Sixty-nine Fresno City College students are being honored on the fall semester Dean's List.

The students received this honor by carrying 12 or more units during the fall semester, earning no grade lower than a "C," having a 3.3 average on all units attempted — including physical education.

Publications Board Holds First Meeting

A liaison between the student body and the Rampage has been established in the form of a Board of Publications, which has scheduled its first meeting for tomorrow at noon in Bungalow 8.

"All students who wish to have a hand in guiding campus publications will have an opportunity to voice opinions and listen to an open discussion at the meeting," said Bob Bird, the board's director.

Representatives of all clubs on campus have been invited to attend. They will be informed of various ways to obtain publicity in the newspapers, whom to contact for publicity and of publications procedures.

Newspaper policies and news coverage will be discussed at the meeting.

Ivan Jones, Rampage advisor, and Marlene Remy, the editor, will represent the school newspaper.

"The school paper is the business of all students, since it is supported by student body funds; each student here who wishes to take advantage of his right to have a hand in this is invited to attend the meeting tomorrow," said Ann Ehrenburg, student body commissioner of publications.

USF Speaker

Dr. Augustine P. Donoghue of the University of San Francisco will be at Fresno City College Mar. 1 to talk to students interested in attending USF.

Arch Bradshaw, dean of students, said Dr. Donoghue will be on campus at 9 AM. Students wishing to talk to him should sign up in advance in the office of the dean of students, Room 118 of the administration building.

Advisor Bills Mardi Gras As Success

Linda Palmero and Gabe Terronez are the queen and king of the Mardi Gras. They were selected Friday at noon at the annual Mardi Gras Parade.

Miss Palmero and Terronez were representing the Latin American Club. The alternates were June Stover and Deryl Jordan, representing AWS and AMS.

Sumpter Criticizes

Clyde Sumpter, advisor of Delta Psi Omega, who sponsored the affair, said, "Although the weather dampened the Mardi Gras spirit and undoubtedly hampered the effect of the participation of the Mardi Gras parade, we never the less felt that over all it was a successful social event.

"After all we have learned to expect limited student participation in all FCC activities so we are never dissatisfied.

"We strive to appeal to active students and in this respect we felt the Mardi Gras to be successful."

Attendance Small

Sam Ganimian, master of ceremonies, said there was not a throng of students in attendance, however the students that did attend seemed to have had an enjoyable time and were enthusiastic about the entertainment presented.

Providing the entertainment for the evening were; Rosaland Andrews, Dezie Woods and a new group of FCC girls performing a dance. They were Helen Rohrbough, Sharon Frazier, Jan Clemans, Sharron Smith, Joyce Richardson and Miss Woods.

The Jerry Venturi quintet band provided the music.

Setting the atmosphere for a pleasant evening of entertainment were the exciting colorful decorations.

Library Shows Display of Art

The Art of The Week which is on display in the campus library is the work of the art students, Curtis Draper, art instructor, said.

"This display will be changed as often as the art students finish their work of art," Draper said.

If you go to the library this week you will see a painting done by Edward Silva, which suggests lighted buildings.

"All clubs on the campus may use the display cases, if they ask for them in advance," Jackson Carty, head librarian, said.

RAMPAGE HOLIDAY

The Rampage will not be published next week. Feb. 22 is an official holiday celebrating the birthday of the first United States President, George Washington, and Fresno City Schools will not hold classes.

Right-Wing Speaker Praises Anti-Communist Movement

By ANN EHRENBURG

The appearance on campus of a well-known right-wing speaker was for the most part either unnoticed or ignored by the student body at FCC.

Donald L. Jackson addressed himself to a full audience of middle-aged and elderly people last Thursday night in the auditorium.

Jackson Gives Praise

In his speech, sponsored by the Fresno Guide and the Patriotic Book Store, the former Congressman from Los Angeles and a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities Committee for 10 years, praised the conservative, anti-communist movement.

He called it, "One of the most remarkable political phenomena to occur in several decades."

Kennedy's Feelings

Jackson said that he was not startled by President's Kennedy's referral to the movement as one of "extremism," since others have labeled it "the reincarnation of the Ku Klux Klan, the German American Bund, or an expression of neo-fascism."

He called on conservatives not to fold under the pressure of those who as he said, "Are working around the clock to undermine the movement."

Conservatives Grow

Citing the rapid growth of conservatism he said, "The widespread concern expressed today — the anti-communist seminars and schools — the thousands of group meetings being held across the country is the lately-unified and spontaneous voice of a people aroused — determined that their opinions shall be heard," Jackson said.

This week it was announced in the press that 300,000 communists and their agents are spying on American industry. The authority for the statement was Robert Kennedy's Department of Justice.

Brothers Differ

Isn't it paradoxical that the President of the United States minimizes the threat of internal communism subversion, while his brother, the Attorney General, speaking through the Federal Bureau of Investigation spells out in detail the exact nature of the internal aggression and warns against Soviet intelligence and espionage activity? Jackson asked.

Jackson dated the rise of the conservative element in its present strength to shortly after the City Hall Riots in San Francisco May, 1960, in which students from Bay Area colleges protested against the House Committee of Un-American Activities, during the committee hearings.

Jackson said it was at this time that large numbers of the American people saw the Communist-social union in action in the movie "Operation Abolition."

Dislikes Riots

Referring to the riots, Jackson said, "The American left joined hands with the international Communist aggression in a shocking display of contempt for the American Congress and its duly constituted committees."

He also labeled the students' activities there as "an integrated and violent effort to disrupt constitutional processes, duly constituted authority and law itself.

"It is evident that 'Operation Abolition' was a blow to the Communist-socialist combine and probably the most effective piece of counter propaganda in recent history," he stated.

Wanted: Sure Fire Way Of Getting Jobs?

Anticipating a rebellion against conformity in big business, the following procedure is suggested for job applicants:

If you wash your hands before the interview, don't dry them. Be proud of honest sweat.

Dash into the interview with a cigarette, or preferably a cigar in your mouth, mumble your name and address the interviewer as Joe (If his name should be Joseph pick some other name).

Sit down on the desk.

If there is any literature on the desk ask for copies of it to help your roommate who is collecting the junk.

Do not use stilted phraseology; slang indicates that you are at ease and may put the interviewer at ease as well.

Remember it is all a game. Every time the interviewer asks a question, give an evasive answer and ask him a pointed one in return, for example: "What is your expense allowance policy?"

Do not let the interviewer evade your questions regarding salary, retirement plans, sick leave, and unemployment compensation.

If the company is located in Florida ask for an invitation to visit its plant over the Christmas or spring vacation. If you can arrange enough such invitations at company expense they may pay for your whole vacation.

Make it clear to the interviewer that you know your value to his company and won't be bought for a low price.

Never inquire about the type of work associated with the position.

As you leave, invite the interviewer out for a drink. He will recognize you as an operator.

As far as appearance goes, students are urged to grow a beard and wear a white T shirt and sport coat. If the student does not own a T shirt he may wear a colored shirt with a gay bow tie, string tie, or bolo tie.

Stanford Academic Council Changes College Grades

Is a "C" still a "C"?

After a study of grading practices by the Registrar's Advisory Committee, the Stanford Academic Council has voted to change the designation of a "C" from "fair" to "satisfactory," and the "barely passing" of a "D" to "minimum credit," it was announced recently.

According to the committee's report the new wording is to keep parents happy and to lessen tension in students battling to meet increasingly high academic standards.

The committee stated: "Failure to recognize the changing demands on our students accounts for parental dissatisfaction with their offsprings' performance and this results in some of the student tension.

"The feeling that a 'C' is actually unsatisfactory causes most of the tension especially since few of our students received 'C' grades in secondary schools."

The Committee recommends that letters explaining the grading system be sent to freshmen and their parents at the beginning of the fall semester.

The Committee recommended this description of Stanford's grading system: Excellent, approximately 15 per cent; B, good, about 35 per cent; C, satisfactory, about 35 per cent; D, minimum credit, and F, taken together about 15 per cent.

Human Brain Does Miraculous Feats

Your conscious memory, if you live to be 70, will remember about 15,000,000,000,000 separate things—from your telephone number to the shape of a watermelon, according to recent scientific findings.

Amazingly enough, your subconscious memory contains much more information, according to scientists studying the mind.

In your brain (you're using some of them right now) are 10,000,000,000 nerve cells. According to one theory, when a sensation or impression strikes a nerve cell, its form changes. The harder the cell is hit, the bigger the change and the longer it lasts.

When the cell is hit hard enough, you remember. If it is not hit hard enough, you forget.

Memory is a very peculiar thing. You don't forget more over a long period of time. You forget more right after learning something. You remember better under pressure — time or importance.

Ever had the feeling you'd seen something before, or been somewhere before, although you really hadn't? This is called "the illusion of the already seen." No explanation is generally accepted.

Then there's "retrospective falsification." A person's memories of the past may be distorted — either by wishful thinking or a vivid imagination.

Salvador Dali, the painter, claims he has memories that go back to before his mother actually gave birth to him — and perhaps this is his vivid imagination at work.

Ever forget a telephone number you know very well? A name as familiar as your own. Then you had mild amnesia — a loss of memory.

Severe amnesia — when you can even forget who you are — is probably much rarer than people think.

A survey conducted by 300 policemen in large cities showed that 95 out of 100 "amnesia" victims were faking — and police had some doubt about the other five.

According to one missing-persons investigator, most cases of fake amnesia involve husbands who walk out on their wives — and who don't forget to take along a wad of money.

True amnesia may be caused by brain damage — a blow on the head may do it, but, more often, it's caused by overindulgence in alcohol.

A personal tragedy can also trigger amnesia — under a terrible emotional strain, a person may forget in order not to continue suffering.

Memory jogs can be as complicated as the one devised by a 6th century Greek named Simonides.

He thought a woman could recall a grocery list by picturing the items stacked in a certain order around her bedroom or living room. Whenever she wanted to recall the items, she simply visualized the room and its contents!

A different use of groceries as memory aids was made by Laurenz Fries in 1523.

"Partake of roast fowls, small birds or young hares for dinner, then apples or nuts for dessert," he wrote in a work entitled 'How Memory Can Be Wonderfully Strengthened.'

Then there was the 16th century Italian professor who published a system which used "the most beautiful maidens his mind could conceive" as keys for the items on a list of things to be memorized. Curiously enough, posterity has forgotten his name.

Furthermore, a good memory is not necessarily a sign of intelligence; some very dim-witted people, called idiot savants, learn to memorize very well.

That's something to remember — the next time you forget.

On The Campus

By DENNIS HAGOBIAN

On The Campus has changed from an interview of FCC students to a column. The column will interchange weekly with the interviews. It will deal with FCC happenings and some outside events.

FCC has inherited a Beagle. The mongrel has been entering the coffee shop every day excluding Saturday, Sunday and Monday for almost two years. The cafeteria department said he hasn't missed one day. The mutt, at about 7 AM, scratches on the outer door of the cafeteria wanting in. When in, he just sits and stares at everyone.

Why he comes no one knows. How does he know not to come on the week-end and why doesn't he come on Monday? These questions are being asked all over the FCC cafeteria.

Valentines day 1962 is history. The card manufacturers and candy makers are rich again. Everyone is putting on weight, and showing affection towards each other.

In one of Walter Smith's display windows I saw a Valentine's gift I liked. It was a pair of undershorts with hearts and I LOVE YOU printed all over it. I commented on it to my girl. Betcha can't guess what I got for Valentine's Day?

Patriotic fashions are in style this year and all I've heard is female cries. RED, WHITE and BLUE with stars and stripes are the colors. Can't you men picture taking out a girl dressed like a flag.

If you think that's bad, you should see this year's shoe styles. They date back to the 19th century. You know, the type great grandma used to wear.

And this is the modern age of progress?

A new dance is sweeping across the nation, the Surfer-Stomp. It's recently reaching its peak. The play is to get it to take the place of the Twist, but I doubt if it will ever succeed.

Live a Little, Laugh a Little!

Have we lost the ability to laugh at ourselves? Is gentle humor a lost art?

Let's hope not, urges the University of Cincinnati News Record in an editorial expressing this concern:

"In a technological age such as ours, one of the great problems facing society is the conservation of natural resources. Timber reserves, petroleum reserves, water reserves, all these and more are in danger of being exploited to the point of exhaustion.

Fortunately we have agencies and organizations whose job it is to preserve such things.

"There is one reserve, though, that seems in danger of running dry, and we think it's an important one: the reserve of humor in America. The recent death of James Thurber makes this more evident than before.

"Looking around, we can't find many humorists left. There are a few comedians, let alone humorists, who deal in disease, tragedy, catastrophe, and sex . . . the smut and gore brigade.

"Where, then are the young humorists, the men with the gentle jibe, the men who laugh at human failings rather than the failure of humanity? Where are the Thurbers of yesterday growing anew?

Where are the new Leacocks, Benchleys, and the rest?

"Have we allowed ourselves to become so frightened out of our wits or so automated out of our humanity that we can't really laugh at ourselves any more? Have we become so sober and somber that we're afraid to enjoy being alive?

"We hope not. We hope that somewhere someone is getting a real kick out of us all, and is turning to his typewriter and preparing to be amusing. Lincoln said, 'If I did not laugh, I should weep.'

"Laughter sustained him through trying times. It could do the same for us if we gave it half a chance."

Frosh, Soph Election Day Nears As Candidates Give Platforms

Freshmen and sophomore class elections will be held next Wednesday between 8 AM and 3 PM. "Voting booths will be placed in the Student Center and the library," Jim Baum, commissioner of elections, said.

Competition for freshman class offices will be keen as there is more than one candidate for each office.

Richard Anderson and Fred Martin are competing for the presidency; Mary Caldwell and Doug Yavarian, vice-president; Kathleen Parker, Carolyn Poindexter and Sharon Smith, secretary; Jo Jackson, Margaret Russell and Michele Smith, class directors.

Freshman Platform

Each presidential candidate has given his qualifications and platform for the office.

Anderson held executive positions on the San Joaquin High School student council and has had four years of debate and speech training and competition in high school with one semester of inter-collegiate debate.

"My platform includes an organization of class meetings in order to get more freshman participation," said Anderson.

The candidate also wants to secure a position of recognition for the freshman class and will endeavor to have as many social functions as the administration will allow.

"I will attempt to bring the standards of the freshman class up to a collegiate level, that is, to give all interested freshman equality in their class functions," Anderson concluded.

Martin, vice-president of the freshman class, assumed the office of president after Fred Faieta resigned to accept a position on the student body council.

The hopeful candidate supervised the revision of the freshman constitution and attended the Governor's Youth Conference on student government and youth for community service. He also attended the recent Sky Ranch Conference which gave the new student body council members an idea of their duties.

"Through the office of freshman vice-president, I have become acutely aware of the needs and interests of the class.

"I would like to continue advancement made by our class in the fields of social life and student-faculty relations with the help of all freshman students.

"Study carefully all the candidates running, vote, then support your elected officers and we will have the best class at FCC," said Martin.

Sophomore Platforms

Only three students are running for office in the sophomore class. Rodney Oldfield and Dennis Rogers are competing for the presidency and David Estermann is running unopposed for vice president.

Oldfield is the president of the Newman Club and vice president of Phi Rho Pi, speech and debate club.

"I will attempt to obtain films and various lecturers that will benefit the members of the sophomore class," Oldfield said.

The candidate also wants to encourage sophomore-freshman class competition and said he will begin a process through committee work to adopt a written constitution for the sophomore class.

"I feel that all these can be done through good officers, by direct appeal to the members of the class, explaining why it is important to be a member, and through good relations with the school publicity sources," Oldfield concluded.

Rogers, ex-student body president, has given eight plans which revolve around sophomore class participation.

"The first plan is a sophomore representative council which will allow for better committee work," Rogers said, "there should be about one representative for every 500 students."

The candidate also suggests a graduation dance and a combination of freshman and sophomore class activities such as parties, a freshman-sophomore day and a bermuda dance with an award for the best looking knees.

Rogers wants to start preparations for an all college assembly in the fall during the first week of school, put on by sophomores.

His other plans include a publicity committee, awards for outstanding sophomores, a written sophomore constitution and a forum series featuring speakers on controversial issues.

"These activities will give the students a better chance to participate on committees and work on projects.

"In the past the sophomore class has been very weak, but now we have a chance to pass the freshman class," concluded Rogers.

President's Corner

By TIM THOMAS

Last week was a busy one for your student council. During the weekly meeting on Tuesday many areas of thought were discussed. Many programs are being contemplated for the semester, most of which will be more concrete in one or two more weeks at the latest.

DANCE SUCCESS

I think I may speak for council in congratulating the spirited clubs which participated in the Mardi Gras festivities, which were under Delta Psi Omega's sponsorship.

A fine dance with equally fine attendance followed that evening. I'm really happy to see the support of good activities, of which there will be many this semester. This all goes to disprove the rumor about the futility of having activities due to the lack of student participation.

COUNCIL PATTERN

The council is patterned after our national government (with the exception of the latter's bureaucracy) in that it is republican in form. The reason for this is to enable us to practice good government, which means that each individual on campus has an equal voice in student body affairs.

He voices his opinion through one of his elected representatives, or he comes to council himself and speaks out, or he may write his opinion and place it in one of the suggestion boxes on campus.

All three of these methods are encouraged and should be exercised by all students who are able to form an opinion (and all students should be able to do that).

GOVERNMENT'S PURPOSE

Republican government, no matter at what level, cannot function correctly if its makers are indifferent or lazy.

Now, what is the purpose of government? I seem to remember from a history course, not too far back, that government's purpose is to do for its makers what they are unable to do for themselves individually.

This, to me, disregards socialism or a welfare type state. But, it does mean that council will have the opportunity to spend your approximated $31,000 in many ways which will be beneficial to each student individually and to the student body as a whole.

These expenditures will range from athletics to debate, from entertainment, such as dances, to speakers of a timely interest.

STUDENT VOICE

Council also makes policy as to how the student body feels about various issues. Council is your mouthpiece to the administration, the community, and the nation.

Believe me, the student body wields much power. If this power is exerted through the right channels (your council), it can be a force to which anyone will listen.

This idea brings me back to my theme which is that each student must know and understand the power he wields by using his government, and not allowing his government to use him.

An unusual opportunity for all students to have a voice in the affairs of campus publications has been offered by the newly formed Board of Publications. The board will hold its first meeting tomorrow at noon in Bungalow 8. Ivan Jones, Rampage advisor, will be there to answer questions and to hear suggestions. If you have opinions or suggestions about newspaper policy and coverage or are interested in participating or listening to an open discussion on the subject, please attend the meeting and get in on this important activity.

Club News

International Club Party Set for Tonite

Folk dancing, a movie of a foreign country, social dancing and refreshments will highlight the International Club party tonight.

"The party is for all students and is free," said Anne Marie Bernheim, vice-president.

The get-together will be from 7 to 11 PM in the social hall of the Student Center. The dress will be regular school dress, concluded Miss Bernheim.

Associated Women Students

AWS election results have been turned in and Joyce Iles is the new vice-president assisting Ellen Ewing, president, said Miss Doris Deakins, advisor.

The other new officers are Leona Jones, secretary; Judith Kuykendall, treasurer and Betty Hughs, historian.

The fall semester officers were Ann Ehrenburg, vice-president; Judy Moyer, secretary; Molly Lopez, treasurer and Joyce Iles, historian.

Associated Men Students

Assisting Jerry Kuns, AMS president, will be Jim Baum as vice-president; Don Petrucelli, secretary; Richard Elliot, treasurer, and Deryl Jordon, sergeant-at-arms.

Kuns appointed Ron Lewis, publicity chairman and Elliot co-chairman.

The campus men's club have also planned a trip to the snow for Mar. 3, said Lewis. The Silver Tip Lodge will be the site of the party.

"Anyone who wishes to go on the snow trip should attend the AMS meeting Mar. 1," concluded Lewis.

AMS invited the AWS to participate in the snow trip.

Rams Nosed 58-54; Pirates, Falcons Next

Kelly's Crew Loses Berth for State Title

By RICHARD SALAIS

The Rams title hopes are gone, 58-54, and now they face the tough job of bouncing back against the Porterville Pirates tonight in Porterville and then a return encounter with the Coalinga Falcons at McLane High Saturday night.

An atrocious Allan Hancock of Santa Maria, refusing to crack under pressure, bagged a rough decision over the Fresno City College Rams as the Bulldogs virtually assured themselves a spot in the junior college state tournament in Costa Mesa.

Too much personnel was probably the main factor for the Hancock over with a free throw and a fielder as the Rams were finished 54-52 with 3:42 remaining. Dampier put the lid on the game with a couple of charity throws and Hancock won it 58-54.

Hancock now has an 8-0 league record and 24-4 for the season.

Ram coach Joe Kelly, sad over the defeat, was enlightened over the play of newcomer Allen McCutchen who tossed in nine points. John Loyear and Rich Turney led the Rams' scoring with 13 points apiece. Usual high scorer Billy Hicks was held to nine points but played a fine floor game.

Porterville Tough

The Rams now face the tall Porterville Pirates who will be gunning for revenge with a much improved ball club. Porterville took a thrashing earlier in Fresno, 96-78.

Maurice Talbot, high point-getter, and ex-Washington Union star Kelton Dotson will lead the Pirates. Paul Harris, standing at 6'10", will take care of the backboards for Porterville.

Coalinga Could Surprise

Coalinga could create a problem for Kelly as the Falcons almost upset Hancock two weeks ago. Coalinga is led by the top scorer in the league in Val McCallum, a 6'2" sharpshooter.

Game time for both games is 8 PM.

COACHES CORNER—Kelly and coach Joe White had heated arguments in the closing minutes with White protesting the game with 1:51 to go. After the game White commented, "I was real proud of my boys. And about the protest I'll just throw that away now." . . . Rumors are that this will be White's last year at Hancock . . . Billy Hicks still leads the Rams' total scoring with 446 points but Rich Turney has the edge in league play with 114 . . . Coalinga's Val McCallum is a former Trona High School standout . . . Bobby Farnsworth, All-American High School star, has enrolled at Fresno State this semester . . . ex-Fresno City College player John Malone is doing a fine job at St. Mary's where he added 12 points last week . . . another ex-Ram, Harry Edwards, who concentrated on track at FCC is currently on the starting five at San Jose State College.

triumph as jubilant coach Joe White labeled the game as "a tremendous victory."

Dampier Showboat

The play of hotshot John Dampier who exhibited some fancy maneuvers and added 17 points was outstanding. Teammates Roger Guinn and Bob Butler with 15 and 14 points respectively was just about the whole story for the Bulldogs Saturday night.

Hancock went ahead in the opening minutes of the game and walked off the court with a 35-27 halftime edge.

Bulldogs Stubborn

Fresno stuck close to the Bulldogs all the way and at one time grabbed a quick lead of 49-46 halfway in the second half. But the well-balanced Bulldogs refused to give in with Butler adding a three point play and it was tied 49-49 with less than eight minutes to go.

Wiedenhoefer Optimistic On This Year's Golf Squad

By ROBERT DONLEAVEY

Hans Wiedenhoefer, FCC's golf mentor, sums up this year's team as "the strongest squad ever at Fresno City College."

The golf team this season is supported by two returning lettermen from last year. Jim Anderson and Michael Frey will lead the Rams with both shooting in the middle 70's or equivalent to a five handicap.

Good Prospects

The addition of valley champ Richard Cunningham and Mike Bellows both via the city champion McLane High School has strengthened the team considerably.

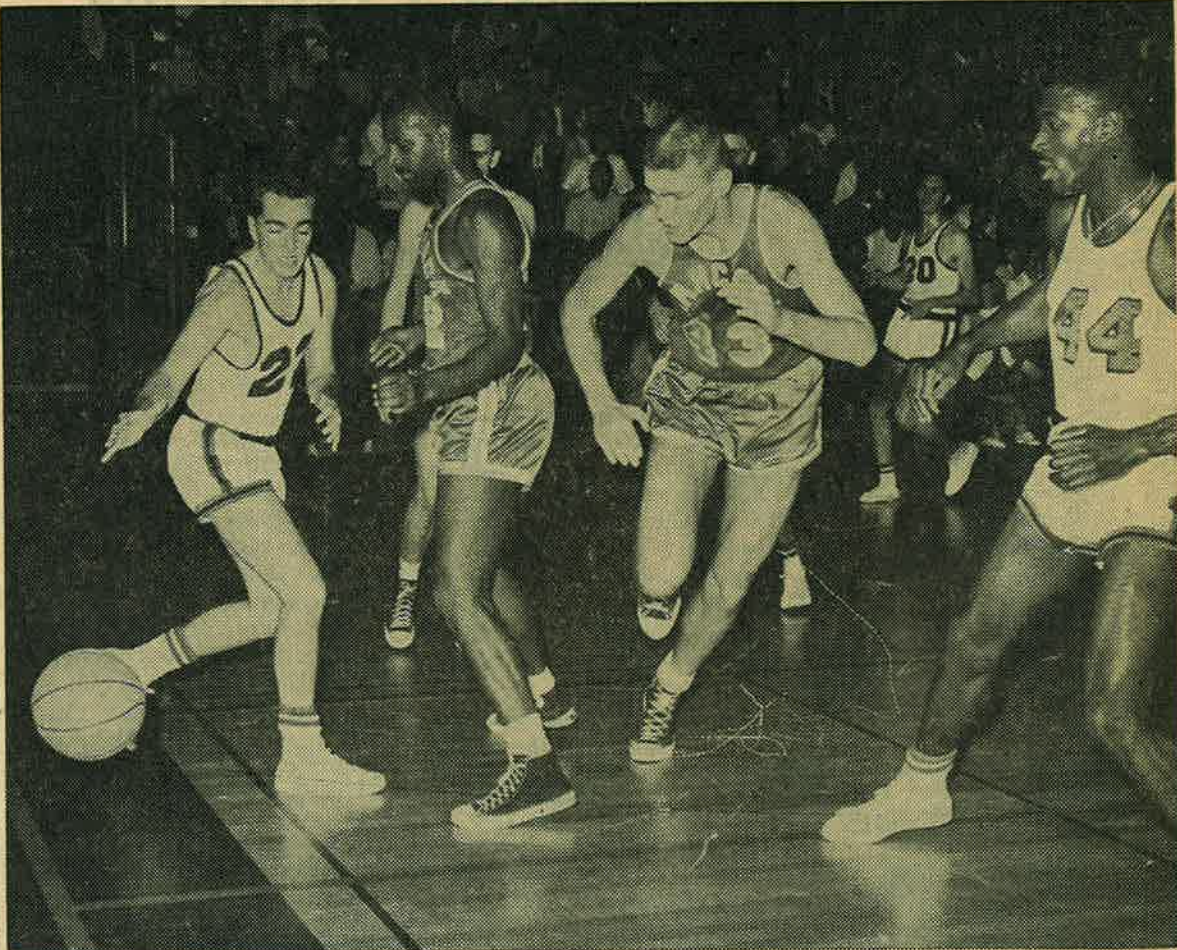

In the last four years the Rams have finished second in the league only to the COS Giants but this year Wiedenhoefer expects different results in the final standings.

Two Factors Needed

Wiedenhoefer indicated that there were two important factors if the team is going to win, (1) live up to expectations and (2) stay scholastically eligible.

The home course for Fresno will be the Fort Washington Golf course and the matches will start at 1:30 PM.

Any golfer that wishes to try out for the team should contact coach Wiedenhoefer.

Rich Rites Turney's Playing Days Are Yet to Arrive

By RICHARD SALAIS Sports Editor

Richard "Stern" Turney, the lean 6'7" 180 lb. Ram forward, has come a long way since his graduation from high school and the apex of his playing days is yet to arrive.

The modest, urbane and bona fide freshman has high hopes of becoming a college physical instructor — and from the looks of things he might do just that.

Turney was born in Las Vegas, Nev. on Jan. 23, 1942. He enrolled at San Joaquin Memorial High School and thus begun his playing career.

STARTED SLOWLY

Turney wasn't regarded a good player when he first started out for the team in his sophomore year (16th man on the squad) but the next year he was on the starting team and from then on he became the finest player to perform at the local high school.

"Turney was perhaps the best basketball player to come out of San Joaquin Memorial," Odell Johnson, Memorial's basketball coach commented.

"He loves to play and put his heart into it," Johnson continued.

ROOM FULL OF TROPHIES

Copping the "Harry Coffee Blanket Award" two years in a row, Turney was also all-league, two years; all-city, two years; all-Northern and all-Central California one year.

He was active in high school with: president Block M; Rally Club; Red & Blue (news staff) and also played end on the football team in which he participated in the County All-Star game in 1960.

Turney finished out his basketball career in high school averaging a blistering 20.5.

BECOMES RAM

Enrolling at Fresno City College this year he immediately landed a berth on the starting five and recently was awarded the "Most Valuable Player Award" at the Sam Barry Tournament in Glendale.

The 20 year old Turney now has been receiving offers from four year colleges which include: UCLA, Bradley, Seattle, St. Mary's, Santa Clara, USF and Fresno State just to name a few.

"I prefer Bradley and the Midwest," Turney replies. But indications show that he is leaning towards UCLA.

PLENTY OF HOBBIES

Turney has many hobbies which keep him busy. All sports, playing cards with the boys, pool, hunting (didn't say what kind) and of course studying keeps him very active.

Big Turney can be seen around the campus with such students as Bob Morales, Bill Henry, Al Uriarte and of course Angela.

Ram coach Joe Kelly is hanging his offensive punch on this boy and Turney is getting better every year he plays.

So watch out for the "Stern"!!
