22 FCC Students Vie For ASB Offices

MITCHELL BOWER
"Cooperation"

Sophomore Bower Calls For Unity

"I gave the matter a lot of thought before I finally decided to run for office," stated Mitchell Bower, a sophomore political science major who is a candidate for ASB president.

The 21-year-old Bower, a graduate of Fresno High School, has been a representative on student council for two semesters and is now serving as commissioner of conferences. He is also Associated Men Students representative to Inter Club Council for the third consecutive semester. Last year he was vice-president of ICC.

Currently he is business manager for the Rampage and a member of the yearbook staff.

If elected, Bower is planning to put into effect a program, the "pyramid of action", which stresses four main points.

1. On Campus—"I will work with the administration to improve the campus facilities," he said. "Problems like the one in the cafeteria must be solved now!"

2. Community—"The community should have a good image of Fresno City College. The people need to know what the school is really like. They should be aware of the quality of education here."

3. New District—"We must be ready to work with the new trustees. There will be changes made and we will help if asked. Everyone must cooperate as much as possible."

4. State Organization—"On this level the junior colleges can advise and make suggestions to each other, and recommendations to the state legislature. We can help all junior colleges to be as successful as we are."

Bower feels that Fresno City College is one of the leading junior colleges in the state and it is the responsibility of the president and the council to maintain this position.

"With my program we will maintain our high standards by continuing the spirit of cooperation that now exists among council members."

Election Wednesday

Candidates Out-Number Offices—For A Change

Sophomore presidential hopefuls Mitchell Bower and Terry Edgmon lead the list of students who have begun campaigns for spring semester ASB offices.

On Wednesday student voters will go to the polls to elect the new officers. They will be presented with a choice of at least two candidates for almost every major office. There are 11 students running for the 10 available representative at large posts.

Vice President

Susan Hawthorne, 18-year-old vice presidential candidate, is the retiring president of the Associated Women Students. She is an art major and plans to transfer to Fresno State College next year.

"I have worked with both Mitchell and Terry," she stated. "I was associated with Terry when we were student body officers at Kingsburg High and I have served with Mitch on student council."

"Even though I am running unopposed," she added, "I will still do the best job I possibly can."

Secretary

Carolyn Poindexter, a fifth semester student, is running for her second term as associated student secretary.

"After being secretary this semester, I think that I can be a better officer next semester," she said. "I know more fully the duties of the secretary and what is expected of her. I hope that my past experience will enable me to do a better job."

Treasurer

Carol Cloves, candidate for treasurer, occupies the post of commissioner of elections this semester. She hopes to travel to Europe this summer and transfer to FSC next year.

Miss Cloves feels that by participating in student activities she can help FCC better itself.

"Council members and students must get together and work as a team," she stated. "The treasurer works with the administration and the financial secretary. She is an important link between the administration and the students. As treasurer I would try to keep these two groups closely coordinated."

Barbara Didier, a sophomore from Fresno, thinks that being editor of last year's Ram has qualified her for the job of treasurer.

"Dealing with the editorship of the Ram I have learned to understand and cope with a budget like the one on campus. The Ram is one of the largest single budget items, involving over $7,000. As treasurer I would see that the students are well represented. They will get what they pay for!"

Miss Didier served this semester as commissioner of student welfare and was secretary of the sophomore class.

Marihelen Thomas, also a treasurer hopeful, was treasurer of three clubs in high school. She would like to see how the government on the campus is run, and see that each student is given a better opportunity to take an active part in school affairs.

"The students should know and understand the reasons for different actions taken by the student council," she said. "If the students and the council worked together, I believe there would be a greater interest taken in the activities throughout the campus."

AWS President

Milaun Dowell, a 19-year-old liberal arts major, is vying for the post of AWS president. This semester Miss Dowell has been a representative at large on student council and vice president of AWS.

By running for this office, she hopes to contact many women students about the organization.

"I would like to inform them of the friendships and activities offered by the club.

"If elected, I will try to enlarge the membership and work closely with AMS in making the activities as successful as the ones this semester."

Dorothy (Dottie) Feldmann, also a candidate for AWS president, is editor of the '64 Ram. The 21-year-old sophomore came to Fresno from White Horse, Yukon Territory, in Canada, and has plans to become a United States citizen. At FCC she has been active in student council and AWS for three semesters. She is also a member of the International Club.

Miss Feldmann's reason for running for AWS president is to get girls interested in the organization and to work with the AMS for the students.

"I would like to make the club work smoothly," commented Miss Feldmann. "Also I would like to see AWS put on a fashion show. The group put one on several semesters ago, and I would like to use this activity to promote interest in the club," she said.

AMS President

The two candidates for AMS president are David Coleman and Irving Lee.

Coleman, an accounting major, plans to transfer to FSC and become a certified public accountant. He has been active in student council here and at Roosevelt High School.

"I think being AMS president would be fun," said Coleman. "But more important, I feel that the club would be terrific if someone would make it go; it could be powerful but the power isn't being used."

If elected, Coleman plans to adopt a "secret" program. In partial explanation he stated, "I will try to make AMS what it should be. I would like to improve school spirit, too. AMS has a lot to do with this because of the dances and social activities it promotes."

Irving Lee, a civil engineering major, states his qualifications as meeting those set up in the FCC constitution.

"I think the president of the AMS should be able to organize things," said Lee. "I have been the chairman of the food committee for the Ramburger Roundup and of the homecoming parade. This has given me experience in organization."

Lee's campaign plans call for putting up posters and handing out leaflets. "If elected," he concluded, "I will try to encourage

TERRY EDGMON
"Work to be done"

Edgmon Points To High School Experience

A former student body president of Kingsburg High School, Terry Edgmon, head of this semester's sophomore class cabinet, is seeking the highest office at City College, the presidency of the associated student body.

"I feel that I could best serve FCC at this post and that the students should have a choice between at least two candidates," stated Edgmon. "It is indeed an honor to attain such a position here."

If Terry is elected president he will attempt to establish a new program of trying to channel graduating high school student leaders to FCC in order to strengthen the council and the student body as a whole.

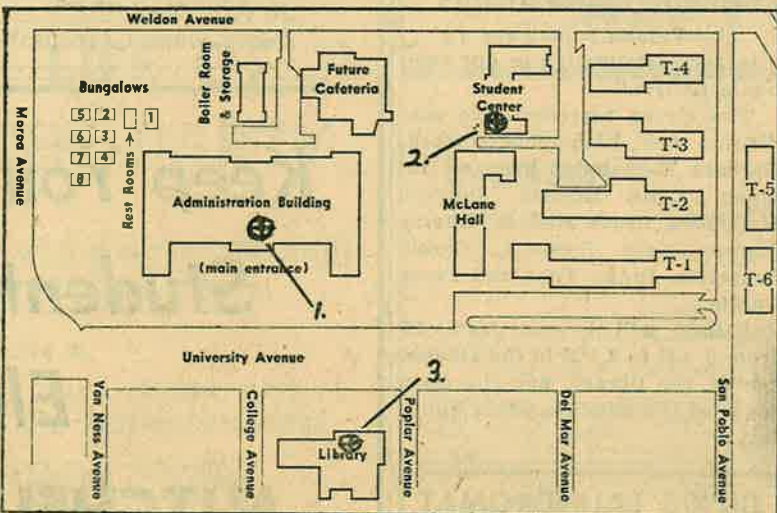

"This would be accomplished through cooperation with the administration to present to the high schools within the district more information about our school and what it has to offer the high school graduate," he explained. "I think that there needs to be a stepping up of either student activities or a greater publicity program to arouse the student's interest in the affairs of his school."

Edgmon plans to meet as many students as possible in the week before the election and to acquaint them with his ideas. "This way they will be in a better position to judge between candidates."

The student body president has a definite role in directing the activities of the council and the formation of student government policy, according to Edgmon. He should be an expert in parliamentary procedure and have the ability to appoint capable people for the jobs that need to be done.

"As a past student body president in high school I am familiar with parliamentary procedure and experienced in the field of inter-student-body and student-body-administration relations," he said. "The president must also act as a liaison between the council and the administration and work continually in the best interests of the student body as a whole."

BALLOT BOOTH LOCATIONS are marked on the map above. No. 1 is located in the main foyer of the administration building, No. 2 is in the student center, and No. 3 is in the library.

STUDENT ELECTION PLIGHT
FACED BY PAST STUDENTS

Five Years Ago

FCC students were preparing for Associated Student Body elections. Doug Eudaly was the unopposed candidate for president while King Morris was also unopposed for the office of vice-president. Other unopposed offices and candidates were Diane Nixon, secretary; Carolyn Steffen, treasurer; and Sharon Sue Martin, Associated Women Students president. Two candidates, Jack Whitling and Fred Stafford, were vying for the office of Associated Men Students president while 18 contested the 10 representative offices.

The FCC Forensics Club opened the first all-college speech tournament with seventeen speakers opening the preliminary rounds at noon. Franz Weinchenk, advisor who is still on the FCC faculty, and a student committee were in charge of the program.

Certificates of completion were about to be awarded to members of FCC's vocational nursing class. Monsignor Francis X. Singleton, rector of St. John's Cathedral, was to give the benediction while Stuart M. White, college president, and Robert P. Hansler, dean of the technical and industrial division, were also scheduled to speak.

In the sports world, the FCC Ram basketball team was preparing to journey to Modesto to participate in a three-day tournament. The Rams were to take on the Modesto Junior College Pirates in an opener for both teams. The FCC team had one victory over the Pirates during a tournament at Bakersfield the previous

10 Years Ago

Fresno Junior College students went to the polls to vote for spring semester student officers. Heading the list of candidates were Carol Gostanian and Arthur Lea for president and Pat Still and Brent Freeman were campaigning for the office of vice-president. Ann Nelson was the lone wolf candidate for secretary while three students, Ellen Talley, Bonnie Warren and Joe Gonzales, vied for the office of treasurer. There were four candidates running to fill the 10 representative posts: Shirley McNay, Blanch Milhan, Gladys Popp and Tom Ryan.

Sue Sheehan was elected to the post of president of Red Key, a female student service organization. In an election the previous week. Pat Still, outgoing president, handed over her gavel to Mrs. Sheehan at a potluck dinner in the Ramble Inn. The Red Key was participating in a balloon sale for the benefit of the March of Dimes.

FJC students were preparing for the fatal exam week. President Stuart M. White released the schedule of final exams.

YEARBOOK FACES ELIMINATION;
COMMITTEE INVESTIGATES

Next year might find Fresno City College without a yearbook. This is a possibility unless another solution can be found to finance the yearbook. This is the consensus of the Student Activities Control board. The main reason for the discontinuance of the publication is the high cost of production. The cost has been estimated at nearly $7,000.

Make Study

The board recommended that the student council set up a committee to make a study of the Ram financing.

This study will not affect this year's Ram since it is already in production.

Public Relations

The Ram editor, Dorothy Feldmann, has this comment: "I think that the board is making a grave mistake in even thinking of discontinuing the Ram. This book has always been one of the strongest sources of public relations for this college. Although it is the highest item on the student body budget for the spring semester, I feel that the students should be consulted before any action is taken, since it is their money we are spending. Maybe some changes could be made to subsidize the yearbook, such as advertising or raising the cost of the book to students. In any case I am definitely against discontinuing the Ram."

Investigate Cost

The results of this investigation will be revealed at the next student council meeting. The purpose of the committee appointed by President Fred Martin will be to investigate the cost and the benefits of the yearbook production.

Brings Comments

The recommendation to investigate the yearbook financing brought several comments from both students and faculty.

Edward Hibler, Ram advisor, said "I agree with the board. I think the cost of the yearbook is too high, $7,000 is a lot of money which benefits so few. I am all for this committee to look into the whole situation."

Bring Comments

The recommendation to investigate the yearbook financing brought several comments from both students and faculty.

Dean Holstein
Clarifies New Registration

Due to the confusion on the part of some students regarding the new registration system, Dean of Admissions George C. Holstein issued a statement Tuesday to help clarify the situation.

"Students should understand," he said, "that the number on their line card entitles them to priority in having their class cards pulled, beginning Monday." He said that at the time the class cards are pulled, in the auditorium, students should take note of the date upon which they must return to complete their registration.

He urged students to read the instructions carefully, so that the new system may be implemented as smoothly as possible.

The eleven representative candidates are Richard Comstock, Barbara Ehrenburg, Frances Hanoian, Edith Hughes, Suzanne Holloman, Bruce Madsen, Cherry Moore, Kaye Sessions, Carole Schaeffer, JoAnn Tuck and Percy Garcia.

Ballots will be cast Jan. 15 from 8 AM to 3 PM in the student center, the library, and the main foyer of the administration building.

DPO May Lose
Charter

Delta Psi Omega, FCC chapter of a national drama fraternity, is in danger of losing their national charter next semester if the drama department is not reactivated.

Robert Russell, DPO president, said that the organization had been told that there would be two drama instructors this semester, but there aren't any yet.

"The organization has always been one of the most active on the FCC campus," commented Russell.

"The national charter is automatically revoked if the organization is not active for one semester," said Russell, "but if we resume activities, the charter will once again become valid," he continued.

Russell said that the only hope of retaining the charter next semester lies with the rest of the speech department, "we used to help the speech instructors by speaking to and hearing their classes speak, using voice projection, now maybe they can help us out," he concluded.

SAMPLE BALLOT

This sample ballot is printed by the Rampage as an aid to students on election day, next Wednesday. This guide should be scrutinized so the student will be better able to make his selection for student body officers.

Council Airs Plans To Remodel Lounge For Officers, Chambers

Plans have been set in action to convert the student lounge into student government chambers.

The lounge was closed on Nov. 19 by the student council after fourteen successive semesters of controversy surrounding alleged mistreatment and destruction in the lounge.

"The lounge was closed to eliminate the recurring untidiness and the ever present disturbing noises which emanated from within," said Barbara Didier, ASB treasurer.

Once the lounge was closed, it was decided by the student council that the room on the second floor of the student center could be put to use as a council office, pending the opening of a new and larger lounge in the downstairs section of the building. The new lounge is scheduled to open sometime during the fall semester of 1964.

It is further being considered that the old lounge be re-painted and re-furnished in the form of a large office.

A committee of twelve—Bill Bispham, Barbara Didier, Terry Edgmon, Jim Elia, Al Fox, Frances Hanolan, Susan Hawthorne, Peggy Lee, Carolyn Poindexter, Suzie Reid, and John Reynolds—headed by Rick Wrightson, is currently choosing samples and obtaining bids for drapery from various stores in Fresno.

Three desks, chairs and a file cabinet were purchased for the current office. Six desks, nine chairs, a typewriter, two file cabinets, two lamps, and a clock now reside in the office of the student president which is a mere 15 by 20 feet in size.

More desks and file cabinets are being considered so that there will be facilities for all of the elected officers. The representatives at large and the commissioners will receive some type of a seating arrangement which will enable them to carry out their varied responsibilities.

A reception counter, mail boxes and tables for a publicity workshop are also included in the re-furnishing plans.

FCC Ram Staff Plans Sales Campaign; Book Price Raised At Semester

"A special sales campaign will go into effect Monday," said Dorothy Feldmann, Ram Editor.

The Ram, FCC's yearbook, costs two dollars and may be purchased from any staff member. After the end of the semester the price will be raised to $2.50 and at the end of the year the price will be three dollars.

Miss Feldmann said that the book is divided into four sections—Faculty, Sports, Classes, and Student Life. "The staff is hard at work making a book that will be enjoyed by all," she said.

Miss Holloman, who is working on the Student Life section, said "those working on this section are trying to make it one of the best ever, and are trying to include as many students as possible."

Special features included in the '64 Ram are full page color, and pictures of some of FCC's coeds under the title of 'Miss Athletics', said Miss Feldmann.

"We also have a very good sports section this year," she added. "Our sports photographers have been doing a good job of taking action shots."

Students Will See Pictures On Ballots

For the first time in the history of Fresno City College pictures of the candidates will appear on the ballot for the student body election Wednesday.

"The ballots are an attempt to promote more interest in the election," stated Carol Cloves, commissioner of elections. "Some students are hesitant about voting for a candidate they do not know. This way those running for office will be recognized by their pictures."

In the class election held at the beginning of this semester 700 day students out of a total of approximately 4,000 voted.

"It is hoped that the new ballots will greatly increase the participation of the students in electing their school leaders," added Miss Cloves. "The money for printing the ballots was appropriated by student council."

Although the Jan. 15 election was to have been a class election also, no candidates filed for class office, pointed out Miss Cloves.

One-Third City College Students In Letters, Arts, Sciences

Fall enrollment figures show that the Letters, Arts and Science Division accounts for almost one-third of the 6085 current FCC students with 1815 enrollees.

The Technical and Industrial Division accounts for 1948 majors, and the Business Division enrolls 1711.

In a breakdown, by majors, Liberal Arts tops the list with more than 1016 students. Second in popularity is General Business boasting 653 enrollees.

In contrast, journalism majors number only 16. Lab technicians and pre-X-ray technicians total eight. Only one student is enrolled as an industrial supervision major.

Other leading majors are accounting, business ad., secretarial, business machines, speech, elementary teaching, auto mechanics, radio and TV repair, and welding.

The Business and Letters, Arts and Science Division are fairly equally split with male and female enrollees. Only 124 women seek majors in the technical and industrial field. Of these, 77 are registered in vocational nursing, two in plastering and two in radio and TV repair. One woman is majoring in welding, one in carpentry, and one in agriculture.

Only in the Business Division do women outnumber the men. Over 2500 are enrolled in extended day classes.

Name The District

The Greeks probably had a word for it, but as yet the administrators of the new junior college district have been unable to decide on a proper title for the new organization.

Director Baxter Richardson, realizing the tremendous potential of the creative young mind of the college student, has asked for suggestions from FCC students.

Names already suggested include:

"Central Valley Junior College District."

"Central San Joaquin JC District."

"Central California JC District."

Anyone who feels he can do better should mail his suggestion to the Rampage office by Monday, Jan. 13.

Rams Roll—Host VC Duo

Star Center Hughey Sets Hot Pace

Champs 12-1 After Topping State's Best

By DON FOSTER, Sports Editor

Retaining a state crown might be too big of a bite for some teams to chew (especially after losing four starters like Fresno City College did), but Joe Kelly's Ram cagers, defending California junior college titlist, is showing just the reverse by eating the biggest share of basketball glory in the state, smearing some of the best quints in the state in rolling up a 12-1 record.

The Valley Conference Co-champs will host the American River Junior College Beavers and the Sacramento City College Panthers Friday and Saturday nights at 8 PM in the VC lidlifters.

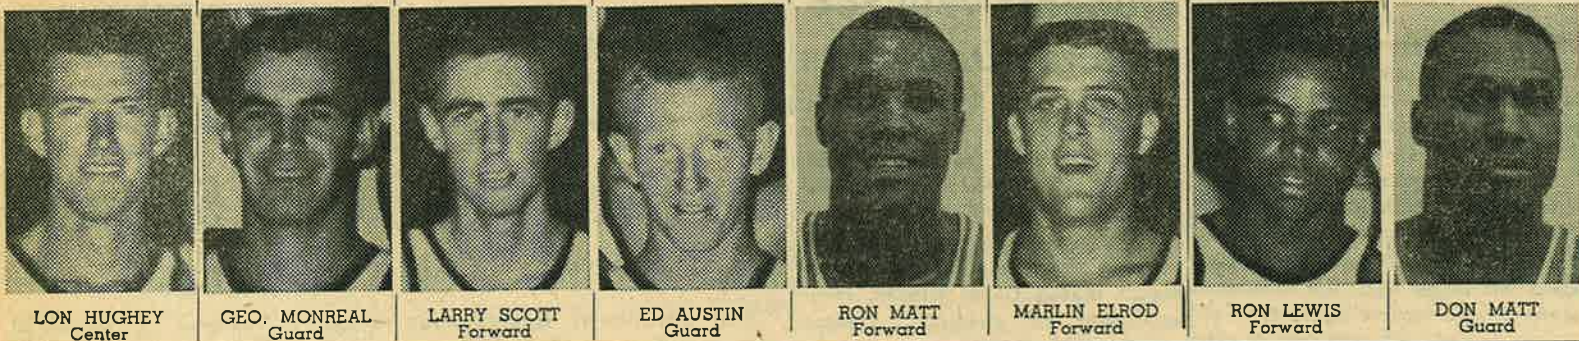

Lonnie "Duck" Hughey, Kelly's 6-7 scoring machine, will have 900 points by the end of the season if he keeps pouring weeks before. Highly rated City College of San Mateo snapped Fresno's seven game winning skein with a narrow, 75-70, spanking, eliminating the losers from the tourney. San Mateo went on to grab the fest crown.

A week later in Glendale, the Rams seemed to be ignited by the Southern California sunshine, and went back on their victorious ways by sweeping four games in the 14th annual Sam Berry Memorial Tournament for their second championship in three years.

Fifth To Hit 41 Or More

Hughey hit his season scoring peak in the Berry opener, with East Los Angeles CC, snaring 41 tallies to be the fifth man in FCC history to hit that high a mark. The most recent in points at his 28.2 pace. This means the pivot man would surpass Warren Schmidt's 1956-57 single season mark by nearly 200 tallies, and Gary Alcorn's two-year leadership (1954-55, 1956-57) by 350 points (Hughey racked up 626 last season).

City College Edges Hancock Again

Allen Hancock College of Santa Maria was toppled for the second time by Fresno as Hughey made up for last time's poor showing he and Bulldog star center Nick Allen met, by out scoring and out rebounding the Hancock player in a nip-and-tuck game—which was taken by the locals, 79-78, when Ram forward Larry Scott sank the winning freethrow line jumper as the buzzer sounded.

The hoopsters were not quite so lucky in the outcome of the second contest of the Modesto JC hoop tournament two 40 point-plus performance was in 1957 when Schmidt hit 48 against Coalinga JC.

Hughey, Scott and guard George Monreal made the Berry all-tourney team for guiding the Rams over East LA, 91-74; Long Beach, 95-67; Cerritos, 79-74; and El Camino, 97-74. Since the team was eliminated after their second meeting in Modesto feter, no one on Kelly's crew were eligible for all-tourney selections. The quintet downed Cerritos, 86-77, at the start of the three-day affair.

Ron Matt, 5-10, replaced 6-5 Marlin Elrod during the Glendale matches to take over the No. 5 position. Hughey, Scott, Monreal and Ed Austin round out the other four starters. The rest of the team includes Ken Long, Fred Austin, Don Matt, Ron Lewis, Dave Williams, Ken Kilday, Don Bragonier, Jim Templeton, John Cates, and Dan Diel.

son's Ram-Marin regional play-off (Locals won 79-60), holds nearly 2,700 specators.

These cagers were the best in state last year and are proving that they want to be repeaters of that claim again this season.

In a two-year school of any kind it is hard to get the mass to be loyal, but if Bakersfield College can fill their football stadium every game—why can't Fresno CC? At least fill up their brand new athletic plant two-thirds. —DF

Matmen Take Fourth Straight

By DON MENCARINI

Fresno City College's grapplers won their fourth straight dual match of the season in defeating a strong Modesto JC team, 19-11, December 18, in the Ram gymnasium.

Ron Marquez, a 123-pound performer opened the match, had one of Fresno's two pins. Marquez remained undefeated in dual matches with his fourth straight win of the season. Marquez pinned Jim Gilbert in the first round.

In the second match of the day,

Ron Nidever decisioned Mickey Martin, 8-2, in the 130-pound class.

Dave Austin kept his winning record alive by pinning Fred Gerard in the first round. Austin has won four straight matches without a defeat.

Frank Cole gave Modesto their first win by defeating Jim Ashjian in the 147-pound division. This match was a close one down to the wire with Cole pulling it out, 6-4.

In the most exciting match of the day, Armondo Jacobo lost to Lee Ehrler who were both undefeated going into the match. Jacobo was leading by three points until the final 10 seconds of the match when he was dropped on his back to lose the match by one point, 6-5.

The only pin for Modesto came when Leroy Evans pinned Dennis Deliddo in the second round of the 167-pound division go.

Coming through to help give Fresno the win was undefeated Frank Kerby, who decisioned Jim Coverly, 4-0. In the heavy-weight class undefeated Woody Knott decisioned Frank Tucker, 6-2, to give the Rams their 19-11 win over Modesto.

Four Remain Undefeated

After four straight wins, Knott, Kerby, Austin and Marquez remain undefeated in dual matches.

This Saturday, the Rams will enter the Cal Poly Invitational Junior College Tournament in San Luis Obispo. Next Tuesday the Rams will return home to meet Bakersfield in a dual meet.

Wiedenhofer said that the boys have been looking forward to the tournament.
