters.

Many 'First' And 'Best' Mark 1950-51

It will be a year to remember for all the students and faculty members who took part in and observed the memorable events which took place at Fresno Junior College during the past semester and the one now drawing to a close.

For the first time, FJC had a president, Dr. Thomas A. Blakely, and an increased faculty to take care of the increase in enrollment. Student officers were Duke Potere, president; Bob Sani, vice president; Rudeen Bruce, secretary; Marie Lipscomb, treasurer; Louis Ingraham, Glen Geringer, Bill Davidson and Ron Kent, representatives at large.

The first of many hotly-debated questions came before the student council when the fall budget was presented and finally approved. Some members felt that appropriations were not equal and that some activities were being built up at the expense of others.

Formation of a rally committee and choosing pep girls and yell leaders were early activities of the fall semester. Clint Wheeler and Janice Hall led yells throughout the football season; pep girls were Rudeen Bruce, Betty Powers, Francis Johnson, Mary Janney, Maxine Williams and Joan Scherer.

DANCES FOLLOWED GAMES

Music students started working early in the year to form a dance band and, by September 29, were prepared for a rally preceding the first home game with Reedley and the dance following. It was the first of a series of dances following home games and opponent teams were invited as guests to all of them.

FJC was represented in the Armistice Day parade by a float on which students of several nations were dressed in their native costumes. Theme of the junior college float was World Peace Through Education. Sid Wilson, dressed in a cap and gown to represent education, maintained a precarious balance through the many stops and starts. He said later he felt the strain for some time.

The regional student government conference was held in Santa Maria, September 29-30, where a resolution against Communism was passed to be referred to the state conference held later in Sacramento. A humorous incident at the convention happened during the section meeting on Finance over which FJC presided. Louis Ingraham opened his mouth to open the meeting and swallowed an unwary fly which flew suddenly into his mouth. After he recovered from the shock, the meeting went on as scheduled.

SHRINE SPONSORS BIG GAME

Plans for the Shrine-sponsored Hartnell game were in full swing with a rally in which Shrine dignitaries appeared to talk to students at a rally preceding the game. Allan Mason, member of the Shrine publicity committee shone as star of the show. Five thousands fans witnessed the surprise 13-12 victory and the colorful Tehran Temple uniformed drill teams who performed at half time.

Plans were underway early in the semester for painting and other improvements to the building and campus. The lower main hall and the front stairways were painted in new, brighter colors. About this time, Ingraham was named chairman of a committee to start work on the yearbook. Controversy over appropriations and enough interested members to staff the undertaking started soon.

Good news for nervous males attending FJC came with an announcement that students in good standing could ask for deferment until the end of the year. In spite of this, many students continued to enlist.

CONFAB IN SACRAMENTO

The California Junior College Student Government Conference held its fall meeting in Sacramento October 26-28; seven students and one faculty member from FJC attended where the resolution against Communism was hotly debated and barely passed by delegates from all of California's junior colleges.

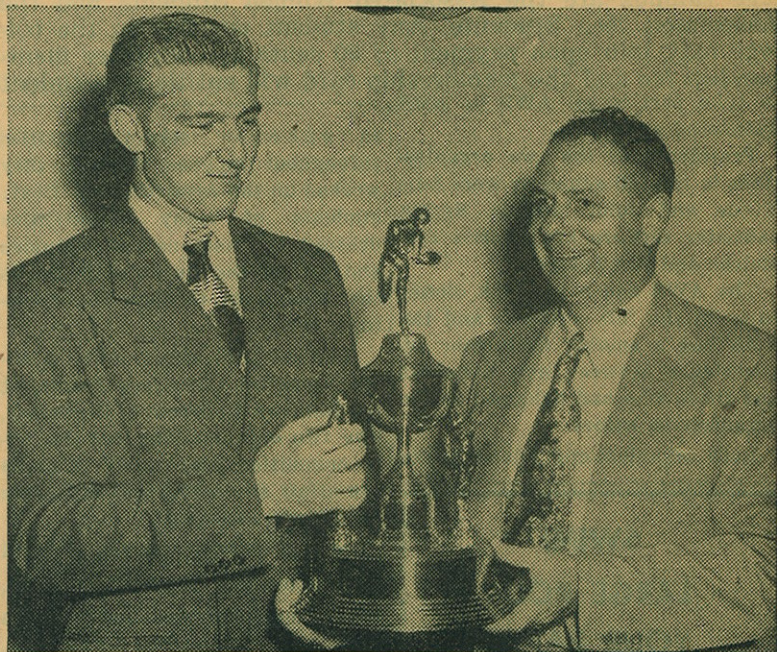

Preparations were soon underway for the FJC-COS game and the bonfire rally and serpentine in the afternoon and evening. While FJC rooters were parading through town in decorated cars, someone—presumably from COS—burned the bonfire. Four hours later, the bonfire had been rebuilt and came off on schedule. In the game that night, the Rams beat the Giants 36-20.

RAMS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

With mid-terms out of the way and the football season drawing to a close, the Rams went to Taft and came home with the first junior college conference championship for FJC. At the final rally of the season, the music department put on a musical jamboree with Terry Angell, a former student, as guest star.

Then came nominations and elections and plans for the Christmas Formal, the Yule program and vacation. Only the president and vice president were opposed in the student body election. New officers were John Mullins, president; Joe Spino, vice president; Rowena Campbell, secretary; Louis Ingraham, treasurer; Ward Longueville, Harry Kachorian, Sid Wilson visions and final approval before being presented to the students for adoption.

The second regional student government conference was held at College of the Sequoias in Visalia; a student talent show was organized to travel to high schools in the area and previewed by FJC students; and college military training in junior colleges became the goal of leaders in junior college education.

When Ingraham was sure that no working yearbook staff could be formed, he decided to resign as editor. Amid fireworks in the student council, he read his resignation. Money which had been appropriated earlier to finance the publication reverted to the student body fund and the project was dropped.

GRADUATES MEET

AA degree hopefuls began meeting weekly to decide on plans for graduation, commencement and a class gift. Several groups of seniors from high schools near FJC started making their appearance on the campus as they considered plans for their further education. And work on the annual carnival intensified as the time approached for the big night.

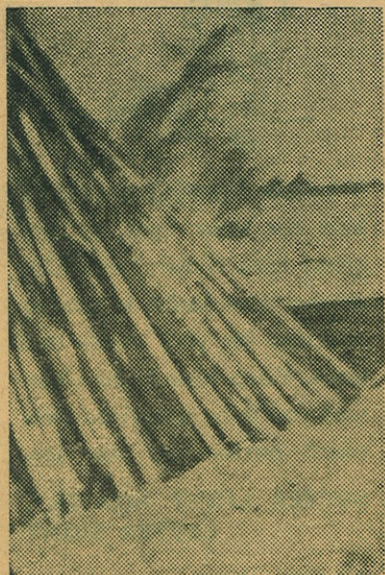

The follies were the top attraction of the carnival. The faculty men's dummy dunk and the faculty women's cake walk also contributed much to the evening. A watch and a pedigreed Cocker pup were grand prizes awarded to two people who held programs with lucky numbers.

More than $400 rolled into the student body coffer as a result of the one night carnival, where Dr. Blakely took his turn on the faculty men's dummy dunk. The annual Cotton Ball was held April 27, with Marsha Yates reigning as queen of the occasion.

LONG BEACH CONFERENCE

Then came the second state meeting of junior college student officers in Long Beach, where John Mullins was elected state president of the organization to preside over the next state convention in Fresno. A resolution approving inclusion of student activities on transcripts of students planning to graduate or transfer was presented by FJC delegates and adopted by the body.

and Jim Telegan, representatives at large.

The Christmas Formal was held at the Rainbow Ballroom; the pre-registration schedule for the second semester was announced and everyone took a week off to celebrate Christmas and prepare for final exams.

The radio studio, which was over a year in the planning and construction stage, began to take shape as students returned to school. The old sign in front of the school had been taken down and a new one was built. Some of the old trees were removed and new grass was planted as part of the rejuvenation program at FJC.

Soon after the beginning of the new semester, a revised student body constitution was presented to the student council for further re-
