Annual Christmas Formal Tomorrow

Sophs Win Over Frosh In UGP Drive

Sophomore class is the winner of the interclass competition in FCC's United Givers Plan Drive.

The amount of the donations for each class was sophomore class $83.00 to $45.59 for the freshman class. The total for the drive, including donations from clubs and the evening division was $239.84.

The winning club in the interclub competition was Phi Beta Lambda, who won according to a combination of student votes, and a vote of student council members.

The winning trophies will be presented at the Christmas Formal, Friday, Dec. 7.

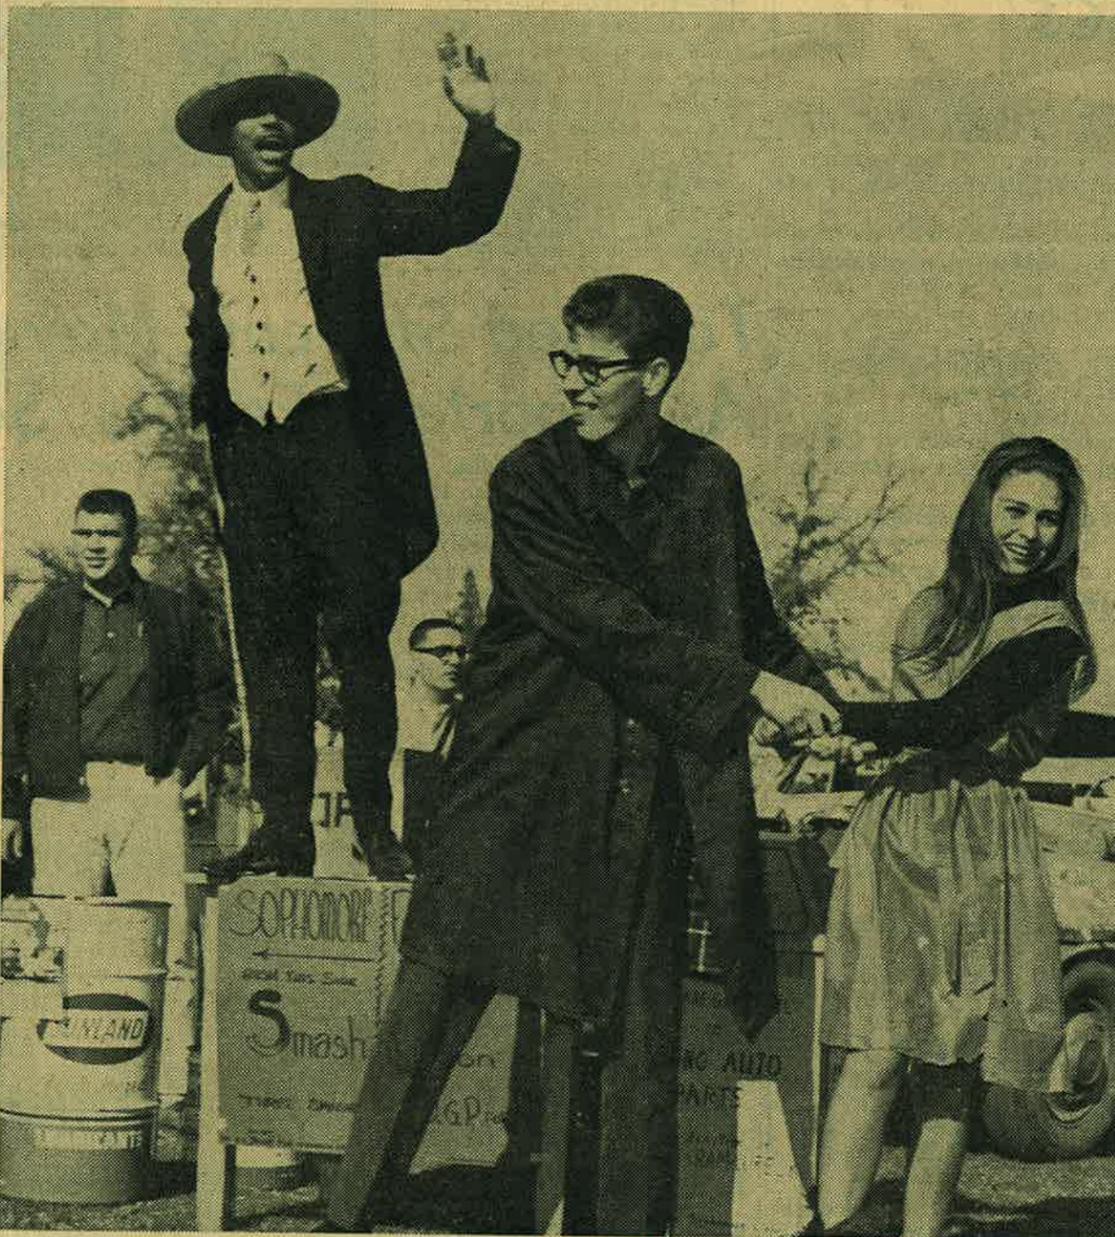

The biggest event of the drive was a noon dance starring KYNO's Sam Schwan. This also was the largest money raising project of the week. The committee in charge of the dance consisted of Mitchell Bower, chairman, and Jim Baum, coordinator between the sponsoring student council and Schwan.

The sophomore auto smashathon resulted in complete destruction of a 1951 Plymouth. When the wrecking wagon removed the remains, the doors had to be wired shut, all four tires were flat, and the roof was not completely attached to the car.

The co-chairmen of this event were Ann Hangelstein and Dorothy Feldmen.

The classes got together for one event, the slave sale. Jim Scott and Howard Saiki arranged the participation of the girls, with Inman Perkins as auctioneer.

The general chairman of the event was student body President Fred Faleta, and sponsoring student council members Bower, booths; vice president Fred Martin, interclub competition; commissioner of publicity Linda Rigin, publicity; and commissioner of student life Bob Weinstein, public relations.

Hollywood Orchestra To Entertain

The traditional Christmas formal dance, sponsored by AMS and AWS will be presented tomorrow night from 8 PM to 1 AM at the Rainbow Ballroom. The theme of the dance will be "An Old-Fashioned Christmas."

According to Doris Deakins, advisor of AWS, "The Christmas formal is considered to be the biggest dance of the year."

"Keith Williams and his orchestra from Hollywood will provide music during the evening and will also give away door prizes of record albums," Miss Deakins said.

The dress for the affair will be either a tuxedo or a suit for men, and women must wear a cocktail dress or a formal.

The admission is free, but students must secure a bid by tomorrow in the corridor of the student center from 11 AM to 1 PM.

Debate Tourney To Be Held On Campus

Ten college debate teams will participate in the First Annual Team Championships at FCC December 14 and 15.

Franz Weinschenk, director of forensics, said six students will represent FCC in the debate tournament.

He said all schools must enter at least one team of six students and all students must compete in each of the three events—debate, oratory and interpretative reading.

Five Debate Rounds

There will be five rounds of debate and three rounds each of oratory and reading beginning at 2 PM Friday, December 14.

Students will be scored on the basis of a combination score of ratings and rankings. A student may still help his team even if he loses, but puts forth a creditable performance.

Students representing FCC in the tournament are Richard Anderson, Ron Manuto, Robert Rogers, Don Petrucci, Karen Hayes and Jo Beth Jackson.

Public Invited

Colleges participating in the tournament are the University of the Pacific, Stockton College, Palomar College, Pasadena City College, Saint Mary's College, College of San Mateo, Sacramento City College, Fresno State College and FCC.

Weinschenk said the public is invited to attend the tournament which will be held in the administration building. There is no

Religious Oil Paintings Set Theme For Annual Christmas Program

Famous religious and nativity oil paintings will set the theme for Fresno City College's annual Christmas program to be presented in the school auditorium on Dec. 19 and 20. The program will be held at 8 P.M. on Dec. 19, while the matinee will be presented at 11 AM on Dec. 20.

The 50 voice choir, under the direction of C. Lowell Spencer, choral director at FCC, will sing a variety of songs all showing the different phases and moods of Christmas music.

Classical selections will include several choruses, solos and recitatives from Handel's Messiah. Then turning to contemporary styling, the choir will do a few numbers from "The Christmas Story" by Ron Nelson. There will also be some of the traditional romantic Christmas carols.

Soloists in the program doing various carols and parts from the Messiah are Margaret Reta, Linda McDonald, Dave Nelson, Pat Armour, Leonard Hoskins, Bertha Swanson, Inez Marta, and Mike Lewis.

Richard Cencilbaugh will be organist for the two performances.

Evening Division Schedules 144 Night Classes For Spring

Fresno City College's evening division has scheduled 144 night classes for the spring semester.

Robert M. Kelly, the division dean, said they will include 66 in the technical and industrial division, 58 in the letters, arts, and science division, and 20 in the business division.

Registration for currently enrolled students for the 1963 spring semester will take place on Jan. 29 and 30. Registration line cards for currently enrolled students will be issued in the evening division between Jan. 2-24. This line card will admit students to the class enrollment section on a first come—first served basis.

Students may obtain registration forms at this time. Each student will expedite his registration if he will return the completed forms to the enrolling station at the time indicated on the line card, Kelly said.

Registration can be completed by appearing at the enrollment station at the time and date indicated on the line card.

All other students are to contact the evening division office between Jan. 2-24, at which time they will be given line cards that have a time and date subsequent to continuing students. This group will be given line card priority.

Summer Sessions For '63 Receive Board Approval

Chances for a summer session at Fresno City College took a turn for the better last week when the board of education set July 1 as the starting date for summer sessions at most schools, "including Fresno City College."

Although a program and cost estimates have not yet been received, Assistant Superintendent J. C. Trombetta said that it is probable that the administration will be able to finance the session.

A campaign was launched by several students last semester for a summer session, but the cost ($20,000) was more than the district could absorb. The petitioners said that a summer program should be initiated because the session at Fresno State College was too costly, and because there were not enough lower division courses offered.

The petitioners are hopeful that receiving the board approval was the last obstacle to the problem.

Letter To The Editor

HE FEELS 'GOOD' IN RAGS

Dear Mr. Walls:

Despite your adamant denial that your editorial on campus fashions appearing in the Nov. 29 edition of the Rampage was not intended as an endorsement of conformity, I fail to see how you can logically draw this conclusion by the contents of your story.

Mr. Walls, some of us don't dress to identify with a certain group or click, no matter what the esteemed psychologists may say. Some of us, although we may woefully lack in numbers and are subject to your ridicule and scorn, dress to identify us with ourselves.

You see, some of us think highly of our individual tastes, thoughts, ideas, etc. We feel that the appropriate dress for any occasion, no matter what the others may be wearing, is what we feel "good" in, whether it be the latest Ivy League extravaganza from Coffee's or a pair of soiled jeans and worn tennis shoes.

And what is wrong with wearing the aforementioned "rags?" Are you naive enough to identify me with what I wear? I really don't feel a part of a fanatic group when I dress in a sloppy way—being a member of your conformed set is probably the most fanatical thing I can think of.

But the point is becoming buried in sweeping generalizations—my point is that I am not trying to achieve individualism by wearing certain clothes—they are worn with absolutely no thought as to the particular image they portray—in point of fact, my shoddy clothes are worn because I really don't give a d—n what others may think.

Talented Students May Earn Units As Reporters, Editors, Secretaries

Phillip Smith, journalism instructor and advisor to the Rampage, announced that students who wish to enter the field during the spring semester may do so, even though they have not taken the corresponding fall courses.

"The courses offered during the spring are well balanced," Smith said, "and are designed to give the student an introduction to the various fields of journalism and supply him with the groundwork to enable him to pursue the field of his choice."

Spring semester courses include Journalism 4, newswriting, a three unit course designed to orient the student with the processes of newswriting, including such topics as style, interviewing techniques, and specialized reporting plus a survey of editing, make-up and typography.

Also available, Smith said, is a course entitled "Survey of News" (Journalism 2).

"There are no textbooks required for the two unit course," Smith added, "since students study the news in magazines and newspapers as well as by watching and listening to various radio and television programs."

Students interested in gaining experience in actual newspaper production, Smith pointed out, may do so by taking the Project Journalism, Journalism 5, course (2 units). Students in this class are involved in the various aspects of publishing The Rampage, the campus weekly.

"There is no prerequisite for the course," Smith explained, "but I strongly recommend that students who sign up for the course also register for the reporting (Journalism 4) class, especially if they are interested in working as a reporter."

Smith emphasized, however, that there are several positions open for persons interested in secretarial or clerical work as well as photography, advertising, circulation and other nonreporting jobs.

"It would not be necessary," Smith explained, "for persons working in these capacities to take the reporting class."

Smith invited interested students to discuss the program with him in his office, located in Room S-212 of the Student Union Building. His office is open each afternoon from 1 to 4:30 PM.

Modern Dance Class Popularity Increases

By SHARON WIESER

Do you feel like a seven-footed elephant on the dance floor? Have you often admired the grace and confidence in other people while they're dancing?

If you go to a dance and just stand back to watch the dancers, there are three types you may notice. There is the good dancer, who keeps in time with the music, has confidence in himself, and looks like he's enjoying dancing without putting any effort into it. Then there's the average dancer, who has a few, but lacks a few of these qualities. And of course, who's left, but the poor dancer?

Tortured Partner

It's more interesting to look at this one's partner. His face looks just plain miserable and his feet look worse.

Do you feel that you want to learn to dance or improve your dancing? Many people do. A lot of money is paid out to dancing studios all over the country by people who would give anything to be a good, or at least a fair dancer.

But why spend money when you can gain half of a unit instead? We have an excellent dance instructor on our own campus, Mrs. Sara Dougherty.

Six Years Here

Mrs. Dougherty has taught dancing at Fresno City College for six years and has instructed dancing for 10 years before she came to our campus.

Social, modern and folk dancing are the basic types of dancing that Mrs. Dougherty teaches, with 8 classes in all.

"I enjoy teaching people to dance," says Mrs. Dougherty. "Not only is it a lot of fun, but it satisfies me to see the progress of the dancers. I've seen many people who had never danced before become good dancers."

Kelly Lists Night Classes

in the chronological order in which they requested them.

Students who do not have a line card to register on the scheduled registration nights will be admitted and allowed to register, but only after all students who have a line card are enrolled.

Technical and industrial night classes will include 27 apprenticeship courses. The other evening subjects in this division, Kelly said, will be in aircraft, auto mechanics, body and fender, drafting, electricity, electronics, engineering, fire science, industrial education, law enforcement, machine shop, plumbing, vocational nursing, and welding.

Varied Courses

The letters, arts, and science division will offer night classes in anthropology, art, astronomy, biology, chemistry, economics, English, geography, geology, history, health education, mathematics, music, philosophy, physical education, physics, political science, psychology, Russian, sociology, Spanish and speech.

The business division night classes will be in such fields as accounting, business machines, data processing, legal secretarial training, marketing, and real estate.

The time; Fall, the year 2000.

The place; Fresno City College, enrollment—21,500.

The scene, Outside Bungalow 36, moments after dismissal of intermediate metaphysics class.

Enter; student (Jonathan) and friend (Edgar).

Jonathan (gazing around campus) "Say, you know Edgar, my dad tells me this was really a beautiful campus back around the mid-19 hundreds."

Edgar: (also gazing around campus) "Yes, I've heard that too. They say there used to be beautiful green lawns all over with huge shade trees and even a flower garden or two."

Jonathan (depressed) "Yup. Then one day a limb fell out of one of the trees and everybody got all excited about it. They were afraid another one might fall and crush some poor student who was sitting under the tree in the shade. So they proceeded to tear down that tree, another one, and so forth till pretty soon there wasn't a tree in sight"

Edgar: "I suppose that made the campus look pretty bleak."

Jonathan: "Yup. Soon the warm weather set in, but there was no shade so no one sat on the lawns anyway."

Edgar: (sorrowfully) "So they dug up all the lawns?"

Jonathan: "Right! They built parking lots over them. And of course that made the flower gardens look pretty silly—sitting out there in the middle of the parking lot."

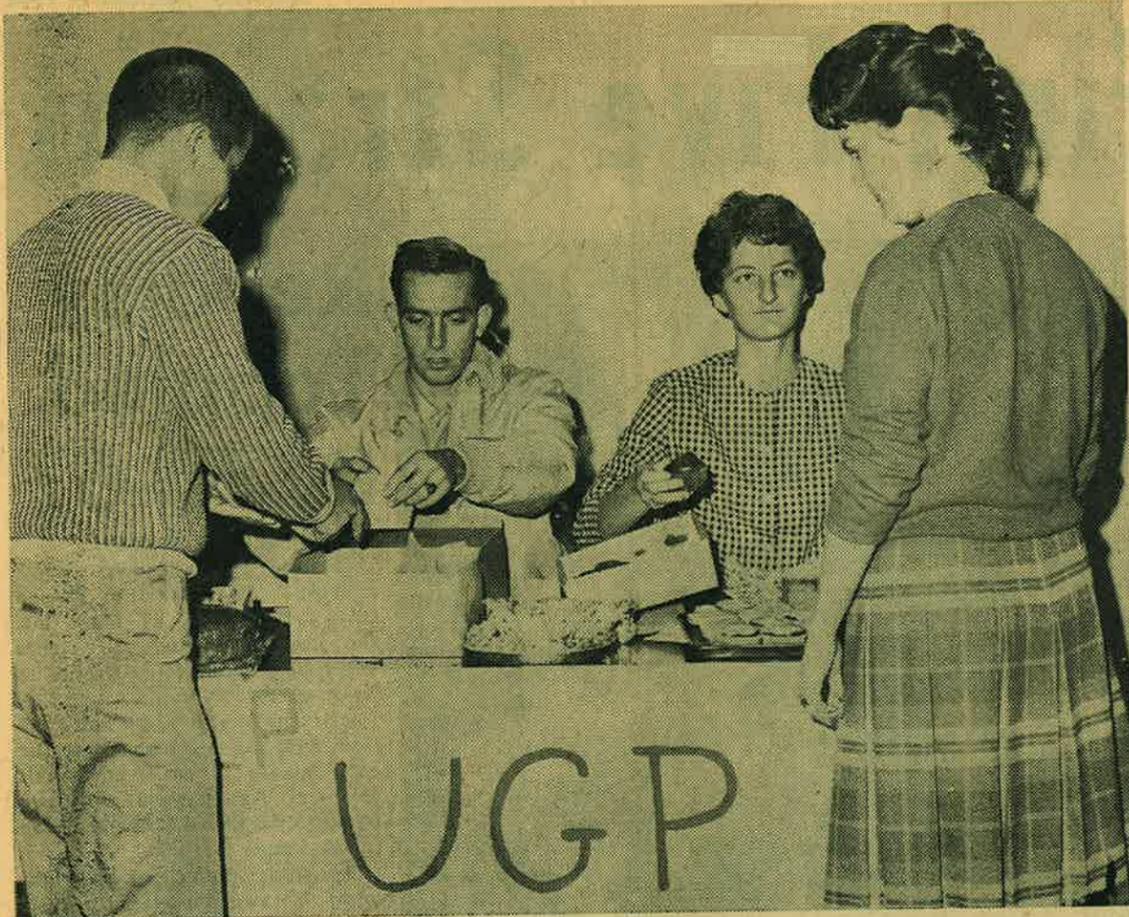

Edgar: (becoming angry) "So they dug up the flower beds, too?"

Jonathan: (also becoming angry) "Yes! They built parking control towers on them!"

Edgar: (becoming violent, throws books on ground) "For crying out loud, didn't they realize they were ruining a perfectly beautiful campus? After all, if a person is afraid of tree limbs falling on him he shouldn't even walk outside the house—he might get hit by lightning or a meteor or something!"

Jonathan (sighs) "Oh well, that's progress, Edgar. Come on, it's past 10, we'd better start looking for the car if we expect to get home by 6."

Exit; both characters.

Ski Club is also planning a ski trip during the semester break which will begin Jan. 25.

Magazine Loss Biggest in FCC Library History

"Loss of magazines is worse than ever," reports Jackson Carty, City College librarian, "in the history of the college."

More complaints have been heard this year than ever before. One reason is that three times as many students are now using the library. This is in comparison to that number before moving into the present library building.

It has been a standing problem at the library to find articles and pictures cut from books and bound magazines, and the new magazines are disappearing. Students are reminded by the library staff that replacement of out of print magazines cost double or triple that of new issues.

The number of volumes in the library is now over 15,000 including 2,095 added last year. Books are stored in the stack area of the library. Subscriptions to 281 magazines and newspapers including several foreign language periodicals are available in the main reading room the library.

The council gave the go ahead for Miss Deakins to contact the Four Freshmen about appearing here in March. Any entertainment would be free to FCC students.

The club to receive the Most Active Club Award for the United Givers Plan week was also chosen by the council. The award will be made tomorrow night at the Christmas Formal. The winner of the freshman-sophomore class rivalry will also be announced.

The council also agreed to add $100 to the wrestling fund. Commissioner of athletics Doug Yavanian stated that the original fund of $400 would not cover expenses.

Rams Win First Five Straight

Gades Get Gobbled In Tourney

The third time proved to be a charm for Fresno City College in the Bakersfield Invitational Basketball Tournament as the Rams toppled the Bakersfield Renegades 77-72 for the first time in the finals of the tournament.

The two previous times that the two teams met in the finals the 'Gades walked away with honors, 67-51 in 1955 and 76-52 last year.

Billy Hicks and Rich Turney, a couple of Ram veterans, were named to the All-Tourney team, giving Hicks the distinction of being honored two years in a row.

Hicks and Turney were joined by Andy Stolgin of Stockton, Charley White of Monterey, and Loren Thomsen of Bakersfield on the honorary quintet.

White was the leading scorer in the tournament with 66 points in three games and Thomsen followed close behind with 62 points.

Thomsen's 34 points against Stockton was the individual high for a single game. Turney had honors for FCC with 25 in the finals and a total of 49 for the tournament.

FCC racked up its highest single game total in the first game of the tournament, ousting Los Angeles Valley 100-50, and then put the stops on Santa Ana in the second round 67-60.

Bakersfield reached the finals by topping Monterey 50-43.

The Rams host Fullerton tomorrow night at Yosemite and San Bernardino Saturday night at McLane. Both games start at 8 P.M.

FCC Athletes To Be Lauded At '62 Fete

Fresno City College athletes who competed in fall sports will be honored at 6:30 Monday night during the annual football, cross country, and water polo banquet at the FCC cafeteria.

Athletic Director Joe Kelly announced that Cecil Coleman, coach of Fresno State's successful grid squad, will be the head speaker and Mel Kampmann, widely known sports announcer for KFRE-TV and Radio, will be the master of ceremonies.

Heading the list of activities at the Ram fete will be the presentation of numerous awards to the outstanding players of the 1962 fall campaigns.

Bud Richter of Pepsi Cola will present a plaque to the most improved player in each of the three sports, and Morris Samuelian of Sam's Luggage and Leather will present an award to the most valuable runner on the cross country squad.

Football awards will be presented for outstanding lineman and outstanding back with Dave Belman of KYNO doing the honors, Dr. Erwin Ginsburg will present the honorary captain for 1962, and Joe Dale Sr. will present the most valuable player award.

John Voenes will honor one member of the Ram squad with Harry Coffee's All-American blanket.

Nine Miles' Worth

By BILL HORD, Sports Editor

So, the Rams are riding a five game winning streak on the basketball court and consequently living up to their pre-season publicity, plus their reputation as a fine JC basketball team, and hopes for one of their winningest seasons in history.

Despite their fine showing in the won-loss columns, Tuesday night's game against Reedley was a sick exhibition for a team that has all of these things to live up to—and anybody who wants to argue the point would most likely get set straight by any member of the FCC cage squad.

Although the Rams came off the floor with a 75-67 win, there were no cheers in the locker room after the game—just a few cuss words and some grim looks.

It's good they realize that the kind of ball they played Tuesday night, especially in the second half when Reedley came back and took the lead on two occasions, won't get them very far when they meet some smooth ball clubs later in the season.

Maybe that is what will make them a better-than-average FCC team—the fact that they do realize they looked like a back-yard team on occasions—and maybe they can show us what kind of ball they can play if we pack a few fans in at both games this weekend. There's a game Friday night and Saturday night, you know. Friday night's game is at Yosemite Junior High School and Saturday night's game is at McLane.

And to conclude all this hub-bub about how lousy our Rams played against Reedley, it's important to realize that many people (including myself) think they're about the best JC team running the maples. So, we naturally hop on their sagging spirits when they don't shine.

FCC Sharp Shooters

Going into the Reedley game, FCC's top three scorers were hitting over 50 per cent of their shots, which is dead-eye shooting in most circles.

Rich Turney, who was (and still is) the Rams' leading scorer had bucketed 57.2 per cent of his shots, Billy (The Kid) Hicks had tallied on 58.3 per cent of his tosses, and Lonnie Hughey sported a 56.4 percentage.

John Loyear has joined these three in giving the Rams one of the best rounded scoring attacks possible. All four are averaging over 10 points per game after the first five.

Turney is top man with an 18 point average on 90 total points, Hicks has 76 points for a 15.2 average. Loyear has 66 points and Hughey 65 for 13.2 and 13.0 averages respectively.

Steve Mazzoni is the other Ram starter at a guard position and although Steve doesn't try to keep up with his four cohorts in the scoring department, he's tough to replace on defense.

Problems On The Line

The team as a whole hasn't been exactly hot at the free throw line, hitting only 17-34 against Reedley. On the season, they have 85-132 which is 64.4 per cent and not anything to jump up and down and hit your head on the ceiling about. However, the team field goal average previous to the Reedley game was a pretty sharp 46.9 per cent.

The Rams have scored exactly 100 points more than their opponents after the first five games and sport a 77.8 offensive average compared to an average of 57.5 that they've held the opponents to. The 100 points that FCC racked up against Los Angeles Valley in the Bakersfield tournament kind of gave the offensive average a boost.

Where's The Band?

Speaking of giving something a boost, there has been a certain amount of question on the part of FCC fans on why the band hasn't been out for the home basketball games.

Reedley Toppled By 75-67

By BILL HORD

Reedley Junior College threw a second-half scare into Fresno City College Tuesday night but the Rams outlasted the Tigers 75-67 at McLane High School in a non-conference game.

After holding a 35-25 half-time lead, FCC began taking gas in the early stages of the second half and the Tigers were only two points down with 13:24 remaining in the game.

But things didn't look bad right away as two buckets by Billy Hicks and one by Rich Turney and John Loyear again gave the Rams a more comfortable lead of 51-48.

With 8:00 remaining an array of bad passes and defensive mistakes coupled with some cold shooting on the part of the Rams once again put Reedley within striking distance.

The Tigers tied the score at 62-62 with 5:23 remaining and took the lead for the first time in the ball game 64-62 with 4:47 left.

Reedley's Tom Cauwels was the leading scorer in the game with 25 points and he was followed by Turney with 21.

Grapplers Travel For Lidlifter

By TOM WALLS

The defending state champion Fresno City College wrestling squad will open its season this Saturday at the All Southern California Invitational Meet at UCLA.

The grapplers, 18 strong this season, will be out to present their new coach, Paul Cookingham, with a victory in their first outing.

Seven Lettermen

The Rams will have a strong nucleus built around seven lettermen returning from last year's championship team. They are: John Oller, who placed fourth in the state meet last year; Fred Andrews, first place finisher in the CJCJCAA; Marshal Alcaez, another fourth place finisher in the state last season; Rod Crook, who took third in the state finals; Ed Kerby, another third place finisher in the state; Warren Gray and Vic Reyes.

Joe Faria, a standout on the gridiron in past years, and Ed Cox, all-around athlete, will lead the crop of newcomers to the squad. Also out for the team this season are Keith Boyer, a McLane letterman; Curtis Craig, a track, football and cross-country standout from Merced; Jim Cox, a veteran of three mat campaigns at Sanger High School and Don Johnston, who wrestled for Bulard High School.

Dewayne Zinkin, Bill Parkes, Jack Wernick and Joe Moss also have reported and are expected to see plenty of action.

Injuries

Cookingham is optimistic about the strength of the squad, but injuries to Crook and Reyes may be a severe blow, he said.

"We expect to be strong in most weight classes," he reported, "but injuries could hurt us. The team morale is good—we should win our share of matches."

The grapplers will trek to Reedley Tuesday for the first dual meet of the season.
