Play Launches Week's Activities

By VIVIAN JOHNSON

The curtain will go up at 8:30 PM for George Bernard Shaw's play Arms and the Man, which begins a week of the fourth annual Fine Arts Festival at FCC.

Frederick Johnson, FCC drama and speech instructor, said that students from nine high schools have been invited to attend on opening night. He estimates an attendance of 350 students during the run of the play from the nearby schools.

Tomorrow And Saturday

The play also will be given tomorrow and Saturday at 8:30 PM in the FCC Auditorium.

The lead roles are portrayed by Carolene Lung as Raina, Don Agey as Captain Bluntschli and Ken Kennedy as Sergius.

Other cast members are Leslie Sheets, Renee Clendenning, Lawrence Stocks, Albert Cirimele and Brent Harritt. Charles T. Wright has been the technical director and designer and Cheryl Franklin is the stage manager.

Jazz Concert Monday

A jazz concert is scheduled Monday at 8 PM in the west court of the Administration Building.

Vincent Moats, music instructor in charge of instrumental ensembles, and Lowell Spencer, a music instructor specializing in vocal music, will conduct the concerts that are planned.

The FCC symphonic band will present a concert Tuesday at 8 PM in the west court. Moats will conduct the 70-piece band.

Ends Wednesday

The festival will end Wednesday at 8 PM with a choir performance also in the west court.

Dean Draper, FCC art instructor, will have exhibits of art and drama history on display in the corridors of the west court during the festival week. In case of bad weather, the outdoor programs will be moved to the Auditorium.

Sophomore Wins $600 Scholarship

Fresno City College sophomore Don Good has been awarded a $600 scholarship to the University of Nevada School of Music.

Good won the scholarship last Saturday at the Sacramento City College Jazz Festival.

An FCC music major, Good plays alto saxophone for the Fresno City College dance band and flute for the school symphonic band.

Special guest of the all-day music festival was bandleader Stan Kenton. Kenton presented a special music clinic Saturday morning and conducted the Sacramento City College band in concert later that evening.

Vincent Moats, FCC band director, said there is a possibility that Kenton may come to FCC next year for a similar music clinic and band concert.

Debaters To Sponsor FCC Speech Contest

The Fresno City College debate squad will sponsor an all school speech contest, on campus, May 25.

FCC speech instructor Franz Weinschenk said the contest will be open to all students except current or previous debate squad members.

FCC Students, Adviser Plan Asilomar Trip

Two Fresno City College students and an adviser will attend a World Affairs Council of Northern California at Asilomar from May 6-8.

Mrs. Dorothy Naman, FCC biology instructor, will accompany Bart Turner, associated student body vice president, and Lynette Anderson, a sophomore medical assistant major, on the trip.

Turner said the topic will be The United States and Asia, mainly concerning Viet Nam.

Symposium And Seminars

This will be the 20th annual convention, which will include one symposium and 11 seminars.

The scheduled speakers are William P. Bundy, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern Affairs; Henry Steele Commager, professor of history and American studies, Amherst College, and Joseph C. Harsch, Washington correspondent, NBC news.

Editors And Politicians

Others are Kazushige Hirasawa, editor of The Japan Times; U. Alexis Johnson, deputy under secretary of state for political affairs; J. Burke Knapp, vice president of International Bank for Reconstruction and Development; Raul S. Manglapus, senator of the Republic of the Philippines, and Clark Kerr, conference chairman and president of the University of California.

Weinschenk said students will be permitted to speak on any topics of social, economic and political interest. Each speaker will be allowed six minutes to develop his topic.

Contests Discontinued

"The idea of having a school speech contest is not new," said Weinschenk. "We (FCC) used to have them, but they were discontinued about 1961."

Weinschenk said "appropriate awards" will be presented to individual winners but added that more specific details will be worked out within the next two weeks.

Location Undetermined

If there are a large number of sign-ups, Weinschenk said the speeches might have to be divided into morning and afternoon sessions. He said the actual location for the speech contest has not yet been determined.

Weinschenk urges all students interested in participating in the contest to sign up at his office in Student Center 202 as soon as possible. He said the deadline date for all entries is May 23.

PLAY SCHEDULED FOR WEDNESDAY

"The Rivals," a one-act play co-sponsored by the Associated Students and the California Arts Commission will be presented Wednesday, at 2 PM, in the auditorium.

The play is based on the famous Lincoln-Douglas debate of the mid 1800's, prior to Lincoln's election to the Presidency.

FCC students and the general public are invited to attend the performance. No admission will be charged.

Petitions Ready For Candidates

Petitions of candidacy for positions on the fall semester Student Council will be available Monday in the Admissions Office.

Tim Hensleit, FCC commissioner of elections, said 40 FCC students must sign the candidate's petition.

He said that council members must have a 2.0 grade point average in the semester prior to his term.

Trial By Headline

Author Assails Press Tactics

By NELLIE BONILLA

The American press frequently tries and convicts an alleged criminal before his trial and conviction.

This is the opinion of Jessica Mitford expressed in a speech at the Journalism Association of Junior Colleges' state convention last weekend in Camp Curry, Yosemite National Park.

Miss Mitford is the author of The American Way of Death, which deals with the alleged injustices imposed on people by funeral parlors.

Unfair Build-Up

Miss Mitford stated that her topic, Trial By Headline, could also be known to mean fair trial versus a free press.

"According to our law, a defendant is innocent until proven guilty," she said. "However, the classical build-up the press gives the defendant makes it almost impossible for him to have a fair trial."

As an example, she cited a case in San Francisco where a man was accused of beating up a girl.

'Fang' Suspect

"The press," she said, "described the suspect as vicious, hard-face, crafty, snobby, sneering and as the 'fang' suspect."

"Instead of taking the facts into consideration, the press played up the queer aspects of the defendant and buried the facts at the end of the story."

She said that when the real suspect was found instead of the press apologizing it made it seem that because of their coverage he was captured.

Oswald Example

Another example she stated was about the accused assassin of President Kennedy, Lee Harvey Oswald.

"Whether Oswald was guilty or innocent," said Mrs. Mitford, "he could not have had a fair trial."

"The headlines were already saying that he was the assassin even though he hadn't been given a trial."

She quoted the Warren Report as stating that Oswald's right to an impartial jury was endangered by the press.

"The American Bar Association," she said, "stated that it would have been difficult to have given Oswald a fair trial because of the 'evidence' given by the press."

Police Failure

"Oswald was not only declared guilty by the press but executed by the failure of the police because they didn't control the press in the police basement where Oswald was killed."

She said that the problem would be solved if law enforcement could be forbidden from feeding information to the press before a trial.

Staff Lauds School's Stand On Censorship

At the recent Journalism Association of Junior Colleges convention in Yosemite, Foothill Junior College introduced a resolution in the form of a motion for freedom of the junior college press.

The main crux of the motion was to do away with the censorship of editorial and news copy that exists in some of the junior colleges in the state of California.

What we found most shocking was not the fact that the resolution had to be made in the first place, but the fact that the resolution was voted down by the delegates attending the convention.

It is a fact that many junior colleges suffer the burden of both direct and indirect censorship of all the copy that goes into their papers. This is especially true of any controversial or editorial material which might raise the eyebrows of those in the administration or on the board of trustees.

We here at FCC are very fortunate in the fact that we are allowed to use our judgment and stand on our own convictions.

We are guided only by the tenets of good journalism and the libel laws that apply to all papers.

Problems arise with this sort of censorship, not the least important being the development of responsibility.

At one small junior college slightly over 100 miles to the south of FCC, the board of trustees not only censors material, but will not allow student reporters to attend the board meetings. The student delegation from this junior college did not vote against the resolution.

Freedom of the press is guaranteed by the constitution. Why is it being denied in some junior colleges?

Perhaps there are some skeletons in some closets or perhaps there is no faith in the youth of today.

This is one of the poorest facets of education and it does not belong in the advanced college system of the state of California.

We at FCC are fortunate to have a forward looking board and administration who are willing to run the risk of criticism for the betterment of education.

Those students who vetoed the motion are only tying their own hands and entrenching the beliefs of the educators who fear criticism.

We voted yes for the motion, and that was our way of saying thanks to those who have faith in our developing education.

Machine To Track Down Offenders At Miami-Dade

By LYNNE OKAMOTO

MIAMI-DADE JUNIOR COLLEGE — people are often being accused of "squealing" on someone but have you ever heard of an IBM machine that rats on students that have collected traffic violations?

"It's a harmless machine but with the information it feeds the dean of men, it could be more deadly than the plague for some students," reports the Falcon Times.

Whenever a student receives a violation a record of it is fed into the machine. A running tabulation is kept of the individual student. When an excess of tickets is issued to a particular student, this is reported to the dean and disciplinary action is taken.

Food Faddists Stand
GROSSMONT COLLEGE—"Eat oysters for sexual potency!" This statement was voiced by food faddists. Actually the oysters are not a cause of sexual potency, said the Grossmont paper.

This article stressed the importance of food and dangers of food fads. Some food faddists encourage people to eat according to their cravings. This leads to one conclusion—malnutrition.

'Brain Food'
Another menu the faddist suggests for poor students is "brain" food. Those most highly recommended by some faddists are fish, nutmeg and brain.

The Grossmont newspaper staff also remarks, "Perhaps there is some special chest or leg food too."

Cyclist Tours Coast
SACRAMENTO CITY COLLEGE —A student at City College just took a trip to prove students are becoming lazy because of cars. James Morrow who rode a bicycle 525 miles from San Francisco to Los Angeles, believes more exercise is needed before the students' minds become as dull as their bodies.

"The object of his trip was to promote cycling throughout Sacramento and among his fellow students," said the Pony Express.

Morrow toured California on Coast Highway 1. He stayed at a motel one night and camped out the other three, including a stay in Big Sur.

FCC Thinks Mates By Machine Feasible

By MARY MORRIS

Today many of man's jobs have been turned over to machines. One of the new fields the machine is invading is that of dating. On the nation's campuses the big thing is computer dating.

DON VALERIO, a second semester aerodynamics major: "I really haven't given it much thought. It sounds like a good way of meeting your ideal person. At least this way you have some kind of knowledge of each other's characteristics and background before you meet."

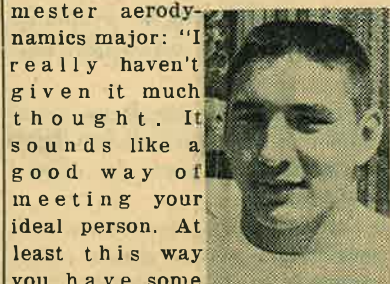

TOM NICHOLS, a second semester accounting major: "I think it is real good. You get to meet new people and see if your mate and you will get along with each other."

This week the inquiring resemster nursing major: "I guess it's alright. You get to meet new people. Also you would have the same likes and dislikes."

"But in many respects I don't like it because if you both have the same likes and dislikes then there is really no chance to learn anything new from the other person."

NANCY SHEPARD, a second semester speech major: "For the past three years I've been hearing and reading about the process of computer dating. It has always seemed to intrigue me, but I've never had the opportunity to try it myself."

"I think it really would be fun to see who I'd end up with. But going steady at the moment seems to limit my chances of ever participating."

Article On Canadian RR Nets $220 For Brown

Like journalism students who write for the FCC Rampage, Rich Brown, a journalism student teacher, enjoys having his articles published.

Unlike Rampage reporters, Brown was paid $220 by Westways, a Los Angeles based travel magazine, for an article tracing the history of Canadian Pacific Railway steamships operating between Skagway, Alaska, Vancouver, BC, and Seattle, Wash.

"I had originally decided to write an article about a CPR ship operating passenger service between Los Angeles and Acapulco, Mexico," Brown said.

"However, the editor decided that an article tracing the full history of the company's steamer service would be better."

Brown said that he rewrote the story three times but advised prospective magazine writers to rewrite more times than that.

"Many stories sent to magazines are rejected because the author takes an inflexible attitude toward what he has written," he said.

"When you send in articles for consideration, offer to make any changes the editor thinks necessary."

Brown suggested that students interested in submitting articles to magazines obtain names of magazines and their editors from the Writer's Yearbook in the reference room of the library.

Tension Essential For Life

"No one is free," John O. Waltner, a local marriage counselor, said at a meeting of the Phi Rho Nho, FCC nursing club, Wednesday, Apr. 27.

"Everybody everyday faces tension. Certain students at FCC are under stress."

He explained that stress is an essential function of living and that "without stress we wouldn't be living."

"Stress is an end to well being, happiness and satisfaction of life. You must think of it as a useful tool, but it is often destructive."

"Tension is created in the classroom. Students either vie for the attention of the teachers or hide. But without good grades you can't continue in college."

"Teachers should be aware of deviating problems but they aren't therapists," he said.

Some of the characteristics of stress he listed are the belligerent "I-dare-you" attitude, blowing up, being defensive, suspiciousness, mistrust, selfishness and being a worry wart.

Others include moodiness, greediness and lack of emotional control.

He encourages people to talk about their problems.

"You don't have to cry about problems—talk about them," he said, "how many men have smashed their fists through the walls of their houses?"

Things to do about stress are, to take a walk, give in to some person, help others, do nothing at the time, go easy with criticism and give others a break, Waltner said.

He also said to make yourself a schedule.

"Stress and strain is healthy. They keep you going. You can either be a healthy individual or let them drag you down."

"Most of us bounce back from tension or stress, but some people don't."

He said that these are the ones who fail in marriage, are unable to sleep at night, are hypochondriacs and have heart palpitations and headaches.

"People rush to doctors but not about their personal self," Waltner added. "The delay is tragedy."

Five Rampage Reporters Win Writing Awards At Convention

Five Rampage editors won writing awards Saturday in competition with students from 45 other junior colleges.

Fresno City College tied with Riverside City College for second place in the sweepstakes awards among junior colleges of enrollment under 7,500 at the Journalism Association of Junior Colleges' state convention last weekend in Camp Curry, Yosemite National Park.

COS

College of the Sequoias in Visalia was first in the small college division.

El Camino College in El Camino was first in the competition among colleges of enrollment over 7,500.

The sweepstakes awards were based on how well staff members performed in mail-in and on-the-spot writing, photography and magazine layout contests.

Second

Nellie Bonilla, Rampage club news editor, won a second place trophy in rewrite competition.

The following editors won certificates of honorable mention (equivalent to third place): Thomas Arriet, feature; Louis Bell, sports; Vivian Johnson, rewrite; and Paul Sullivan, Jr., editorial.

Arriet is the assistant city editor, Bell is the sports editor, Miss Johnson the copy editor and Sullivan the managing editor.

Jessica Mitford, author of The American Way of Death, was a guest speaker. She criticized the American press for trying and convicting criminal suspects prior to their trials.

Phil Smith, Rampage adviser, will represent the JAJC faculty advisers at the national convention of the Association for Education in Journalism in Iowa City, Iowa, in late August.

Purpose

"The AEJ is primarily an organization for four-year colleges," Smith said. "Our committee will promote recognition of the journalism program in the junior college."

Fresno State College will be the site of the fall northern region JAJC convention in October. The journalism departments of FSC and FCC will be the hosts.

COS, Reedley College and FCC will co-host the JAJC state convention in the spring of 1968. It will be held in Fresno.

Others who attended the convention from the Rampage were Jay York, photo editor; Spencer

Members from the Ram staff at the convention were Tim Welch, the adviser; Tamara Vasquez, editor; Steve Larson and Tom Merzon. Keith Emmert, photography adviser for the Rampage and the Ram, was also at the conclave.

Change In Requirements Leads To More Teachers

Because of a recent State Board of Education resolution, more qualified instructors will be available to California's junior colleges next semester due to the revision in credential requirements.

Dr. Paul Lawrence of the State Board of Education said that previous requirements for junior college teaching credentials have been the same as those for high school — 120 hours of student teaching experience were necessary before the applicant could be certified to teach.

Resolution In March

The State Board of Education in its March meeting passed a resolution which enables applicants with a Masters of Arts or Masters of Science degree to teach in the field of their major or minor study without student teaching background.

Dr. Lawrence said this measure is planned to compensate for the shortage of qualified instructors.

Old Requirements

The previous credential requirement of 120 hours student teaching experience applied only to junior college and lower levels.

Business Student Receives Award

Sue Fulmore, FCC coed, has been awarded a scholarship of $900 to attend the Certified Stenotype School in Los Angeles.

The scholarship, which will pay for 12 months training in the area of legal secretaryship, was given Miss Fulmore by the Stenotype Company of California.

Herman F. Miller, president of the company, was impressed with Miss Fulmore's work while visiting FCC, and, after discussing her qualifications with the instructor, offered her the scholarship.

Mrs. Mary Miller, stenography instructor, said Miss Fulmore has been the most outstanding student in her career of teaching machine stenography.

Draft Test Scheduled For June

By ANN COX

Those men, 18 and over, who missed signing up for the Selective Service College Qualification Test have received a reprieve from Washington, D.C.

An additional test date had been scheduled for late June, and the deadline for registering for the test will be announced shortly, said a local draft board spokesman.

The original tests are scheduled for May 14, May 21 and June 3 in 1,200 locations, including Fresno State College. The sign-up deadline was Apr. 23. One million students had applied by that date, but additional thousands who neglected to sign up have been pestering local draft and selective service offices.

Draft Status

The purpose of the optional test is to help local draft boards in determining draft status. A minimum score of 70 per cent for undergraduates and 80 per cent for graduate students is considered a passing score.

College class ranking is also a factor in determining whether a young man will retain his 2S status or be reclassified 1A.

Vocal Decision

The final decision will be made by the local draft board; there are no nation-wide standards for guaranteeing exemption from service. But the local boards are expected to give students some leeway, at least until next fall, especially since, according to Selective Service director Lewis B. Hershey, the army doesn't have beds or training personnel to handle large numbers of inductees.

Ram Netmen Enter League Competition

Five members of the Fresno City College tennis team will be in Modesto tomorrow and Saturday competing in the Valley Conference championships.

FCC Coach Dan Ozier has named Frank Waterhouse, Gary Hippenstell, John Grey, Doug Banta and Randy VanOsten to represent FCC in the two-day tournament.

Ozier is somewhat pessimistic about his team's chances.

"We won't win any championship," he said, "but I think we will qualify four men for the Regional Finals."

Ozier feels the team to beat will be American River Junior College, although they are "not that good."

Individually, Ozier thinks ARJC's Larry Hall is "perhaps one of the best in the state."

While attending El Camino High School, Hall was the fifteenth ranked 18-year old in the nation. He is currently undefeated.

Another player Ozier considers "outstanding" is Joe Adams of the College of the Sequoias. Adams lost his only match of the season to Hall.

Ozier also singled out Jim Gallagher of Modesto Junior College as one of the finest players FCC has met all year. Gallagher is also considered by many coaches as one of the league's best tennis players.

"San Joaquin Delta Junior College has a couple of players named (Roy) Orlando and (Chuck) Lawhorn who are pretty tough, too," he added.

Deadline For Tennis Nears

Tomorrow is the deadline to sign up for the annual Fresno City College intramural tennis tournament.

Mrs. Shirley Stilwell, physical education instructor, urges all men who are interested in playing to sign up in her office before 4 PM Friday. The tournament will be held May 9-13 beginning at 4 PM each day on the tennis courts.

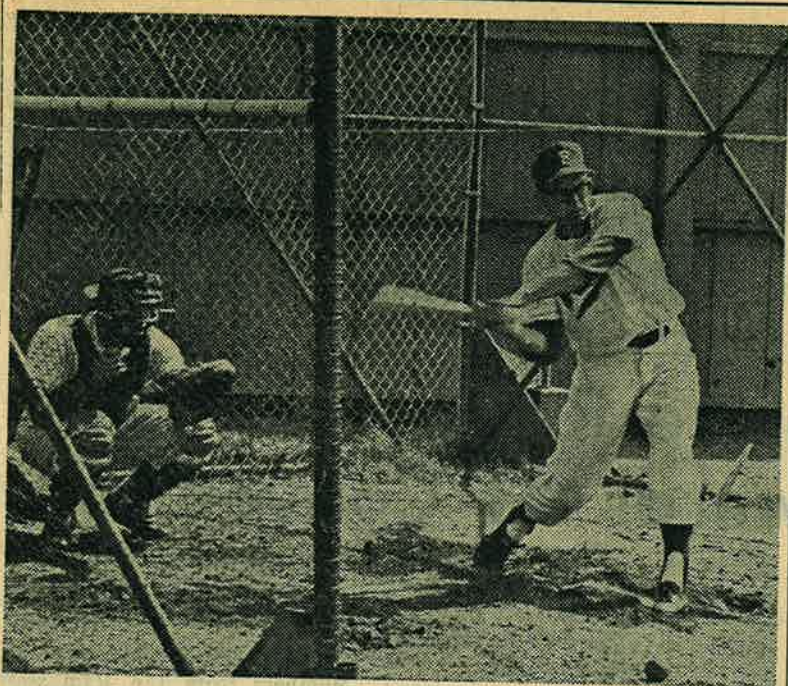

Two groups will play matches; one for beginners and one for intermediates. Trophies will be awarded to the first and second place winners in the singles and doubles competition in each group.

CC Baseball Team To End Season

By HOWARD SAIKI

Fresno City College's baseball season will come to an end tomorrow and Saturday as they will meet the league leading Giants of the College of Sequoias.

Tomorrow's game will start at 3 PM in John Euleess Park and the seasonal finale will be at Recreation Park in Visalia.

Coach Len Bourdet will probably start his ace Bert Bandy, who will be making his final start for the Rams as his CC career will come to an end.

Also making their final appearances will be catchers Lyle May, Ken Papi and Craig Friebe, first baseman Bill Brown, second baseman Jerry Robison, third baseman Ned Andreoni and shortstop John Lung. In the outfielders are Mike Flynn, and Ernie Coppo along with reserve infielder Andy Saladate and pitcher Sherman Lee.

The pennant-minded Giants under Coach Roy Taylor will probably start one of their two pitching aces and it will probably be Anthony Cardoza, who defeated the locals the last time they played 6-5, as outfielders Dennis Montgomery and Bob Garcia paced the hitters.

Last week's double win over the Modesto College Pirates gave the Rams sole possession of third place in the VC standing as they won their 15th game in their last 18 and gave them a 10-8 record in VC play and overall 23-11 record.

In registering their seventh consecutive VC victory, Bandy allowed the Pirates eight hits and struck out 10 batters in beating the MC team 4-0 in the opener.

He received all the runs he needed from Robison's run producing double in the second inning. Robison also accounted for the final run in the seventh inning with an inside-the-park homer.

Rich Madron, a freshman left-hander, who turned in a solid relief performance against the Panthers of Sacramento City College two weekends ago, earned himself a starting role and responded with a victory, as he scattered six hits and fanned seven in posting the 8-2 victory.

Pacing the victors in the nightcap was Friebe's perfect four for four, along with Andreoni's booming triple with the bases loaded, which helped lead to a sixth inning five run outburst.

Swim Team Enters State Championships

With hopes set in beating the state's best, the Fresno City College swim team today entered the State Junior College Championships.

The meet, which is being held in the Foothill Junior College swimming pools, will run through Saturday with competition beginning at 9 AM each day.

Coach Gene Stephens will be pinning his hopes of a championship on the performances of seven swimmers competing in two relays, four individual events and diving competition.

Rams Enter Relays

The two relay events entered by the Rams include the 400 freestyle with Blair Looney, Jay Huneke, Terry Heller and Ken Yegan competing, and the 400 yard medley relay with Rod Latham, Jim Riley, Heller and Yegan teaming up.

Heller will also swim in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events.

Diving Competition

Latham and Riley will round out the FCC swimming entries when each swims the 100 yard breaststroke and 100 yard backstroke respectively.

Bob McAllister will head the diving competition when he competes in the one and three meter diving events.

Foothill Junior College, which has won the State Championships for the last three years, will again be favored to take top honors.

Cindermen Enter Qualifying Meet

By TED HILLIARD

The championship Ram track team will travel to Sacramento Saturday for the Valley Conference Qualifying Meet.

The meet, which begins at 1 PM, will qualify conference trackmen for the West Coast Relays at Ratcliffe Stadium May 14.

Coach Erwin Ginsburg is not concerned with team scorings in the meet but with the individual performance of qualifiers.

"A bad day, an injury or a mis-cue could disqualify some of our good men," Ginsburg explained.

There will be no need for concern, however, if all the men perform as well as they did in the Northern California Relays Saturday at Ratcliffe Stadium.

FCC cindermen scored two of four best-in-nation marks in Saturday's competition against 30 Northern California colleges.

Erwin Hunt set a national record with 14.1 in the high hurdles.

Del Thompson, Bruce Smith, Alvin Mann and Hunt brought another national record to FCC in the shuttle hurdles with a time of 55.7.

The two other national records scored at the meet were made by Dwight Tucker of City College of San Francisco (51-1½) in the triple jump event) and Ricky Rogers of Contra Costa Junior College (long jump of 24-10¼).

Although handicapped by the loss of injured 9.6 dashman Sam Davis and hurdler-relay runner Ezunial Burts, FCC led the meet 64-44 over runner-up CCSF.

Team Scoring
Fresno 64; San Francisco 44; Contra Costa 34½; College of the Sequoias 25; American River 24; San Jose 23; Hancock 21; Sacramento 20½; San Mateo 13; Laney of Oakland 11½; Modesto 10; Delta 9; Diablo Valley 6; Foothill 5; Porterville 4; Merced 4; Chabot 4; Merritt 3½; West Valley 3; Reedley 3; Shasta 3; Hartnell 2.

FCC Golfers Eye League Tournament

Fresno City College linkmen will face a major hurdle in their quest for a state championship Monday when they travel to Lodi for the annual Valley Conference Golf Championship.

The tourney will be played on the Dry Creek Golf Course and will begin at 8 AM.

Coach Hans Weidenhoefer said individual team members are going to have to place within the top six finishers in this meet if they are to represent FCC in the State Junior College Championships coming up May 16.

"This is going to be a particularly rough tournament," said Coach Hans Weidenhoefer. "I'm hoping we can qualify at least three men for the state championships."

Weidenhoefer listed Rich Richards, Tom Shropshire and Bill Parks as having an excellent chance to qualify for the meet.

The Rams will be unable to enter the championships as a team, but will have a chance to win individual awards if they can place in the VC qualifying meet and then do well in the State Championships.
