Faculty Elects Officers

By LOUIS BELL
Assignment Editor

As Fresno City College students scurry about preparing platforms and circulating petitions for the various student body offices, all in preparation for the coming political storm, members of FCC's brighter side — the faculty — are taking down storm shutters and noticing many sparkling new faces.

Last week members of two of Fresno City College's faculty organizations, the Faculty Club and the Faculty Senate, got into the spirit of things and did a little politicking of their own. They, too, caught the election spirit.

Faculty Catches Fever

Now that the ballots have been cast, the votes counted and the clouds are clearing up, the Rampage converges on the scene checking the aftermath.

In the turbulence it was found that Tom Marshall was swept into the presidency of the Faculty Club, followed by Jess Baker, vice president; Mrs. Alma Palmer, secretary, and Bill Neal, treasurer.

They succeed Don Wren, president; John Castine, vice president; Miss Elizabeth Balakian, secretary and Mrs. Mary Miller, treasurer.

Senate Elects Leaders

Those managing to ride the tide of the election were Frank Attardo, Mrs. Dorothy Bliss, Ken Clark, Bill Day, Dick DeKoning, Dick Handley, Paul Hofeditz and Mrs. Dorothy Naman.

Others were Neal, Lee Ross, Bill Rumley, Ralph Salrin, Bill Spry and John Toomasian.

Bradshaw Wins JC Presidency

By GARY JEPSON
Rampage Staff Writer

Archie Bradshaw, president of Fresno City College, is the new president of the North-Central section of the California Junior College Association.

Bradshaw was elected president for the forthcoming year. He had been vice-president of the 18 college section, which extends from the Oregon border to Porterville.

Robert Bristow of Reedley College was named vice-president, Kenneth Rowland of Modesto Junior College, secretary, and Herb Blossom of Sacramento City College, treasurer.

"The value of this organization is the neutral exchange of ideas between both the faculty and administrators of the different colleges," Bradshaw said.

Bradshaw said he intends to extend this program to include state colleges and universities from the north-central section.

"Meeting with faculty and administrators from state colleges and universities and exchanging ideas with them would enable us to prepare the student better for these state colleges and universities," Bradshaw declared.

Nursing Director Resigns FCC Post

By SANDRA DRALLE
Rampage Staff Writer

Mrs. Mabelclaire Norman, director of nursing, has resigned her position to take a similar post at the Territorial University of Guam.

Mrs. Norman explained that the university is an accredited four year liberal arts college with less than 1,000 students.

She will be starting an associate of arts program in nursing at the school.

"Anyone on the island who wanted to be a nurse went to the United States, Japan or the Philippines and if he left he usually would not return," explained Mrs. Norman.

Four years ago Mrs. Norman came to Fresno City College to organize an AA degree program in nursing.

Classes first began in the fall of 1962 with two teachers. Today there are six full-time teachers, and last August the program graduated 21 students.

Before coming to FCC she taught at eight other schools of nursing. They include Highlands, Mestas Opposes Primavera; Candidate Assembly Wed.

By DENNIS MCCARTHY
Rampage Staff Writer

Eighteen student body positions will be determined by FCC students when they march to the polls May 19.

Petitions for the various offices, which must be signed and returned to the Admissions Office by 3 PM Tuesday, may still be obtained from Mrs. Lena Fuller in the Admissions Office.

As of Tuesday, two students had filed petitions for the office of student body president—Ron Primavera, the incumbent, and Luis Mestas. Primavera helped the Operation Lifeline program, and was among the student delegation representing FCC at the recent California Junior College Government Association Conference in Palm Springs.

Mestas, the challenger, is currently serving as representative at large on the Student Council. A native of Torreon, Coahuila, Mexico, Mestas has also been an active member of the Latin American Club and Los Conquistadores, the FCC Spanish club.

Philip Nava, a freshman, is currently unopposed for vice-president.

Up until Tuesday, Carol Andrews, a sophomore clerical major, was the only candidate for secretary. No students had, up until that time filed for treasurer.

Those students who filed petitions include Phillip Nava, Marion Osborn, Gary Deeter, Jim Pinchini, Terri Ryan, Pat Lane, Myra Aten, Diane Partain and Ron Winter.

Although only 11 students had filed, Mrs. Fuller said, "That's the way it generally turns out. But it is still early and there should be more candidates."

Spring Play Ticket Sales Start Today

Ticket sales for Joan of Lorraine by Maxwell Anderson, the drama department's spring production, will begin today in Room 154 of the Administration Building. Tickets are to be sold through May 14.

Admission prices are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students. Those holding a student body card may pick up a free ticket.

Girl Leads Army

Joan of Lorraine is the story of a peasant girl who leads an army against the English to drive them out of France.

"The play is an outstanding drama. St. Joan is a great heroine, and her story is always inspirational," stated Frederick Johnson, FCC drama director.

Cast Members

Cast members for FCC's production are Carolene Lung, Francis Sullivan, Richard Toschi, Sharon Castro, Joyce Dean, Bill Peterson, Larry Pazeian, Harry Hart, Mary Louise McGough, Nancy Wilkins, Bob Fenton, Dave Sheller, Bill Moore, Rick Underwood, Zorro Ohanesian, Luis Mestas and Christy Keener.

George Grant of Fresno State College and Randy Roberts, Chris Durney, Don Jordon and Doug Eckenrod, all of Fresno High School, also appear in the play.

Presentation of the play will be May 13, 14 and 15 in the Fresno City College auditorium.

Council Tables, Delays Proposals

Construction of a life size ram, to be placed in front of the administration building, was discussed at the Student Council meeting last Tuesday.

It was decided that concrete be used instead of granite to cut down costs and speed up the construction so that it might be ready by the beginning of the next school year.

"At present, the proposal is being discussed in a committee," informed Carol Andrews, associated student body secretary. "A decision on its passage should be

Earthquake, Elephants Peril First FCC Campus

Before 1948 Fresno City College had existed in conjunction with Fresno State College on the University Avenue campus. In that year the junior college took over the Fresno Technical High School campus at O Street and began a separate existence. Now, 18 years later, 12 in-structors from the first year at O Street remain. This is the second of three articles of the memories of the instructors.

Keith Emmert, a counselor, remembers that the Fresno City College night school was larger than the day classes when the school started. The largest division was technical and industrial.

From 1946 to 1954 he was the apprenticeship coordinator and veterans counselor. In reference to the veterans he stated that they were older than the rest of the students and "pretty generally had definite goals because they had experience behind them." However, "the present students are just as serious."

He remembers the "Snake Pit" well, but being on duty at night, he found the pit was rather lonesome, for it was a daytime function. In 1935 he attended an adult class in the room that became the pit. In it were taught surveying instruction, analytic and spherical geometry and mapping technology. A "good many of the local surveying teams received their first instruction in that room," he said.

Small Class

Jack Leyden, a geology instructor, recalled that one of his first physical geography classes had five or six students. FCC had seven sections of 40 students each last fall.

Other changes Leyden noted included the enlargement of the technical and industrial division, the removal of trees, the moving

Bell Tower — Old FCC Campus

of the bungalows and the increase of students.

He remembers that during one registration period at O Street, enrollment had almost reached the 1,000 mark, and the administration couldn't wait for the 1,000th student to walk in.

When the school moved from O Street to the present campus, it shared the buildings with Fresno State College. As State moved to its Shaw Avenue campus, City College gradually moved in.

Little Hope

Mrs. Edna Hartly of the business division noted that there was a lack of organization then: "We wondered if the struggling little thing would ever amount to anything." It had no campus of its own, no strong leadership and a small faculty, she said.

One of the first graduation ceremonies at O Street was for one or two students on an outside platform "underneath the monkey trees."

When the earthquake struck, the school was evacuated and classes were held in various buildings about town. The business division was lodged in the Municipal Auditorium where Mrs. Hartly held hers in the back stage dressing rooms. Conventions were being held and a circus was there. main floor, and there was no cool. Elephants walked about on the ing system: "Well, just let your imagination run!" she said.

The campus moved to University Avenue "piece meal." First to go was the liberal arts division, then the business division, and lastly technical and industrial when the new shops were built. In all, the old campus was in use until six years ago.

Students Lose Purpose In Many Demonstrations

In today's era of civil rights demonstrations, civil disobedience has taken on the stature of a performing art.

Last week, Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., former special assistant to Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson spoke here in Fresno.

Schlesinger's speech inside the Fresno Auditorium to a large quiet audience backed Johnson's foreign policy in Vietnam.

If I remember correctly, many "persecuted" University of protesting "LBJ's War on Vietnam."

One bearded student asked me, "Haven't you ever demonstrated before?"

"No," I answered.

"Every college student should demonstrate once in his life for kicks," he said.

If I remember correctly, many persecuted University of California at Berkeley students were apparently reviving this same doctrine last year, making their demonstrations an end instead of a means.

Mario Savio, ex-UCB student who spearheaded demonstrations against university restrictions on student political activity, rejected all administration peace offers.

One can only conclude that he and the Free Speech Movement leaders were demanding what amounted to university sanctioning of student participation in illegal student rioting.

After the smoke had cleared and we formulated a rational opinion, one point remained: Savio demanded freedom of thought and expression outside legal boundaries.

Apparently Savio and his followers didn't have the mentality to understand how UCLA students in Southern California could win the same goals with no demonstrating, no bad publicity and in a fraction of the time.

When the causes or the goals of a demonstration are not made clear, civil disobedience as a means to an end seems more like civil idiocy.

I am glad that day is not yet here, when students demonstrate for the sake of demonstrating, though at times, it seems it may be closer than we think.

CONCERT TIME—Band master Vincent Modis goes over a musical score with band members who will be participating in the Fresno City College Fine Arts Festival Jazz Concert Tuesday night. The musicians are Richard Rossi and Beverley McGee.

City College Students Visit Area Museums, Art Centers

Approximately 40 art students, led by instructors Walter Witt and Ken Owens, departed for Los Angeles for a visit to several art museums and galleries.

The group enjoyed breakfast in Pasadena, then trooped down the block to the Pasadena Art Museum, where they roamed about for half an hour. The next stop was at the Watts Towers, which took the builder, an eccentric Italian, 33 years to complete.

"Turned Loose"

From there the group traveled to the new Los Angeles County Art Museum where they were "turned loose" for two hours to wander about the museum and do some shopping and sightseeing. The museum, which was described as "overwhelming," just happened to be conveniently located next to the pond that covers the famed La Brea Tar Pits, and several of the students disappeared in that direction to look the place over.

Smells Awful

The next stop was on La Cieniga Boulevard, and the group spent an hour and a half walking up and down the street visiting private galleries and antique shops.

Work Chances Now Available

"Help Wanted: Students."

The Fresno City College Placement Office is looking for applicants who are available for the many full-time jobs now open. Miss Dorothy Ediger, head of the school placement office, urges all students looking for part-time and full-time jobs to contact the school office.

The placement office, located in the Technical & Industrial Division offices, is open every school day from 8 AM to 5 PM and is also open every weekday during the summer.

Mrs. Ediger reported that there are many good jobs available through the placement office to interested students.

18 Courses Offered By Art Section

For the many students interested in satisfying their art requirements for an associate of arts degree, the Fresno City College Art Department offers over 18 courses in the various physical arts.

Art 10 (introduction to art) is available to the student who may be interested in a lecture class. Crafts, ceramics, drawing and painting are also offered for the student who may wish to participate in actual classroom work.

Necessary Subject

Kenneth Owens, a ceramics instructor, feels that "everyone needs exposure to art. Art is a necessary part of the national balance and the entire civilization as well as the individual."

Owens also stated that "most of the art students enjoy their work and if a man is to live a well balanced life, he must devote at least one-fourth of it to the arts."

Three Instructors

The three art instructors, Owens, Curtis Draper and Walter Witt, urged non-art students who are interested in art to drop into their office in A-266 if they have any questions. And if a student wishes to look over the art classes located in A-150, 152, and 226, he is free to do so.

"Someone will always be around to answer questions, give advice, and offer help," said Owens.

City College of San Francisco held its annual blood drive recently and came close to setting a new school mark when 389 pints were given by its students.

The Ram's (CCSF) all-time high was in April of '62 when 410 pints were donated.

Santa Rosa

Santa Rosa Junior College Student Body President Ed Chastain recently spoke out against some student art. He attacked a display of "junk art assemblages" as "artistic frauds" and "hideous ornaments" that, he said, should never have been placed around the Santa Rosa campus.

He was later shocked to find a rebuttal statement, by letter, all the way from Philadelphia—that's right, Pennsylvania.

Evening Series Deferred

By LESLIE HART

A proposed "Sunday Evening Series" has been deferred for further studies after a meeting of the State Center Junior College District Board of Trustees.

The series was part of a proposed community service program planned by the District. Timothy Welch, FCC information officer said that the community service function is an important junior college project, developed in line with legislation authorizing community colleges to act as civic centers.

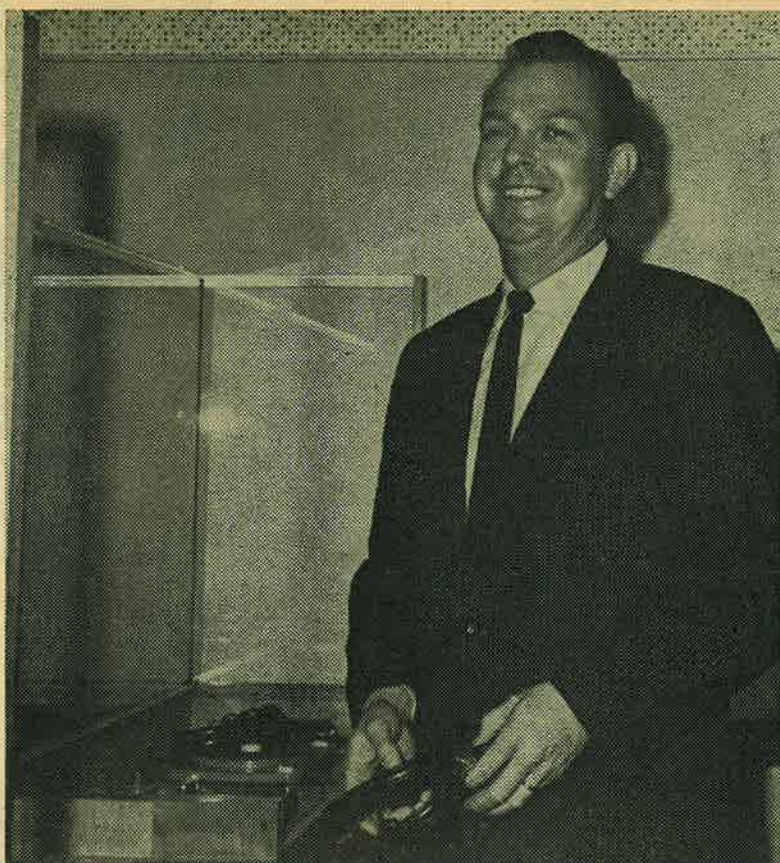

Welch stated that the delay meant that the program would not take place during the next school year.

Originally Scheduled

Originally scheduled to take place from next October to May, the series would have featured such notables as novelists Colin Wilson and Vance Packard, historian Henry Steele Commager, anthropologist Ashley Montagu, columnists Stewart Alsop and Art Buchwald, novelist Erich Fromm, and a performance of the San Francisco Ballet '66.

The programs were to be presented in the college auditorium with the public invited.

Welch said that he and Stuart M. White, the superintendent of the district, will have further discussions on the proposition next fall. A recommendation will be presented to the board at a later date.

Air Force Increases Chance For Commission

The United States Air Force recently announced that a change has been made in the new two-year Reserve Officer Training Corps program whereby Fresno City College students will be eligible for Air Force commissions.

Under the newly modified program, a FCC student having two academic years remaining for his baccalaureate degree would be allowed credit, within those two years, for both undergraduate and graduate work.

Debate Team Brings Home Six Awards

The FCC debate squad brought home six awards from the Fresno State College debate tournament last Saturday.

Sharon Castro won top honors in the interpretive speech category, as FCC was awarded three of the top four places in this event. Joan Simpson and Cary Overs took second and fourth places respectively.

Dolores Dade got a third place in discussion and a second place in the oratory speeches. Tim McCabe won fourth place in oratory.

Other schools entered in the tourney were San Joaquin Delta College, College of the Sequoias, Porterville College, Sacramento City College and Fresno State College.

Faculty Senate Faces Controversy

Franz Weinschenk, president of the Fresno City College Faculty Senate in discussing the controversial issue at Cerritos Junior College said, "Our relations with the State Center Junior College Board of Trustees and our administrator have been very good."

Summer Spanish Offered

More Spanish and less English will be the order of business for D. Lee Ross' summer school students if they are enrolled in the new Spanish 20 A class.

Ross informed the Rampage that the method is new. Students will speak more Spanish and learn an increasing vocabulary.

It is necessary to have one year of college Spanish experience to be eligible for the class, Ross stated.

The class is designed to increase proficiency in the Spanish language, but is not designed for the native Spanish speaker.

The class is two units and meets three hours a week. Ross made mention that there will be a large amount of laboratory work involved in the class, along with a lot of visual aids, providing the material is available.

The class corresponds with Spanish 50 at FSC, and is transferable.

Ross feels that the class is an excellent review for someone who has been away from Spanish for a few years.

Spanish 20A will be offered as part of the regular Spanish program at FCC starting next fall.

International Gets Invitation

Members of the International Club have been invited to spend the weekend in the homes of members of the North Fork Women's Club.

Members interested in spending the weekend with a North Fork family should meet in front of the FCC Library at 5 PM tomorrow. Transportation is being provided.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Rolf Mitchell, the sponsor of the weekend, at 227-3189.

Preregistration For Summer

Preregistration for summer school sessions will be open for currently enrolled students at Fresno City College Monday.

Preregistration will be permitted from May 10 to June 10, but no priority will be observed for currently enrolled students after May 14.

Robert Kelly, dean of the summer session, said FCC students intending to enroll in summer school should have had counseling service when they were preregistering but that it was not mandatory.

There is a situation at Cerritos College in that the board of trustees was informed that the constitution approved by the trustees providing for an academic senate at Cerritos seemed to be in violation of the Public Employee Organization Law.

The opinion was sought by the trustees in an attempt to help resolve an impasse that developed between the college's Faculty Senate and the college administration regarding the powers of the senate.

"I won't know exactly what's going on in Los Angeles, but I do know that our board of trustees has acted favorably on things we have recommended, and I see no reason why our very good relations should be endangered by a controversy in another area."

Such areas in which the FCC Senate may be involved in policy formation are academic, professional, personnel and fiscal policy.

They include but are not limited to academic freedom, budget policies, curriculum, extra-curricular activities, counseling and problems of student personnel.

According to the Education Code of the State of California, "the Faculty Senate shall present its recommendations and views to the administration of the college and after consultation with the administration may lay directly before the governing board its recommendations on any matter."

"Any faculty member may recommend an amendment, which shall become effective upon approval by a majority vote of the teaching faculty."

Besides Weinschenk, other senate officers include Hugh Golway, vice president, and William Reynolds, secretary.

Len Bourdet Chalks Up Win Streak

By DENNIS MCCARTHY

Len Bourdet, Fresno City College baseball coach, is a man in a rut — and he could not be more pleased.

Bourdet has reason to be happy. Since joining the FCC coaching ranks eight years ago, his teams have won seven consecutive junior college baseball titles. Four of those titles were won while Fresno was a member of the Central California Junior College Association.

Upon joining the newly organized Valley Conference three years ago, Bourdet's teams continued their title winning streak, capturing three successive crowns. Winning this year's conference championship has put Fresno in the Northern California regional junior college playoffs.

What has been FCC's formula for success this year? "Up until now," said Bourdet, "pitching and defense have probably been our strongest points." He said that his hitting attack has also proven a pleasant surprise.

The regional playoff, as Bourdet explained it, will pit Fresno, the Valley Conference champions, against the winner of the Golden Valley Conference-Golden Gate Conference playoff. The winner of this game will meet the winner of the Central Valley Conference-East Coast Conference playoff for the state title. FCC is the defending state champs.

This week the Rams will meet Sacramento City College in Sacramento. Bourdet's nine presently has a 25-6 overall season record, and a 9-3 VC mark.

OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCE—Dan Stone, FCC pole vaulter leaped 14 feet 7½ inches last Saturday to win the outstanding performance award in the Valley Conference Qualifying Meet at Hoover High School.

Horsehidiers Win VC Crown, Face Panthers In Final League Game

The Fresno City College Rams baseball team will close out their 1965 Valley Conference baseball schedule when they travel to Sacramento to take on the Sacramento City College Panthers in a doubleheader starting at 12:30 PM Saturday on the Panthers' diamond.

FCC pounded four San Joaquin Delta hurlers for eight hits and eight walks for a victory, but only Bob Bentley's bases loaded walk in the sixth inning enabled the Rams to nip the Mustangs 8-7, in a wild VC game.

Bentley Pinch Hits

Bentley was sent up to hit for catcher Lyle May in the last of the sixth inning. May previously singled in the sixth inning, but with a lefthanded pitcher Coach Len Bourden inserted Bentley, and he responded by working the pitcher for a walk, forcing in the winning run.

The win gave Coach Bourdet his 16th win against two setbacks in league play and a 25-6 over-all record.

Rams Lose Second

In the first game it was obvious the Rams were over relaxed with their third VC trophy as they took a 9-3 beating. The Mustangs humiliated the Rams, pitching for 14 hits, including three doubles and three home runs. Pacing the onslaught was shortstop Jim Culvertson, who had a pair of home runs and a single.

Leftfielder Jeff Ring and second baseman Jim Teter led the Rams in the losing cause. Ring had a single and triple while Teter had a pair of singles.

Tracksters Enter WCR Saturday, Santa Ana Favored

By DON MENCARINI
Sports Editor

After winning the Valley Conference track title, the Fresno City College Rams will compete in the 39th annual West Coast Relays Saturday at Fresno's Ratcliffe Stadium.

The eyes of United States track and field fans will be focused on the Blackstone Avenue stadium when over 2,000 athletes will run, jump and throw in the day-night classic in which world records are broken.

The annual contest will feature many of the nation's top athletes assaulting world records in high school, college, university and open divisions as well as in junior college competition.

FCC Coaches Erwin Ginsburg and Bob Fries plan to enter one of the strongest FCC teams in history.

"Santa Ana Junior College and San Mateo Junior College will be the teams to beat," said Ginsburg.

Rams Win Eight

In the Valley Conference qualifying track and field meet last Saturday on Hoover High School's crushed brick oval, the Rams swept eight events.

Sprinter Alvin Mann, 22.1; high jumper Tyrone Powell, 6 feet 8½ inches; discus thrower Bob Jacobs, 163 feet 3½ inches, and pole vaulter Dan Stone, 14 feet 7½ inches broke meet records.

Stone's meet record won him the meet's outstanding performance award. Stone missed three chances at 15 feet.

Hamilton Sets Record

The other meet record breaker was College of Sequoias' Jack Hamilton, who upset FCC's Ezunial Burts in a 37.8 flight of 330 yard intermediate hurdles.

Mann's clocking in the 100 yard dash, 9.7; Del Thompson's 24 feet 5½ inch long jump and a 48 feet 4 inch triple jump by COS' Cornelius Frazier were all meet records but had to be nullified because of the aiding wind.

FCC's Pete Santos won the mile event with a time of 4:19.4, which was not as good as his career best of 4:15.3.

Golf Team Faces Two Matches

Fresno City College golfers will play two out of town practice games today and tomorrow as they begin preparations for the coming Valley Conference Tournament slated for May 17 in Modesto.

The Ram linkers will meet Merced College today at 1:30 PM for a nonconference match on the Merced Country Club course.

The FCC golf team will be in Bakersfield tomorrow for a rematch with Bakersfield College. It will be held on the Bakersfield Country Club course.

Neither match will have any effect on the league standings but FCC Coach Hans Wiedenhoefter said that fact shouldn't lessen the spirit any.

"Both of these matches should be real tough," he said. "Especially since they are going to be played on the opposing team's home course."

Members of the FCC team who will be playing are Terry McCabe, Dan Diel, Dennis Makasian, Dave Sabo and Thomas Wright.

Terry McCabe, FCC's No. one golfer recently won the Far Western Golf Championship. McCabe has entered many other local tournaments since entering FCC.
