

HOMEcoming COMMITTEE—Jenice Potere, Allen Graves, and Sidney Craighead lay out plans for the homecoming festivities.

Queen Will Reign At Homecoming Activities

Allen Graves and Sidney Craighead, co-chairman of the homecoming committee, have announced arrangements for Homecoming Week Oct. 26 to 30.

The FCC Rams will host Reedley Junior College at Ratcliffe stadium for the annual homecoming football game Oct. 30 at 8 PM.

Craighead stated that there will be approximately 16 queen candidates, one to be nominated by each of the campus clubs, and that the homecoming queen and her four attendants will be chosen by a student body election Oct. 29.

Graves will serve as master of ceremonies at half time activities when he will introduce the queen who will be crowned by Sylvia Gagle, 1958 queen. The new queen will reign at the after game dance to be held in the student center social hall. Jack Martin's band will provide music for the semi-formal affair.

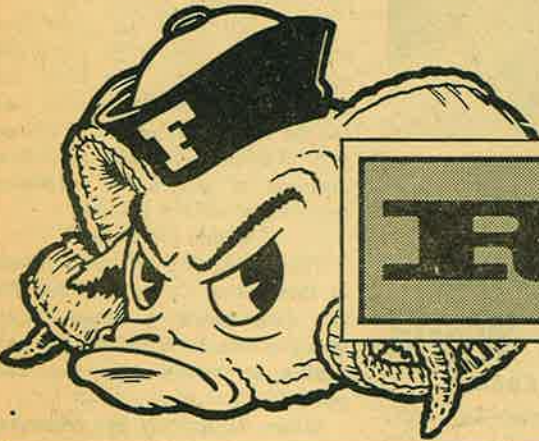

Other homecoming events will include an assembly and an alumni luncheon on Oct. 29. Craighead will be master of ceremonies at the assembly.

The FCC cheer leaders, pep girls, and majorettes will do routines along with the Reedley pep squad.

Graves stated that a noon rally will be held Oct. 30 to promote school spirit for the homecoming game. Eric Radanovich, commissioner of rallies, will be in charge of the rally.

Working with Graves and Craighead are committee members Barbara Anderson, Marcia Casares, Barbara Warrington, Hallie West, Jenice Potere, Florence Harper, Lawrence Cobb, Tom Westerfield, Charles Bollinger, Ron Turner, Buddy Murchison, and Radanovich.

Scripts Available For Roles In 'Bus Stop'

Tryouts for "Bus Stop," FCC's 1959 fall production, will be held Oct. 14 at 7 PM and Oct. 15 at 4 PM. The play will be presented in the school auditorium Dec. 11 and 12.

Clyde G. Sumpter, dramatic coach, announced that students wishing to try out may obtain scripts in his office, A-154.

FCC Acquires Smoking Rules

In compliance with the wishes of the Board of Education and the City Fire Department, unrestricted smoking will not be permitted this year at Fresno City College.

Paul Starr, dean of men, said that a small fire at City College in April, 1959 prompted the action. The fire was apparently caused by a carelessly discarded cigarette.

Restricted areas have been posted and include classrooms, McLane Hall, closed corridors in the Administration Building, shop buildings, and the library.

Starr said students habitually violating the smoking regulations will be subject to disciplinary action by the administration.

This is the first time FCC has had restricted smoking.

The female lead will have to fulfill certain requirements. First of all, she must be a "chanteuse" (woman singer) capable of that "dumb blond" look and still capable of holding the audience's attention. The male lead portrays a Montana cowboy.

"Bus Stop," written by William Inge, also author of the popular play and movie "Picnic," has five male and three female roles.

The technical work will be done by Sumpter's theater craft class. This will include building sets, making costumes, handling lighting, makeup, publicity, and ticket sales.

Sumpter stated that he also needs backstage men and for any interested student to contact him.

Tom Westerfield has been appointed stage manager and Barbara Anderson will serve as publicity manager.

Regular rehearsals will be held from 7 PM to 10 PM

Scholarships Are Available For Students

Archie Bradshaw, dean of students, announced that FCC has a limited number of scholarships which have been made available through civic organizations in Fresno.

He stated that annually, during the month of April, announcements are made to the various high schools. Applications are received by the first of May, after which the Committee on Scholarships judges the applications on the basis of high school academic achievement, leadership, citizenship, and need.

Scholarship Candidates

Candidates who are selected as scholarship recipients are notified in May. Those students who are awarded a two-semester scholarship will, upon entering the college, be expected to maintain above average scholarship during the first semester to be eligible for the second semester award.

Students who do not wish to take advantage of awards made are advised to notify the college immediately so that the committee may

47 High School Pupils Attend FCC Classes

Forty-seven high school students from Fresno are taking classes at FCC this semester in addition to their regular high school program.

John S. Hansen, administrative dean, said, "This is a college credit program that is part of the total Fresno City Unified School District honor program."

The main purpose is to allow qualified high school seniors to take courses here for college credit while completing high school graduation requirements. Hansen commented that students in the 11th grade or lower will be credited with high school units for their studies at FCC. They are enrolled in the Russian classes only because this course is not being offered in the high schools at this time. One exception occurs in the case of an 11th grade student enrolled in French 1A because of a program conflict.

Schools Represented

Hansen's records show there are students from four high schools including 20 each from both Bulard and Fresno High School, five from Roosevelt, and two from Edison.

McLane students will be able to apply for acceptance into this program in the spring, Hansen said. They were not organized in time to apply for the fall semester.

Psychology 7 is the most popular course with the seniors, who have a choice this semester of these additional subjects: Russian 1A, 2A, History 41, Economics 1A, Engineering 1A, Music 4A, and Sociology 1A.

"This type of programming has been done successfully at other junior colleges in previous years," Hansen said, "and although we did this last year with Russian, the program is basically new here."

Additional classes

Next semester will find these accelerated students enrolled in additional classes. Hansen hopes to have Botany 1A, Psychology 33, and Mathematics 3A scheduled at times which will not conflict with their high school programs.

Students participating in this accelerated program are "good" students, said Hansen, who have applied in their respective high schools for acceptance and have been carefully screened. The applicants should have good health, both physical and emotional, in addition to good study habits.

Geology Students Take Field Trip

Kings River Canyon will be invaded Saturday, Oct. 24 by 140 Fresno City College geology students.

Francis Leyden, geology instructor, will take two physical geology classes Saturday and the other two sections Oct. 24.

"The main reason for the trip," said Leyden, "is to give students a better understanding of geology." He thinks that geology should be taught in the field as well as in the classroom.

The students will study rock formations, minerals, and erosion near Pine Flat Dam and along the river to Big Creek.

Leyden's physical mineralogy class will make a field trip to northwestern Fresno County, Southeastern San Benito County, and the Los Gatos and Clear Creek areas Nov. 14 and 15. The class had a trip to Raymond, Madera County, Saturday.

Health Education Classes Hear Series Of Lectures

Several hundred Fresno City College students are learning how to be better drivers in Fresno traffic in their health education classes.

The Fresno County Safety Council provided five speakers for nine sections of personal and community hygiene taught by Mrs. Hazel Pedersen and Miss Cathern Irwin.

J. W. Mooney of the council said the safety program is being emphasized and that it is college age drivers who have the highest rates of liability insurance.

The speakers also discussed new legislation affecting drivers, road hazards, costs of accidents in dollars and human lives, and license requirements.

The speakers included D. H. Spencer, president of the Spencer Truck Company, Monday; James Eagan, a safety supervisor of the Fortier Transportation Company, and Harry Bailey, safety supervisor and terminal manager, Pacific Motor Trucking Company, Tuesday; and Chris E. Rockas, an attorney, yesterday. Arthur Layton of the First Western Bank and Trust Company was the first speaker last Thursday.

Eagan and Rockas are members of the council's safety committee. Spencer is the president of the California Trucking Association.

The hygiene classes also will hear a series of lectures on fire prevention Nov. 9 and 23, and Dec. 3 by Inspector Arthur Cone of the Fresno Fire Prevention Bureau.

Mrs. Pedersen said she also plans to have additional speakers on cancer and tuberculosis.

Dr. Paul J. Pastor announced that his health classes will also have guest speakers.

Officer David Jimenez, Juvenile Division, Fresno Police Department, will speak on narcotics Nov. 12, 18, and 25; Inspector Arthur Cone of the Fire Prevention Bureau will return on Dec. 7, 17, and 23; and Officer R. Blackwell of the California Highway Patrol will lecture on traffic safety on Jan. 4, 6, and 14.

The hygiene course is required by state law for graduation from any California public junior college and the University of California. It is concerned with the meaning and significance of physical, mental and social health as related to the individual and society, alcohol and narcotics education, fire prevention, public safety and accident prevention.

College Students Use Illegal Parking Spaces

It has been brought to our attention that FCC students are being inconsiderate while parking their automobiles. Students are parking in illegal places and are also blocking driveways of some of the homes on nearby streets.

Now there are two possible explanations for this. First of all, students are afraid they will be late to class, and in their hurry they park in the first available spot whether it is illegal or not. Or another explanation might be that students are just plain careless and do not take time to see if their car bumpers are protruding into the driveways of nearby homes.

Because we have such a large student body it is necessary for cars to be parked on the side streets surrounding city college. Since this is necessary students should be courteous enough to park so that home owners are able to get in and out of their driveways. After all, we park in front of their houses; let's let them park in their own driveways.

Another problem is that concerning elementary school children who cross the FCC campus in the mornings on their way to school. These children have been instructed not to walk through the parking lots, but some of them have not heeded the warning. It is hard to see these children when they dart out from behind a car so a word of caution is necessary here—watch out for children when you drive on campus.

The parking fines you save may be your own.

FCC Students Ignore Honor Society Awards

FCC had 58 students who qualified for membership in the scholastic honor society, Alpha Gamma Sigma, on the basis of last semester grades. Seventeen of these students were members last semester. Of the remaining 41 eligible students, only 12 were interested enough in receiving this scholastic honor to apply for membership and be initiated into the organization.

What about the other 29 people who rated this honor? Were they too busy to accept an honor that was rightfully theirs? Were they just not interested in having this distinction entered on their transcript? Have they forfeited their opportunity to receive terminal honors upon graduation?

It certainly seems that any student who has proven himself scholastically superior should be proud to receive recognition of the fact.

Suggestion Box Is Voice Of Students

Things that wouldn't have been expressed if it weren't for the suggestion boxes:

Place a clock above the door of the coed lounge so that everyone will stop asking me, "What time is it."

I would like to know why it is that when I ask for hot chocolate I always seem to get it cold.

Also, I thought the cafeteria is a place to go and eat, but it seems that it is the place for a jam session.

Couldn't something be done about it?

Virginia Gomez

Answer to the hot chocolate: Mrs. Nina Stradel, cafeteria manager, said the cafeteria has no room to install a hot chocolate machine.

Mrs. Stradel said the cafeteria uses an instant mix, the second best thing, for hot chocolate, and they try to keep hot water running.

Mrs. Stradel said the students may ask for another cup of hot chocolate if they feel their first cup isn't hot enough.

It would be swell to have a coke machine in the lounge. It would bring in about $300.00 a month, or more.

Is there such a thing as an air raid shelter at Fresno City College.

If these is I think it would be a very good idea to let the students know where it is.

All public schools in Fresno direct their students to their shelter the first week of school.

All suggestions from the suggestion boxes are read and discussed at the student council meeting on Tuesday. As soon as final action on the suggestions is completed, the Rampage will inform its readers of the results.

Buddhist Student Studies English

By ROBERT L. VOSS

The Rev. Ryumei Iguchi, a 26 year old Buddhist priest from Hiroshima, Japan, is studying English in the evening division at Fresno City College.

Rev. Iguchi arrived in the United States June 30. He visited San Francisco for two weeks before coming to Fresno, where he is assigned to the Central California District of the Buddhist Church of America. He said he plans to live in America and expects to stay in Fresno a year. "It is the custom to move young Buddhist priests each year," he said.

Rev. Iguchi said, "I studied for the priesthood at Ryukoku College in Kyoto, Japan, with Huruo Yamaoka, a Nisei from Fresno." Yamaoka, while attending Fresno City College, was active in church and school work. He was a reporter for the Rampage during the 1953 fall semester, and editor the latter part of 1953-54.

"I studied English in high school and college in Japan," Rev. Iguchi said, "but I find speaking the language a little more difficult than learning the 'book English' I studied before coming to this country."

He also studied Sanskrit, the universal language of India, and the language used in the original writing of the Buddhist Testaments.

Beside his duties in the church, Rev. Iguchi teaches Japanese three days a week in the church school.

There are four Buddhist churches in central California, with about 800 members. Buddhism originated in India over 2,500 years ago, and is embraced by more than one-third of the world's population.

Krikorian Stirs Television World

By CAROL REDELFS

Mrs. JoNell Krikorian, FCC English instructor, has stirred great interest with her thesis concerning educational television.

She said she has received many letters, urging publication, including a letter from Franklin Dunham, chief of radio-television, of the department of health, education, and welfare.

Mrs. Krikorian first became interested in educational television while taking a course, in which this system was used at Sacramento State College. She then went to San Francisco and volunteered her services to an educational television station.

When she returned to Fresno she became a member of the Steering Committee—a group organized to promote the establishment of an educational television station in Fresno. (If established, this station will be known as Channel Seven.)

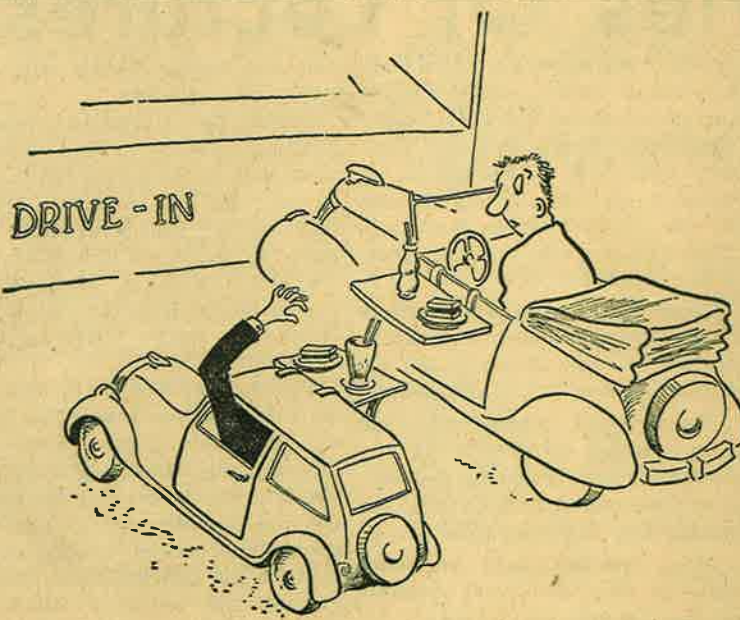

Mrs. Krikorian is also a member of the American Association of University Women, who are also backing educational television.

Mrs. Krikorian believes, The practicality and worth of educational television should be evaluated by television-oriented educators and advisors.

Kiwanis Honor Student

Wanda Harrison, who won the North Fresno Kiwanis Club scholarship award, was honored at a luncheon held Tuesday at the Tower Palm Room.

Tamra Koerner, last year's recipient of the award, was also a guest of the Kiwanians. The coeds were escorted by Gervase A. Eckenrod.

What Is New?

By ANDREW FEDERICO

Chino was sweeping out the cigarette butts, and sun flower seed shells from his pool hall when I went in, and he said "Qu-vole, Chivalin Chivalon. Honda esta vas, que no ta visto?"

He wanted to know where I had been, and I told him I hadn't been anywhere, and he said that that wasn't a good place to be, so he laughed because those were the kind of things he laughed at.

It's A Crazy World

He was going to say something else when old man Santos came in, raised him arms over his head and said in Spanish, "Everybody is crazy out there." Then he quietly took his usual place on the bench next to the wall.

Chino shrugged his shoulders, and I got a cue stick from the rack, and spread the balls out on one of the tables. Pocket pool can be a relaxing game. A person gets involved with the immediate problem of putting a particular ball into a certain pocket.

Sound Of Balls

There's a sort of contentment in this when it's done right. The cue ball made a clean, sharp sound when it hit the nine ball, rolling it safely into the side pocket.

When Chino finished sweeping he got his vacuum cleaner and started to dust off the green felt tables. As he did so, he sang and talked to himself in Spanish, that being the only language he really knew.

A half blind fat man came to the door with the morning paper and shouted across the room to Chino to buy one.

"Anything good in the news?" Chino said in broken English.

"Esta loco. All bad," Old man Santos said from his quite spot on the bench.

"Eisenhower and Khrushchev are talking peace," the paperman said.

Chino said he wanted none of it, that he would wait for La Pinon, the Mexican paper.

"That's all that is in the paper, Russia and Russians," Chino said, coming across the room.

"They do many things," I said in English.

"Why don't you speak in Spanish?" Chino said, suddenly irritated at a more immediate problem.

Don't Speak Language

"Everybody who comes to this country is losing their language," he said. "The Mexicans, the Italians, the Armenians, all of them. They don't want to speak their own tongue any more."

"When you speak with someone that knows only English, all right, use their language. But when you who know Spanish speak with another who also speaks the language, speak it. And it is the same with the rest of the languages."

"What about Russian?" I said.

Too Many Tongues

"Ah, do not learn that language. There are enough who know the tongue already. And it would be—"

Old man Santos interrupted him with a loud yawn.

"Everybody everywhere has gone daft," Santos said, going towards the door.

We watched as he left; then Chino said, "Are you crazy?"

"Are you?" I said.

He laughed louder than usual and said, "Si."

were familiarized with the utilization of equipment necessary for teaching a foreign language by this method.

They visited a recording studio where foreign dialogues were being made to accompany English films.

Ross said he talked with the head of the Spanish Department and visited a class which was being conducted in Spanish. "On a previous visit, and again this trip, I was terribly impressed with the fact that we are sending so many people to foreign countries prepared to speak the language of the people. This should greatly aid our relations with the peoples of the world."

On Saturday the three men attended the foreign language laboratory conference at the College of San Mateo. This conference was attended by representatives from junior colleges throughout the state.

The assembly heard a panel discussion and listened to talks from various people from the State Department of Instruction and from Stanford University.

The group also witnessed demonstrations of the latest electronic equipment for the teaching of foreign languages.

Ross stated that he acquired several new ideas to aid in the operation of the new FCC language laboratory.

Rams Fumble Again Giants Win 20-12

A fired-up band of Giants from College of Sequoias upset the No. 1 ranked and defending Central California Junior College Athletic Association champion Fresno City College Rams, 20-12, in the Mineral King Bowl last Saturday night.

The passing and running of tailback Steve Shafer sparked the Giant's attack and gave them their first win of the season in the opening game of the CCJCAA season. This is Fresno's second consecutive loss.

Penalties and fumbles played a major role in the Ram's defeat. Both teams had many scoring opportunities but could not take advantage of them.

During the opening minutes of play, the ball exchanged hands freely on fumbles and intercepted passes, but neither team was able to muster any kind of an attack.

Rams Open Scoring

From the COS 12, the Giants punched the ball out to their 21, just short of a first down, and were forced to punt. The kick was whistled dead on the Ram's 45 where FCC took over.

On the first play, Miller took the handoff, shot up the middle, cut toward the side lines and scampered 55 yards for the first touchdown of the game. Miller's kick was wide and the Rams led 6-0.

The Giants scored quickly after the second quarter got underway. The drive started on their own eight yard line after an FCC fourth down punt. Halfback Larry Angove rounded left end for 10 yards. Fullback Pinkey Keyes swept the opposite end for four, placing the ball on the 22.

An off-side penalty against the Ram's and Shafer's pass to end Larry Stackler moved the ball to the 37. Angrove picked six yards off tackle and Shafer brought the 3000 plus fans to their feet with a dazzling 57 yard touchdown run down the sidelines. The kick was wide leaving the game in a 6-6 deadlock.

Giants Go Ahead

The fired-up Giants threw one incomplete pass and then started to roll. Keys sprinted around left end for 13 and Shafer circled right end for seven, moving the ball to the 30.

Angove was hit for a yard loss. Shafer rolled out and hit Keys with a pass good for 12 yards, moving the ball to the 41, Angove knifed his way up the middle and Keyes picked up additional yardage putting the ball on the FCC 47. An off-side penalty against the Rams moved the ball to the 42.

Shafer, waving his arm as if he was waving a victory torch, sent a pass 42 yards to end Bruce Robertson in the end zone. The kick was blocked and the Giants went ahead 12-6.

Rams Tie Score

Before the closing seconds of the third quarter Miller intercepted a Shafer pass and carried to the COS 19.

Miller, from the six, boomed his way up the middle for the touchdown. His kick was wide and the score was tied once again at 12-12.

With five minutes left in the game the Rams once again looked as if they were going to break the game wide open. The Rams took possession of the ball on the COS 28 following a bad Giant punt.

It took the Rams five plays to reach the 15. On the next play quarterback Murphy was thrown for a 20 yard loss. Murphy tried again to pass but had the ball intercepted on the three.

The Giants marched 97 yards in eight plays with the touchdown being scored on a plunge by Shafer from the one. Shafer hit Stackler with a pass for two points giving the Giants a 20-12 edge.

The Rams received a blow early in the game when quarterback Don Stockton and tackle Cliff Beagle were injured.

Quarterback Bob Hart and tackle Frances Ragghianti, suffering injuries sustained in the Stockton game, didn't suit up for the COS game.

Bowling League Starts Monday At Mid-State

The bowling league goes into action Monday night at the Mid-State Bowl.

Larry Cobb, bowling league recreation chairman, said, "Invitations have been sent to all the college clubs, and I hope to hear from them this Friday."

All college club members that are interested in joining a bowling team are to meet Cobb Monday between 4 and 4:15 PM at the Mid-State Bowl, 2201 N. Weber Ave.

The only requirement for membership in the bowling league is to be a member of a recognized college club and want to bowl.

There are 12 or 14 co-educational teams in the league. This is a handicap league, giving every team a chance to win.

The captains of each team will be selected the first night. Members of each team will pay the $1.05 weekly bowling fee to the team captain.

Peter Farmer, president of Associated Men Students, organized the campus bowling league last year.

He said, "The Associated Men Students will award four trophies to members of the winning team. Mid-State Bowl will award four trophies to members of the team that places second. There will also be an award for 'high man' and 'high woman' in the league."

Although only one game has been played by Central California Junior College Athletic Association teams the league race is shaping up, although it can take a different course with one game.

One dark horse and a perennial top three team, Coalinga and Taft seem to have an outside chance to take the crown. Coalinga has won its first three games, amassing 76 points while holding its opponents to 28. Taft lost its first two games but bounced back last week to dump favored Allan Hancock, 42-28.

The College of the Sequoias Giants, the other winner in last week's opening games, dropped its first two games before getting a win. Most observers of the FCC-COS game said the Rams should have won but fumbles ruined more than one chance of the Rams scoring.

The Reedley College Pirates, who have dropped their first two games by large margins, will play their first league game against Porterville, Saturday night in Reedley.

League action over the week-end will see Allan Hancock in Visalia, to play the Giants, Porterville in Reedley, and Taft in Fresno. Coalinga will meet the tough Antelope Valley Marauders of Lancaster, in a non-league game.

Picks For The Week

Prognosticating for the games, we pick Fresno over Taft, Porterville over Reedley, Allan Hancock over COS, and Antelope Valley over Coalinga.

FCC Rams Meet Taft At Home

The Fresno City College Rams have been stressing pass defense all week in preparation for their first home league game against the Taft College Cougars. The game will be played Saturday in McLane Stadium starting at 8 PM.

Head Coach Clare Slaughter is highly displeased with the Rams' defensive work, especially pass defense, and signal calling. In last week's game the COS Giants racked up 100 yards in the air.

Slaughter did praise the work of fullback Harry Miller, both for offense and defense, along with Ray Merrill, Chet Rooters, and Jerry Nimmo on the line.

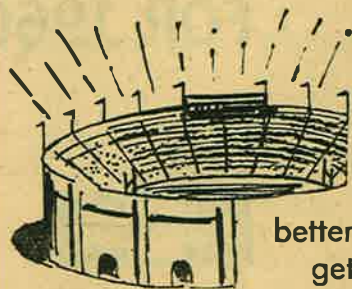

Starting lineups:

Fresno		Taft

Beagle	RT	Schmidt
Merrill	RG	Moore

Gomes	LG	Farr
Rooters	LT	Pett
