

'Mad Mods' Invade FCC Tomorrow

By MARY YOUNG

Mad Mod Day is tomorrow.

It is cosponsored by Lambda Alpha Epsilon, the law enforcement fraternity, and the Associated Women Students.

Diane Beckhoff, AWS president, said that events for the day include beard and leg contests, slave and cake sales and a dance. The contests will be held in the Student Lounge.

Beard Contest

The beard contest will begin at 11 AM. The men registered and began growing their beards on Mar. 10, Miss Beckhoff said.

Prizes will be given for the longest, the neatest and the most unusual beard.

The prizes on the beard contest will include one year subscriptions to Playboy magazine. Leg contest winners will receive record albums.

The leg contest, which begins at noon, is open to both men and women. Women will be judged on the shapeliest legs and men on the hairiest.

Slave Sale

The slave sale will begin at 12:30 PM.

The rules, Miss Beckhoff said, are that the slave owners cannot take their slaves off of the campus, and they cannot cause them to miss a class.

Coeds to be sold are Patty Weaver, Cecelia Weaver, Jane Hill, Sally Smith, Tina Gyer, La-Creta Poyer, Bobby Novak, Connie Spomer and Joan Delany.

Vickie Wordon, Linda Van Ack-er, Sharon Smith, Henny Hofman, Kathy Lasek, Linda Hashimoto, Kathy Lowery, Marsha Martin, Lupe DeSantiago and Miss Beckhoff will also be sold.

"Package Deal"

Marilyn Thronebery, Susan Turpenen and Linda Yazijian will be sold in a "package deal" — "three for the price of one."

Tim Wright and Jim Miller will also be sold in a "package deal."

Other men to be sold are Jim Blocker, Floyd Mahon, Jim Adair, Doug Nelson, Hank Yoestmeyer, Dennis Koyanagi, Richard Machado and Max Rogers.

Rod Haron, Doug Gallup, Bob Johansen, Steve Ortega, Bob Lung, Steven Flores and Allen Jones are also being sold.

Cake Auction

Whole cakes will be auctioned off in the lounge also.

"Pieces of cake will be sold in the foyer of the Cafeteria and other strategic places around the campus," Miss Beckhoff said.

The dance will be tomorrow night from 9 to 12 PM in the Cafeteria. The theme is Mad Mod World and music will be furnished by The Children.

Tickets are on sale in the foyer of the Cafeteria from 10 AM to 2 PM. They are 75 cents stag and $1.50 per couple.

Sunday Evening Series

British Astronomer Lovell Plans Forum Discussion

Sir Bernard Lovell of England, one of the world's foremost astronomers, will speak in the FCC Gymnasium Sunday at 8:30 PM.

His appearance this weekend as part of the Sunday Evening series is open to the public, and no admission will be charged.

Sir Bernard Lovell received a doctor of philosophy in physics from Bristol University in 1936 and spent the next few years working on cosmic ray research.

Radar Development

During World War II he worked on a project studying radar development. His many achievements in this area received recognition in 1946, when he was named officer of the order of the British Empire.

Following the war, he applied his experience in radar technology to the study of cosmic rays. He established a laboratory at Jordell Bank Experimental Station, where he had a radio telescope constructed.

The telescope has been of great assistance in the investigation of meteors. It has also been instrumental in the discovery of new data on radio stars and emissions from the Milky Way and other galaxies.

Movable Telescope

He taught at the University of Manchester and built a new movable radio telescope which was completed in 1957. The new telescope has aided in gathering information about the solar system, and Sir Bernard believes that it may eventually unlock the secret of the universe.

The new telescope has also been of primary importance in the tracking of American and Russian satellites. It is presently being used to relay vocal transmissions from Jordell to the United States by bouncing them off the moon.

Carpentry Students Build Multiple Bedroom House

Students in carpentry and other building trade classes are building a three-bedroom, two-bath house on campus.

Carpentry instructor Jess Baker said that the students build one house each year as a project.

Students from all of the building trades participate. These include carpentry, mill cabinet, electrical, sheet metal and drafting.

House Wired

The house will be completely wired. It is 1,600 square feet in area. It will have a shake roof, aluminum windows and Ivy League siding. Other features of the structure include a redwood entry way and a glass sliding door.

The project is an educational device which gives students an opportunity to develop manipulative skills through on-the-job experience, Baker said.

The construction is several weeks behind schedule because of the rain. It will be finished on time, he said.

Sold And Moved

The finished house will be sold at auction and moved off campus. Baker explained that the minimum bid will be the cost of the materials used in construction.

The function of the project is instructional rather than profit-making, he added.

The structure is located near Technical and Industrial Building No. 3 in San Pablo Avenue.

Editors Will Attend Conference

Five Rampage editors and their adviser will be attending a San Diego journalism conference this weekend.

They will meet more than 450 other students and faculty members for the annual convention of the Journalism Association of Junior Colleges.

Rampage Representatives

The students are Nellie Bonilla, Bill Peyton, Spencer Kendig, Mary Morris and Linda Garrett.

Phil Smith, Rampage adviser, will be attending as vice president of JAJC and northern region president.

The conference delegates will come from more than 50 junior colleges that are members of the organization.

Contests

Students will compete in on-the-spot writing contests Friday night and Saturday morning.

Peyton and Miss Garrett, Miss Bonilla and Miss Morris plan to compete in news and feature writing while Kendig will write headlines and an editorial.

The editorial will stem from a regular San Diego Civic Commis-

Tax Ballot Outcome Will Affect Students

The outcome of Tuesday's override tax and trustee election will affect FCC students and local taxpayers.

To finance building needs for the State Center Junior College District, a 28-cent tax override will be placed on the ballot. If passed, the money will be used to expand Reedley College and FCC and possibly construct a third campus.

John Hansen, assistant superintendent for education, said that for every $100 of State Center campus property value, 28 cents will be added to the usual school taxes. This will be in effect for the next nine years.

Favorable Publicity

There has been a lot of publicity favoring the override tax because of past school tax failures.

James Bell, in charge of the tax campaign, said the election would be a test of the taxpayers' commitments to education.

FCC students have also been publicly voicing their opinions to encourage a tax election success, said Miss Doris Deakins, the dean of women. Both students and faculty volunteered to address and mail 60,000 campaign brochures last Saturday and Sunday.

Main Item

Another main item of the election ballot will be the selection of four district board of trustee members.

Three incumbents, Alvin J. Quist, Harry Hiraoka and Lynn B. Ford, are running unopposed.

The other seat, vacated by Walter G. Martin, is sought by three other men. The candidates are Dr. James A. Fikes, Dr. Elbert H. Smith and John J. Wenzel.

Dr. Fikes is a professor at Fresno State College. He stated that if elected he would try to find a way to serve the rapidly growing junior college enrollment.

ASB Council Schedules Dress Code Opinion Poll

An opinion poll will be held next Wednesday by the Associated Student Body Council to decide whether the campus dress code should be changed to include the wearing of capris and bermudas by girls at FCC.

Students will be able to make other comments on the ballot.

Ed Reid, a member of the dress code committee, stated that the ballot was to check and see if students wanted any change in the dress code.

Other members of the committee are Greg Maloney, Kathy Lowry, Renee Clendenning, Charles Brietigan, Richard Machado, Steve Mattos and Rick Patton.

In other business in Tuesday's Student Council meeting, the council voted to buy recreational equipment for the Student Lounge.

Six chess sets, two shuffleboard sets, six checker sets, four card tables and one ping pong table will be purchased for $150.

The Council appropriated $100 for someone to take care of the Student Lounge and equipment until the end of the semester.

George Rogers, president of Distributive Education Club of America, the merchandising club, was given $150 by council to attend the DECA national conference in Chicago Apr. 22.

Council Recommends

Rampage Replies To ASB Criticism

The Student Council recommended Tuesday that the council minutes be published in the Rampage each week.

Most council members feel that students should be informed as to what the council is doing. The Rampage was criticized for not printing the minutes.

The Rampage has published four articles on the Student Lounge, including an editorial, and articles on the tax override election (in which several council members participated), commissioners, the dress code and the national flag presentation.

When the Student Council has had any significant business, the Rampage has published it.

Although the Rampage could probably improve its coverage of student government, it has not forgotten to publish newsworthy items that the council has brought up.

Frequently the business of the council is not of a newsworthy nature.

Here is a sample of Tuesday's Student Council meeting.

Besides criticizing the Rampage at Tuesday's meeting, the council discussed new voting boxes, the dress code, the Student Lounge and cigar smoking during the meetings. Except for Student Lounge, no action or vote was made on these issues.

The voting box committee did not give a full report on the voting boxes since it was unable to draw up a blueprint for the boxes. The previous week it did not have the cost estimates on the boxes. It did not have them this week either.

The council has been discussing the dress code since last semester and the better part of this semester. A committee has finally prepared the ballots for female students to vote on Wednesday.

About the only newsworthy thing the council discussed was the appropriation of $100 for a person to care for the recreational equipment in the Student Lounge.

However, 10 of 40 minutes were spent on whether cigar smoking should be banned from the council meetings.

A sample of opinions from council members who were against cigar smoking included the following reasons: One student stated that he was unable to see across the room. Another one mentioned that at times the smog in the council chambers was worse than that in Los Angeles on a bad day.

One or more members of the Rampage staff have attended all council meetings this semester, and it intends to cover its other meetings.

The Rampage covers all news of the Student Council and student government which in its editors judgment will be of interest to its readers.

Foreigner Explains Stateside Ambitions

"I want to get more knowledge. I do not want to be an average person. I want to find my place in life."

This is an idea expressed by Hideaki Moriyasu, a foreign student from Okayama, Japan.

Moriyasu has been in the United States for 18 months and will probably return to Japan next year.

Business Major

He is a second semester business major. When he returns to Japan, he hopes to become a salesman in a cosmetic company and eventually work into a management position.

"I got most of my ideas about America from movies, books and some magazines. These ideas are not true. The impression that everyone gets comes from high society," Moriyasu said.

Travel In America

"I would like to travel all over America so I could see how other people live," he said. "You cannot get the true impression just from living in Fresno. I would like to see and talk to as many people as possible."

Moriyasu said that Americans are serious students. They do not have the time that Japanese students have for relaxation.

Japanese students meet with their professors in various places and discuss their classes, problems or whatever interests them. There is a more relaxed atmosphere in the Japanese schools, he said.

"In America people are very friendly when you meet them," he said. "They say hello to unknown people. This would never happen in Japan."

Wayward Way

Musical Provides Entertaining Evening

Carl Jones gave a fine performance as the villain in the Wayward Way Sunday night. It was also shown Friday and Saturday nights in the Cafeteria.

The Wayward Way is a musical adaptation from the classical melodrama and farce, The Drunkard.

Jones communicated with the audience very well and ranted, raved and growled as every good villain should.

Kathy Reams played the part of the ever faithful wife of the hero very well. Her singing was very good.

Clear Voice

Miss Reams has a clear soprano voice, however, at times it was hard to hear her, due to the cracking of peanuts in the audience.

Ray Smith did his best in the bar scene where he ordered a drink for every last little kink in the road. Smith portrayed the drunkard hero.

Smith's singing was good, but sometimes his enunciation was not.

NEW LOOK — Earlene Deande, policewoman, is shown working at the campus patrol main desk.

Miss Deande Enters Man's Field, Becomes First FCC Policewoman

By KATHY PIERCE

It's no longer a man's world.

Today women are entering more and more professional fields formerly classified for "men only."

An example of this feminine role on the occupational stage is Earlene Deande, an FCC police science major.

Miss Deande is a third semester student from Madera and is the first female student in FCC's department of police science. How does a woman become interested in law enforcement?

Youth Needs Counseling

"I guess it's because I realized that there is a tremendous lack of communication between parents and teenagers and that the youth desperately needs counseling," Miss Deande said.

"I feel that I can do a lot in juvenile work and so I decided to major in police science and then specialize in juvenile probation."

"I think if there are any women students who are undecided about a career that they should seriously look into law enforcement. It has tremendous advantages, and they can gain some very rich experiences from the people.

Specialized Fields

"There is no limit to the number of specialized fields under the general heading of law enforcement."

How does it feel to be working with all male students?

"Oh it is great!" replied Miss Deande. "They are very considerate of me and respect me as a woman, but study and work with me merely as another student."

Can Handle Herself

"But I feel I could take care of myself if need be. I've had lots of practice. I have four brothers."

One of the most difficult things for Miss Deande to do was to design a uniform.

"When you have 35 men trying to design a woman's uniform, you are bound to have problems," said

Miss Deande laughingly. "But we managed to get one."

Femininity Challenged

She said that one of her main concerns was that many people have the misconception that women engaged in any type of police work are unfeminine or masculine.

Miss Deande is carrying 12½ units. She is secretary of Lambda Alpha Epsilon, the police science club.

"My advice to young women is to consider law enforcement work. The positions are just waiting for you," she said.

"You can have full or part time employment and have time for a family too. But, above all, one of the hardest things to do is to keep your standards high and always be an example to others."

College Papers Play Up Apr. 1

College newspapers on Apr. 1 had an unusual appearance when they arrived at the Rampage office.

Compton College

The Tartar Shield was changed to The Garter Yield, "the paper with snap."

Average stories included one on fashions for the well dressed protestor.

San Joaquin Delta College

Fashions were also featured in The Collegian. This issue was a vivid yellow and brown in color.

The dress code was reported revamped to state that "women students would be permitted to wear curlers in their hair to school on Friday only."

Six Debaters Compete At State Tournament

Six debaters are representing FCC at the State Forensics Tournament today, tomorrow and Saturday. The meet is being held at Southwestern College in Chula Vista.

The debaters include Rita Calhoun, Cathy Flynn, Jim Johnson, Rick Lehman, Tom Stringfield and Diane Farrar.

Franz Weinschenk, the debate coach, stated that the debate topic for this year is Resolved: That the United States Substantially Reduce Its Foreign Commitments.

Cherie Franklin and John Hill provided two of the best moments of the program.

'Loony' Girl

Miss Franklin portrayed Mad Agnes, an unfortunately "loony" girl.

She sang Nobody's Making Sense, claiming that nobody made sense but her. Her screams were pretty convincing too.

Hill played the preacher. He was excellent in the part.

He did a very good job of the Preacher's Dance in the wedding scene of the hero and heroine. The preacher seemed to be the happiest member of the wedding even though he claimed that too many weddings had begun to soften his brains.

Audience Reacts

Next to Jones, both Miss Franklin and Hill received the best audience reaction.

Mike Hopkins portrayed the hero's loyal and faithful foster brother.

Hopkins gave a very good performance — so good that the fact that he had a broken foot went unnoticed. He broke it about a week before the play.

World-Famous Songstress Gives Personal Philosophy

By THERESA BARRETTA
(Ed. Note: When Petula Clark made her appearance in Fresno last Thursday, she was interviewed by the Rampage advertising managers, Theresa Barretta and Kathy Teeter.)

Though she stands just barely over five feet tall, she has the potency of an atom bomb. She has sold over 25 million records, and is the No. 1 female singer in the world. She is Petula Clark.

At first sight she gave the appearance of a vivaciously pretty coed. She was wearing a brown plaid skirt and beige sweater.

Her short blonde hair was slightly disheveled, and her make-up-free face made her look at least 10 years younger than 34.

Striking Contrast

Miss Clark bears a striking contrast to the average stereotype of a teen-aged idol or world famous star. She likes people and lets them know it.

On stage she gives the appearance of personally entertaining each person in his own living room. Off stage while interviewing her, I had the feeling we were two old friends gossiping over a cup of coffee.

I asked if she was as unhappy in show business as a recent Look magazine article stressed. Her answer was almost apologetic:

My Whole Life

'Oh, no, please don't think I'm unhappy at all. This business is my whole life.

'It's a feeling inside. Oh, gee, I can't explain it.'

Though she was the first to admit she has shed many tears over unkind critics, she has a good philosophy towards them.

'There are times when I feel their suggestions are constructive,' she said, 'but I can't change myself into what they want me to be.

'I can't go around saying, 'Love me. Please love me.' They either do or they don't.

'I must accept the fact that not everybody likes me and some people hate me, but I'm not going to change myself for them, I can't. If I did, I wouldn't be me. I'd be some complete phony.'

Observation Of Youth

Being a popular singer, she has a good chance to observe the youth of today.

'There is hardly any difference between European and American kids today,' she said.

I asked her if she thought the European youth were more inhibited than the American young people.

'To a certain extent, I guess they are,' she replied. 'The kids in Europe are much more sophisticated than here, possibly because of their heritage.

'I mean they don't think about it, and sometimes they want to forget it, but it's just there.'

I asked if there is as much interest in politics in Europe as there is here.

Interest In Politics

'In England there is,' she said, 'and in France there is starting to be more interest.

'Are the Europeans having as much trouble with LSD and the different drugs as here?' I inquired.

'Not as much in Europe,' she said, 'but the Europeans have basic problems such as the want of love or security or escape. The things that drive people to such drugs as LSD — these problems are universal.'

First American Film

Miss Clark seemed terribly excited at the thought of starting her first American film, Finian's Rainbow, in May.

Just last year she turned down the feminine lead in the smash Broadway show, Cabaret, because she felt 'the part just wasn't me.'

'But the part I'm playing in this movie, I can almost feel that it's me.

'It's such a marvelous film and such a great part. I certainly hope I don't flub it up, but if I do, it will be my own fault.'

Her "Sound"

I asked Miss Clark to describe her "sound."

'I don't think I have a definite sound. I sing what the song makes me feel inside at the time,' she said.

This answer reflects why Petula Clark has reached such magnitude as an international star.

There is absolutely nothing manufactured about her.

She is completely herself in whatever she does; not to mention the fact that she is probably one of the most talented and gracious women of today.

PETULA CLARK

526 Students Use G.I. Bill

A cold war bill passed by Congress last year allows 526 students to attend FCC under its benefits.

The bill, passed last spring and effective last June, provides a government subsidy for veterans returning to school upon completion of their tour.

Joseph R. Kelley, associate dean of admissions and records, also reported there are 159 other students attending FCC under provisions of other veterans' acts.

Clubs Distribute Weekly Bulletin About Meetings, Social Affairs

By BEVERLY KENNEDY

A new method of club publicity was initiated this week in the form of a weekly bulletin. Tina Gyer, commissioner of publicity, said the bulletin will be distributed Monday mornings. The bulletin will contain information regarding club meetings, activities and FCC social affairs.

'I hope this will promote more participation and school spirit,' Miss Gyer said.

Clubs should submit their news to the student body president office in Student Center 229 by 4 PM on Thursdays.

Circle K

Gary Ennen, Circle K president, was elected lieutenant governor of Division 4 of the California, Nevada and Hawaii district at the district convention in Long Beach last weekend.

Approximately 900 district members of Circle K attended the convention. FCC's representatives were Ennen and Jim Miller. The representative's expenses were paid by their local chapters.

The Kappa Kappa chapter of Phi Beta Lambda, a national business organization, will host the state PBL convention in Del Webb's TowneHouse tomorrow through Sunday.

Guest speakers for the convention will be Garland Peed, assistant superintendent of the State Center Junior College District, and Cliff Eischen, central section president of the California Business Education Association.

International People-To-People Noel Frodsham, an FCC history teacher, will be the featured speaker at tonight's meeting of the International People-to-People Club.

Frodsham will show his slides of Czechoslovakia and Norway and will talk about these countries. The meeting will be held at 7:30 in Committee Room A in the Cafeteria.

The actors' club is seeking members and anyone who is interested in acting can join.

The club has three ranks: novices, pledges and full-fledged members. Beginners are novices and need 30 points to be pledged, while 75 points make the full-fledged member.

100 Students Involved In Musical Varities

By MARILYN THRONEBERY

The music department is involved in a variety of performances.

Vincent W. Moats, the band director, said that over 100 different students are performing as musicians.

Five FCC band members went to Bakersfield for the Central California band concert Friday and Saturday. They are Ron Antoyan and Ron Franklin, trumpet; Charlie Hildebrand and Carl Fendley, French horn; and Glenn Kumagai, tenor saxophone.

The FCC studio band will be participating in a jazz festival at Reedley College Saturday. Soloists are Ron Franklin, trumpet; Jim Barnett, trombone; Rich Vaughan, trombone; Debbie Plaskett, alto saxophone and flute; Glenn Kumagai, tenor saxophone; and Mike Carella, drums.

Moats said in addition to playing a 25-minute program, the students will attend a clinic headed by arranger-composer Billy May.

FCC's 72-member symphonic band will be in Modesto Apr. 22. They'll be attending the first symphonic band concert in which junior colleges from Central California will be represented. All the bands will play a mass band concert as well as individual 30-minute programs.

Spring Concert

The studio band will be back on campus May 16 for the 3rd annual jazz festival. The symphonic band will present their 15th annual Spring Concert on May 19.

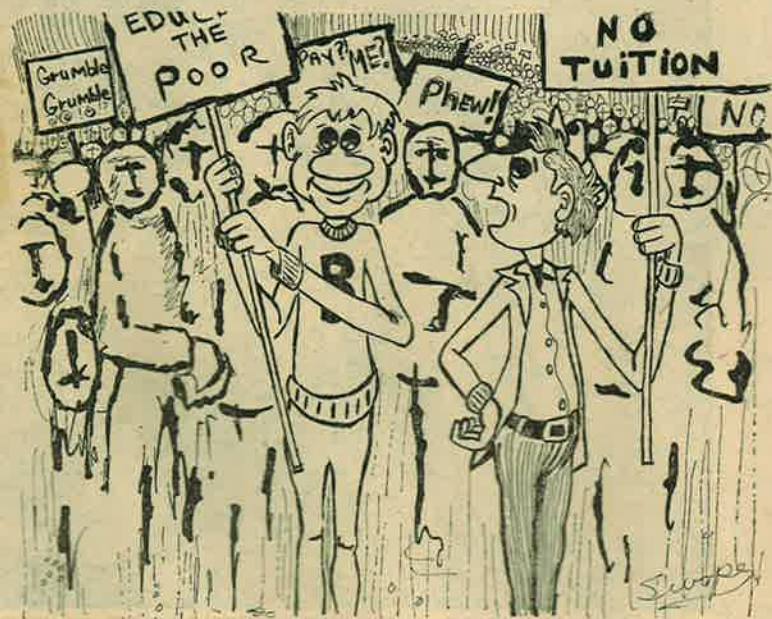

Moats explained that the band will play compositions made specially for the American symphonic bands. Guest performers in the concert will be the brass ensemble. They include Michael Carella, John Clatworthy, John Franklin, David Gomez, Rich Vaughan, James Hamen, Deanna Mahrten and Carl Fendley.

Both of the concerts will be in the west court of the Administration Building.

Approximately 50 educators from Central California will hear the FCC symphonic band at the Fresno-Madera music educators' spring meeting May 20. The band will play selections from its spring concert.

Registrants Should Get Records In

Evening students planning to attend day classes next fall should complete admission requirements now, according to the Admissions Office.

Anyone taking more than six units is required to complete the admissions application, take the FCC Placement Test, have two copies of all previous academic records sent to the Admissions Office and satisfy health requirements.

Evening students completing these requirements will have equal priority with new students when May 1 preregistration begins. Line cards will be issued on a first-come, first-serve basis after preregistration.

Additional information may be obtained daily in the Admissions Office between 8 AM and 5 PM.

Putters Go For Dual Link Play

The Ram golf team will meet Hartnell College and Monterey Peninsula College in a nonconference double match in Salinas tomorrow at 1 PM.

The Ram golfers will travel to Modesto to battle Modesto Junior College and San Joaquin Delta College Tuesday at 1 PM.

Coach Hans Wiedenhofer said his team hopes to beat Modesto and Delta in order to vindicate earlier encounters with these teams.

Wiedenhofer credited Ted Karas for the win.

Karas, playing his first competition match for the Rams, chalked the only sub-80 score in the game.

FCC lost a double duel against Delta and College of Sequoias Friday.

The scores were COS; 374, Delta, 408; and FCC, 408. Top team scorers were Steve Cobb, COS, 70; Dave Hatch, Delta, 72; and Allan Blaine Ghan, FCC, 78.

Season Ends For Tankers

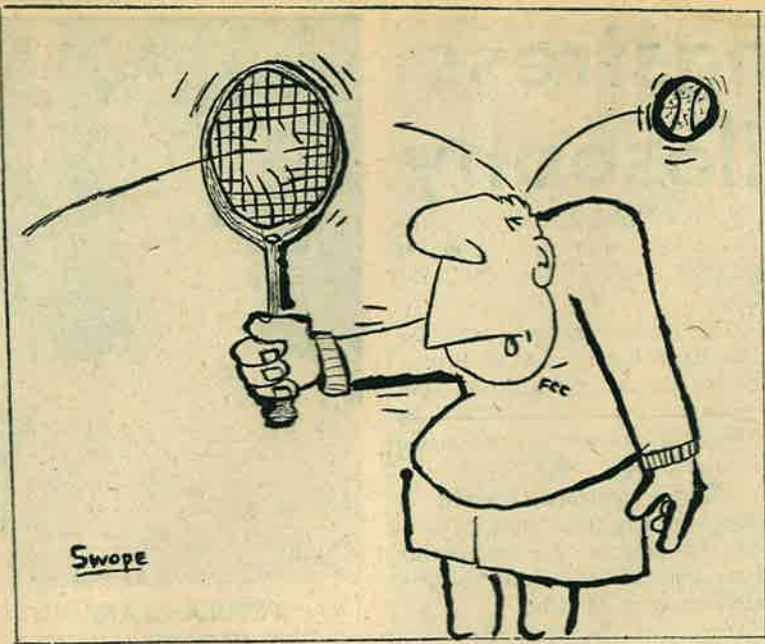

Ram tankers will swim their last Valley Conference meet of the season against San Joaquin Delta College tomorrow at 3 PM in the FCC pool.

The FCC swimmers met defeat by a score of 79-24 when they met the American River College Beavers last Friday. ARC's Jim Parkinson and Richard Feese each won two events to lead the Beavers to victory.

Ram Doug Fluter took two firsts with a 23.6 clocking in the 50 yards freestyle and a 52.5 in the 100 yards freestyle.

Scott Holmes took seconds for the Rams.

Sacramento City College defeated both Modesto Junior College and FCC in a triangular VC meet Thursday. SCC beat FCC 55-45. Modesto beat the Rams 58-46.

Netters Host Giants For Conference Replay

A lone tennis match will be in store for the FCC net squad when they host the College of the Sequoias at 2:30 PM tomorrow.

Earlier this year the Giants tipped the Rams in a 4-3 meet.

Coach Charles Stark said tomorrow's match is a question of the team's practice and improvement since the last encounter.

Lose Two

The squad lost one decision to the rain and another to San Joaquin Delta College last weekend. The Modesto Junior College match, slated for the Rams' courts, was rained out Friday.

Stark praised his No. 3 player, Randy Van Oosten, who came back to win his match after dropping the second set to Delta's Andy Focacci. Van Oosten won the third and final set 7-5.

Kelly Wins

Rick Kelly won his first league singles match of the season in straight sets over Mark Denaro of Delta, 6-3, 6-2.

In the doubles match David Gray and Van Oosten lost to Roy Orlando and Phil Gillaspay, 4-6, 2-6. Everett Norcross and Kelly defeated Focacci and Danero, 10-8, 6-4.

The Delta meet, racked by adverse weather which almost caused its cancellation, began an hour and a half after the scheduled 9 AM starting time.

Unbeaten Spikers Battle Perfect AR In VC Clash

The undefeated Ram track team will attempt to continue its winning ways when the spikers travel to Sacramento tomorrow to battle American River College. Starting time is 3 PM.

FCC boasts a 2-0 Valley Conference record. The Beavers are also undefeated at 3-0.

Ram coach Erwin Ginsburg says American River will be a tough opponent and in order to beat them the Rams must "get all the breaks."

Last Monday the Rams beat Modesto College 83-53 in league play.

Sam Davis and Ervin Hunt both won three events and Paul Konon was a double winner.

Modesto only won three events — high jump, pole vault and mile relay.

Modesto Split

Ram Nine Slates Beaver Twin Bill

The Ram baseball squad will travel to Sacramento to play a doubleheader with American River College Saturday at 12:30 PM.

The Rams will be in Visalia to play a single game with the College of Sequoias Tuesday at 3 PM.

Saturday the Rams split a doubleheader with Modesto College. Modesto captured the first game as Ron Amarante bested Don Krick in a 2-1 duel.

Rams Disposed

Amarante disposed of the Rams in easy fashion, pitching a shut-out until the Rams scored an unearned run in the ninth. The run was the result of Bob Auten's sacrifice fly scoring Terry Buck.

The Rams almost pulled themselves out of the hole, loading the bases with no one out, but Tom Chatmon hit into a double play to end the game.

Doug Hansen, the starting pitcher, was hit by a line drive and was unable to continue. Don Krick finished the game giving up four hits and striking out 13 men.

Score Reversed

The Rams reversed the score in the second game as they picked up a 2-1 victory.

Bill Gavello, the winning Ram pitcher, gave up three singles, walked one, struck out five and allowed one unearned run.

Both Ram runs came in the sixth when Bob Groth was safe on an error and later scored on Steve Shannon's second double of the afternoon. Shannon scored moments later on Bob Garcia's base hit to left field.

The split gives the Rams a 3-3 conference mark. The College of Sequoias game slated for last Tuesday was indefinitely postponed due to a scheduling conflict.
