Slaves are now being auctioned off in front of the student center as a part of FCC's United Givers Plan Drive.

This is the one cooperative effort of the sophomore and freshman classes during this week's UGP events. Today the sophomore class has started its auto smash-a-thon which will continue until 2 PM today. It will run again tomorrow from 10 AM until 2 PM. The object is to see which class can do the most damage to an auto body with a sledge hammer. The cost of this is three swings for a quarter.

The sophomore class also would like to show that this is a better end for old cars than they would get out on the highway. Their slogan is "Promote highway safety, and aid UGP, at the sophomore auto smash-a-thon."

The class that raises the most money will be presented a trophy, and the losing class president will receive a "punishment" designated by a special committee of members of each classes' executive committee. Both will take place at the Christmas Formal, Dec. 7.

Clubs also have been invited to join in the drive. The club which shows the most participation in the events and receives the most votes of students donating to the UGP drive will be presented a symbol of victory.

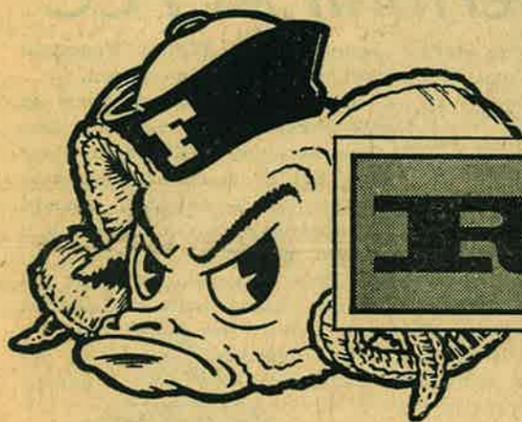

The winning class will be the one that contributes the largest amount of money, through its events, and by keeping the amount collected for each class in different containers at the six official student council collection stations. A continuous record of the drive will be posted in front of the student center.

Tomorrow the plans call for special events by each class and a climactic noon record hop.

Sam The Ram Back at FCC

Sam is back!

After a whole season of football, FCC finally has a ram. It seems that several weeks ago, after hearing that our regular mascot had seemingly disappeared into the Sierra Nevada Mountains, KMAK disc jockey Bob Morgan pledged that he would get Fresno City College a ram.

Morgan then held tryouts to find the most talented ram for the job. It took a couple of weeks, but one was found and as it happened this most talented animal belongs to a student here at this school.

Sam was presented to the student body for the first time at the noon rally for the last football game a couple of weeks ago. He was then boarded at the Fresno County Junior Museum for the night to prepare for his big debut.

Saturday night at the COS-FCC football game Sam showed his patriotism by leading the football team in at halftime after spending a strenuous first half dragging cheerleaders and rally men around the field.

Bids Available

Bids will be available next week for the Christmas Formal, which will be held Dec. 7 in the Rainbow Ballroom.

Associated Men and Women Students are sponsoring the annual affair.

"HOLD DOWN THAT RAM!" is the cry, as (L-R) Jan Clemens, F. J. Dolin and a Rally Club member try to keep the Ram in position. (Frey Photo)

CJCSGA Discusses Major Issues

Joining the National Student Association, redivision of the state junior college association, and political speakers on campus, were three major issues discussed at the California Junior College Student Government Association convention last week.

The issue of joining NSA will be on the ballot at the next election, Dec. 17, at FCC.

Student body president Fred Faieta announced that despite negative action by the state conference on a resolution endorsing FCC's joining NSA, FCC is empowered to join by the regional association, the Central California Junior College Student Government Association, and in the wording of previous legislation of both the state and regional student government groups, did give approval of this action.

At the CJCSGA conference held in Asilomar, FCC proposed a bill stating that it should join NSA for a trial period of one year. This to see if NSA would be an aid to the junior colleges of the state. The Fresno motion was tabled at a workshop meeting of the conference. The reason FCC proposed itself for this plan was that Faieta had been working on the NSA project since last spring's state convention, when the Rams

CAMPUS FASHIONS—NO SWEAT!

The manner in which students attire themselves has long been a favorite topic for campus editorials, and rightly so. Because inevitably there are a few individuals who dress in a manner which does not do justice to, or reflect the personality of the school. FCC is certainly no exception.

Psychologists tell us that they can judge a person fairly accurately by the way he dresses. They point out that most of us dress in an effort to identify ourselves with a certain group or clique. Those who wear the button-down collars and the tapered casuals identify themselves with the "ivy-league" set. Those sporting slacks and sports coats cast themselves with the "smart set," a la Playboy magazine. Others who wear white shirts and ties along with the breast-pocket pen like to be identified with the "business clan."

Probably 95 per cent of us fall into one of the above categories, or one of their sub-categories. All three represent accepted attire on most college campuses.

But how about the other five per cent? The insecure radicals who dress as though they wished to be associated with some fanatic group, or in some cases, with no group at all.

This is not meant to be taken for an endorsement of conformity; it is merely to point out that certain individuals, in their efforts to obtain "individuality," or to upset the status-quo, are insulting their school and their classmates.

Some of these come to school attired in costumes consisting of baggy sweat shirts, white (originally) Levis, and dirty tennis shoes. They probably wish to be recognized with the "surfin' set," but someone should inform them that at the present time there is not even a pond, much less an ocean, on this campus. Others sport oft-patched football jerseys in an attempt to be identified with the "Mr. Touchdown" image.

There is much to be said for people who try to achieve individualism, but there are far better ways of doing it than by wearing rags to school.

Protective Maintenance Saves Dollars For College Motorists

The college student's automobile, whether it be a 15 horse-power "bug" or a 409 horse-power "bomb," represents a major item in his budget.

If his faithful four-wheeler goes hay-wire, the repair bills often fall into three figures, which can be disastrous to a well balanced budget.

With the coming of winter, the problem of car maintenance becomes more acute. There are, however, a few basic procedures which, if followed faithfully, can reduce wear and tear on a car, as well as keeping the chances of a major breakdown to a minimum.

1. Add a well known anti-freeze to the radiator whenever temperatures may fall below the freezing point.
2. Carry tire chains whenever traveling in the mountains or when ice or snow can be expected.
3. Be sure windshield wipers and defrosters are functioning and in good repair.
4. Check for muffler or other exhaust leaks. With windows rolled up, odorless carbon monoxide gas leaking into the passenger compartment may be fatal.
5. Change oil every 1000 miles or every 60 days, whichever comes first. Oil becomes contaminated much more quickly in cold weather.
6. Don't race a cold engine. Mechanics warn that this causes excessive engine wear, since an engine is not properly lubricated until it has been operating for several minutes.

7. A good coat of wax, especially if the car must sit outside at night, will add years to an automobile's finish.

These few rules, if followed faithfully and coupled with a program of sound driving habits, should guarantee a ride to school for several semesters to come.

Fresno Chorus To Perform At FCC

Fresnans will have an opportunity to see the Fresno Community Chorus's first major musical event of the Christmas season next Sunday with a concert in the Fresno City College auditorium beginning at 3 P.M.

The program will be Charpentier's Midnight Mass and Ron Nelson's "The Christmas Story."

Nelson's work is of special interest because it is the first major choral work of this young American composer, who now is an assistant professor of music at Brown University.

Nelson's cantata was written in 1958 and is based on the 17th Century setting of the Christmas story by Heinrich Schulz. The Fresno performance will be narrated by Gene Wright, a Fresno police sergeant. William Fearstein will be the baritone soloist.

Charpentier's mass is based on old French carols and will feature as soloists Elizabeth Macy and Esther Martinez, sopranos; Gladys Peter, contralto; Richard Patzkowsky, tenor, and John Donaldson, baritone.

Nicola Iacovetti, beginning his second season with the chorus, will conduct the concert.

The admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

FSC Education Students Must File Early

All teacher credential candidates planning to enroll for the fall 1963 semester at Fresno State College and who will have completed 60 semester units of college credit by July 1, 1963, may qualify to work toward teaching credentials under current requirements before July 1, 1963.

Candidates must file an official application for admission with the Fresno State College admissions office. They also have to file a teacher education folder with Dr. Richard K. Sparks, chairman of the division of education at FSC.

Admissions application forms and teacher education folders will not be distributed to the junior college counseling offices until February 1, 1963 or after. Dr. Sparks urges students to not initiate applications until after February 1.

Rally Club Tells Plans

The Rally Club, which meets every Wednesday at noon, will soon be making plans for the coming basketball season, according to Sara Dougherty, club advisor.

"With the continued service of the pep girls and cheerleaders," she adds, "we hope to encourage FCC students to strongly support the Ram basketball team at all the games."

Mrs. Dougherty also stated that the noon rallies will continue to be held in the social hall to promote spirit and to keep interest high during the basketball season.

Too Pampered?

Japanese Student Casts Critical Eye At Women

"American women do not know how to make their men happy! They have no idea of how to make a man's home his castle, or make him feel important."

These are some of the observations of Satoru Semitsu, a graduate of the University of Tokyo, who is studying political science at FCC this year. The personable Semitsu, although his command of the English language is weak, is outspoken on the above topic.

"In Japan," he pointed out, "a woman's great desire is to be a good wife to her husband and see that he is made happy in his home. When a Japanese bride is ready for marriage, she is well prepared in the fine arts of beauty such as flower arrangement, cooking, tea ceremony, and sewing."

One of the reasons for the deplorable condition, he explains, lies in the fact that American women are too demanding.

"Everything here seems to be done in favor of the female," he complains. "They walk before the men, are served before them, and are always given the most comfortable seats in buses, trains and planes. But despite all this pampering, look how many divorce cases are awarded in favor of the woman!"

Semitsu plans to transfer to Fresno State College next year where he will complete the requirements for a master's degree in political science, with a minor in international law. He then will return to his native country to accept a university teaching post.

"The thing that amazed me

most, however, was that everywhere I went people were speaking English . . .!"

In his studies of political science, Semitsu has obviously learned some of the fundamentals in the art of diplomacy.

"My most satisfying experience since coming to FCC has been discovering the number of skilled and highly qualified instructors who teach here!"

FCC-FSC Clubs Combine To Present Variety Show

An international world show entitled "Around the World in Two Hours" will be presented Dec. 1 at 8 P.M. in the Fresno City College auditorium, according to Lubberta Mearnsing, one of FCC's foreign students from Holland and the director of the production.

Fresno City and Fresno State Colleges have combined their efforts in working on the production with more than 50 students from 18 different countries.

Acts will be performed from the various lands and will include a bamboo dance from the Philippines, the Limbo from Trinidad, comedy skits from Persia, love skits from Skurd, a tribe of the Near East, folk songs from Jamaica and Thailand and many more.

Tickets are available at Hockett and Cowan and Gospel Music Stores. Tomorrow is the last day to buy tickets. The price for Fresno City or Fresno State College students is 75 cents and $1.25 for the public.

Spring Counseling Arrives!

"The official date for spring counseling for returning students was Nov. 26 to Dec. 17," states Archie Bradshaw, dean of the counseling department.

"However," he adds, "counseling has been going on for some time because of the large number of students that each counselor has."

According to the Fresno City College catalogue, counseling for new students begins Jan. 30 and will extend through Feb. 1. This will be the final opportunity for any students to be counseled.

"Registration will be Jan. 30 through Feb. 1," says Bradshaw.

Students who will be graduated this June will get a priority in registration. Next in sequence would be the second-year students.

"The remaining students will follow in the order in which they sign up," he adds.

George Holstein, dean of admissions and records, urges all students who have been counseled to go to the admissions office Monday or soon thereafter to fill out their routing sheet and pick up their line card for registration.

Says Holstein, "The line card will determine a student's priority in registration. The sooner it is picked up, the sooner he will be registered."

"Students who have not been counseled are to pick up their routing sheet in the admissions office and go immediately to their counselor to receive counseling," adds Holstein. "Then they are to bring their routing sheet and the pre-registration card to the admissions office where they will receive their line card."

The dance is sponsored by the student council with the help of the two classes. Jim Baum is coordinator between the dance committee and KYNO.

Booths have been set up on all parts of the campus and students can contribute to the class of his choice, besides the designation of which club has been most active in the events. The night school drive will end tonight, while day students still have all day tomorrow to give to the "Harvest of Miracles."

Other important action at the conference included a move that the state association be redivided into nine divisions, instead of the present three. This was done to give each school a bigger voice in regional matters. The central region of which Fresno is a member will lose two schools, Santa Barbara City College and Barstow Junior College, both of whom are not really in our geographic area, but who joined to get a better voice in regional and state operations.

Still more action asked all schools to approach their administrations on their right to have controversial political speakers on campus.

Members of the student council who attended the conference besides Faleta were Fred Martin, student body vice president; Jo Beth Jackson, ASB treasurer; Janice Jackson, associated women students president, and Jim Turple, representative at large. Student body government advisors Miss Doris Deakins and Joseph King also attended the three day conclave.

The next regional conference will be in Porterville in March, and the next state conference is in Disneyland on April 17, 18 and 19.

"We would like to see a lot of women students volunteer for the slave sale," stated Bower. "I hope the male students on campus will come ready to buy one or two of the female book carriers," concluded Bower.

Plea is Out For Candidates In Election

"Students interested in running for a student body office may pick up a petition in the admissions office Dec. 3," according to Doris Deakins, dean of women.

"Petitions must be signed and returned to the office by Dec. 7," she adds.

Grade Requirement

In order to qualify for student body president or student body vice president, a candidate must have a 2.5 or better grade average. To be eligible for any of the other offices, a 2.0 or better grade average is necessary.

The student body offices that must be filled for the spring semester are president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, AMS president, AWS president and ten representatives-at-large.

Run-off Date

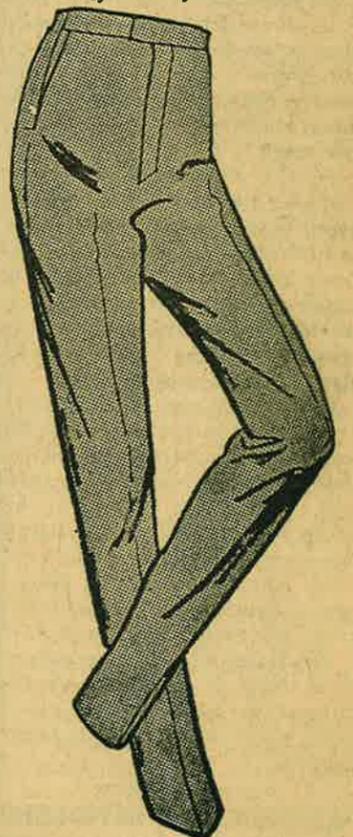

Miss Deakins added that the nominations assembly will be held Dec. 11 and will be followed by the election Dec. 17. Run-offs will be held on Dec. 19 if necessary.

Fred Faleta, student body president, asked that at least two people should run for each office.

Powerful FCC Rams Rout Gades Muster 6-6 Finale Tie With COS

Turney, Hughey Spark Cagers To First Win

By TOM WALLS

If Monday night's performance is an indication of things to come, then FCC's basketball opponents have cause for concern.

The Rams' 69-40 trouncing of the Bakersfield College Renegades was probably one of the most impressive openers in several seasons for Coach Joe Kelly's quintet.

Bakersfield made a game of it in the first quarter, but gave way before the end of the first half to the Rams' superior depth and balance. They led 31-19 at intermission.

Turney Tallies

Fresno was led by 6-7 forward Rich Turney who tanked 20 points and grabbed 22 rebounds. Turney was also a standout on defense, blocking several key shots and intercepting a number of passes. He teamed with freshman Lonnie Hughey, another hoopster who towers over the six and one-half foot mark, to form an air-tight defense under the basket, forcing the Renegades to shoot from long range.

Hughey also contributed 11 points and showed remarkable poise for a freshman playing in his first collegiate contest.

Hot Heads?

Tempers flared midway through the second half, when Bob Martin, the Rams' husky 6-5 center, took one too many elbows to the rib cage. Martin was ejected for bouncing a Bakersfield player off the floor, but the point was well made. Members of both teams were noticeably more reserved in their "extra curricular activities" following the incident.

Bob Stolz led the Renegades with 9 points.

FCC veterans John Loyear, Steve Mazzone, Martin and Billy Hicks drew praise for their solid play, while freshman Ken Critchlow proved to be a heads-up defensive player and showed a fine jump shot from beyond the 25 foot mark.

Subs Shine

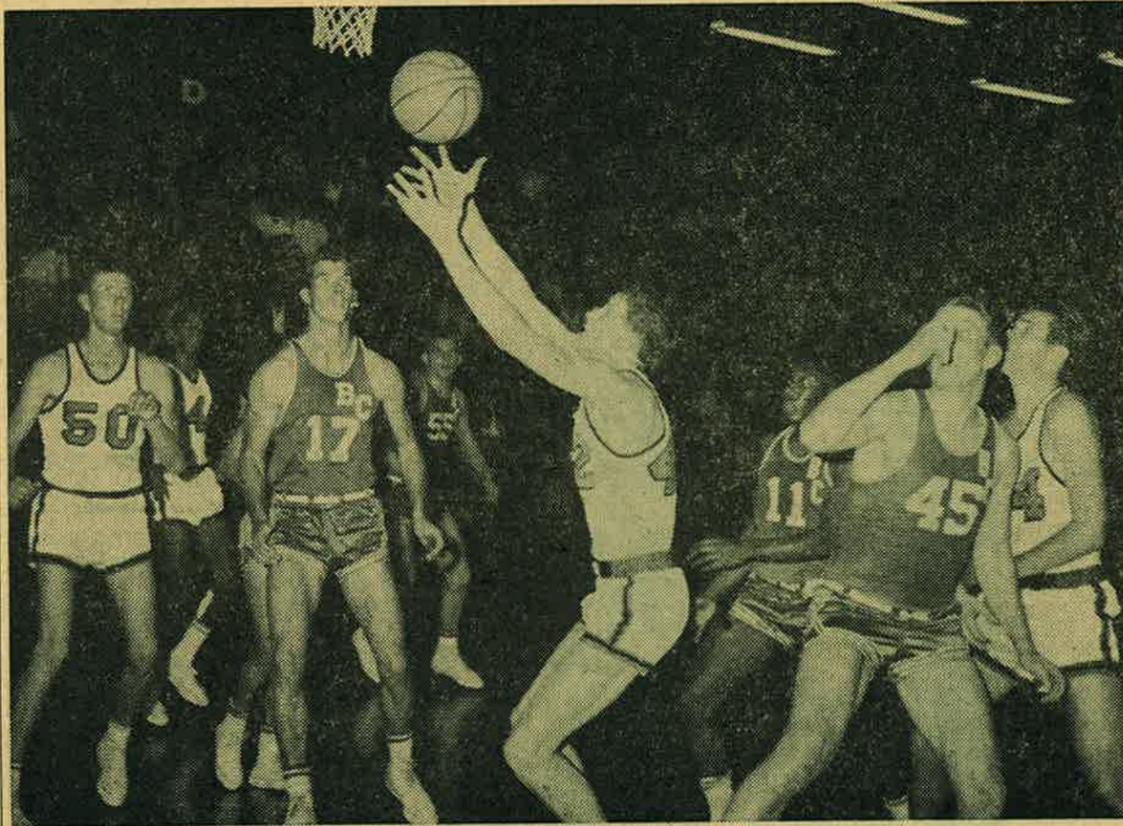

George Monreal, diminutive guard standout from Dos Palos, and Chris Heintz, formerly of McLane High, also saw plenty of action as Kelly took advantage of the lopsided second half score to give his charges some valuable playing experience.

Coach Kelly said the first game looked good in spots and that the Rams were surprised by Bakersfield's zone defense. Kelly also said that he was happy with his bench strength and praised Heintz for a great substitute role.

He lauded Hughey for his defensive play and Turney for a great job under the boards.

The Rams journeyed to Bakersfield today to participate in the Bakersfield Invitational Tournament which will run through tomorrow.

Coeffield Wins

Don Coeffield of Sierra was the individual winner but San Jose had five runners in the top 10 to finish a solid winner.

Frank Martinez, who has been FCC's top runner throughout the season, ran far back in the field of 98 during the first part of the race and could get back only as far as 17th place.

Other runners for Fresno were Ruper Snetzinger, 26th; Curtis Craig, 44th; and Ed Cox, 46th.

Poloists Winless

While finishing ahead of COS ended the cross country season with a note of success, there was no such luck for the water polo team.

Coach Franz Kools' poloists, plagued by a shortage of talent throughout the season, couldn't find the win column. The final Valley Conference standings show FCC at the bottom with a 0-10 record.

Co-Champions

Modesto and Stockton finished in a tie for first place in the conference with 8-2 records and Sacramento was third at 6-4.

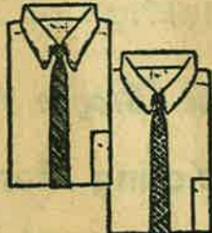

Modesto will be one of the regional representatives in the state play-off at Foothill Junior College Dec. 1 along with Foothill.

The two teams qualified at the regional play-off at Sacramento.
