CAMPAIGN CLASH: May 19th Election

Mestas, Primavera Campaign; Voters Decide Issues, Queen

By GEORGE KUEMPEL
Managing Editor

Student voters Wednesday face one of the most name-packed ballots in Fresno City College history.

In addition to choosing from 23 candidates for the 16 student body offices, voters will pass judgment on six proposed constitutional amendments. They will also select a spring queen.

CANDIDATE PROFILES

Luis Mestas Ron Primavera

Luis Mestas
Platform '65

My qualifications consist of: being in high-school government and having run a successful campaign for representative here at Fresno City College. I was appointed by former President Rick Comstock as a representative during my first semester (Fall '64). Freshman class President John Porter appointed me as his Freshman class Vice-President.

The major "reason" I'm running for the office of president is shared by many city college students. There has been a failure to promote the name of Fresno City College in the community. Worthwhile projects have been neglected by the incumbent, such as, aiding in the various charity drives (Cerebral Palsy, leukemia.) Publicity of current events has been somewhat insufficient.

This failure of publicity has been caused by the lack of communication between the President and his commissioners.

As representative-at-large I have tried to satisfy the students by suggesting that benches be placed throughout the campus, that minutes of the council meeting be posted throughout the campus, and that umbrellas be placed in the new patio area.

I dedicate myself to aim for more publicity. How? Bulletin boards in the cafeteria, marquee (Continued on Page 3)

Carol Andrews Jim Shipman

The polls will be open from 8 AM until 3 PM. Voting booths will be located in the cafeteria, Administration Building, library, and the mechanics shops in the Technical and Industrial center.

Mestas Opposes Primavera

Vying for the top campus office, student body president, will be incumbent Ron Primavera. Opposing Primavera as a write-in candidate is Luis Mestas.

Two candidates will be battling for vice president. Steve Noxon will be named on the ballot. Don Perry is conducting a write-in campaign.

Andrews Runs Unopposed

Candidates for the treasurer post are Tina Gyer and Jim Shipman. Carol Andrews is running unopposed for secretary. She is the incumbent.

Fifteen students will be fighting for the 10 representative posts.

As of Rampage deadline Tuesday, AMS president was the only unclaimed office. Louise Clayton was running unopposed for the AWS prexy.

Proposal Abolishes Officers

The most important constitutional revision facing students is a proposal to abolish the sophomore and freshman class officers. Ronald Brumley, sophomore class officer, proposed the amendment.

FCC Hosts JC Instructors On Weekend

By LOUIS BELL
Assignment Editor

Fresno City College will host the annual state conference of junior college home economics instructors tomorrow and Saturday.

The two day affair will consist of a social hour, dinner with welcoming and keynote addresses and panel discussions.

Curtis Lackey, associate dean of the Technical and Industrial Division at Fresno City College, will give the welcoming address at a 7 PM dinner in the Holiday Inn tomorrow.

Dr. Paul F. Lawrence, associate superintendent of public instruction, will follow the welcoming address with his keynote address, "The Place of the Junior College in Higher Education."

FSC's President Ness Will Address Graduates

By VERNON PETERS
Rampage Staff Writer

Dr. Frederic W. Ness, the recently installed president at Fresno State College, has been selected to give the commencement address at Fresno City College's graduation program June 11. The topic of his address will be "The Symbolic Code — and Freedom of Revision."

Archie Bradshaw, president of FCC, announced that three board members of the State Center Junior College District will be in attendance also. The trustees present will be Walter G. Martin, secretary of the board; Jack L. Hammerberg, recently re-elected representative from Area No. 1; and Alvin J. Quist, representative from Area No. 2. Martin will formally offer congratulations to the graduates on behalf of the board.

Pastor Gives Invocation

Also in the ceremonies will be Reverend George C. Turney, pastor of St. Columba's Episcopal Church. Rev. Turney will give the invocation and benediction.

Ronald Brumley, the current president of the FCC sophomore class, will give the student address.

Joan Of Lorraine Opens Tonight

By SANDI McCLURG
News Editor

The Fine Arts Festival activities will begin tonight with the drama department's presentation of Joan of Lorraine. The production, shown in the Fresno City College auditorium, is just one of the weeklong activities to take place on campus. Starting today the festival will run through May 20, with something happening every night except Sunday.

Joan of Lorraine by Maxwell Anderson, directed by Frederick Johnson and starring Carolene Lung, will repeat its performance Friday and Saturday at 8:15 PM.

Tickets are available starting today in Room 154 of the Administration Building. Those holding student body cards may pick up a free ticket. Other students will be charged 75 cents. Adults will be charged $1.50.

A piano and voice recital will be held in the west court of the Administration Building Monday evening at 8 PM.

Band Presents Jazz

A jazz concert by the college dance band class will be the Tuesday evening attraction. It will be held in the west court at 8 PM.

Featured jazz soloists will be FCC students George Paul, Don Good, Bill Bixler, John Tourtillott and lead trumpeter Gary Harkins.

Writes For Kenton

Vincent Moats, FCC band director, stated that the guest soloist of the jazz band rhythm section will be D. Barton. Barton was with Stan Kenton for several seasons and still writes for him. He is now appearing locally with the Bruce Davis Quintet, and plans to teach a jazz band class this summer at Fresno State College.

Moats added that one feature of the band is that many players will switch and play instruments in both woodwind and brass sections.

Wednesday afternoon will feature a solo and ensemble production at 4 PM. Small groups and solos are scheduled.

Later in the evening, at 8 PM, a choir concert will be presented in the band and choral room.

HOLD THAT POSE—Myra Tavares, an FCC student artist, captures some of the spirit of the Fine Arts Festival, May 13-20, with her paints, brushes and canvas.

Students Must Assume Responsibility At Polls

NEXT WEDNESDAY FRESNO City College students will have the opportunity to exercise their right to vote. This has been said to be the greatest right that an individual possesses in a free and democratic society. On this day when we practice the privilege of electing our student leaders, let us remember that many societies and individuals throughout the world do not have the opportunity to vote.

The responsibility of selecting well-qualified individuals for our student government ultimately lies with the student on election day when he casts the ballot.

Student Councils in the past have done an adequate job, but the need now arises for a council that will be responsible to act in the student's interest.

The importance of selecting outstanding and responsible student leaders cannot be overstressed. The FCC officers are not only servants of the student body but are the representatives of the college at school-related functions on the local and state level.

If a habit of voting in college elections can now be instilled, the transition to local, state and national politics will not be difficult.

An Intern Reacts

Junior College Publication Publishes McCuen Article

John McCuen, dean of instruction, is the author of a recent article in the Junior College Journal. The selection is entitled "An Intern Reacts." It tells of his experiences in a leadership program at Chabot College in Northern California.

McCuen participated in the program while completing his doctoral studies at the University of California at Berkeley. The article deals with his reactions to the internship and also contains general observation about the program.

Tells Duties

As an intern McCuen spent 11 months of 1964 at Chabot College training for administrative duties at the junior college level. While

Gown Deadline Set For Monday

Monday is the last day for Fresno City College graduates to order their caps and gowns.

The caps and gowns rent for $3.50. "If the graduates return the caps and gowns by May 28, they will be reimbursed the full $3.50," said Mrs. Jewel Dettinger, FCC bookstore manager.

"Graduation announcements go on sale Tuesday and will cost 15 cents apiece," Mrs. Dettinger said.

CC Student Literary Magazine Slated For Delivery Tomorrow

Potpourri, the Fresno City College literary magazine, is expected to go on sale tomorrow. The magazine will sell for 25 cents per copy.

About 700 copies, which will be on sale throughout the Fine Arts Festival, will be printed. There will be 36 pages.

"This year's magazine will contain a greater variety of work than last year's issue," said Potpourri adviser Robert Shaver.

Over 150 Poems

Selections were made from over 150 poems (including a Spanish poem), 20 short stories, and several art sketches.

Close Race

"The selections were close. There was a great deal of good work turned in, much of which couldn't be used for a lack of space," said Joe Armas, associate editor.

Heading the 15-member staff is Carolyn Smith, editor; Don Teleshaw, fiction editor; Victoria DuMars, poetry editor, and Armas. They are assisted by advisers Dean Draper and Shaver.

Campus Tales

Actors, Animals Steal Attention

By KATHY MOULTHROP

Rampage Staff Writer

In 1948 Miss Nancy Webster, a business instructor, taught business English, history, shorthand, typing and office management. Today she teaches only the latter.

After the earthquake in 1952, typing classes were held in the Municipal Auditorium. The hallway in which they were placed was so narrow that the desks were set at an angle.

Charels Coffman, an auto shop instructor, remarked that in 1948 there was little to work with, compared with today's facilities.

Few Students

He noted that auto mechanics has always been "very popular" but remembers that welding once went for three weeks before having a student in the class.

Erret Smith, a machine shop instructor, noted that the practice of taking in high school students to fill the technical and industrial classes was practiced in 1948.

Joseph Woodman, an auto mechanics instructor, remembers when auto mechanics was in a small and dingy shop.

Mentally Shook

In 1948, O Street had a majority of veterans. Woodman said that many of them were "pretty well shook up mentally," but "they knew what they wanted."

Before 1948 plans were being made to enlarge the high school; then a law was passed leading to the creation of Fresno Junior College, as it was then known. Facilities were crowded and expansion was imminent.

Because the O Street campus was bound by O, Stanislaus, Tolumne, and P Streets, there was no adjacent land available, and an athletic field on top of the main building was planned as a solution. After the earthquake the building was condemned.

New Buildings

At this time Fresno State College moved and sold the University Avenue Campus. In 1955 a new shop building was constructed at Edison High School and FCC's auto mechanics, welding and body and fender classes moved there for five years and then to FCC when the new shop buildings were completed.

Hans Wiedenhoefer, director of athletics, noted that in the early years there were no athletic facilities and the students rode city

Volunteers Show New Corps Plan

By LESLIE HART

Rampage Staff Writer

This is Peace Corps Week.

Representatives of the Peace Corps are on campus helping to give Fresno City College students the opportunity to serve as volunteers.

Since last Monday a booth has been set up in the foyer of the cafeteria, laden with pamphlets and manned by two "returned volunteers," Peggy Anderson and Ned Chalker.

New Project

Miss Anderson and Chalker are here primarily to give the Peace Corps placement test and to inform students of a new project that involves graduates with associate in arts degrees. A person interested in this project might be selected to serve as a teacher in the primary schools of Nigeria. The call is now out for 200 to 300 volunteers.

Miss Anderson said African countries have required that the volunteer teachers in their schools be graduates of a four year college. Nigeria is the first nation to accept the AA degree. If this project is successful, other African nations may follow suit.

Teaches In Togo

Miss Anderson has first-hand knowledge of teaching conditions in Africa. She taught English as a foreign language in the secondary schools of Togo for two years after graduation from Augustana College in Illinois. She is now working as a staff writer for the Peace Corps in Washington, D.C.

The Peace Corps not only offers teaching jobs to junior college students. A pamphlet available at the booth describes such fields as trade and mechanical projects, agriculture, home economics and physical education.

Another field is community development. Chalker, a graduate of Trinity College with a degree in mechanical engineering, spent two years in a community development project in Columbia.

buses to the Hamilton Junior High School football field.

After the earthquake when the business division had moved to the auditorium, Paul Soderstrom, a typing instructor, remembers that the musical "South Pacific" was playing there. The instructors had to keep track of the students to see that they weren't sneaking out of class to watch.

But, he commented, the teachers themselves would often take breaks to catch glimpses of its preparations.

Elephants Take Over

Once the musical had left, the circus came, and one of the classes had to vacate because its room was needed to house the elephants, while the room next to that was used as quarters for the dogs.

One day, Soderstrom said, when there was a strong north-west wind blowing, the crew took the elephants outside and burnt the hair off them with acetyline torches.

The "aroma" filtered through the building and was "so offensive it was nauseating," he said. There were "lots of animals all over the place" and it "smelt like a barnyard." But the building "served its purpose."

Spring Formal Bids Available

"Moonlight and Magic Moments" the spring formal, will be presented May 21 in the Fresno Memorial Auditorium. The dance is being cosponsored by the Fresno City and Reedley College Associated Men and Associated Women Students.

Les Brown and his band of Renown will provide music for the affair from 9 PM to 1 AM.

Bids are available free to student body card holders and admit one couple. They may be obtained at a booth located in the cafeteria.

Maurice Joy, AMS president, and Juanita Clark, AWS president, are the general chairmen.

"Decorating is to begin at noon on Saturday, and I urge all those who would like to help to come," said Miss Clark.

Holstein Presents Class
Presentation of the graduating class will be made by George Holstein, dean of admissions and records, and Joseph Kelly, educational advisor, will read the graduate's roll call.

Prior to his coming to FSC, Dr. Ness had been an instructor and administrator at nine institutions of higher learning, beginning in 1938.

Club News

Spanish Club Plans Kearney Park Picnic

By PAUL SULLIVAN, JR.
Club News Editor
FCC's Spanish Club, Los Conquistadores, will elect next semester's club officers and plan a picnic at their meeting in Room A-158 at noon today.

Nominations for the officers are to be from the floor, and Joe Haro, the present vice president, expects few if any old officers to return next semester.

Haro said, "It's not that the officers aren't good this semester but I don't think any of them are returning in the fall."

Also set for discussion is the club's spring picnic in Kearney Park either Saturday or Sunday.

Student Occupation Day Set

Businessmen seeking employees, qualified individuals seeking employment — these are the basic elements essential for job placements today.

And qualified Fresno City College students will get their chance to meet with local business leaders and discuss future job possibilities next Tuesday when the second annual Occupations Day kicks off a day-long program of job interviews in the student social hall.

The interviews, to be preceded by a special businessmen's breakfast in the cafeteria, will be conducted from 9:30 AM to 4 PM.

Miss Dorothy Ediger, head of the school placement office, reported that more than 400 invitations have been sent out to employers to participate in the program. She said the placement office would have to wait for their answers before scheduling student interviews.

Selection of the students to be interviewed, said Miss Ediger, will be determined primarily from the information on the student application forms currently on file in the placement office. She also pointed out that the office would be able to schedule only as many students as each employer could interview. "Some employers finish their schedules early and still have time to interview others not scheduled," she commented, "but this rarely happens."

The food for the picnic will be a Mexican potluck lunch.

Included in today's agenda is a proposal for the formation of a club softball team and the possibility of continuing club activities during the summer months.

AMS - AWS
The Associated Men and Women students of FCC had a joint meeting yesterday in the cafeteria conference rooms on the progress of the Spring Formal decoration committee.

The committee, composed of Tina Gyer, Juanita Clark and Barbara Ehrenburg of AWS and Maurice Joy and Mike Tartar of AMS, reported that they have completed the plans for the decorations.

Inter Club Council
The Inter Club Council of FCC revoked the charters of four campus clubs last Thursday at its bi-weekly meeting.

The censored clubs include Sigma Tau Alpha, the future teacher's organization, Womens Recreation Club, The Radio Club and Phi Ro Nu, the nursing student's club.

Pat Lane, the president of ICC, said, "The club charters were suspended because these clubs failed to have a representative attend the ICC meetings."

People To People
Plans for a picnic May 22 were made Tuesday night at the regular meeting in the Conference Room of the cafeteria. The picnic is scheduled for Roeding Park and food will be provided by club members.

Queen Candidates
Adding to the spirit of the Spring Formal, five campus clubs have picked queen candidates. The participating clubs are Associated Women Students, Associated Men Students, Los Conquistadores, Phi Beta Lambda and the International Club.

The queen of the Spring Formal may be voted for during the student body elections. All queen candidates will be on the ballot.

who scores at the 14th percentile or below on the mechanics section of the English test will be classified as a remedial student, and his registration forms will be so marked unless other important tests (high school grades, etc.) do not support this type of placement.

2. If the student is not interested in a transfer program or an associate in arts degree and is interested in a specific course in the technical-vocational-occupational courses instead, he will not be required to take the remedial course. However, before the student can shift his goal to a transfer program or an AA degree program, he must successfully complete one semester remedial program.

Special Counseling
3. If the student, after special counseling, still chooses a transfer or an AA degree program, he must take a specified program designed to repair the deficiencies. This includes a minimum program of nine units and a limited maximum program of 13 units.

4. If the deficient student completes the remedial program with a 2.0 grade average or better, he may take courses which are appropriate for his objective.

5. If the student completes the program with less than 2.0 grade average, he has two choices. One is to take a limited program which will be provided for him or he will be disqualified under present probation standards.

"The new committee will meet about once a month to check the progress of the program."

portant function of the officers is to supply a decorating committee for the graduation dance. He said that AMS and AWS would be able to handle whatever activities were sponsored by the classes.

Officials Express Hope
At the same time students will be offered a chance to boost their representatives to 12. Student government officials had expressed hope that the additional offices would compensate for abolition of the class presidents, if the first amendment carried.

The other four amendments will deal primarily with rewording of the constitution. Three of these will have to do with the judicial department.

The queen candidates, who will be pictured on the ballot, are sponsored by the various clubs.

Rams Host Play-off Tuesday

By HOWARD SAIKI

The winning of the Valley Conference gives the Rams the right to represent the VC league in the Northern California playoffs next Tuesday.

Coach Len Bourdet said, "We will play the winner of the Golden Valley Conference - Golden Gate Conference game while the winner of the FCC game play the winner of the Central Valley Conference-East Coast Conference game to determine who is going to win the Northern California championship."

The winner of the Northern California playoffs will then play the Southern California winner to determine who is the state champion."

Split Final Games

In the final two VC games of the year, the Rams split a double-header with the Sacramento City College Panthers, with SCC winning the first game 6-5 and losing the second one 7-5.

In the first game the Rams were winning going into the ninth inning. A two run double by Jim Barosotti proved to be the winning margin for SCC. Pacing the attack in a losing cause was catcher Ken Papi and second baseman Jim Teter, who each collected a pair of hits.

Lung, May Rack Homers

But the second game was completely different. Shortstop John Lung and catcher Lyle May combined their home runs to help pace the Rams to their 17th VC win of the year

In the second game Jerry Robinson also got into the fireworks as he enjoyed a perfect day at the plate going two for two.

FCC Spikers Enter Northern JC Trials

By DON MENCARINI
Sports Editor

Coaches Erwin Ginsburg and Bob Fries of Fresno City College will enter their high flying Ram track team in the Northern California Junior College trials beginning at noon Saturday at Modesto Junior College.

FCC will be led by Valley Conference leaders Dan Stone, 14 feet 7 1/2 inch pole vaulter; Bob Jacobs, 164-4 1/2 discus thrower; Delbur Thompson, 27-3 1/2 long jumper; Alvin Mann, 9.6 and 21.6 sprinter; Pete Santos, 4:15.3 miler, and high jumpers Tyrone Powell and Larry Cormier. Powell has cleared 6'8 1/2" and Cormier 6'8".

Powell and Cormier will get plenty of competition from Foothill's Max Lowe, who has cleared seven feet this year.

West Coast Relays

In the 39th annual West Coast Relays last Saturday in Ratcliffe Stadium, Santa Ana College took top honors in the junior college division with 37 points.

FCC compiled 17 points to place fourth behind runnerup Pierce College and third place finisher Bakersfield College.

FCC scored most of its points by finishing in third and fourth place in most of the final events. Shotputter Steve Fite of Chaffey College, pole vaulter Bob Seagren and high hurdler Don Shy, both of Mt. San Antonio College, broke national records, and sprinter Fred Kuller of Santa Ana equaled another to share honors as the top performers in the junior college division.

Adding to the finest in history of junior college competition was high jumper Ed Caruthers, also of Santa Ana, who cleared seven feet.

In the distance medley relay FCC did not place, but the Ram anchorman Pete Santos passed several milers en route to an impressive 4:14.8 clocking.

Finals

Discus—1. Steve Fite, Chaffey, 169-11 1/4; 2. Chuck Smart, Foothill, 159-9 1/4; 3. Kurt Wassell, Fullerton, 158-10 1/4; 4. Bob Twelvrees, Foothill, 155-6; 5. Bob Jacobs, Fresno, 153-6.

Long Jump—1. Robert Howard, San Bernardino Valley, 24 1/4; 2. Don Shy, Mt. San Antonio, 23-9 1/4; 3. Del Thompson, Fresno, 23-8 1/4; 4. Bob Hanrahan, Long Beach, 23-4 1/4; 5. Alvin Young, Compton, 23-2 1/4.

Distance Medley Relay—1. Pierce (Dan Tagus, Dennis Chineauff, Burt Ballantine, Bill Scobey), 10:00.5; 2. San Mateo, 10:02.1; 3. Santa Ana, 10:02.8; 4. Fullerton, 10:14.9; 5. East Los Angeles, 10:17.4.

Net Squad Faces Regional Playoff

By LOUIS BELL

Two men's doubles teams from Fresno City College will represent FCC at the North Regional tennis tournament tomorrow and Saturday in San Francisco.

Elimination matches, which will get underway at 9 AM tomorrow, will be held on the City College of San Francisco tennis courts.

CONFERENCE LEADER — Bob Jacobs has thrown the discus 164 feet 4 1/2 inches to lead the Valley Conference.

Intramural Softball Starts Slow

The intramural sports program at Fresno City College is off to a slow start.

Don Perry, associate men student member of FCC stated that interest in the program among students seems high, but that actual participation remains low.

Two teams have taken the field since the program went into effect, representing the Latin American Club and the Associated Men Students, Perry said that a third team from Phi Beta Lambda is expected to be ready to play soon.

A softball game is scheduled for noon tomorrow between AMS and the Latin American Club.

On May 28 a selected team of all-stars from FCC will play the all-star team from Reedley College's intramural program in softball.

Perry stated that although actual response to the program has been poor this spring, a tentative program has been worked out for next year.

It will include softball, volleyball and basketball. At hooten ball and basketball. At the conclusion of each season, games will be held between both the championship teams and all-star teams of FCC and Reedley College.

Members composing the Rams' two teams are Bob Nelson and Jack Samuelian, first men's doubles and Dave Adams and Bob Cooper, second men's doubles.

Rams Reach Finals

They qualified for the North Regional by reaching the quarter finals of the Valley Tourney last week at American River Junior College.

The team representatives will leave for San Francisco tomorrow morning and should return either tomorrow night or Saturday night, depending on how well they do in the preliminary matches.

Should they reach the quarter finals in the coming tournament, they will be eligible to compete in the California Junior College State Tournament May 21-22 in Fullerton.

Elimination Matches

Fresno City College lost its chance to enter men's singles players when its entrants lost their matches in the second round of the elimination matches of the Valley Tourney.

The Ram tennis team finished the Valley Conference action in third place with a 7-4 won-loss record.

"The team played very well," said Coach Dan Ozier in summarizing the team's performance for the year. "This was the most improved team I've ever coached."
