Social Hall Premier

Fall Semester Play Will Begin Monday

Two performances of Russian playwright Anton Chekhov's one act play, The Proposal, will be presented in special assemblies for FCC students Monday at noon and again at 1 PM in the Social Hall of the Student Center.

The vocal ensemble, directed by Lowell C. Spencer, will also give its first performance of the semester.

Spencer said that most of the music will be in a popular vein, including a medley of songs from West Side Story.

FCC Preview

This will give FCC students a chance for a preview look at the drama department's production of The Proposal before it goes on tour to various high schools in the San Joaquin Valley.

The Proposal's three cast members are Cherie Franklin, Lloyd Bell and Carl Jones.

The play is a satire on a Russian landowner trying to propose to the daughter of a neighbor. They both have one thing in common — they want to get married — but the rest of the time they argue about the owner's land, the speed of each other's hunting dogs and call each other's relatives names.

Frederick C. Johnson, director of the play, said that there were three reasons for presenting the play at high schools.

One reason is "to advertise the college." The others are "to show students in the high schools what FCC has to offer in the fields of music and drama, and to help improve the training of students in these fields."

Johnson said that presenting this play at different schools will give the performers a chance "to grow into their parts and perfect their roles through repetition of the play."

First Stop

The first stop on the tour will be Fowler High School on Nov. 18. Other schools that will see the play this semester are Roosevelt High School on Dec. 8 and Ivy High School, located to the west of Fresno, on Dec. 14.

Johnson said there was a long list of schools that would see the production in the spring.

"We're booked solid through the spring semester except for one week in May."

"I expect it to be well received this year; in fact, we've added several schools to the tour over last year," Johnston said.

Vidal Opens Forum Series Relocated In Gymnasium

Due to an increasing demand for tickets, the Sunday Evening Series, beginning Nov. 13, has changed its site for the public forums from the FCC Cafeteria to the Gymnasium.

Tim Welch, public information officer, said that the Cafeteria accommodates only 700 people, but the Gymnasium will seat approximately 1,500.

Author Gore Vidal will initiate the Series Sunday at 7:30 PM. The gymnasium doors will open at 7 PM.

Forum Topic

Vidal's topic will be The Novel in an Age of Science. A question period will follow.

Besides being a novelist, Vidal is also a playwright, critic and political commentator.

His novels include The Judgment of Paris, Messiah and Julian. Is Paris Burning? and The Nights of the Generals are two of Vidal's latest screenplays.

Vidal also wrote The Best Man, a political play which bears an unflattering resemblance to a contemporary political figure.

Five other speakers will be featured in the Sunday Evening Series throughout the school year.

Tickets are now available in Student Center 217 for the first and all the following forums or by calling 264-4621 between 1 and 5 PM. Persons may also receive tickets by writing to the Sunday Evening Series, 1101 East University Ave., Fresno.

Open Tomorrow

"Although tomorrow is a holiday, the ticket office telephone will be open from 1-5 PM," Welch said.

He also stated that seating arrangements for small groups can be arranged by calling the ticket office.

Pints Of Life From FCC

Student Council Veterans' Blood Drive Starts Today

A blood drive for the benefit of the patients at the Veterans' Administration Hospital is being held today from 10 AM to 1 PM.

The drive, which is sponsored by the Student Council and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Local Post 884, is being held in the council chambers on the second floor of the Student Center.

Administrators of the hospital asked that all donors be in good physical condition and especially that they have no contagious diseases. Persons under 21 who wish to donate blood must have a parental consent slip. Consent slips are available in the Attendance Office, Administration 128.

Hospital Director

Dr. C. E. Carter, director of the VA Hospital, said that the hospital's blood supply at the Fresno Blood Bank is running dangerously low. Therefore, he hopes for a good turnout during the drive.

He noted that the blood donated by the FCC students will be used exclusively for patients of the VA Hospital.

Post 884 will award trophies to the campus club who has the most volunteers and the club who has the highest percentage of member participation.

Earl Pugsley, the sponsor of Lambda Alpha Epsilon and the co-sponsor of the Technical and Industrial club, challenged other FCC organizations to blood donating competition.

Challenging Clubs

LAE is the campus police fraternal organization and the T & I club is the newly formed T & I division campus organization.

"It's hard to tell just how much blood our organizations are going to give," Pugsley said. "We'll know better at 1 PM on Thursday."

Jokingly Pugsley said LAE and T & I members would either give blood from a bloody nose or with the needle.

"All kidding aside, we think we'll give all the other clubs a good run for their money," he said.

Miss Doris Deakins, dean of women, also stressed that "everyone is urged to participate" whether affiliated with a club or not.

200 Veterans

Miss Deakins said that there are now over 200 Viet Nam veterans in the hospital.

Technicians from the Fresno Blood Bank will draw blood and a doctor and nurse from the VA Hospital will examine each prospective donor.

Scholastic Solons Want Traffic Lights

The Student Council of Fresno City College heard a proposal Tuesday from Tim Mancini, student body president, that a blinking light be installed near the crosswalk on the corner of Van Ness Boulevard and University Avenue.

Miss Doris Deakins, the dean of women, suggested that a letter be sent by the Student Council to the city offices in Fresno to see what could be done about this blind curve.

She also suggested that traffic lights be installed at the intersection of Wishon and Weldon Avenues to prevent any further accidents. She said that two students have been hit by cars this year and that the council should carry through with this matter.

Mancini and Kenneth C. Clark, as council adviser, said that it would cost a great deal of money to supply these lights. They said that the council has no control over these matters and that the city is the only organization that could approve such an idea. But Mancini said that these crosswalks are dangerous, especially at night.

Holiday Nears

Tomorrow FCC students will have their first legal holiday of the fall semester.

Veterans Day, known as Armistice Day prior to 1954, commemorates the end of World Wars I and II.

Students will have a second holiday Nov. 24 and 25 for Thanksgiving.

Debate Squad Travels To Stockton For Meet

Ten members of Franz Weinschenk's FCC forensics squad will travel to Stockton tomorrow for a two-day Northern California tournament.

Team members will leave at 8 AM for the event, which will be hosted by the University of the Pacific.

Three fields of entry are open to speakers in the tournament.

Three teams will represent FCC in the field of debate.

Veteran Team Members

Veterans Tom Stringfield and John Black will comprise one of these. Richard Lehman and Spencer Kendig will debate together, and Alan Decker and Jim Johnstone will comprise the third team.

Subject matter for the debate will center around United States foreign policy commitments.

Trophies will be awarded to first, second and third place winners, and finalists will be given certificates.

Other Categories

Oratory and interpretive reading are the other two categories of competition.

Stringfield, Kendig, Murlen Hatley, Scott Davis, Tina Gyer and Paula Cohen will enter the oratory division.

FCC competitors in interpretive reading will be Black, Lehman, Johnstone, Kendig, Davis, Gyer and Cohen.

Major Meet

Debaters Johnstone and Stringfield made good scorings at the team's major encounter at Stanford University, and Weinschenk expects them to do a good job representing FCC this weekend.

Martin Discusses Dropouts

Fresno City College has fewer dropouts than most junior colleges in California.

Merle Martin, dean of students, said that FCC has a nine per cent dropout rate compared to a 14 per cent withdrawal rate in the rest of the state.

"Our holding power," is due mainly to two things according to Martin.

Holding Power

1. Students are well counseled and well placed in classes.

2. The FCC counseling program is a combination of full-time counselors aided by faculty advisers who assist counselors.

Figures recently released showed that there have been 362 dropouts this semester.

Martin said that this is about the same as in past years.

Largest Amount

The greatest surge of dropouts is during the first couple of weeks of school.

Martin said students give a variety of reasons for quitting school. The major ones are marriage, jobs and the service.

Share Life

Contribution Of Blood Humanitarian Service

All of us have the chance to share part of our lives today. If you can safely do so, give blood. The facilities will be set up in Student Center 230.

Any one of us might need blood someday. How ironic it would be if we refused to give blood now when we are able and a transfusion might save us in the future.

There have been some undercurrents of dissent because those men who will receive the blood have fought in Viet Nam.

How utterly childish. The person who needs the blood didn't want to lose his in the first place. He did though and humanity requires that we help him.

It is not a matter of politics. It is merely helping our own who need it. Would we do less for an injured FCC football player? Certainly not. Many of us would be in line to give. Let's be in line together today.

Safety Threatened

Dangerous Crossings Need Traffic Signals

FCC's Student Council has ventured into the realm of government outside the campus, and with good reason.

The intersections of Weldon and Maroa and University and Van Ness are extremely dangerous to the pedestrians who must risk their lives there.

Fortunately, the council has realized the existence of a serious situation that somehow has escaped the city of Fresno.

According to the Dean of Women Doris Deakins, there have already been two students hit by automobiles in this area so far this semester.

Must someone be killed before a traffic light is installed?

Perhaps, but we certainly hope not. This seems to have been the only motivating factor in some cases. It is up to all of us to see that this is not the case at FCC.

The Student Council has and may expect full support from the Rampage concerning this matter.

Summer Employment Overseas Possible With Tour Attached

An opportunity to work in Europe after taking a compulsory five-day tour is offered by the American Student Information Service of Luxembourg City, Luxembourg.

In a booklet sent to the Rampage office for publicity purposes, the company described various job opportunities in Europe, an agenda of the five-day European Orientation Safari and information on the costs of flying or sailing to Europe.

$2 Booklet

Interested students may send $2 for the booklet and an enclosed application form for summer work. Applicants indicate four job preferences on the form and are guaranteed placement.

Examples of available jobs include resort work in Germany with hours ranging from 45 to 54 per week and wages set at $50 to $95 per month.

In Finland a student can earn $20 to $30 per month for caring for children with hours determined by the family schedule.

No Pay

A student interested in farm labor in Israel may work 50 hours a week for no pay with his living accommodations provided free.

The booklet says that students need not work to participate in the five-day tour price at $135. However, they will find it "necessary to participate in the European Safari in order to obtain a job in Europe."

The tour includes bus excursions to Germany, France, Belgium and Holland with students returning to their hotel each evening in the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, which borders these countries.

Provide Jobs

Another company, International Travel Establishment of the Principality of Liechtenstein, in an introductory letter to the Rampage, explains that "we provide students with job opportunities in Europe without binding them to participate in a tour."

The ITE "Do-It-Yourself" plan calls for students to join a group flight plan from New York to Luxembourg and back for $280, bring along $150 cash on hand for incidentals and pay ITE $25 for a job-search fee.

Students Boost Spirit

The words "school spirit" are heard often around campus. Is there enough or should there be more?

FCC students were asked, "What would you do to improve school spirit and what would you do to get more students to participate in school activities?"

Audrey Cervantez, first semester business major, "I would hold assemblies and more rallies. I know it is hard to do, but I think it would help. A lot of students don't even know who the student body president is. They should attend Student Council meetings and become aware of what is going on."

Jesse Chambers, first semester business major, "One thing is to make club meetings so that they alternate in different weeks so everyone can have a chance to go. They don't take into consideration that there are a lot of out-of-town students who want to participate but can't because it is hard to do."

Larry Cogburn, first semester science major, "Why don't they have rallies? I have never heard anything about them. What time are they and where are they held? If the students have a class, they should be let out."

Pete Pambookjian, third semester liberal arts major, "I would have assemblies during school hours and have student or guest speakers come in and talk to us on education. The students never get together. If they were in one group, it would build the spirit up."

Margery Church, first semester English major, "A lot of students have classes at noon. They should have meetings at night and other times once in a while."

Mary Warren, third semester medical secretary major, "I think that the pep rallies they are having now help. Last year they didn't have any. I enjoy them and I think that they should have more."

Spencer Kendig, third semester journalism major, "The weakest link in school spirit is a lack of communication between student council and students. Orientation sessions should be scheduled to better acquaint students with the council."

FCC Wives Plan Function

The annual Faculty Wives Club coffee hour for foreign students will be held Nov. 16 in the Cafeteria's faculty dining room from 3-5 PM.

"The purpose of the affair," said Mrs. Phil Smith, committee head, "is to acquaint the faculty members with the foreign students attending FCC. Mrs. Smith said faculty wives husbands are also more than welcome to attend."

A committee of eight other faculty wives is assisting Mrs. Smith in the preparations.

"We want to welcome the students to the campus and are anxious for them to attend so we can meet them," she said.

There are 40 foreign students now attending FCC who represent 15 different countries.

League Establishes Fund For Business Scholars

Gervase A. Eckenrod, associate dean of the business division, said that a new fund has been started by the Women's Insurance League.

This fund will provide $25 a semester to any student in the business division who needs the money to purchase books.

Two scholarships in transportation are offered in the business division. Eckenrod said that this industry is one of the greatest ones in the San Joaquin Valley.

Delta Nu Alpha, the professional transportation fraternity, offers a $50 scholarship. The Fresno Women's Transportation Club has made available a $25 scholarship.

The American Women's Business Club has four scholarships of $150 each.

When scholarships are unclaimed, the alternate is named to take the scholarship, explained Eckenrod.

"Scholarships are usually unclaimed because the person who won it is not returning to FCC or has been placed on a job," he said.

According to the FCC catalogue, applications for scholarships should be made by the first of May. The Committee on Scholarships judges the applications on the basis of academic achievement in high school, leadership, citizenship and need.

Scholarship recipients are notified by the middle of May.

College Graduate Wants Pen Pals

Marilyn Thronebery, Rampage exchange editor, recently received a request from Macon Roberts for copies of the newspaper each week and pen pals.

In Roberts' letter he said that he was an ex-student from FCC. He continued by saying, "If anyone wishes to start a pen pal correspondence, I am available. I would be more than happy to relate my experiences in Alaska."

Correspondence to Macon Roberts can be sent c/o: Alaska Methodist University Box 759 Anchorage, Alaska 99504

Anticipation During Frustration

Tulare Editor Stresses 'Quality, Not Quantity'

By BILL PEYTON

"Opportunities in journalism are many, but if you're going to be a journalist, be a good one. We want quality, not quantity."

This is what Tom Hennion, editor of the Tulare Advance Register, stressed as guest speaker in the Introduction to Mass Communications class Nov. 2.

"There is no such thing as a routine story or dull news," he said, "only dull reporters."

Cub Reporter

Hennion began his career in journalism as a cub reporter 30 years ago. He believes a new vista of journalism is opening to those with the necessary qualities.

"You don't have to be intellectual to be a good journalist," he said, "but you sure need common sense."

"Dedication is all your job requires. That includes an extra-large helping of curiosity, the will to work hard and a constant expansion of your education."

Qualifications

Hennion thinks reporters must be bold and have a living interest in people, a good education and the ability to get along with all kinds of people.

"You're exploring truth and life as an eyewitness to the making of history," he said. "As an insider you're the first to know the news." He believes newsmen have a ring-side seat on life because of the job they hold.

They should not let the personal attention go to their head," he said. "Opportunities for interesting assignments and recognition by important people come to the newspaperman, not the individual. People like good news, especially about themselves."

Self Inventory

Hennion urged his listeners to take a careful self-inventory of their qualifications before heading into a career in journalism.

He suggested a good liberal arts background with emphasis on journalism.

"Additional preparation includes work on a small daily or weekly newspaper," he said, "and the pay usually equals that of any other business in town."

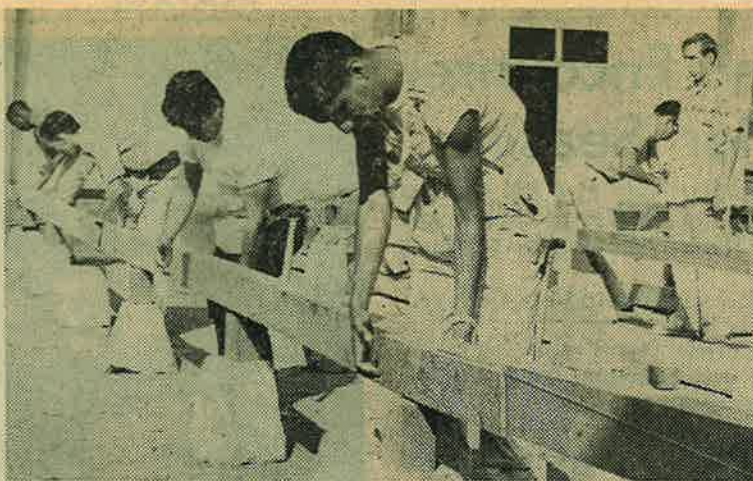

He noted that women are more readily accepted as reporters than they used to be and that opportunities are growing in related fields, such as advertising and management.

Stay In School

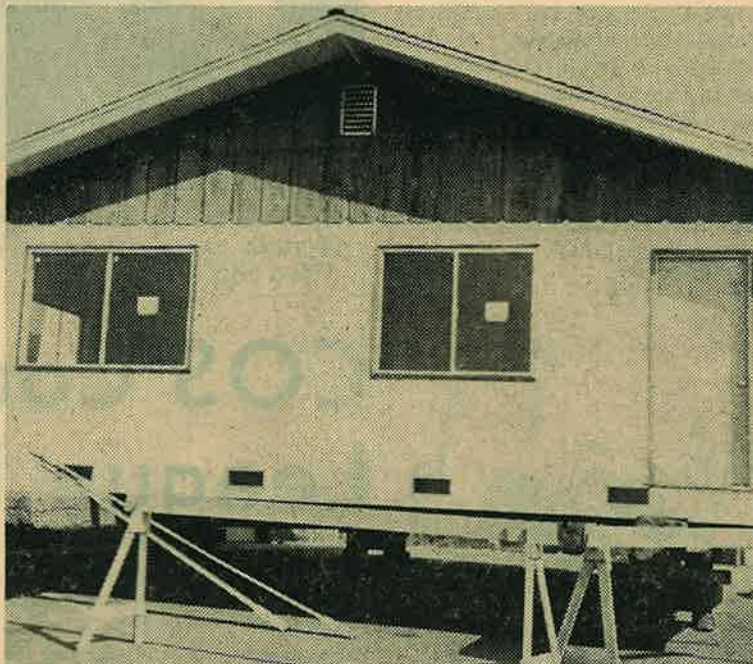

"It's an employee's market in journalism right now," he said, "but don't be too anxious to get started. Stay in school."

Hennion concluded the talk with his reason for devoting 30 years to journalism.

"I just like to create," he said, "and this is the newspaper business."

FCC Clubs Get Storage Space

Bookstore modernization will mean new space for the Associated Students.

Mrs. Jewel Dettinger, bookstore manager, said part of the former bookstore's stockroom is being walled off for use as storage space for student organizations.

They will also have access to the ticket window on the west side of the Student Center, since the area will no longer be filled with materials.

The former bookstore has been converted into office space and a stock room for the new Bookstore. Mrs. Dettinger said the loading zone will be relocated to reduce student distraction in the north end of McLane Hall by delivery trucks.

Data Processing Aids In Job Advancements

The FCC program in data processing is designed to qualify the business graduate both for initial employment as a specialist in the data processing field and for advancement on the job.

Gervase Eckenrod, dean of the business division, said that data processing was evolved into a major five years ago. The two courses offered them consisted of an introduction into the field and a machine class.

Data processing has been expanded to provide classes in punch cards, data systems and system work experience.

Job Experience

"After taking the required classroom courses, the data processing majors will receive on-the-job experience in the work experience class," Eckenrod said.

The student will work approximately 15 hours weekly in a local data processing installation and will be supervised and rated by the employer and the coordinator. This class, however, does include one hour a week in the classroom.

Corresponding classes are introduction to statistics, report writing and accounting.

New Course

Eckenrod said the data processing advisory committee is considering a computer course, which may be offered in the fall semester of 1967.

"Data processing is a fascinating field to become involved in, with limitless opportunities," Eckenrod said.

Trick Brings On 'Cry-In'

By MARILYN THRONEBERY

Halloween to some people turned out more trick than treat. Stanford's Spartan Daily reported that the coeds in one of their dorms — all 200 of them — had a massive cry-in on Halloween.

The reason: tear gas capsules. The capsules were set off on the lawn in front of the dorm by some unknown culprit at 10:30 PM.

Although the habitants of the dorm were told to close their windows after the capsules were set off, most of the gas had already seeped into the dorm.

In the words of The Spartan Daily, "Tears were the order of the evening."

Los Angeles Harbor College

Thet Harbor Hawk reports that one of the courses at its college is glass blowing.

Although not officially in the school's curriculum, the Manpower Development and Training Act has made this course available for training persons that have been displaced from their occupations and also to unemployed youths who lack special skills.

The 16 trainees in the course are being trained in the practical skill of producing oil and mercury diffusion pumps, fractional distillation equipment, liquid extractors and other equipment.

David Wood Gives Class On Dancing

David Wood gave a master class in modern dance in the Fresno City College Gymnasium Tuesday.

The class was sponsored by the FCC student body.

Wood is a member of the Martha Graham Dance Company. He graduated from Fresno High School and the University of California.

Wood has been with Miss Graham for 12 years. He is now the company's rehearsal director.

Wood started his career as an actor. He began dancing in 1948 because he found it a necessary aid to his acting.

He now teaches modern dance and drama in New York's High School of Performing Arts.

The company has gone mainly on foreign tours. It is now touring this country.

Commenting on the value of modern dance, Wood said, "If you like to move, it is of tremendous physical value."

Crucial Sequoia's Encounter Will End Harrier Season

Ram harriers will travel to Visalia today at 4 PM to meet College of Sequoias in the last dual encounter of the season. This crucial meet will be the Rams' last chance to tie in Valley Conference standing.

"If we are to tie for first with Sacramento City College," Coach Bob Fries said, "we must beat COS, and American River Junior College must beat SCC in this week's play."

SCC leads the conference now with a 4-0 slate. FCC and ARJC are tied for second with 3-1. COS holds third place with a split 2-2.

SCC downed the Rams Friday at the three-mile Ft. Washington Golf Course with a score of 25-31. This was the Rams' first dual conference loss in two seasons.

Pete Santos led the Ram effort against SCC, breaking his sixth consecutive course record and finishing 50 yards ahead of SCC's runnerup.

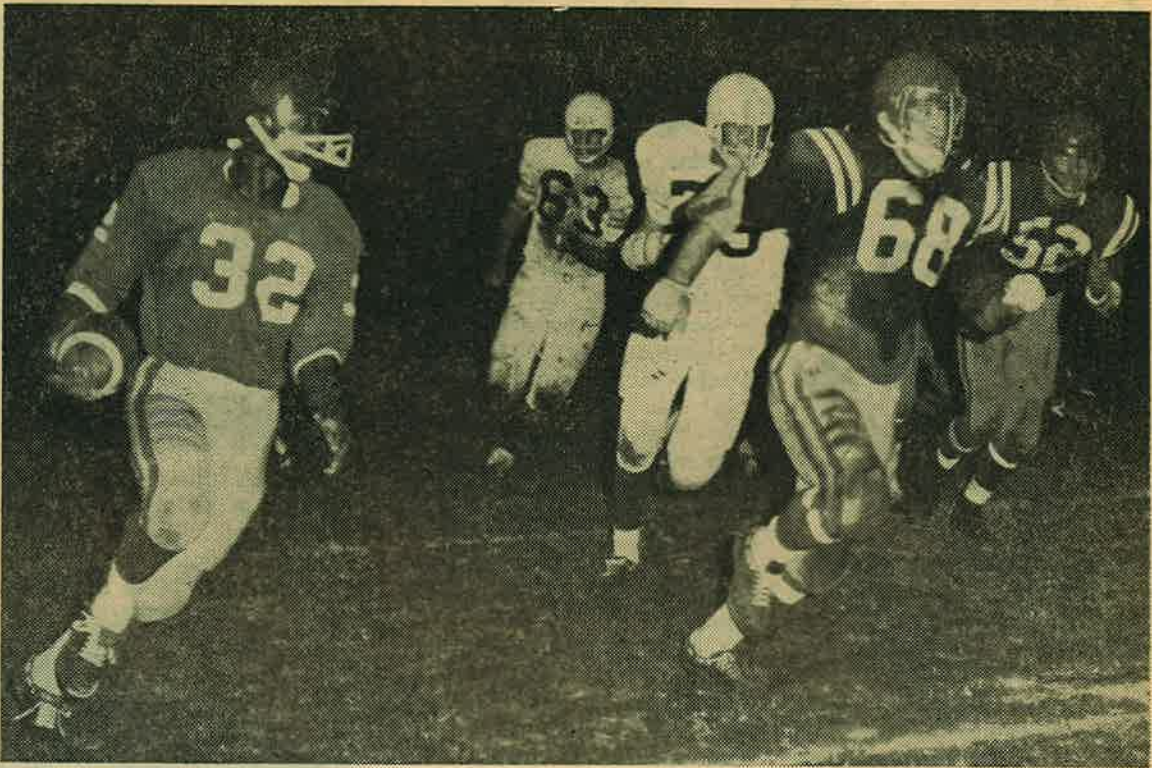

Santos' time of 15:02 beat his previous course record by 23 seconds. Runnerup Dave Hamblen lagged in with 15:26.

Victors In Coed Volleyball Play

Stella Montanex, Dee Christensen, Tom Kearns, Charles Hall and Morirs Mishima composed the winning team of the Intramural Volleyball Tournamnet.

Shirley Stillwell, co-sponsor of the tourney, said that plaques will be awarded to the winning team.

Mrs. Stillwell said that there is a possibilty of continuing this tournament next year.

RIGHT END SWEEP — Greg Franklin dashes for an 18-yard Ram gain in the fourth quarter of the SCC action, freed by a crushing block by Fred Moore (68). Franklin contributed 57 yards to the 290 gained by FCC in the game. Halfback Willie Cox led Ram yardage with a total of 87.

Forming FCC Net Team Beckons New Members

Nothing ventured is nothing gained, and nothing has been ventured or gained by the almost non-existent FCC tennis team.

If there is a substantial response another tennis meeting will be held immediately after the start of the second semester in Room 112 of the Gymnasium, Coach Charles Stark said.

The meeting will cover such items as physicals, insurance, practice and play schedules, a ladder of achievements and plans for trips out of town.

Still Many Openings

Stark said that he has talked to a few students about positions on the team, but there are still many openings for anyone who has had any playing experience.

"We still need several for the team," he said, "and we are especially interested in students with experience in competitive tennis."

Practice sessions for the team will begin at the start of the second semester. If anyone is interested in applying he should contact Coach Stark in the Gymnasium before the Thanksgiving holidays.

"Practice won't be hard, and everyone will have a good time when the team makes an out of town trip," Stark said.

Exhibition Games

There will be two exhibition games before the regular season begins in March. These matches will be on Feb. 24 and 25 against Hartnell College and Cabrillo College.

Stark said it is possible that the net men will play a few matches against high school teams.

Stark, beginning his first year as tennis mentor at FCC, has had successful experience in high school coaching.

He was the tennis coach while he was an instructor at Bullard High School, and he comprised a 45-16 winning record over a period of three years.

COS Conflict Will Decide League Fate Of Gridders

By ED HUGHES

Ram gridders clinched at least a tie for the Valley Conference championship when they knocked Sacramento City College out of second place Friday with a score of 41-23.

The Rams will be out for all the marbles when they meet the College of Sequoias Giants at 1 PM tomorrow in Ratcliffe Stadium.

Coach Clare Slaughter said that the COS game will determine one of two things. It will show if the Rams are content with just a VC tie or if they have the spirit to go even further and take the crown.

No Easy Task

"Winning sole possession of the championship will be no easy task," he said. "Although COS lost to SCC and American River Junior College, COS should have been undefeated."

Slaughter said that COS has two of the best junior college players. These are halfbacks John Hamilton and Mac Dillingham.

COS Coach Al Baldock pointed out that besides these two he also has Steve Stearns, a six foot three inch 240-pounder from Hanford who was an end on last year's all-conference team.

COS was rated third in the nation this year after winning its first five outings. Then the Giants lost two in succession to SCC and ARJC.

Slaughter said that turnouts for the Ram games have averaged only 4,000, much less than would be expected for the best team in FCC history.

Hudson Leads Victory

Quarterback Ron Hudson, voted Ram of the Week, led to a 41-23 victory before 3,500 jubilant fans in Ratcliffe Stadium Friday night. The game marked the sixth straight victory for the Rams and placed them 4-0 in league play.

Hudson completed nine of 14 passes for 189 yards and one touchdown and added 80 yards to cap an outstanding evening.

FCC gained 290 yards rushing, paced by halfback Willie Cox. Hudson added 80, and reserve halfback Greg Franklin contributed 57.

Hudson and Cox both scored on

Stick Trophy Raises Doubt

The Student Council held a very sticky meeting Tuesday at noon.

Student Body President Tim Mancini announced that he discussed with the Student Council at the College of Sequoias the type of trophy that should be presented to the winning team after tomorrow's football game between FCC and COS.

Mancini said that representatives of COS suggested a 10-foot wooden stick.

"It's a nice stick," he said, "but a stick just isn't much of a trophy. If we win it, we will have to build a special trophy case 10 feet long to contain it."

Mancini said that a stick is not the sort of trophy we would be proud to pass on to future students.

As an alternative he suggested an axe or a large jug.

short bursts, and fullback Stan Bauer bumped over for a pair of TD's.

Split end Tom Chatmon's catching contributed 110 yards and a touchdown, and slotback Carlos Laney hauled in a 21-yard TD pass to aid the Ram cause.

Mike Neely was back in form with five extra points in six attempts.

Hudson hooked up in a passing duel with Panther Allen Wentworth, a transfer from the University of Oregon, and the result was plenty of aerial fireworks.
