A New Christmas Story: The Body In The Store

Christmas time has a habit of bringing forth stories, anecdotes and jokes, not excepting this editor. So, here's a Christmas story.

The setting was a department store. Oh, any department store will do; they're just about the same around Christmas

Well, this day, as well as all the rest in the Christmas season, promised to be a full day. Lots of business, lots of customers, lots of gifts and, most of all, lots of money. The crowd surged against the doors at a quarter of nine. At nine, a wary clerk flipped the latch on the door and the herd stampeded in. Up and down the aisles they went, shouting, pulling, pushing, grabbing, quarreling. To put it in mild words, it was a mess.

The doors closed at six, the weary clerks and the multitude of managers staggered home. The clean up crew sauntered in. Now after such a day the rubble on the floor was quite an accumulation. It was quite a while, therefore, before the janitors came upon a body under the papers. Now it isn't every day that janitors find bodies, so the head janitor called the head manager and the head manager called the head vice-president, who in turn notified the president of the company. They all came down to the store, but none could identify the body.

The police were called in, but despite a thorough investigation, the identity of the cadaver still remained unknown.

The FBI took a hand in the matter and finally came up with the answer. The person trampled and lost under the feet of the Christmas shoppers "as far as could be made out was someone called—Christ."

Best Wishes Are Extended

As vacation time approaches, students can hardly wait for the Christmas vacation to begin so they can forget about homework, examinations and book reports. And they can look forward to ski trips, good food and gifts.

Many peple miss the point that the Christmas season is the time to preserve peace on earth and good will towards

On this note the Rampage staff wishes a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all students, faculty members and administrators.

Beats Don't Fight To Stay Sane

(ACP)—Illinois Wesleyan University ARGUS does a roundup clude the departments of guidof thought on the Beat Generation (from such sources as HOR-IZON, LOOK, THE REPORTER), then adds this view:

Nobody pretends that it's not a constant fight to stay sane in this complicated world, but one has to believe that it's a fight worth making. Who is to enlighten those complacent, unquestioning ones among us who "walk down an elm-shaded street to a beautiful church" with ne'er a thought as to the meaning of the convention and dogma they think they uphold, who, if not "mature," "responsible" (yes, even "sensible") citizens who, unlike the Beats, care what happens to

The Beats have chosen not to fight. Perhaps they believe that progressive society is hopeless, beyond reform. All of us get fed up (a South Sea island shimmers far away). We are confounded, thwarted, and all but paralyzed by doubts as to the final meaning of it all.

City Schools Use

Several departments of the Fresno City Schools use the facilities of Fresno City College's University Avenue campus.

The city schools also is using another quonset hut, Q-2, for miscellaneous storage.

The administrative offices in the city schools began using office space at the city college in the fall semester of the last school year.

Recent meetings of the Fresno City Board of Education have indicated that a new city schools headquarters building may be built to relieve the present overcvercrowded building on Mariposa Street. The overcrowding resulted in the use of FCC facili-

The roving reporter, feeling the spirit of Christmas and the New Year forthcoming, asked six FCC students a question appropriate for these holidays.

The question was: "What do you want for Christmas?"

Here are their hopeful an-

Joe Lobbia, engineering major, "I want a new '59 Impala because my old car has a squeak in the trunk, behind the jack, right above the spare tire, and underneath the extra hubcap I carry in case of a disastrous emergency. I can't stand squeaks!"

Jean Cape, general major, "I would like two bronze life guards to use as bookends as the two I have now have lost their summer tans and marvelous physiques. I really hate to replace them but a must is a must!"

Sally Howell, general major, "My wishes for a Merry Christmas for me are available in my head but not for permissible use in this newspaper. They are completely moral, however!"

Marilyn Bartlett, speech therapy major, "I want a promise from my boy friend. No more black eyes when I say 'promises, promises.' (Marilyn probably wouldn't mind a small gift too, Roger!)"

"For Christmas I would like evervone to remember that it is not the gift or the price of the gift that is important. It is the sentiments involved in the giving."

Al Cunningham, agriculture major, "I would like everyone to have a very Merry Christmas and return to school in good shape after all of the New Year's celebrations. Retain some of your enthusiasm and spirit for next semester's activities!"

Teahouse Of August Moon' Eye-Opener By KAREN McDOUGALD

A single word is all that is needed to describe the John Patrick play "Teahouse Of The August Moon." Contrast is the adjective that describes the three act play presented in the Fresno City College auditorium Friday and Saturday.

The scenery and actions of the play were some of the most obvious contrasts in the play. The sparse, dank, moody scenes contrasted with the Teahouse, the favorite of the audience. Its coral-colored roof aglow with multicolored Japanese lanterns, its handpainted screens and laquered tables, all made the Teahouse scene complete. The deftness in which the stage hands were able to remove this scene and bring it forth at the appointed time was astonishing.

Wrestling, Dancing

A definite contrast was the vigorous wrestling match, realistically portrayed by two heavy, ponderous students, against the delicate, fragile beauty of the dances by the geisha girl, Lotus Blossom, and the usherettes.

Even with the serpent lifting its ugly face, in the form of poor acoustics, many of the actors were still able to vanquish the handicap and go on to complete a fine performance.

Sakini Relaxed

Arthur Miyashiro as Sakini, with his relaxed manner, his audience contact, and his ability to throw his voice, was one of the favorites of the evening.

Sid Mosesian as the hapless psychiatrist was able to bring forth a freshness which was needed during the second act.

Dave Ruggeri as Colonel Purdy was another favorite personality. With his virile voice and his dynamic actions, he definitely made his appearance felt.

Personal Thanks

"I wish to thank each person concerned with the play," stated Clyde Sumpter, director of the "Teahouse Of The August Moon," "especially those who portrayed the various roles, the members of the stage crews who worked tirelessly for many weeks in advance, and the different businesses that gave us properties.

"My special thanks to the Fresno Bee and The Rampage for the conclusive, report on the events leading up to the play and the production itself."

Just about everybody likes to eat, but probably there's nobody fonder of food than those rough weeks, will probably be ready to and ready guys who are lumberjacks in the Catskills in upstate New York. In fact, eating is undoubtedly the most popular sport in that part of the country, and the Christmas season is the time of year when these unpolished Connoisseurs almost outdo even themselves.

But last Christmas Eve, Moose almost met his match.

It seems that one Henry (Nibbling) Nelson from Brookshire, England, was spending the holiday with relatives at a Catskill resort. It also seems he was quite fond of eating and very proficient at it.

Well, naturally word got around about Nibbling's appetite. However, to look at him you'd think he was half-starved; he weighed 109 pounds.

Moose, obviously jealous, challenged Nibbling to an eating contest for Christmas Eve at a neu- All-Star Back tral site, The Whispering Pines Steak House. A whole floor was cleared, a table was reserved, ten waiters were used and one Duncan Hines was called upon to referee.

BY MONTE HORNER

The Fresno City College Rams came from behind in the final ten minutes to beat the inspired San Bernardino Junior College Indians 78 to 71 last Friday night. The contest was played at the Yosemite Junior High School gymnasium.

Over COS Squad Hartnell

The Fresno City College Rams smothered the Hartnell Junior College Panthers 94 to 66 last Saturday night in the Yosemite Junearned their sixth win in seven starts in the non-conference basketball game.

Ram forward Frank Johnson was too much for the Panthers. Johnson poured in 31 points as the Rams turned in their season's highest scoring performance. Johnson had plenty of assistance from Darnel Mikel, Chet Bishop and Chuck Lowe. Lee Stark turned in a stellar performance but had a little trouble in the point department.

The Panthers tried gamely to make a close battle of it but the Rams pulled away in the second half. The halftime score was 40-34 in Fresno's favor.

The Rams were red-hot in the second half and built up an 85-53 lead. Fresno reserves got in some valuable playing time in the last half due to the large lead.

Coach Joe Kelly substituted freely in the second half but the Panthers could not close the gap.

Jerry Kanada turned in a brilliant performance for the Panthers as he netted 20 points to lead the losers. Kanada scored consistently on corner shots. SCORING:
