

Famous Architect Continues Series

Richard Buckminster Fuller will speak Sunday at 7:30 PM in the Fresno City College Gymnasium in the second Sunday Evening Series.

Fuller is a research professor at Southern Illinois University.

"The title of Fuller's speech will be The Prospect For Humanity: Man and Science In The Computer Age.

Travels And Talks

Fuller travels and talks ten months of the year. He is paid about $1,000 per lecture. Fresno City College is paying him $1,320 for his lecture here, according to Timothy Welch, community services officer.

Tickets are free. They may be picked up at the new ticket window downstairs in the Student Center Building from 1-5 PM daily, Monday through Friday.

The main subject of Fuller's speech will be in the architectural area. There will be a question and answer period afterward from the floor.

Geodesic Dome

Fuller is best known for his "geodesic dome." About the dome the Jan. 10, 1964, issue of Time magazine said: "Structurally unlimited as to size, cheap to make, requiring no obstructing columns for support, the geodesic dome uses less structural material to cover more space than any other building ever devised."

The domes have been used for everything from radar domes to auditoriums.

Fuller has invented other objects, but the dome was his first real success.

Fuller said: "The greatest fact of the twentieth century is that we can make life on earth a general success for all men."

Six Picked To Play In Honor Band

"Six members of the FCC concert band were selected by auditions to perform with the All-Western Junior College Honor Band at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor," said Vincent Moats, FCC band director.

The students are Valeria Quick, flute; John Black, clarinet; Jerry Martin and John Clatworthy, French horn; Ron Franklin, trumpet; and Bob Clark, oboe.

Moats said that FCC ranks third in the number of representatives chosen from any college of the western states.

This year the honor band selections will be performed at the annual National Band Directors Association meeting in Ann Arbor.

The honor band will be in Ann Arbor from Feb. 7 to 12.

"While at the University of Michigan," said Moats, "the students will spend 10 hours daily rehearsing and attending conducting and music analysis seminars."

The band will also attend rehearsals in San Francisco from Jan. 27 to 29.

Moats was the chairman for auditions from central California.

Aptitude Test Being Offered

A data processing aptitude test will be offered to Fresno City College students Monday at 3:30 PM and Tuesday at 7:30 PM in Administration 121.

The test, which will take about 32 minutes, is offered to students who wish to ascertain their ability or lack of ability for study in data processing.

Gervase Eckenrod, associate dean of the business division, said the demand for programmers continues to be very high and the rate of pay is outstanding.

The United States government has stated that there is a dire need for experienced programmers, and newspapers are continually carrying requests for people trained in this area.

The test will cover mathematics concepts and problem solving in the first section and exercise in identification of relationships in the second section, Eckenrod said.

The test, although it is not required for enrollment in Data Processing 50, is a prerequisite for Data Processing 51-A, which is offered by the business division.

Potpourri Readies Publication

Potpourri, FCC student literary magazine, is now preparing for spring publication.

Robert Shaver, co-adviser of the magazine, said he has appointed Linda Lazzeretti as editor. Openings are still available for other staff positions. Students interested in applying for these positions may contact Shaver in A-203.

At least one photographer is needed for the magazine. Other positions include publicity managers, assistant editors and circulation managers.

Students may also begin now to submit their works of art, prose and poetry. Shaver will accept works of creative writing until the staff is formed, when they may be submitted to him or any staff member.

Curtis Draper is the co-adviser in charge of art work. Paintings, sculptures and cover designs may be submitted to him in A-226.

Two Bands Will Give Winter Show

The FCC studio and concert bands will present a winter concert Tuesday at 8 PM in the Cafeteria.

The concert will also be presented at Madera High School on Wednesday at 8 PM.

"This will be the first of a series of concerts to be presented to the district communities," said FCC band director Vincent Moats.

The studio band, a 20 piece jazz group, will present selections arranged by band member Jim Barnett. The selections are I've Grown Accustomed to Her Face and Pick Yourself Up.

One For the Money arranged by Fred Karyn will also be featured.

The featured jazz soloists will include Bill Bixler, tenor saxophone; Ron Franklin and Lee Plaskett, trumpet; William Murphy, piano; Jim Barnett, trombone; Scott Taylor, alto saxophone; Mike Blake and Mike Carrella, drums; and Gary Fellows, string bass.

The 70 piece concert band will perform the Buglers' Holiday by

Five President Candidates

Student Elections Set For Wednesday

Student body elections will be held at FCC on Wednesday.

Five students are running for student body president. They are Tim Mancini, Rod Haron, John Black, Ted Hillard and Douglas Gallup. Mancini is the incumbent.

Tom Stringfield and Tim Wright are running for vice-president.

Unopposed Treasurer

Ken Bundy is running unopposed for treasurer.

Secretary candidates are Audrey Cervantez, Linda Gordon and Sally Smith.

Twenty-seven candidates are running for 16 representatives-at-large posts on the student council.

Polling Places

This year there will be polling places in the Library, the foyer of the Administration Building, the Cafeteria and Technical and Industrial 100.

The students running for offices met in the Cafeteria yesterday at 7 AM for the candidates' breakfast.

Jim Chappel heads the three-man election committee. Other members are Bart Turner and Tim Hensleit.

Spring Registration To Begin On Jan. 16

Registration for students planning to enter spring semester day classes will be conducted from Jan. 16-20 and Jan. 23-25. Late registration will be on Jan. 30-31.

Students who have completed preregistration procedures may pick up their routing envelopes in the main foyer of the Administration Building.

Richard L. Cleland, chairman of the registration committee, said that all students must present their line card at this time and must have an ink pen before starting registration.

Verification And Classification

After picking up their routing envelope, the student should report to the Attendance Office (Administration 128) for verification and classification of legal residence.

The main part of registration takes place in the Social Hall of the Student Center. The procedure is as follows:

- Present line card.
- Plan program.
- Pull class cards.
- Pay fees.
- Fill out IBM registration cards.

Coding

Students should then report to Conference Room A of the Cafeteria for coding and to Conference Room B for check-out.

Cleland said, "Students already pre-registered number 4,164.

"This is below the fall semester's preregistration but is good because there will be plenty of classes available to the students," he said.

Applications for the spring semester will be accepted up to Jan. 24.

Information concerning registration for evening classes may be obtained in Administration 107.

Navy Recruiters Will Visit Here

A Naval Aviation Officers Programs Information Team will visit FCC Tuesday.

Paul Starr, dean of special services, said the group will be in the Cafeteria foyer and Conference Room B from 9 AM to 2:30 PM.

Students interested in applying for any of the programs must be between the age of 17 and 27½, have 20-20 to 20-40 vision and maintain at least a 2.0 grade point average.

Application tests will be given in Conference Room B.

Starr said that this is the second and last time this school year that the Naval team will visit FCC.

TAHITIAN CHRISTMAS — Business instructor, Dr. Gilbert Peart, who spent his Christmas vacation on Tahiti and other Pacific islands with his wife.

Dr. Peart Vacations In Pacific

By LINDA GARRETT

Have you ever wondered what a vacation in Tahiti would be like?

Dr. Gilbert Peart, a business instructor, traveled to the Southern Pacific islands of Tahiti, Bora Bora, Raiatea and Moorea during the Christmas holidays.

Dr. and Mrs. Peart took a non-stop jet from Los Angeles Dec. 23 and returned Monday evening. The round trip covered over 8,000 miles.

He found the islands "extremely interesting" and was impressed by the backwardness of Bora Bora, Moorea and Raiatea. They have no newspapers, television or radio. The only telephone that each island has is in the post office.

Tahiti More Advanced

Tahiti is a more advanced island, according to Dr. Peart, and it does have television, radio, telephones and newspapers.

Tahiti is under French control and is France's headquarters for atomic bomb experiments.

Dr. Peart said that this is the off-season for tourists. It is summer in Tahiti and also the rainy season, although there was little rain while he was there.

It was 90 degrees most of the time with the humidity between 80 and 85 per cent, he said, but strong northeast tradewinds made the weather bearable.

Dependent On Coconut

Copra, dried coconut meat, is the main source of income for the people on the islands. Dr. Peart said the poorer people usually have a few coconut trees in their yards.

Breadfruit trees, taro (from which poi is made), sweet potatoes, fruits and fish are also important in their economy. All other food must be imported.

Their homes are made of bamboo with thatch roofs. Dr. Peart said that the houses are open on all four sides and screened in.

The Tahitians own 80 percent of their land, which makes it hard for foreigners to buy land.

Expensive Visit

Dr. Peart said it was expensive to visit these islands, and some hotels cost $50 a day. He was surprised that there was no begging and tipping is not allowed.

In all the islands except Tahiti the transportation is mostly motor scooters. There are cars in Tahiti.

Dr. Peart said that the islanders were a carefree people who live for today and love children.

Cost Problem Missed

Organization Queries School Activity Hours

The President's Council on Physical Fitness is presently conducting a campaign to open the recreation facilities of local schools for after hours, weekends and summertime use for people of all age groups.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said that the facilities are in use only 30 per cent of the time and this constitutes a tragic waste of money. It has been pointed out that our present school systems are geared to the agricultural set up in which school pupils also doubled as farm hands during the summer months.

"Why," the council asks, "shouldn't the residents of a community use the gymnasiums, tennis courts, playing fields, running tracks, activity rooms and swimming pools of the schools which they build and support with their tax dollars?"

The idea is worthy of support, and it has the hearty approval of the Rampage. However, one question stands out and as yet has had no answer. How is the extra cost to be financed?

The Fitness Council said, "Of course, there is more involved in making our schools neighborhood recreation centers than merely unlocking the doors and throwing out the balls. Someone has to be there to organize, supervise and instruct, and there are problems of maintenance, insurance, equipment, etc."

The council hasn't provided the solutions to any of these problems. There also looms the cost of the extra man hours required to run such a proposal. Would this mean an increase in taxes?

The program is worthwhile and deserves looking into by the local Fresno community, but some solid answers must be forthcoming.

Opinion

Jackson Criticizes Induction System

By JAY YORK

The present Universal Military Training and Service Act, commonly known as the draft law, is a farce and must be changed when it expires in June.

Donald Jackson's Evading the Draft: Who, How and Why in Life Magazine (12/9) labels the draft "... a Law Shot Full of Holes ..." denoting its inconsistency, inequity and non-existent universality.

Jackson lists "Pro Football's Magical Immunity" as a case in point. Draft-eligible pros are co-operatively moved to the head of the list for reserve and National Guard units by rather shady deals. Others are given 4-F medical deferments, even though they manage to survive the rigors of professional football.

Educational Deferments Unfair

The article also says educational deferments discriminate "against those who lack the means, desire or ability to attend college. President Kingman Brewster of Yale has spoken of the 'endless catacombs of formal education,' where a man may meander for years while eluding the draft that catches his unlucky contemporaries."

Thus people of the lower economic or educational classes bear the brunt of the draft and the defense of our freedom, in Vietnam, or elsewhere. This responsibility belongs to all, regardless of status, education or wealth. Why should anyone benefit from anything he hasn't paid for?

Used For Discipline

The draft also seems to be used as a disciplinary measure by some boards, since "in Michigan 14 college students are reclassified 1-A because they took part in an anti-war demonstration." Really democratic of the draft board, isn't it?

Of these faults, Jackson says, "In just this random, scattershot way the nation's Selective Service System goes about its critically important job — determining who will and who won't be drafted and why." He implies, but doesn't ask outright, what right they have to God-like make decisions which will almost certainly change the lives of their "victims."

Four Alternatives

"President Johnson's commission headed by Burke Marshall, 'is studying four main alternatives to the present system: 1) an all-volunteer Army; 2) universal military training for all physically fit men of 18 or 19; 3) a national draft lottery; and 4) a 'national service' program."

The first two possibilities seem to be overruled by practical consideration. The all-volunteer Army would cost too much with the needed pay increments and inducements. "Universal military training, for all its democratic appeal, would necessitate a gigantic overhaul of the service to gear them to the training of as many as two million men a year by 1974."

Lottery System

However, the lottery system is not the answer to the draft problem. It retains the same unequal educational deferments that the present system has. And who wants someone playing Bingo with their life or death?

Sportscaster Sheppard Sees 'Good Things' For Coverage

By PAUL SULLIVAN

Behind the scenes there's a voice that keeps FCC fans abreast of all the major sports action.

The voice belongs to a personable young man of 30, Dick Sheppard. As a one man sports department and FCC booster, Sheppard does the sports casting for the Fresno City College Rams. Football or basketball, he's there passing on the action via radio station KMJ.

Sheppard, who is the mainstay of the KMJ sports department, began his radio career while in high school at Dinuba.

Military Obligation

Progress in radio was hampered somewhat by a stint in the service only to be assisted by the fortunes of the military.

"It was one of those few things you volunteer for that turn out good," Sheppard said. "Somebody asked if anyone knew anything about sports and the next thing I knew I was doing the play by play of a football game for the Armed Forces Overseas Radio."

Having done sports work for KMJ for two years, Sheppard said that the future for continued coverage of FCC sports looks good.

"I see nothing but good things ahead," he said.

Original Idea

The original idea to cover FCC sports-wise was decided in a combined idea exchange between the management of KMJ and Sheppard shortly after he started work there.

"We thought we could do something for the community," he said, "and it seemed that FCC was the likely spot since Fresno State College was already taken care of."

Dry Humor

Skilled at rather dry humor, Sheppard said that his wife puts up quite well with his going out of town to cover sports events.

"My wife's dad is in radio so she is used to this type of thing. However, she could care less about sports," he said.

Life in the electronic media is plagued with behind-the-scenes problems and Sheppard is no exception. He classes his all-time problems with ones of silence and hiccups.

Dead Microphone

One summer while covering a baseball tournament he spent over five hours giving accounts of the tourney, only to find that he had been talking into a dead microphone all that time.

"I quit that very afternoon," he said.

Still another agony that arose during Sheppard's career was the time he tried to do a 15 minute news cast with a severe case of the hiccups.

"It sounded like it too," he quipped.

Nothing Went Right

At the recent Los Angeles City College game nothing seemed to go right for Sheppard or for FCC. The Rams lost 16-7.

"I had written ahead for a spotter and a team roster," Sheppard said, "but when I got to Los Angeles there was no one there. Everything we tried to do seemed to go wrong. There seemed to be a hex on things."

He feels that part of the problems that have arisen are due to the two year program of a junior college. He no sooner gets to know the players and their numbers when they transfer.

Gathers News

Contrary to some popular opinions, Sheppard doesn't get his sports news from the sports writers across the street from KMJ at the Fresno Bee. He has to gather all his own local news and does so with not too little competition from the Bee.

"One thing though, the competition is strictly on a friendly basis," he said.

Although a one man sports department for KMJ Sheppard likes his work because it enables him to make decisions quickly.

"Within the bounds of good sense and propriety I run my own show."

The rules for policy making brings to light one of Sheppard's pet peeves. A negative attitude is the thing that irritates Sheppard the most. When a split second decision has to be made he doesn't want to hear someone say such and such can't be done.

"Right or wrong, you have to do something; you can't have a bunch of silence on the radio or TV," he said.

Action Comes Alive

Distinctive though he is, Sheppard doesn't try to be; it comes naturally. He stands out in the fact that he tries to make the action come alive while being in the background.

"You're not supposed to know that I'm there," he said.

When it comes to the news of sports, Sheppard has the theory that people are more interested in the sport from the view of those who play them rather than a dry commentary. Keeping this attitude, his sports reports are sprinkled liberally with interviews with the players which add color and reality to something which might otherwise be routine.

Players Explain

"I try to let them (the players) explain what's going on."

Besides last minute decisions and one man coverage, Sheppard's job does have its lighter side.

At one game the press box was being used by a radio class for practical exercise, and the team's coach was sitting at Sheppard's elbow, screaming orders into a field phone.

Train Of Thought

"With three announcers on one side and the coach on the other, I didn't know who was saying what. I couldn't keep my train of thought," he said.

Basketball has its worries as evidenced at one of last year's Ram out-of-town games. Sheppard was on a stage at the end of the court with the scoreboard above and to his rear. It was a rough job to catch the court action and the score without losing sight of one or the other.

"Hart Polk has the ball ... I think?"

Record Holder

Sheppard is also an unofficial record holder of sorts. While covering the West Coast Relays for KMJ he had to weight down his papers, of which there were many, with soda bottles.

"I must hold a record for the most soda bottles used in one game. Besides that, they don't work too well ... crash."

Letter To The Editor

Student Defends 'Peace-Nicks' Rights, Deakins Denies Attempt To Bar Club

Dear Sir:

In 1778 a French philosopher, Voltaire, wrote, "I may disagree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." These words, and others, much the same, caused American legislators to include in the Constitution a Bill of Rights guaranteeing freedom of speech, and press, and the right of the people to gather peaceably.

I heard recently that a group was trying to exercise this right by starting a branch of the Berkeley Peace Club here at Fresno City College. I also heard that the school administration turned them down. A college is a center of learning. Center, as in this case, can mean origin. If a student learns something he thinks is important he has a duty to spread this knowledge, no matter who he offends.

The administration of Fresno City College is not worried about being offended. Rather, they worry that the people who are offended will be angry at the college. To keep the students from making waves, to keep Fresno City College out of the news, and to keep the new Governor of California from noticing us, the administration has denied these students their right to dissent.

I spent four years in the Navy. I am for the war in Viet Nam, and I am against peace demonstrators; however, if one of my fellow students wants to speak out, let him. Every fighting man in Viet Nam should feel proud when he hears stories of peace-nicks demonstrating against his fight. He should feel proud, not only because the student has the right to dissent, but also because he has the courage to dissent, even when he brings the wrath of the whole country down on him.

Geoffrey Worstell

Dean Explains

According to Miss Doris Deakins, dean of women, it is not true that a branch of the Berkeley Peace Club was denied permission to form on the FCC campus.

Miss Deakins said that those who wanted to form the club did in fact receive the "green light" to organize.

Mrs. Myrna Pierce, an English instructor, volunteered to be the club's faculty sponsor.

"So far, we haven't heard anything from the organization. We gave the faculty adviser all the information and forms to fill out for a campus club but as yet nothing has been returned to us," said Miss Deakins.

FCC Group Plans Party

By GLORIA RODRIGUEZ

The Student California Teachers Association has scheduled a snow party Jan. 27 and 28 at the cabin of adviser Bruce Morris at Shaver Lake.

The party will be discussed at their meeting Monday at 7:30 PM in Committee Room A of the Cafeteria.

Ann Panzarella, SCTA president, said that approximately 25 members and guests will attend the party.

Phi Beta Lambda

Five delegates and adviser Mrs. Mary Miller of Phi Beta Lambda, a business club, will depart tomorrow to attend the final state board meeting at the Rio Honda Junior College in Whittier.

State officers will discuss final arrangements for the annual state convention to be hosted by the FCC chapter Apr. 14, 15 and 16 in the Del Webb TowneHouse.

Those attending will be: Darryl Kahn, central section vice president; Greg Maloney, state treasurer; Jim Shipman and Shirley Harrington, state convention chairman and co-chairman.

A field trip to Sonora during semester break is also on the agenda.

Circle K Club will meet this evening at 7 in Committee Room B of the Cafeteria.

Final Exams Will Begin January 19

Class examinations on the entire semester's work will begin on Thursday, Jan. 19, and end Wednesday, Jan. 25.

Two hours at an appointed time and place are required for most examinations.

Martin, the dean of students, said that if an FCC student does not attend the examination without reason considered justifiable by the administration, the student's grade will result in an F for the examination.

Final semester grades will be mailed out by the Admissions Office about Jan. 27.

Evening college final examinations will be given on the final night of the class meeting from Jan. 19 through Jan. 26. Thursday evening classes may give the examination on Jan. 19 in order to have grades completed on schedule.

More Bands

Leroy Anderson. The selection will feature the trumpet trio of Ron Franklin, Tom Lindstrone and Lee Plaskett.

Other numbers to be performed by the concert band include Folk-song Suite by British composer Vaughn Williams, March of the Steel Men by Charles Belsterling, Lylesfold Variations by Theron Krik and Holiday in Spain by Paul Shahan.

The concerts will be free to the public.

Students To Receive Ram Magazine In September

Students who have signed up for a free copy of the Ram, the FCC magazine, will receive their copy in the mail in September.

Timothy Welch, Ram faculty adviser, said that additional sign-ups will be held in February for newly enrolled students and students who have not signed up previously.

Robert Smalling, editor-in-chief of the Ram, noted that 1,200 students have signed up so far and that there are 2,000 books available.

'Writers Should Interpret News'

Does the news have to be dull? William E. Lockwood said in a speech to the Journalism reporting class, "There are no dull news stories, just dull writers."

Lockwood, retired managing editor of the Fresno Bee and member of the Journalism Advisory Board of Fresno State College has been speaking to colleges and high schools in the San Joaquin Valley.

The ex-editor spoke on The Faults in Newswriting. He emphasized the need for "in depth" reporting.

"The newspaper cannot compete with radio and television in bringing the news quickly to the people. It must then be the job of the newspaper to not only tell the news but interpret it," he said.

Smalling said that this year's Ram will be quite different from last year's book.

"There will be a few pages of color and more of the clubs, organizations and sports will be recognized," he said.

Smalling said that one of their goals is to try to achieve a more magazine-like appearance in the Ram.

'Action Shots'

"We want it to be more a magazine than a yearbook. We'll have action shots and better writing," Smalling said.

"We will have pictures of the sophomore graduates and the faculty but we'll have more information on that later."

Layout Staff

The art layout staff includes Jerry Borton, Roger Fike, Janis Heinz, Robert Rossiter and Bernadette Westrup.

Photographers are Dennis Koyanagi and Dana Van Noort.

Writers are Goldie Hansford and Pat Howe.

Smalling added that the Ram is in need of writers and people who have ideas concerning the magazine.

"We are extremely happy with the staff this year. They have taken over very nicely and are buckling down to some hard work," said Welch.

Social Review

'Foggy' Semester Ends To Begin New Year

By BILL PEYTON

The foggy fall semester is almost over. Bleak dead week creeps nearer through the haze of brief New Year's days and dampens campus spirits as study starts anew. Perhaps it's time to review.

Looking back into yesterday's haze, remember semester's social start? It all began with the Ram-burger Roundup Oct. 1 when faculty members served hamburgers, baked beans, potato salad and ice cream to an enthusiastic tummy-rumbling student body.

48-13 Win

Folk singers Richard and Jim entertained the Roundup.

October began with the Rams winning 48-13 in football against San Jose City College.

Dramatists prepared for the one-act play to open Nov. 1. Carl Jones, Cherie Franklin and Lloyd Bell presented Anton Chekhov's The Proposal to several high schools, and many FCC students saw the play at special assemblies in the Social Hall.

FCC's 12-member choir sang selections of popular music at the play.

Potato Bowl Goal

The Rams shut out the Yuba College 49ers 27-0 Oct. 8 and continued working toward the Potato Bowl goal.

Thirteen candidates vied for the Homecoming queen crown and the Associated Men Students

ASB Council Gives Post To Hammat

The Student Council set a new record Tuesday for the length of their session. The meeting in its entirety lasted 24 minutes.

Frances Hammat was appointed by the council to the position of associate justice of the Student Court. Tim Mancini, student body president, said Miss Hammat's appointment will be valid through the duration of her enrollment at FCC.

The council also voted to purchase a California State Education Code book for the campus. The money for the book will come out of undistributed reserve funds.

The code book will give rules and regulations governing all junior colleges in the state.

"It will help answer questions that arise about the workings of the college," said Jim Blocker, a council member.

At their next meeting the council members will vote for a person to receive the Outstanding Leadership Award. The meeting will be held in Student Center Lounge at noon on Tuesday.

sponsored an after-game dance Oct. 29.

The Rams beat Modesto Junior College 43-7. Rocky Priseler was crowned Homecoming Queen during halftime. She was sponsored by Lambda Alpha Epsilon (campus police) and technical and industrial division students.

Ticket Sales

Gore Vidal opened the popular Sunday Evening Series Nov. 13, and tickets for Tennessee Williams' play Summer and Smoke went on sale.

The Ram harriers upset undefeated American River Junior College at Sacramento. They later ended the season, placing third in the Northern Championships and sixth in the California State Meet.

Phi Beta Lambda sponsored an all-college rally dance Nov. 18 in the Rainbow Ballroom. The pep band, cheerleaders, pep girls and majorettes performed during an intermission.

Water Polo

In mid-November the Ram water polo team qualified for the Northern California Junior College Water Polo Championships.

On Nov. 30 a brim-full gym greeted the Up With People show.

The Rams lost 32-12 to Fullerton Junior College in the nineteenth annual Potato Bowl Dec. 3.

The Winter Formal was held Dec. 9 at the Convention Center. Ed Reid and Kathy Nunes reigned as king and queen during the Moonlight in December dance.

The FCC Choir twice presented their annual Christmas assembly Dec. 15 in the Cafeteria.

The Fine Arts Club sponsored an art sale in the Cafeteria foyer Dec. 14-16.

LSD Speakers

Meanwhile, two University of California psychiatrists talked on LSD. Drs. J. Thomas Ungerleider and Duke D. Fisher gave their talks Dec. 16 to a full-house Gymnasium and answered about 15 questions afterwards.

California Student Teachers' Association members attended a dinner later the same day. Bob Shepard, president of the Fresno State College chapter of SCTA, spoke on the Burlingame conference and James Lundberg discussed "The Credential Dilemma in California."

Another Sunday Evening Series will be held in the Cafeteria Sunday. R. Buckminster Fuller, architectural innovator, will speak at 7:30 PM.

Dead Week

Dead week starts Jan. 12 as FCC settles into the fog. But what is that distant light? A ray of new hopes for the spring semester? Okay, so never mind Dead Week. Where's that book line, anyway?

All-American Meet

Cow Palace Awaits Five Ram Runners

Five Ram trackmen will travel to the Cow Palace in San Francisco Saturday to compete in the All-American Indoor Track & Field Games.

The invitational meet will feature 10 events on the indoor plywood track in which 141 college, high school and elementary school athletes from across the country will participate.

There will also be 13 special events for world and national stars and record breakers.

Mile Run

Pete Santos will be FCC's lone entrant in the Devil-Take-The-Hindmost Mile. In this unique event eleven runners start and only three finish. The trailing runner drops out at the end of each 160-yard lap from the third lap on. Awards are given to the surviving trio.

Four Rams, Marty Growdon, Russ Schmidt, Carl Beard and Paul Konon, will compete in the Junior College Sprint Medley Relay.

Placed First

FCC placed first in the tryouts for this event Dec. 17 at San Mateo College. Pete Santos finished with the second best time of the 11 finalists for the mile event.

San Jose City College placed second in tryouts, Laney College of Oakland placed third, Diablo Valley College placed fourth and Sacramento City College placed fifth.

Chuck Green, who provided stiff competition for Santos during cross country season, will be running against him again in the Devil-Take-The-Hindmost Mile. Green is running for American River Junior College.

Regular season for the Ram trackmen will begin Mar. 11.

Ball Park Construction Is Delayed

Construction of the new baseball park will be delayed for one year because architect Maurice J. Metz completed the working drawings for the park two months behind schedule.

According to an article in the Fresno Bee, the pressure of business caused the delay on the part of the architect.

Construction might start in February but this would make completion of the park too late to benefit teams for the 1967 season.

Demolition

According to Stuart M. White, district superintendent, demolition of the park will be put off until the fall.

He pointed out that if the insurance company declines to carry the park for another year the facility might be razed and temporary bleachers could be installed.

Fund Campaign

Fresno Youth Foundation President, Thomas J. Carothers is going ahead with a campaign to raise $20,000 for the park and is continuing negotiations for some used bleachers from Youel Field in Oakland. The bleachers, if obtained would defray the cost of equipping the new park.

Matmen Face COS In Season Opener

Coach Bill Musick expects a strong battle when his wrestling team meets the College of Sequoias in Visalia tomorrow.

The COS match will be the first league game. Musick said two Ram wrestlers, Tom Opperman and Keith Boyer, have gone undefeated in the preseason matches.

Musick said he considers Tom Green and Valley Conference Champion Roger Lee Jones the two best wrestlers of COS.

Strongest Divisions

"The Rams will be strongest in the 137 and 145 divisions," he said, "and I hope the rest of the team can fill in the remaining divisions."

The Ram matmen compiled a 5-1 preseason record after defeating the Porterville College Pirates Dec. 22 in the FCC Gymnasium.

Outstanding Ram

The final score was 31-9. Musick selected Tom Opperman as the outstanding Ram wrestler at the match.

Opperman pinned Larry Standford of Porterville in 25 seconds of the first round.

Musick's comment on the performance: "How can you improve on a 25-second pin?"

Musick said he considered the Porterville match a hard struggle. He also cautioned that the wrestlers did not necessarily improve in this preseason match.

Results of the Porterville match:

115—Eddie Moraga, FCC, won by forfeit.	123—Bruce Scott, PC, decision Dan Tarver 5-3.	130 — Phil Wells, FCC, decision Chris Oliveira 5-3.	137—Russ Simson, FCC, pinned David Mann, first round.	145—Joe Marquez, FCC, won by forfeit.	152—George Marberry, PC, decision Lew Roberts 7-2.	160—Ron Lott, FCC, decision Tom Pratt 8-0.	167—Tom Opperman, FCC, pinned Larry Stafford, first round.	177—Keith Boyer, FCC, decision Bob Edwards 5-0.	191—Eddie Ortiz, FCC, decision Mike Avila.	Heavyweight Pat Castrillo, PC, decision Paul Herschfelt.

Bullard Leads Kiwanis Basketball Tournament

Bullard High's John Travis and Brad Erbes led their school to victory in the Sanger Kiwanis Club Invitational Basketball Tournament in the FCC Gymnasium.

The eight-high school tourney was played Dec. 27, 28 and 29. Bullard edged Washington Union 43-42 in the final play.

Travis dropped in two free throws in the last three seconds, clinching the championship for Bullard and earning himself high point honors.

Most Valuable

Erbes' work for Bullard won him most valuable player honors in the tournament. He scored 10 points in the crucial game and pulled down a game high of 19 rebounds.

Erbes received a scholarship to the Snow Valley Basketball School as a bonus for his tournament performance.

Consolation

Clovis won the consolation championship with a 52-46 lead over Caruthers.

Sanger took third place by defeating San Joaquin Memorial 61-53. Selma defeated Hoover with a 47-46 edge.

Cagers To Start VC Play

The Ram basketball team is looking for its first Valley Conference victory when it meets Modesto Junior College tomorrow at 8 PM in the FCC Gymnasium.

Coach John Toomasian said he is optimistic about this game.

"I have seen Modesto play five times," he said, "and their team is equal in size to ours."

Starting Lineup

Tomorrow's starting lineup will be Jack Redford, Donald Slade, Lloyd Sanders, Dave Marshall and John Glavinovich.

"The Valley Conference race should be a tough one this year," Toomasian said. "San Joaquin Delta College should be the toughest team to beat this year, but the other teams should rate even with FCC."

Hancock Tournament

The Ram cagers traveled to Santa Maria to participate in the Allan Hancock Basketball Tournament Dec. 27, 28 and 29. In the first round FCC defeated Monterey Peninsula College 64-62.

Later the Rams overpowered San Jose City College 90-83. Santa Ana College slid by FCC in the third round of play with a score of 67-64, eliminating the Rams from further competition.

Modesto Tournament

From Dec. 19-21 the Rams participated in the Modesto Tournament on the Modesto Junior College court. FCC started out strong by defeating Santa Rosa Junior College with an outstanding score of 114-89.

The Rams were quickly eliminated in their second game of the tourney when they met Contra Costa College and lost 123-74.

On Dec. 17 the Ram hoop squad met defeat in Santa Maria. Allan Hancock Junior College overcame the Rams 109-96. The day before that the cagers traveled to San Mateo to clobber the College of San Mateo 91-76.
