Students Interested In Night Classes Should Make Early Reservations

Robert M. Kelly, the evening division dean, urges students not currently enrolled in Fresno City College night classes who plan to enroll for the spring semester to make reservations in his office before Jan. 24.

The students will get reservations based on the dates of their applications. However, students in fall semester classes who indicate they plan to register for the spring term will get first priority.

Kelly said both groups may obtain registration forms when they first contact his office and will expedite their registration by returning the properly completed forms to the Student Center (East Entrance) at the time indicated on their appointment card.

Jan. 29 from 7 to 10 PM and Jan. 30 from 7 to 8:30 PM is the time and date returning students and new students with reservations will register. Students without reservations will be processed Jan. 30 from 8:30 to 10

PM and Jan. 31 from 7 to 10 PM. Classes will begin Feb. 4.

Kelly said students currently enrolled in apprentice classes will not reregister. However, they will need to complete program and residence cards in the classroom under the supervision of their instructors. The instructors will have the materials by Jan. 18.

The apprentices who wish to enroll for another class may do so through the regular registration procedure. Apprentices who wish to purchase student privilege cards for the spring semester may do so in Room T-100 from 7 to 9:30 PM from Jan. 21 to 24.

Evening division schedules, registration forms, and information may be obtained in the evening division office in FCC's administration office.

Openings In Rampage For Reporters

Interested in journalism? Want to express yourself and serve your school at the same time? If so, there's an opening for you on the Rampage.

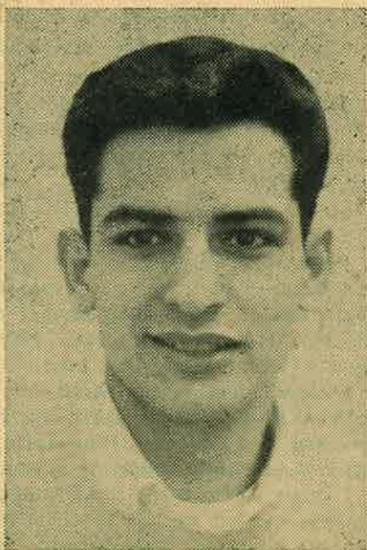

Phil Smith, journalism instructor at Fresno City College, announced today that there are openings on the Rampage staff for feature writers and news reporters.

Those students who are interested in working on the paper during the spring semester may contact Smith at his office in the student publications office.

The editors of the Rampage for the spring semester are the same as last semester.

The rest of the staff positions are open to present or new Rampage reporters.

Registration To Begin Jan. 30

Registration for the spring semester will begin Jan. 30 and end Feb. 1. The last day for new students to be counseled will be Jan. 24.

According to Archie Bradshaw, dean of the counseling division, "Registration will be held in the social hall because the contractors cannot fully turn over the gym to us in time for registration."

States Bradshaw, "A special edition of class schedules will be published by the Rampage, and 2,000 copies will be available for students to look over before registration."

This publication will eliminate a lot of confusion and uncertainty on registration day.

When a student goes to register, he will enter Station I through the east entrance of the social hall where instructors will be posted to collect line cards, issue routing sheets and check for IBM master name cards.

Then students must clear with the nurse at this station. After this is complete, the student reports to the center of the room to work out his class schedule.

Instructors will be appointed to control and issue IBM class cards. They will write the student's name on the class roll and issue him a class card.

After the student has completed his pre-registration form and has collected his class cards, he will report to the Station I checking point to have his program checked.

The student will then be given a registration book and he will fill out all cards in ink.

After this is completed, he will then proceed to Station II, the finance station where $10 will be collected for a student body card and a mailing fee of $.10 or $.15. It has been recommended that the mailing fee be raised to $.15 because of the increased postal rates and the failure to collect the money from all students at the fall registration.

When the student has paid for these fees, he may proceed to Station III where he will turn in his registration book, pre-registration form, IBM envelope with class cards and his routing sheet. If everything is correct, registration complete.

Rampage Holiday

The Rampage will not be published again until Feb. 14.

The reason for the vacation is because of finals and the midterm break. Also the first week of the semester is used by the Rampage to initiate new staff members in journalistic procedures.

The Rampage will, on Feb. 14, continue its weekly publications. The paper will be published Feb. 14, 21, 28; March, 7, 14, 21, 28; April 4, 11; May 3, 10, 17, 24.

Published weekly by the journalism students of Fresno City College, 1101 University, Fresno, California. Composed by the Central California Typographic Service. Unsigned editorials are the expression of the editors.

"NOTE FROM MOMMY" ON THE WAY OUT

In the report filed by the college accreditation team which visited this campus last spring is a paragraph which states that there is "some question as to the wisdom and value of the compulsory college attendance system."

This system, which is standard throughout junior colleges in the state, serves as the basis for allocation of state funds to the school. This necessitates the strict attendance regulations and procedures which require so many hours' work by instructors.

The state director of finance is currently working on a study to find a better method of determining attendance in junior colleges. The new system, which would be based upon average attendance figures determined by initial enrollment and by periodic reports of dropouts, would be similar to the method used in the state colleges.

Stuart M. White, FCC president, said that if the system is developed and presented to the current session of the legislature, it is possible the new regulations will be in effect next September.

"We hope the new method of attendance accounting will be enacted soon," he said. "Obviously it will save much time and effort on the part of instructors and administration."

The Rampage, realizing the added inconvenience of the present system, endorses the proposed changes.

Needless to say, some students will take advantage of liberal attendance regulations and cut more classes than they attend. Conscientious students will not be affected, however, since they realize the importance of regular attendance.

Color Slides Publicise FCC Business Division

By FRED HICINBOTHOM

A new picture story of the merchandising field experience program has been produced to show to service clubs and high school students by Fresno City College's business division.

The picture story is told on 80 colored slides made from pictures taken by Keith Emmert, an FCC counselor, and narrated by Gervase A. Eckenrod, the business division dean.

Preview At Luncheon

Dr. Gilbert M. Peart and Eckenrod will preview the picture story Jan. 29 during the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the North Fresno Kiwanis Club in the Tropicana. Dr. Peart is the college's merchandising field experience coordinator.

Eckenrod also will show the slides during the annual state convention of the California Counseling and Guidance Association Feb. 11 in Disneyland. Emmert and Kenneth A. Wood, also a counselor, will represent the college at the convention.

Merchants Help

Fresno merchants cooperate with the college in the merchandising field experience program, which gives students on the job training. They work an average of 15 hours per week in retail, wholesale or service establishments. They also are enrolled in a merchandising field experience course in which their work experience is supervised and evaluated by Dr. Peart.

The college also has another picture story on colored slides which portrays the entire college program. This is being shown to 4,000 seniors in 20 Central San Joaquin Valley high schools during a four-month period from December through March.

Ski Club Plans Badger Trip

Members of the Fresno City College Ski Club will hold an overnight ski trip to Badger Pass during the semester break, Feb. 2 and 3.

A $2.50 fee will cover accommodations at Yosemite Lodge, said Ron Wakefield, Ski Club president.

Skiers will provide their own meals and will arrange car pools for those who do not have transportation, he said.

In the event of no snow, the skiers will ice skate and take advantage of other Yosemite recreational facilities, such as a dance, hiking and bicycling.

Members may make reservations for the trip by contacting Wakefield at BA 9-5973, or Cynny Lynch at AM 4-6668 next week.

Bill Nixon is the chairman of the event.

Bookstore Will Buy Used Books

The Fresno City College bookstore will buy used books starting next Thursday, Jan. 24, said Mrs. Jewel Herbert, the manager.

New books for next semester are arriving daily and should be purchased as soon as possible to avoid long lines during registration and the first days of next semester, she said.

Mrs. Herbert emphasized that the limited space of the bookstore would not accommodate a large last-minute crowd of buyers.

The store will remain open during the semester break from 8 AM to 4 PM and from 6:45 PM to 8:45 PM.

Nielsen Offers "Help" To Job Seekers

Dr. Paul Nielsen, the Fresno City College vice president, has written an article on "How To Get A Teaching Position Without Really Trying" for the January issue of the California Teachers Association Journal.

The article tells aspirants for teaching jobs what not to do in their efforts to impress school administrators with their capabilities.

Speaks From Experience

In the "editorial postscript" department of the magazine, Editor J. Wilson McKenney explained how the article happened to be written. He said that Dr. Nielsen has conducted many interviews in his many years as a school administrator and has read many applications for teaching jobs.

"His tongue-in-cheek formula," McKenney said, "is intended to improve the 'image' which some hiring officials get of some applicants."

The article suggests a number of ways a job hunter can give the impression that he really doesn't want the teaching job he pretends to seek in writing letters of application.

Personal Resumé

They include using the stationery of the applicant's current school, writing illegibly in pencil, signing one's name so no one can read it, and including at least four or five pages of copious details of personal experiences in and out of school that "will undoubtedly give the reader the impression that you are an interesting, dynamic individual who leaves no detail to the imagination."

Dr. Nielsen also suggests how the applicant can conduct himself in an interview with administrators. They include starting out by asking how much the salary will be or "better yet, state how much you expect."

Forget Punctuality

Other admonitions are to "be a little late. This shows independence and that you are not a clock watcher.

"Don't dress formally for an occasion such as this. A T-shirt or Levis are proper for this situation . . .

"When you come into the interviewer's room, don't wait to be asked to sit down. Plump yourself down, and when he comes in, stretch your hand out and give him the impression that you just

63 Ram Features Color

The 1963 Ram will have something new this year: A full color cover plus four pages of color.

Editor Barbara Didier said this is the first year that the FCC annual has had a full color cover. In addition there will be about 100 pages of student life on the campus.

She said the yearbook may be bought in the library, the main foyer or the student center during the Ram sales campaigns. The first sales drive will begin on Feb. 4 and continue through Feb. 9.

She added that the yearbook may be sold in the registration lines later this month.

Edward Hibler, Ram advisor, added that a savings can be made by buying an annual early. The price now is $2 but later it will increase to $3.

The yearbook has been planned for a late May delivery.

FRANK CONWAY, left, director of the People to People program, discusses the activities of the FCC chapter of the club with ASB President Fred Faieta and Vice-president Fred Martin.

'People To People' Head Addresses Campus Club

Students in Fresno City College can help build world peace and formulate future foreign policy right here on campus.

This is the statement of Frank Conway, regional director of the university People to People program. He spoke to 40 students and faculty members who attended the organizational meeting of the FCC group last Thursday.

Peace and understanding can best be accomplished through personal friendships among the peoples of the world, said the San Francisco State College graduate student.

"The foreign students on your campus will be the educated elite of other countries in the future," he stated. "It is they who will be making foreign policy; they will be greatly influenced in their decisions by the ideas they formed while in the United States."

Conway said that the immediate benefits of the program will be an international mindedness and a series of warm friendships in Fresno City College. The long run outcome is in a contribution to world understanding, said Conway.

How NOT To Solve A Parking Problem

By TOM WALLIS
Feature Editor

* * * * *

When Weldon Avenue was widened during the early stages of the construction of the new gym, a lot of us seized upon the opportunity to park diagonally along the new curb. This seemed like a grand idea. We could squeeze about thirty per cent more cars into the block this way.

Then the city traffic division came along and painted little X's to indicate we'd better park parallel, or else. A lot of folks were indignant, including this writer. But not wishing to find out what "or else" was, we complied.

This situation prompted a "Park Diagonally on Weldon Ave." campaign, headed by yours truly, and boasting a membership of one. Not wishing to fiddle around with assistants and assistant assistants, we took our gripe right to the top. We obtained an interview with City Traffic Manager E. M. Frink.

We found him to be well acquainted with our parking conditions (or lack of same) but unyielding to our pleas. The interview went something like this:

"Hello, Mr. Frink?"

"Yes." We identified ourselves and pleaded our case in what we thought was a very diplomatic fashion. ". . . and we were wondering if it might be possible to repaint the pavement to allow for diagonal parking."

"I'm afraid it's out of the question," was the courteous reply.

"Weldon Ave. has always been marked for parallel parking. Diagonal parking is much too dangerous in a congested area such as yours."

"But the street has been widened now, and don't you think . . ."

"No, I'm sorry. It's out of the question. Weldon was merely widened from a narrow street to a standard width. The only way you could have the parking system changed would be to have the area re-zoned, and your chances of doing that for your purposes are slim."

So scratch that campaign.

Incidentally, if you are wondering what to take next semester to add another two, four, or even seven units to your collection, the Walls Student Counseling Agency Amalgamated heartily recommends the FCC journalism program. No experience is necessary, and you'll meet a lot of interesting people.

I could mention the three day all-expense-paid conference to be held at Disneyland in April, but I wouldn't want to create the impression that students who study journalism are doing so for any other than purely academic reasons.

I won't mention the steak banquet either, for fear of creating the impression that we are involved in an all-play and no work racket. Nothing could be farther from the truth. I can remember two or three times during the first semester when we've had to take time out to do a little work.

Student Profs Plan Party

Sigma Tau Alpha, the Student California Teachers' Association at FCC, is planning its first annual free snow party at Shaver Lake Jan. 27.

President Warren Churchwell stated that all students are welcome to attend the all-day event. Reservations can be made by calling Churchwell at AM 6-6323. The club has invited 14 SCTA clubs from junior colleges and universities to spend the night at the Sigma Tau Alpha Lodge at Shaver Lake. All FCC clubs and the FCC faculty have also been invited to spend the night at the lodge.

The events include tobogganing, sledding, and ice skating all Sunday morning and afternoon.

The students are asked to bring a sack lunch, but soup, coffee, tea, and cocoa will be provided for them.

A dinner snack of soup, coffee, tea, cocoa, dips and chips will be provided.

In the evening entertainment and a wiener roast will conclude the day's events.

Spring Classes Offer Four New Courses Business Section Adds Tax Accounting

Four new day courses and four new night subjects are offered in Fresno City College's new spring semester schedules, which the admissions office announced are now available. In addition, the day schedule lists 11 courses that are only given in the spring semester, and the evening division schedule has 13 in this category. There are 650 classes in the day schedule and 144 in the night schedule.

New day courses include nursing and the family—part of the new professional nursing program—and three in the business division: auditing, labor relations, and medical secretarial training.

New evening courses include two in the college's new real estate program: real estate finance and trends, and factors in real estate. The other new night subjects are refresher mathematics and fire department apparatus and equipment.

Day courses only offered in the spring term include two in the business division; tax accounting and personnel management. The other nine are in the letters, arts, and science division: microbiology, general botany, organic chemistry laboratory, English literature (1800 to the present), regional geography, survey of news, news writing, comparative government, and music listening and appreciation (classic romantic period).

Night courses that are only given in the spring include advertising, personnel management, real estate practice, legal aspects of real estate, business English, astronomy, music for elementary teachers, personal and social adjustment, family life education, power plants, plane surveying, descriptive geometry, and police training for peace officers.

The college also has many other year courses in which the second semester is only offered in the spring semester.

Commissioner Positions Still Open

Commissioner positions for the spring semester will be still open until tomorrow at 3 PM.

President Fred Faleta stated that only commissioner of assemblies has been applied for. Still open are the commissioners of athletics, oral arts, publications, publicity, rally, scholarships, social affairs, student welfare and elections.

Each commissioner receives a life student body membership for his services. Also they will attend the council meetings to be held at Sky Ranch on Jan. 29. The students will be given a chance to help with registration Jan. 30, 31, and Feb. 1. For this they will get priority in registration.

Vacancies were caused among the ten commissioners when several students left office.

Nine Miles' Worth

By BILL HORD, Sports Editor

'TWINS MIGHT DO IT!'

By RICHARD SALAIS

An interesting aspect may develop for Joe Kelly's Fresno City College quintet following the semester break. Sometimes a couple of variables can change the complexion of a basketball squad. For the Rams, this could happen. But don't count on it—it seldom works.

Fresno City College is fortunate, to some extent, in having a pair of mid-western transfers named Ron and Don Matt itching to play ball. And why not? These razzle dazzle identical twins, which by the way are almost impossible to differentiate (except for a glittering gold tooth embedded in Ron's ivory holder) have created a threshold of Wisconsin philosophy upon our seemingly unorthodox California esteem.

Can't Win

To the Matts, sports and its aftermath, are the only living thing—to live for. Being a native Californian I sometimes wonder how these dairyland inhabitants exist. But after meeting them, talking to them and debating with them a line is drawn in their favor. And that favor is simple. Do not at any time attempt to argue with a Wisconsinite concerning baseball, basketball and especially the world of professional football. You can't win!

But getting back to Joe Kelly's band of hoopsters, the probable (I say probable because scholastically speaking it is probable) addition of these hotshot guards could stir a little venom into the already dangerous Ram five. But again I say, this only works occasionally. And if it was to happen to the Racine twins they deserve the prestige they have been garnering for.

Ram To Cut Loose

The Rams, compiling so far a tantalizing 18-4 record, will be no pushovers from here on out. Forward Rich "Shelly" Turney, and fast improving freshman Lonnie Hughey are racking up points consistently. Moreover, it appears that Billy "The Kid" Hicks has found his old form by netting over fifteen points in his last two outings. John Loyear, a steady 6'5" performer, will be hard to condemn and with the loss of Bob Martin next semester Loyear will be depended upon on the boards.

Guard Steve Mazzoni, still recuperating from a recent injury, will alternate with playmaker George Monreal at the other guard post. Ken Critchlow, Chris Heinz, Lee Hayes and of course the Racine twins will also see plenty of action.

Three Team Race Forecast

All in all, look for an exciting Valley Conference race with three teams likely to pick up the chips. Modesto, Stockton and Fresno seem to be the choices from this corner. The other entrants come from the likes of Sacramento, American River and COS, who by the way are suffering disappointing seasons.

DROP THRILLER BY 15-14

Wrestlers Show Gades Rough Time—But Lose

Fresno City College grapplers went right down to the wire Tuesday afternoon only to lose to Bakersfield 15-14 in an attempt to avenge an earlier 23-8 loss at the hands of the Renegades.

It was Woody Knott, a football player who just reported for wrestling a couple of weeks ago, who supplied most of the thrills in the final match of the meet.

Knott, although only a couple of weeks on the wrestling scene, fought Bakersfield's polished 191-pound Don Koontz tooth and nail only to lose the decision 7-6.

The Knott-Koontz match was probably the most thrilling of the season but it didn't overshadow a great deal some of the other fine matches in the Bakersfield dual.

Victory Matches

Victory matches for the Rams came from Ed Kirby in the 187-pound class as he took a decision over Dennis Haggard, 4-2. DeWayne Zinken decided Chuck Fenton in the 147-pound division, and Marshal Alcaraz won over Dave Ruiz.

Jim Cox lost to Bob Parnalee in the 123-pound class, Ed Cox was decided by Mike Stricker in the 137-pound class, Fred Andrews was beaten by Jim Bridger in the 157-pound weight, and Curtis Craig lost to Pete Delis at 167 pounds.

Jack Wernick won in the heavy-weight division on a forfeit.

FCC's grapplers finished ninth last Friday in the all-day Cal Poly Junior College Invitational Wrestling Tournament, mainly through the prowess of Wernick who took three out of four matches and second place in his division.

Wernick Second

The Ram matmen scored 22 points in the field of 25 teams that participated in the tourney on Wernick's second place and fourth places by Fred Andrews in the 157 division and Ed Kirby in the 177-pound class.

El Camino College scored 56 points to win the tournament ahead of San Bernardino, Fullerton, San Mateo, Cal Poly JVs, Orange Coast, Modesto and Cerritos.

The Rams host College of the Sequoias in a dual meet here tomorrow as they get back into the conference circle at 4 PM in the old auditorium.

After the COS meet, FCC's grapplers take a short vacation before they return to the mats second semester with a home meet against Cabrillo College Feb. 5, another 4 PM match.

POCKET TWO LOOP VICTORIES

Rams Shellack Reedley 82-57 Despite Shooting Problems In First Half

By BILL HORD

Fresno City College didn't seem to be bothered too much by an extremely cold-shooting first half Tuesday night as it eased to basketball win No. 18, 82-57 over Reedley.

The Rams hit only 25 per cent of their shots in the first half, one of their worst efforts of the season, but still managed a 35-27 margin at intermission.

Nearly five minutes were gone in the game before Billy Hicks connected for FCC's first field goal after the Tigers of Reedley had mustered a 9-1 lead.

Then the Rams scored 10 straight points for an 11-9 lead with each of the FCC starting five getting two points in the short spurt.

The non-conference game saw-sawed back and forth until the Rams took the lead to stay with 5:04 remaining in the half when Hicks dumped two free throws for a 23-21 lead.

Two baskets each by George Monreal and Lonnie Hughey and individual buckets by John Loyear and Lee Hayes gave the visiting Rams their eight-point half-time margin.

The closest the Tigers could come in the second half was five points when the score stood 35-30 with less than five minutes gone.

With 14 minutes left, the game was halted while the Reedley bench combed the playing floor for a contact lens reported missing by the Tigers' Mike Laylock. When the search was found fruitless, Laylock discovered the lens under his upper eyelid.

Billy Hicks led the scoring for the Rams with a total of 15 points, setting the pace for four other FCC sharpshooters that hit the double figures.

Lonnie Hughey bucketed 14 points, Rich Turney had 12, John Loyear totaled 11, and Steve Mazzoni hit for 10.

The win over Reedley was a follow-up after two victories in Valley Conference play as the FCC cagers toppled Sacramento JC and American River in Sacramento last weekend.

In their conference debut against American River Friday night, the Rams steamed to an easy 78-58 win after taking a 38-33 lead at half-time.

Four FCC cagers hit double figures against ARJC with Rich Turney and Lonnie Hughey paving the way with 17 apiece. Forward John Loyear and guard George Monreal chipped in 15 and 11, respectively.

Saturday night against Sacramento, it was Hicks again who paced the scorers and led the way to another easy loop victory 62-41.

With only 300 fans in the stands, Hicks helped FCC to a 28-19 half-time spread with the help of teammates John Loyear and Hughey who tallied 11 points apiece.

Fresno City College's record now stands 18-4 as the Rams head into two more non-conference games this weekend, traveling to Hancock tomorrow night and to Coalinga Saturday night.

NIELSEN OFFERS AID

(Continued from Page 2) handed him a cold, dead fish. If you give him a firm handshake, he may assume you are too gregarious and perhaps even trying to make a good impression. "Slouch down in your chair. The interviewer is not looking for leaders, just teachers, and if you sit up straight and walk erect, the personnel officer could easily conclude that you look like a person who may really want a job."

ON TOP OF LOOP STANDINGS

FCC Invades Hancock With Prestige on Line

So far—so good. That's the picture the Rams have in the Valley Conference after a total of five games have been played in the 1963 basketball season.

Fresno City College has played in two of the five games and now finds itself at the top of the loop standings just one rung ahead of Stockton.

Neither of the two teams has lost a conference game but the Rams have won two while Stockton has only a 90-54 victory over Modesto to its credit.

However, both Modesto and Stockton hold previous victories over FCC when they piled together in the same day to topple the Rams in the Modesto Tournament.

American River Junior College has one win over College of the Sequoias, 84-66 to its credit and a 78-58 loss to the Rams.

Ram Victims

Sacramento is one-and-one in loop play and also has one win over the COS quintet and a loss to FCC.

Although conference play seems to be first and foremost, the Rams have a game of prestige on tab at Hancock tomorrow night.

Hancock, with a record of 15-2 has been sharing top billing along with Fresno City College as possibly the two top JC teams in the state. However, if the Rams want to stay on the billboard they need to get ahead of high-riding Hancock.

A Toss-Up?

Comparing the past of the two teams makes the game appear to be a toss-up—which it probably is. Hancock owns an 89-85 win over Fresno in the FCC Invitational tournament earlier, but Bakersfield, a team the Rams have had only slight trouble with in three games, downed the Bulldogs to the tune of 79-65 earlier in the season.

The Bulldogs may be just too much on their home court if they get their eyes on the basket like they did against the Rams during the first half of the tournament game played at Roosevelt.

Undoubtedly, Hancock has some of the finest shooters traveling the cage circuit in John Dampier, Dan Farrell, and Granny Lash, a trio of stars that gained fame in prep circles.

Hancock, like Fresno, is holding down the number one spot in its conference, the Central California Junior College Association.

The Rams keep to the road again Saturday night with a trip to Coalinga for another non-conference test. Coalinga is 0-1 in the CCJCA with a 63-59 loss to Porterville.

Speaker Lauds Peace Program

the United States since 1961, according to Conway. He said that similar programs are now being set up in Asia and Africa.

He urged American and foreign students to become acquainted on campus, to visit each others' homes and learn about their respective customs and culture. This results in a stimulating intellectual experience, according to Conway.

"You can travel around the world just by staying in Fresno and getting acquainted with international students," he added.

He also announced that several students in Fresno City College may be chosen to serve as People to People ambassadors during the summer. The student ambassadors will spend eight weeks traveling and living with student groups and families.

"They will not be tourists," he emphasized, "They will represent your college and nation in an ambassadorial capacity."

People to People will send 1000 students from the United State abroad this summer. Last summer 431 participated in the program.

Applications are available to members of People to People in the student president's office, Room 229 of the student center. Further information may be obtained from Leslie Guenzel.

Anne-Marie Bernheim is the president of the Fresno City College People to People organization.
