Supervisors To Attend Conference

President Stuart M. White and John S. Hansen, administrative dean, will represent FCC at the California Junior College Association's annual spring conference at the Monica Hotel in Santa Monica Friday and Saturday.

White prepared the agenda for the conference. The conference theme is "Meeting the Challenges of the 1960's."

Master Plan

Many of the sessions will be concerned with the master plan for the universities and colleges for California pending in the state legislature.

Jay Davis Conner, an associate state superintendent of public instruction, will address an administrators session Saturday morning on "California Junior Colleges Face the New Decade."

Richard T. Hanna (D) Orange, 75th assembly district, will speak on "Planning for the 1961 Legislature" at the final luncheon.

Association President

Bill J. Priest, president of Sacramento's American River Junior College and the association president, will lead a general session at 10 PM Friday, when implications of a survey and course of action suggested by it will be outlined.

White will preside during an administrative session Friday at 1:30 PM when the technical committees of the master plan survey will discuss their findings.

Clifford Boyer, Reedley College director and president of the Central California Junior College Association, will preside at a workshop session on institutional capacities and area needs.

Folk Ballader Sings Tonight

Sounds of "folk" America will echo through the FCC auditorium tonight as Pete Seeger, veteran writer and singer of folk songs, presents a concert at 8 PM.

Seeger, who is 40 years old, has been singing and playing folk music for more than 25 years, and has entertained at Carnegie Hall and at numerous colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Although Seeger has had no formal music training, he plays the banjo, the guitar, and was a major member of folk-singing groups, the Almanacs, and the Weavers.

Seeger's appearance at FCC is sponsored by the Fresno County Young Democrats. Tickets may be obtained at the Democratic headquarters, 844 Van Ness Ave., by telephoning ADams 7-7173, or at the door of the auditorium.

Tickets cost $1.25 for students for $2 for adults.

Nigerian Commission Team Visits Campus

By GARY COOKE

Five members of a nine man Nigerian Commission on Post-Secondary and Higher Education visited the FCC campus during the week.

Their purpose? To get acquainted with two features of the American education system unknown to Nigeria, the land grant university and the junior college.

"We heard that California's junior college system has been particularly successful, and FCC is an ideal pattern of the type of college we are interested in," remarked Dr. John Lockwood, Master of the Birbeck College of London University and member of the commission.

"We wonder if the junior college might help fill certain gaps in the Nigerian education system," he continued, "but of course no country can import an education system without modifying it for its own needs."

Take Campus Tour

FCC administrators led the group, which was appointed by the Nigerian government, on a tour of the campus Monday and Wednesday mornings. Various classrooms were visited and the members of the commission saw how the classes are conducted.

"So many times visitors see only the president and a few deans," Lockwood commented, "but here at FCC we've had the opportunity to get an idea of the way the college works from the inside."

A very small percentage of Nigeria's 35,000,000 people attend the scattered missionary, Moslem, and government regulated schools. Nigeria is made up of federal regions which are administered by the British government.

Nigerian Students

At present most Nigerian students, who, according to commission member Dr. S. D. Onabamiro, are very political minded, are divided into regional political groups.

"We try to impress our students to be political minded," stated Onabamiro, who along with his Moslem colleague, the Honorable Shettima Kashim, was dressed in native robes, "but we want them to be idealistic, rather than regional."

"We hope institutions of higher learning will be a binding influence in holding regions together."

Educational Needs

Onabamiro said his country's educational needs extend to all phases of learning, not only higher education.

"We have a particularly urgent need for good high school teachers, as we need more students coming up into the universities," Dr. Onabamiro said.

The Nigerian Commission, which is supported by a grant of $100,000 from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, is made up of nine members — three Nigerians, three Britishers, and three Americans.

Five Visitors

The five educators who visited the FCC campus include Kashim, formerly Minister of Education of the central government of Nigeria, and who is presently "Waziri," or Chief Minister of the provincial government of the large northern province of Bornu; Onabamiro, who obtained his doctorate at London University and is now a lecturer in parasitology at Nigeria's only university, the University College of Ibadan.

On Wednesday the group was taken on a tour of Yosemite.

Among the several universities visited by the commission in the United States are Harvard, Chicago, California, and Michigan State.

FCC and Bakersfield College were the only two junior colleges to host the distinguished group.

Graduates Participate In Revised Ceremony

By FLORENCE HARPER

June graduates of FCC will be participating in an outdoor ceremony for the first time in the history of the college.

President Stuart M. White and his cabinet have given approval to a plan worked out at a recent meeting of sophomore advisors and administrators.

Participants in the program will be seated on the approach to the library, but the graduates will be seated on chairs placed on the lawn on either side of the walk. They will be facing the parking area which will be roped off and arranged for the seating of an unlimited number of guests.

Limited Facilities

Archie Bradshaw, the dean of students, said that the lack of a cooling system and the fact that the seating in the FCC auditorium is limited to 820 people were important factors in determining to make this change from tradition.

George C. Holstein, the dean of admissions and records, said the graduating class may be smaller than last year's 223. Although 359 sophomores have applied, he said, "Only 231 have a chance to make it, and some will have to earn better than average grades to graduate." He said this total includes 35 students who completed graduation requirements at the end of the fall semester.

Twelfth Commencement

The June 10 commencement will be the 12th since the city college was reorganized in 1948 as a separate institution from the Fresno State College. The two colleges were combined in 1921.

This graduation will commemorate the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Fresno Junior College, the former name of FCC, as the state's first two year college.

Graduation Speaker

White announced Dr. B. Lamar Johnson, a professor of higher education of the University of California at Los Angeles, will be the commencement speaker. His topic will be "Commencement: To What End?"

Bradshaw issued a challenge to the sophomore class as a whole to see if they couldn't get their classmates signed up for cap and gown reservations earlier and in greater number than in previous years. He explained that the costume rental houses customarily remove gowns from their racks as specific sizes are ordered. Naturally, the gowns in best condition are selected first.

Others attending the planning meeting were Jackson Carty, librarian; Joseph Woodman, sophomore sponsor; Paul Starr, the dean of men; Miss Doris Deakins, the dean of women; Robert Kelly, the dean of the evening division; and Florence Harper, sophomore student representative.

Male Singers Voice Songs

A male ensemble of 12 voices and several feminine soloists has been chosen by C. Lowell Spencer, the choir director.

Spencer said the male ensemble sings popular songs and has been making performances for local groups. Future performances will include the Fresno Elks Club, May 1; the Fresno Kiwanis Club, May 3; the Fresno Council of the Parents and Teachers Association, May 17 and the First Methodist Youth Banquet, May 22.

The ensemble members are Sherrill Andenman, Varesejan Assadourian, Louis Bozigian, Thomas Dorn, William Gardner, William Glese, Bruce Howison, Odell McCoy, William Madden, Richard Nunes, Lee Rosemeyer, and Gary Sexton.

The soloists who will appear with the men's ensemble are Shirley Kumano and Joan and Janet Alexander.

MALE ENSEMBLE — The FCC male ensemble performs for the Fresno Lions Club. The group will be featured in several local appearances.

Council Dictators Are Nourished By Students

Student participation — this seems to be a favorite subject of many editorial writers. The subject is always referred to in the negative. The editorial writers are always condemning students for not voting in student elections, for not participating in student sporting events, not attending dances and not taking an active part in the many student clubs that are on the campus.

This editorial is going to be an exception, and will not refer to any of the above subjects; on the contrary it is going to tell of some of the unalienable rights of the students at Fresno City College that are denied us through lack of good insight by OUR student government.

In this country the federal, state and county governments are held in check by certain powers stated in the respective constitutions. If an elected official makes a glaring mistake that the people who helped elect him don't like he can be reprimanded in certain legal ways. One of these is by the process of recall, something that the student constitution of this school lacks.

In certain other college constitutions a provision is included in the body of the constitution, not in the amendments, for the sole purpose of making elected student officers directly responsible to the students that elect them.

Under such constitutions any of the elected officers, one or all, can be recalled from his duties if more than 10 per cent of the student body signs a petition. The student council must then call a recall election, and if three-fourths of the students voting agree that the officer should be recalled, it is done so immediately. The lack of this tool in our student constitution makes the power of the student council supreme. Once we elect our officials we must wait in anticipation to see what they will do with this great power.

Worse even than the lack of recall is the right of the student government to pass any resolution or by-law they see fit, with or without the consent of the students. Only when the student council wishes to change an article of the constitution must the petition go before the student body. However the student council need never change the constitution but just add restrictive by-laws and resolutions to get the end result that they are seeking.

An excellent example of this student council using their given powers happened last week. The student council of this college proposed for us that the cost of student body cards would be $10 per semester next year. Very few persons that lay on the outer circle, the student masses, knew of this decision, let alone the proposal.

These "chosen few," 18 to be exact, made this momentous decision for the more than 4,000 students. This is a great responsibility to be placed on the shoulders of these so-called "chosen few."

If this student council were to try to use their certain dictatorial powers they must take out or replace one item. This is the process of petition, which allows the students to pass legislation through a long and involved process. This device is hidden in our student constitution and is used very little, if at all.

If any future student council aspirant happens to read this, it should provide him with an excellent platform and help eliminate the popularity contests that are ever prevalent during elections.

CC Celebrates Library Week Council Approves Card Fee Increase

National Library Week is being celebrated throughout the United States by all public, school, and university libraries from April 3-9.

National Library Week is being observed at FCC by many new books that are on display in the college library and in the Student Center.

The sponsorship of National Library Week is by the National Book Committee, Inc. in cooperation with the American Library Association.

The objective of National Library Week is to remind the American people that reading can help to explore and to satisfy need for a greater sense of purpose in everyday lives.

The national theme for observance of National Library Week is "Open Wonderful New Worlds — Wake Up And Read!"

The student council voted to raise the cost of student body cards this fall semester.

Carrol Jacobsen, student body treasurer, said that the reason for raising the price is to meet the increasing budget expenses.

The increase will be from $8 to $10 per semester for full time students, $2 per semester for students carrying four units and under and $2 per semester for night students.

Miss Jacobsen said that before the increase will take effect, it must pass approval from the board of education.

The plan was submitted to the council by the finance committee.

Purchase of the student body card entitles the bearer to many privileges, such as the bookstore and food service and admission to school events.

Student's Lament

By ANDREW FEDERICO

A few Wednesdays ago, Jim, a high school buddy whom I hadn't seen since those carnival days, called and asked if I wanted to watch the fights on television that night.

I usually watch the fights so I told him "sure," and we went down to this place on the west side of town, where with a pitcher of beer they served a bowl of potato chips.

Watch TV

We found us a table in view of the TV set, and as we waited for the fights to start we talked about the old days at school, mostly about those endless things which are easily remembered.

It turned out that the fights matched two stumblebumps that night. One was a boxer, the other a puncher. The boxer had a good jab, and he kept the puncher off balance and irritated.

After the second round Jim and I gave up watching them and started talking about some of the things that had happened to us in the past few years. It was about then that I asked him why he had quit college.

Very Depressed

"I started getting these instructors who you could tell really didn't want to instruct. Down deep inside they considered themselves great writers, musicians or artists but not instructors.

"They'd probably never heard of Mr. Chips."

Jim fingered his glass and the bell for the fifth round rang.

"I guess there's really nothing wrong with this," he continued. "I mean probably everybody has something they want to do other than what they're doing. But after that, little things started to get on my nerves, like the iodine smell in a glass of water at the cafeteria.

The fight was still going badly for the puncher, so I said:

"What'd you do after you quit?"

Visits Plant

"I went to Frisco," he said. "I had heard that they were hiring novice architects at this plant, so I went to see about it. Boy, what a place.

"They had this room with about 15 architects sitting in front of these large boards as they did their work. I looked over the shoulder of one of them and watched as he meticulously drew the isometric of a bolt."

Jim shook his head disgustedly, and then went on:

"I asked him how many bolts he drew and he said quite a few. Boy, right then I decided to leave. I went out into this hall where they had all of these machines, machines for cokes, ice cream, coffee, candy, cigarettes, marshmallows and cocoa.

"I could just see myself working at that plant, drawing a bolt a day and putting my dimes and nickles into those pitiful machines. I really got depressed after that."

Puncher Losing

I watched him as he sat there with the fight going badly for the puncher and the potato chips half gone. It was a strange thing that had happened but we both knew that it wasn't as bad as it seemed.

The puncher won the fight by a wide margin, and the last I heard of Jim he was in New York writing a book.

Coeds Trim Off Pounds

"On your feet now, girls. Ready? One, two, three, four; one, two, three, four. Pick up the count!"

As Miss Cathern Irwin, women's PE instructor, leads her class through a series of vigorous calisthenics, assorted creaks and groans may be heard throughout the gymnasium where physical fitness classes are held every day of the week.

The largest group of coeds, in number at least, meets at noon on Mondays and Wednesdays. There are 46 coeds in this class — all apparently determined to win the "Battle of the Bulge."

Real Interest

Miss Irwin said some coeds sign for the course just because it is the only PE class that will fit their schedule, but for the most part her students have a real interest in improving their physical fitness.

In addition to the noon class Miss Irwin teaches this same course at 8 AM Mondays and Fridays. This group of coeds numbers 17. The small size of this group enables the instructor to give personal attention to individual problems. Miss Irwin said most of the coeds in the 8 AM class are second semester physical fitness students and as such they are able to do more advanced exercises.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays at noon Miss Margaret Tylor, another PE instructor, guides a group of 23 through their paces. She said, "My class is made up of an enthused bunch of girls of various sizes and shapes."

She expressed the hope that the women enrolled in the physical fitness classes will be given a strong enough basis to carry the benefits of the classes on into their futures long after the classes have been completed.

Annual Checkup

Miss Irwin emphasized that people should not neglect an annual check up by their physicians. She said exercise can be of benefit only if the body is structurally in good condition. She stated that aside from the immediate and obvious benefits of the class work, many students have been helped by being sent to the school nurse, Mrs. Nora Simpson. She, in turn, often refers such students to their physicians. Conditions which have perhaps been unknown to the students are thus uncovered through the more experienced eyes of the physical education instructors and the nurse.

The close cooperation between the PE department and the nurse is important also when a student is in need of dietary help. Mrs. Simpson has been asked to recommend specific diets when the need seems evident.

Recommends Diet

Miss Irwin said plans have been made for Mrs. Simpson to talk to the classes about diet, nutrition, and any health problems the students may want discussed.

Physical fitness classes were new on the FCC campus last semester. They are proving so popular that the instructors feel certain they will be continued. They expressed the hope that the classes will be set up on a limited enrollment two semester basis to allow students to gain the maximum benefit from the classes and to put into effect a more advanced routine for the second semester.

All these techniques employed by the physical fitness class, are part of the program in getting students in good physical health. They will support the basis for the physical work.

New Magazine Staff To Select Creative Writings

Robert J. Shaver, FCC school magazine director, said that the new school magazine which is starting this semester has its first staff.

Shaver said that the staff will select the different writings for the magazine. If any FCC student wants to submit any "creations" he can do so by giving it to one of the staff members or to Shaver.

The name of the magazine hasn't been chosen yet and any suggestions should be submitted to Shaver.

Shaver wants to encourage students to submit material for consideration. He said that anything which will add interest and variety is welcome.

Contributions, including suggestions, should be turned in by April 29.

Groups Must Meet Newspaper Deadline

Attention all clubs: If clubs expect to get their news in the paper they will have to meet the deadline which is 2 PM Monday, announced John Crider, club news editor.

At the last Alpha Gamma Sigma meeting students received temporary membership pins.

Woman Play Lead Lands In Hospital

Danna Arslan, the lead in the spring play, Antigone, is in the hospital. She was injured in an automobile accident last week. Suffering a broken collar bone, cuts, and bruises. She will leave the hospital in about two weeks.

Clyde Sumpter, the director, said that Miss Arslan is still cast in the title role. Should Miss Arslan be unable to participate in the play, a friend of Sumpter's who is a professional actress will fill the part.

Maria Angelina Casare is business manager for the production of "Antigone." Her duties will include ticket sales, advertising, and choosing the ushers.

Sumpter said this production will represent the combined efforts of three departments at FCC. The class of Merle Sons, technical and industrial division instructor, will build the sets. Mrs. Norma Carpenter's dressmaking class will help with the costumes. The drama department will put forth its combined efforts.

Business Education Group Holds Meet

The California Business Education Association will meet for a state convention at Asilomar Beach State Park on the Monterey Peninsula Saturday through Monday.

Mrs. Ethel McCormack, the business division dean, said business division faculty members of FCC will attend the CBEA convention. Faculty members attending will include Mrs. McCormack, Mrs. Dorothy Bliss, Miss Nancy Webster, Gervase Eckenrodt, Gilbert Peart and Lawrence Martin.

The CBEA bulletin states the program will include a talk by Robert H. Slaughter, vice president of McGraw-Hill Book Company, on "Problems Facing Business Education in the Next Decade."

Four Students Emerge As Perfect Spellers

The 1960 edition of the National Office Management Association spelling test was completed Tuesday with four students emerging as winners.

Eleanor Perez, Judy Potter, Marla Simmons, and Martha Simpson were declared winners by Mrs. Ethel McCormack, the dean of the business division.

The four winners received 100 per cent ratings on the two tests that were given to 218 students. The winners will receive proficiency certificates for their outstanding efforts.

The results of the last test revealed that 11 students received 100 per cent ratings, and eight received 89 per cent.

The seven students who received 100 per cent on the second test, but failed to get 100 per cent on the first test are Walter Friesen, Tamra Koerner, Phyllis Lawrence, Loretta Meharg, Carolyn Pease, Joyce Robinson, and Linda Weddle.

On the first test, given Jan. 18, four students received perfect scores, but missed the honor rating when they missed one word on the second test. Those students just one word away from receiving perfect scores are Rosalie Campbell, Norma Gonsalves, Marion Pollevin, and Sete Sarkessian.

The test was open to all students enrolled in business classes.

Choir Gives Two Easter Programs

The FCC Choir presented an Easter cantata, My Heart Is Glad, Wednesday, April 6 and today at 11 A M in the school auditorium.

Yesterday's 8 PM performance was performed for the public. This morning's presentation was for FCC students attending the school assembly.

The performance opened in an unusual vein as the choir sang an introit before reaching the stage. The members of the choir were evenly spaced along the two center aisles of the auditorium as they sang. Following the introit they continued their march to the stage.

The inspirational message of the cantata was enhanced by the use of an interesting blending of choir, organ, piano, timpani and percussion, trumpets and stage lighting.

Soloists chosen by Director C. Lowell Spencer were Varoujan Assadourian, William Gardner, Barbara Blayney, Margaret Reta, Shirley Kumano, Richard Nunes, Virginia Tayan, Roger Dunham, Joan Alexander, and Sherrill Ankenman.

Clyde Sumpter's stage craft class was in charge of lighting and stage effects.

Rams Even Series With State JV's

The red hot Fresno City College Ram baseball team, fresh from their two wins over Coalinga College, slugged the Fresno State College JV's twice to even up the series between the two teams.

The revenge seeking Rams banged out a 14-10 win over the Bullpups on an 11th inning home run by Tom Jacobsen Thursday at John Eulless Park. The second win came Tuesday when Bucky Hoover pitched a five hit, 2-1, victory.

Jacobsen's three run blast over the fence in the four run 11th inning was the big blow that knocked the FSC team out from under its feet. Joe Monis, who is leading the Ram batters at the plate with a .415 average, contributed to the early inning damage with three hits in six appearances. Tom Burkman, the third hurler used by the Rams, was given credit for the win.

Rams Take Lead

The Rams jumped to a 3-1 lead in the second inning and FSC tied it up in the third. The Bullpups took the lead in the seventh, 9-8, but the Rams came through with two in the ninth. With the losers behind in the last half of the ninth, 10-9, the Bullpups fought back with one run to tie it up. Then the Rams exploded for four runs in the eleventh to win the wild affair.

In Tuesday's game, Hoover went the entire route behind a five hit attack. Jim Sanders, the Rams' third baseman, was the big stick with two hits including a triple. Monis aided the attack with a double.

SPORTSTALK

By LARRY ADAMS

Meets over the Easter holiday and the first week of school following it should prove to be excellent indicators to the final outcome of this year's league meet in track.

For the past decade the College of the Sequoias Giants have dominated the meet but with added pressure from Fresno City College, Reedley and Coalinga the Giants might not win it.

The Rams are sure to take at least one place in each of the weight events. Harry Edwards has the best discus throw in the league, so far. Coalinga's Bob Peterson flips the discus better than 140 feet and the best any of the Sequoias men have done is a little over 130 feet.

The sprints should prove to be an excellent race between Fresno's Bill Hall, who has a time of 9.7; Coalinga's Bill Brinkworth, who has covered the distance in 9.7 and Sequoias Bill Puckett, who has also turned in a time of under 10 seconds. The same holds true in the 220 with Hall holding the best time of 21.5 seconds.

Sequoias will have the advantage in the hurdles, broad jump and pole vault but they will be pushed in almost all the other events.

Taft will host the meet in the first week of May and undoubtedly many new league records will be set.

Baseball Team To Play During Easter Holidays

With four consecutive wins under their belts the Fresno City College baseball team will get back into league action Saturday afternoon when they travel to Reedley to meet the Reedley College Tigers in a double header. The two teams are deadlocked with two league wins apiece.

The Rams batting attack will again be led by left fielder Joe Monis. The Fowlerite is leading the Rams in batting for the fourth consecutive week, with an average of .415.

A new member of the 400 club is catcher Ken Frankfort. His one hit in two trips against the Fresno State College junior varsity lifted his average to an even .400.

Jim Saunders, rapidly improving third baseman, boosted his hitting average to .340. His three triples lead the Rams in that department.

Rounding out the infield against the Tigers will be Pete Lango, second base, Tom Burkman, first base and Tom Jacobsen, shortstop. The other outfield positions will go to Glen Schmidt, who leads the Rams in runs batted in with 10, and either Dan Rameriz or Clark Bridgeman.

During Easter vacation the Ram baseball team will keep busy. Tuesday and Wednesday the Rams will take a tour of northern California. Tuesday they will meet the San Jose City College Jaguars and the following day will play the Vallejo Junior College nine.

The Rams' next home game will be Apr. 16 when they meet the Castle Air Force Base team from Atwater. The Castle squad defeated the Rams in their first meeting, 11-7.

Thinclads Travel To Los Angeles; Will Try UCLA, Reedley

By JOHNNY NOBLE

The Fresno City College Rams will journey to the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles to meet the UCLA Freshmen and the Reedley College Tigers tomorrow, in a tri-track and field meet.

Coach Ginsburg will accompany 15 "rambling Rams" who will be giving out all the effort they have to win this meet. The men going are: Bill Hall, Benney Benneyan, Percy Brown, Harry Edwards, Bill Giese, Jim Hart, Neil Hollenbeck, Gene Johnson, John Kruzic, Fernie Montanez, Jesse Ortiz, Cliff Pickens, Chet Rooters, Ron Tinkler, and Lamont Whittle.

Tennis Squad Meets Giants On FCC Court

The Fresno City College tennis team will host the College of the Sequoias netters today at 3 PM. The Ram netters will travel to Taft Apr. 19, to meet the Taft College Cougars for their second meeting of the season.

In their first meeting, COS downed the Rams 3-2. Because there was no entry in women's singles, the Rams were forced to forfeit this event, thus giving COS an easy win.

The Rams were again forced to forfeit another event in the match with the Coalinga College Falcons, Mar. 19, thus giving the Falcons the win of 3-2.

Jenice Potere of FCC was defeated by Regina Feigel from Coalinga in women's singles, by a score of 6-2, 6-3.

In men's singles, Murry Taylor replaced Tom Haverty of FCC because of illness and went on to down Mike Neel of the Falcons, 7-5, 6-3.

Susan Garret and Linda Eaton from Coalinga defeated Becky Arbrister and Gertie Frisch from the Ram netters in women's doubles, 6-4, 6-3.

Wayne Kernohan and Fran Ragghanti of FCC again captured another first place in men's doubles, by defeating Bob DeArmond and Jim Holdner from Coalinga, 4-6, 7-5, and 6-3.

Kernohan and Ragghanti have been showing aggressive net play, and could be strong contenders for the league title.

Fresno lost mixed doubles by forfeit.

Golfers Play Taft Today; Take Part In Tournament

The Fresno City College golf team will meet Taft College today in a preliminary match to the Northern California Golf Tournament at Monterey, Apr. 13-15.

The golf team tuned-up for the match by knocking off Coalinga College, 18-0, in Coalinga Friday. Jerry Weil and Norm Taber led the Rams with 77's.

Although all the men on the team have been turning in fine performances, Edwards, Hall, Rooters, Pickens, Johnson and Brown have shined individually with many first place honors in their events.

This will be the second time the Rams have met the Tigers. In their last meeting, a dual meet in Reedley, the Rams scored a close 69 1/2-59 1/2 victory. Outstanding marks were set in shot-put, 100 and 220 yard dashes, and the law hurdles.

Down Porterville

In the dual meet with the Porterville College Pirates Saturday, the Rams tallied with ten first places and ran up a score of 87 points, holding the Pirates to only 35.

Hall and Fernandez were the only double winners. Hall won the 100 yard dash, with a time of 9.9 seconds and 21.5 in the 220 yard dash. Fernandez ran the mile in 4:47.7 and the half mile in 2:00.8.

Johnson came back after his ankle injury to take a first place in the high jump, with a jump of six feet. The ankle injury has been giving him much trouble, and when he has completely recovered, should be good for many more first places.

Edwards Problems Solved

Edwards has been having trouble keeping in the ring after his throw, but now thinks that he has discovered his difficulty and will really let the discus fly.

Much public opinion is lying around loose that Hall is having a problem getting a fast start out of the blocks, but after watching him in practice have decided that his fine running in the stretch makes up for the slow start.

The Rams will travel to Santa Barbara Apr. 16, for the annual Easter Relays.

Junior colleges from all over California will be in competition to take home the honor of the winning school. The Rams have high hopes of winning this meet; along with them go all the wishes of the Ram fans.
