

Ram Week Is Considered Biggest Event Of Semester

Students Elect Al Salcido President

Salcido Edges Marcelli By Four Votes

Albert Salcido, Jr., a Fresno Junior College business student, was elected president of the FJC student body for the spring semester. The results were made official after a revote Monday and Tuesday. Salcido won by four votes, 110 to 106.

The run-off between Joseph Marcelli and Salcido was necessary because no candidate received a majority of votes in the first election, as there was a third nominee, James Ringer.

Officials elected last week include Karlo Demoorjian, vice-president; Odell Johnson, treasurer; Gladys Popp, secretary; Thomas Flores, Wilma Koenig, Lynn Rice, Ann Sirabian, and Larry Fiori, representatives at large on the student council.

Fiori withdrew to enter the air force so both Barbara Wilkinson and Joyce Noble were elected to representatives at large posts.

Demoorjian won over Hershel Hoopengartner, 186 to 78.

Johnson defeated Helen Embry by a narrow margin, 162 to 101.

Miss Popp was unopposed for the office of secretary.

The other candidates for representatives at large of the student council were Leone Hamel, Domenick Blanco, William Service, Shinya Tokubo, Marlene Murphy, and Louella Williams.

"Should Mr. Yparrea, who donated our ram, be given an honorary life membership in the Associated Students Organization at FJC" passed, 241 to 15.

The election was supervised and the votes counted by a committee whose members included Bob Moxley, Ruth Osterhouse, and Guil Horner and Sue Sheehan and Dr. Rolf Ordal and Floyd Quick, advisers.

The officers elected will take office at the beginning of the spring semester February 7.

Officers were installed in the Fresno Memorial Auditorium today by Dean Lee.

FJC To Offer Two Revised Courses

Fresno Junior College will offer two revised courses of special interest to women in the home economics department.

One will cover the essentials of good nutrition, while the other will stress fashion fundamentals, grooming, entertaining, and meal service.

The nutrition course, Home Economics 31, will be given Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 9 a.m. The fashion and entertaining course, Home Economics 3, will meet the same days at 11 a.m. Both will be three unit courses.

Women who are interested in these classes may obtain more information about them from Mrs. Caryl Houck, the instructor.

Mrs. Houck said the nutrition course will present the known facts about the nutritive value of foods. She added: "It will stress the importance of standards for good family health, menu planning for high and low incomes, and effects of food preparation and care on food values. We will devote time to fads and facts and the latest scientific findings. The work will be aimed at the practical approach to good eating and good health."

Industrial Teachers Tour FJC Shops

Industrial education teachers of Fresno County schools who attended an institute in Fresno met at FJC Saturday afternoon.

Robert F. Hansler, the FJC trade and industrial chairman, said the teachers met first with him and Harry Bartsch, a Washington Union High School teacher who is chairman of the institute's industrial arts section, for an orientation section.

Hansler then escorted them on a tour of the junior college's shops, including the new $190,000 auto and welding shop behind the Edison High School campus.

Final Date For Preregistration Is Tomorrow

Tomorrow will be the last day students may preregister at Fresno Junior College for the spring semester.

Students that do not complete all registration steps in preregistration will have to attend official registration, which will be held February 3 and 4.

The spring semester classes start February 7. Night classes start the week of February 7.

Students who enroll only in night classes will sign up the first evening in class.

Mrs. Lena M. Fuller, FJC registrar, stated that students who are now enrolled should start preregistration with their faculty adviser, and new students should preregister with the registrar, from whom they may obtain catalogs and schedules of courses.

49 Night Classes Planned For Spring

In the spring semester, starting February 7, FJC will offer 49 night classes.

President Stuart M. White said most of the classes are organized for adults who are not able to attend day classes, and they are open to students living outside Fresno.

White also announced that there would be five new evening courses. The general education division will have two: beginning speech and intermediate algebra, and the trade and industrial education division will have three: industrial electrical maintenance, code and communications, and advanced welding techniques.

In the business and general education divisions, there will be 17 evening courses with 32 in the trade and industrial education division.

Robert P. Hansler, chairman of the trade and industrial division, said only five of the night classes in his division are open to anyone. They include auto mechanics, body and fender repair, and welding, which meet from 6-11 p.m. four nights per week, Mondays through Thursdays; machine shop, which meets from 7-11 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays; and television, meeting from 7-12 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays.

Of the 17 evening classes in the business and general education divisions 15 will meet from 7-10 p.m. one night a week and two from 7-9 p.m. one evening per week.

Vital Information For All Veterans Attention

All veterans who are attending school under PL550 may sign Form 7-1996a, monthly certification, for their January checks when they have completed their last final. The last possible date they can sign for their January check is February 4.

Reporter Relates That Modesto Tourney Rates Second, Annual, Third

By CECIL TANGE

This past semester produced many news items worth mentioning. Since only ten could be mentioned, some of the less known news stories had to be left out.

After reviewing and pondering, this reporter, who was given the assignment, came up with the following ten in the order that he thinks they rank.

1. Ram Week. The first annual Ram Week sponsored by the Fresno Junior Chamber of Commerce was observed from November 1 to 5. A rally, dance, and football game climaxed the week.

A queen, nominated by the football team and elected by the student body, reigned over the dance. Queen Deolinda Farrant was chosen over the other three candidates.

This news first appeared in the issue number six.

2. Rams Geab 17th Annual Tourney in Modesto. The high flying Fresno Junior College Rams won the 17th annual Modesto Junior College Invitational Tournament January 8.

Coach Joe Kelly's men won over Santa Rosa, 63 to 61; Long Beach, 73 to 55; Stockton, 89 to 75; and finally San Francisco City College, 74 to 55.

Odell Johnson, Gary Alcorn, and Ernie Slade played outstanding games.

Johnson and Alcorn were chosen on the all-tournament team. Johnson was one of the two who were chosen unanimously.

We printed this in last week's issue.

3. New Annual. This news first appeared in the issue number eight. The yearbook, called the "Rambler," was to be published for the first time since 1950.

4. Freshman Christmas Ball. The annual Christmas Ball, sponsored by the freshman class, was held December 10.

Wilma Koenig, the student council's candidate, was chosen to reign over the ball. There were ten candidates for the queen. We printed this news in issue number nine, 10, and 11.

5. Rams Lose First League Game In Five Seasons. This was printed in issue number five. The Fresno Junior College Rams were dealt a stunning blow October 16 when they lost their first league football game in five years to Taft.

There were numerous penalties, and the game was described as being "very rough."

6. Enrollment Sets Record. Enrollment at Fresno Junior College again climbed to a new high as 1,210 students enrolled in day classes. The total enrollment for the first week was 2,143 students. We printed this in the first issue.

7. New Mascot. Due to conditions beyond our control, Sam III retired to his grazing land. Sam's son, Sam IV, became FJC's mascot. The Rampage dedicated issue number seven to Ram III.

8. Red Key Carnival. We first printed this news in issue number six and again in issue number eight.

The Red Key, a student service organization for the Fresno Junior College, sponsored their third annual carnival November 19 in the Fresno Memorial Auditorium.

All campus clubs participated.

9. Student Body Elections. The student body election for the officers of the spring semester was held last week. The re-vote for the president and one representative at large was held Monday and Tuesday. This was in the last issue.

10. Ten Students Receive Scholarship Awards. Ten students received scholarship awards, eight of whom were freshmen.

This news was printed in the first issue.

Frosh Class Honors Group

The freshman class gave a dinner-dance for the student council and sponsors of the freshman class Friday night. The dinner was held in the Ramble Inn and the dance in S-22.

States Hines, freshman class president, was in charge of the dinner-dance, and Edd Suddjian was chairman of the arrangements committee.

A Lot More Students Should Vote Instead Of Only 270

It's a 'darn' shame that only 270 students voted in our recent election. Which means only 270 students care about our student council. And no more, only 270.

Did you realize that the polls were opened exactly ten hours? Which means on the average 27 voted each hour. Is this what you call popular vote? I don't; I think it is down right disgraceful the way some students care about what happens to our school.

No one can convince me that they were in the right for not voting. Some say, "I didn't know who the students were that were running." I have one and only one answer to this trifle silly statement. You had almost a week to secure information on these candidates. Yet, you didn't.

You say, "Maybe I didn't vote, but I'm not griping." But let me tell you one thing, YOU SHOULD GRIPE. You should let yourself feel those gripes, feel them until you become ashamed of mistreating yourself.

If only there was a way in which someone could get these students to the polls. But, unfortunately, there isn't. It is a right and a privilege and if someone was to take away this privilege, those who had never used it would gripe the most.

All I have left to say is congratulations to our new student body officers. I voted and I am pleased with the outcome. Are you?

Semester Has Ups And Downs, But Mostly Ups

Now that the fall semester at FJC is beginning to disappear as did other past semesters, I would like to take time out from the usual editorials to thank a few students who were among the tops this semester. These students have shown ability and achievements that maybe neither you nor I could have shown.

I believe that the student council under the leadership of such students as Dean Lee, Bob Moxley, Jim Ringer and many others has proved itself to be outstanding in benefiting the students in their many activities.

Such fellow students as Al Salcido, States Hines, Edd Suddjian, Fred Hall, Sue Sheehan, and Lynn Rice have my vote for being outstanding leaders. However, it is difficult to point out a few students because there are so many worth mentioning. There are so many that have given so much and taken little glory. These are the students that made this semester one of the best.

So all I humbly say is goodbye, fall semester of 1954, and thanks. Thanks for what my buddies and I have seen and learned in these past few weeks. We did these two things only by the gracious help of these students.

Students Agree That Girls Should Run For High Office If Qualified

 By ELLA PAPAGNI and
 MARY FIORENTINO

Why shouldn't FJC have a female president providing she is well qualified for the job? This was the question asked, and the following comments were made by the following students:

Lynn Rice, "The Women's Suffrage Act was passed long ago. In fact a woman from India was president of the United Nations assembly. She was elected president of a much larger organization, which included all nations of the world. Why would not a girl president be just as acceptable for our student body?"

Dee Dee Farrant, "I think that a girl with the sense of responsibility and the capability of associating with fellow students in order to help solve their problems and to make a sincere effort to uphold the good name of FJC is capable for the presidency."

Robert Moxley, "I think a woman can fulfill the office of president very well if she is well qualified to do a man's job, and very few women can."

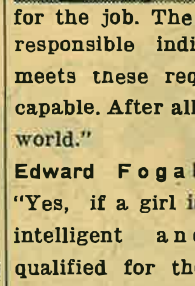

Martin Isler, "Well, in my opinion, there is no reason in this world why a girl shouldn't qualify, provided she meets all other requirements called for in the student body rules."

"On the other hand, there are some psychological reasons that students as a whole (men and women alike) prefer to vote for a man."

Maurice Sasso, "I believe the individual who participates in activities, with a 'go-get 'em' characteristic, and who shows an interest in the welfare of the school and its functions should qualify for the job. The person must be a responsible individual. If a girl meets these requirements, she is capable. After all, it is a democratic world."

Edward Fogal, "Yes, if a girl is intelligent and qualified for the job, she will be able to carry out the duties as well as a boy."

Joe Ages Ten Years; Rams Drop Hancock, 74-68

FJC Flips Lid In Sensational Second Period

The Rams continued their winning streak last Saturday night in Santa Maria as they staged a dramatic second half comeback to defeat the Allan Hancock Junior College five, 74-68.

The Fresno club made a poor showing in the first half, seeming to be unable to click into their usual form. A heavy blow was dealt the Rams when Center Gary Alcorn fouled out after just twelve minutes of play. At the half Coach Joe Kelly's quintet trailed by the depressing score of 42-27.

In the second period the Rams came to life in one of their best rallies of the season. After 21 minutes of play, the Fresnoans were leading 55-54, increasing the lead to six points as the final buzzer sounded.

Guard Ernie Slade, Forward Odell Johnson and Forward Ray "Chief" Williams were the workhorses of the game. Slade was high score man, popping in 27 points, Johnson was second as he tanked 21, and Williams sank a total of 15. The Rams totaled 30 free throws against Hancock's 22.

Saturday's tussle was the second league game win for the Rams in as many tries. The Fresno five will travel to Porterville tonight in search of their third win.

Six Outstanding Reasons Kelly's Crew Is Hot

By Sid Cowan

The Rampage sports page has been more or less on the silent side in the past and I think it's high time we scream a little praise for our basketball team. For those of you who are not sports minded, here's some straight dope on what these hustlers of ours have been doing.

Going right down the line, we'll start with one of the fastest little guards I've ever seen, Ernie Slade. I won't put Slade up on a pedestal or set him up as a target for any other guard in the league, but in all fairness, the guy rates every word of praise that could be said about him. This isn't for the benefit of you that have attended the games. You've seen what I'm trying to put over. This is for you that haven't been going to any games.

In one of the forward positions is Odell Johnson. Now it would be nothing short of stupid to sit here and laud him and tell you what an asset to the club he is. He is, however, one of the best free throw artists this school has ever seen. Johnson has made 146 free throws already this season, out of 173 tries. This gives the smooth forward a .847 percentage.

Holding the other forward spot is the stately figure of Chief Williams. "Chief," who was christened Ray, has a deadly eye from almost any position on the boards. The tall Edison High grad has racked up a total of 179 points for the Rams so far this season.

Daniels Sparks

The other guard on the squad, and almost an exact replica of Slade, is the dynamic Marlon Daniels. Daniels, who literally runs himself ragged in every game, is also an ex-EHS player. For a little guy, it's amazing to watch the way he's seemingly all over the floor at once. It's my humble opinion that he's much better on defense than offense.

Lively Hoopster Sets Killing Pace

The slim forward attended Edison for four years, lettering in basketball in his junior and senior years. In his senior year he was elected to the student body office of commissioner of athletics.

During his time at FJC, Johnson has displayed outstanding ability on the boards. At present he has an average of 25 points a game.

Last week the star cager was elected treasurer of the student body.

After his hitch at FJC, Johnson plans to attend the University of California in Berkeley.

Know Your Faculty

Ken Hald Makes Public Challenge

By Eleanor Franco

Kenneth Hald, biology instructor, is hereby making a public challenge to Dean Larsen, welding instructor who commented on Hald's tennis playing ability in last week's Rampage.

Hald said Larsen does not know the difference between ping pong and tennis and that he challenges him to a tennis duel at anytime or any place Larsen might designate.

Handball and tennis are Hald's favorite sports, but he said, "I'm beginning to lose interest in tennis since there is on one on the faculty that can give me adequate competition and that includes personnel on the West Campus."

Hald was born in Fresno and received his AB degree at Fresno State College and his master's degree in malariology at the University of California.

While attending UC he played tennis and basketball and boxed. He also added that he was thinking of taking up boxing again. (beware, Larsen).

Last summer Hald enjoyed a trip to Mexico City. From there he flew to Acapulco, where he did some skin diving for a marine animal collection.

Hald has been teaching bacteriology and biology at FJC for six years. Before coming to FJC, he taught at Fresno State College, University of California, and at West Contra Costa College.

Next Rampage To Be In February

There will not be another issue of the Rampage published until February 17. This is because of the finals next week, the break between semesters and the fact that the Rampage never schedules a paper for the first week of a new semester in order that the staff can get organized.

The Rampage welcomes new staff members. There are openings for students to join the staff in all departments — news, features, sports, copyreading and headline writing, business, circulation, and advertising.

The present staff members include Alfred Copus, editor; Sid Cowan, sports editor; Barbara Wilkinson, business manager and Mary Fiorentino, news editor.

Others include Ella Papagni, feature editor; Karlo Demoorjian, advertising manager; Betty Lee, national advertising manager; Ralph Thorneberry, photographer and Darlene Ratliff, exchange editor. The special projects manager is Rudy Guitterez.

The reporters include Bobbie Burton, Eleanor Franco, Jewell Golston, Patti Ford, and Cecil Tange.

P. D. Smith is the Rampage adviser.

FJC Quintet Plays Pirates In Porterville

The high flying Fresno Junior College Rams will tangle with the Porterville College Pirates tonight in Porterville.

Coach Joe Kelly's hustling boys have won two league games thus far and plan to make it three in a row.

Kelly will go with his iron men five—Odell Johnson and Ray Williams, forwards; Gary Alcorn, center; and Ernie Slade and Marion Daniels, guards.

Porterville, led by Coach Wayne Hardin, has good height and acquired three top freshmen players from last year's Porterville High team.

Porterville has veteran 6 foot, 4 inch Center Bill Goucher and a freshman the same size in Mel McCartney from Ceres. Bob Phipps, Gene Maples, and James Gibson from Porterville High and fast Bob Brown from Delano are good freshmen.

The Rams play Coalinga this Saturday at Coalinga, College of Sequoias next Friday, and Reedley next Saturday. All of these games will be league games.

Six Reasons Why Quintet Is Good

grow. Of course, I'm referring to our center, Gary Alcorn. I've often wondered how he keeps from getting knots on his head from the basket rim. The six foot, eight inch freshman is nothing but a whirlwind on rebounds. It's interesting to watch the faces of the opposing team when they see the star center casually stroll out on the floor and take his position near the basket. Alcorn has stuffed in a total of 285 points for the quintet this season. He is a graduate of Roosevelt High.

After introducing the illustrious first string, I think a word of kindness is in order for the reserves. Whether they play or not, whether they score 30 points a game, or sit on the bench for the entire period, they rate a vote of thanks for taking interest in the school and the team. It's a cinch we couldn't have a team with just five men.

In conclusion, we should render a bow to the man responsible for the success of the squad, Joe Kelly. This is Kelly's second year of coaching at FJC; last year he guided the club to the same championship they seem headed for this season.

The next home game will be played January 28 against COS.

Final Exams To Be Taken Next Week

Final examinations for the fall semester will be given to FJC students, starting Monday and will continue through January 28.

The regular schedule of classes will terminate tomorrow, with the exception of all three hour shop classes, which will meet as regularly scheduled through January 28.

Semester finals for shop classes will be given tomorrow while other class finals begin Monday.

Three and five hour classes are scheduled for examinations to last two and one-half hours. Two hour classes will have one hour and 40 minutes for their tests.

Examinations for night class students will be given on the last meeting night of the class next week.

Students are requested by the respective faculty members to go to the right place when the tests are to be given.

Marcelli Elected Sophomore Prexy

Sophomores met Tuesday noon in S-33 to elect club officers and to make arrangements for commencement exercises.

The officers include Joe Marcelli, president; James Wilburn, vice-president; Louella Williams, secretary; and Rosemary Taylor, treasurer.

Commencement exercises are to be held June 9, with practice on the 7th. April 1 is the deadline for ordering caps and gowns with a deposit of $5.

Invitation cards will arrive next week, and the deadline for ordering them will be March 15.

Pictures of graduates for the yearbook will be taken by the school photographer for 50 cents.

The next sophomore meeting will be held February 18.

Candidates for the associate of arts degree previously signed their intention with the school registrar, Mrs. Lena Fuller.
