Salisbury Presents Views On Viet Nam War Bombing

By LINDA GARRETT

Harrison Salisbury, an assistant managing editor of the New York Times, spoke at the Community Forum Tuesday evening in the Convention Center Theater.

Salisbury's topic was Report from Hanoi. He visited Communist North Viet Nam two weeks searching for information on the "hopelessness" of United States bombing on the Vietnamese people.

Salisbury was the first American newsman to be given an interview with North Viet Nam Premier Pham Van Dong.

Salisbury said the United States' methods were ineffective in halting Communist movements.

"We bomb them and they repair just as quickly," he said.

Most of the war labor in North Viet Nam is carried by the teenagers. They enter military service at 14, he said.

U. S. bombing consequences were discussed in detail. Salisbury believes that "danger stems from China" and U. S. aggressiveness may "eventually trigger China into war."

Trustees Approve Walker Bid For New Building Construction

Three relocatable buildings, costing $287,602, will be constructed on the FCC campus by next fall.

The State Center Junior College District trustees met last Friday and accepted a bid of $30,000 over the low bid, from Walker and Walker Inc. of Fresno.

A student complex and two lecture buildings will be built on the northwest corner of the campus, Robert Kelly, acting college president, said.

Venetian Holiday will be the theme of the annual FCC Spring Formal tomorrow night.

The crowning of a queen will be the main attraction at the formal.

Candidates and their sponsors are Winnie Ihde, Associated Women Students; Audrey Ramirez, Rally Club; Vicki Worden, Phi Beta Lambda; Kathy Safer, Associated Men Students; and Mary Quintero, Latin American Club.

Crowning

Richard Machado, AMS president, will be master of ceremonies and will crown the queen of the formal.

The dance will be in Exhibit

Hall A of the Convention Center from 9 PM until midnight. Music will be provided by Ralph Machado and his orchestra.

Machado said that according to committee reports plans are going along well.

'Tremendous Job'

"Everyone is doing a tremendous job in making decorations that will work around the theme of Venetian Holiday," he said.

Bids for the formal are available until 2 PM today and until 1 PM tomorrow in the Cafeteria Foyer. Bids are free to student body card holders and their guests, Mrs. Sara Dougherty, student activities coordinator, said.

Students will vote for the queen when they pick up their bids.

Dress for the occasion is long or short formals for the women and dark suits or tuxedos for the men.

Class Plans Final Signup For Orators

All students interested in participating in the all school speech contest must sign up by tomorrow.

The contest will be held May 18 in Bungalow 6. It is being sponsored by the debate team.

"It will be a lot of fun and good experience for anyone interested," Franz Weinschenk, the debate coach, said.

Topics

The contestants may talk on any significant political, economic or social topic. The speeches cannot exceed six minutes.

They cannot be written out or read from the manuscript. However, students will be allowed to have notes on one or two note cards.

Students who have had debate cannot enter, Weinschenk said.

The name of the winner will be placed on a perpetual plaque in the trophy cases.

Judges

The judges for the contest will be students from the debate class.

Gwen Selby, Gary McDonald, Carol Jones, Bill Miller, Jesse Chambers, Gerald Carr, Gloria Means, and Janice Chronister are the students who have already entered.

Interested students may sign up on the door of Student Center 201.

Elections Next Week

Lehman, Brietigam Contend For Presidency

Rick Lehman and Chuck Brietigam are the two presidential candidates for the fall semester.

In Lehman's platform he said, "If elected, I intend to lead an active and responsible council."

He thinks there should be more interaction between the Student Council, campus clubs and the student body in general.

Lehman also said, "I think the council should serve as an organization to represent the student body, and not get bogged down trying to please the different factions."

"I would like to stop the continual arguing over the council's internal affairs, as it has done in the past."

"I plan to run a campaign based on specific issues and present constructive and rational proposals confronting the problems of student government at FCC."

Lehman is presently a council representative and a member of the debate team. He is a second semester journalism major.

Brietigam, the other candidate, similarly feels "the student government should be directly responsive to the students' wants."

I would like to see the students enjoying their time on campus."

One of the changes he would like to enact would be to have two hours set aside, one day a week, for special events to take place in the Student Lounge.

Brietigam said, "I am for the furtherment of the students and their activities. I would also like to see more participation in campus clubs and organizations. We have great potential — let's use it."

He has served two semesters on the Student Council as a representative. Brietigam is majoring in industrial technology.

Concerning this election and candidates, Rod Haron, incumbent president, said this semester's council has had the most active members and on the whole the most active council he has ever seen.

"Unfortunately, some of the candidates are short-sighted and have the tendency to judge the council on the laxity of a few, rather than the whole. I hope they can recognize this factor in themselves if there is one," Haron said.

"It is like some person who drives down the street and can not see over the steering wheel."

CHUCK BRIETIGAM

RICK LEHMAN

"If Tarzan went to FCC, would you object to his leopard skin?"

Vote Wednesday!

Candidates Prepare For Coming Election

Next Wednesday students have an opportunity to actively participate in student government and administration through the upcoming election.

Aspiring candidates are presently circulating petitions among the students soliciting support for themselves and the principles they stand for.

Any student may be bombarded with dozens of petitions since there are 22 elective offices with the possibility of several students running for each post.

FCC has a recent history of vital political participation. During last January's election students chose between five candidates for president, two for vice-president and three for secretary. There was one candidate for treasurer and 27 students running for representatives.

Along with running for office and voting, students can also attend Student Council meetings every Tuesday noon in the Student Center.

Instead of wondering what their elected officials are up to, they can go to council meetings for a first-hand look at government in operation.

The Rampage encourages students to question the candidates and vote on the issues and principles of the campaign, not the slogans, posters, matchbooks or buttons. Student government should not be run on the refuse of political hoopla but on the ethics and intelligence of the people elected.

Students Organize Experimental College

By KATHY QUESADA

San Jose State's Spartan Daily said that an experimental college, organized and directed by the students on campus, was a success.

Students can organize a class on any topic they choose, with no grades or tests and in informal gatherings while sitting on the floors and smoking.

Pierce College

The Pierce College Round-up reported that their school recently participated in Greek Week, sponsored by the Inter-Fraternity Council.

Participants made a 10-mile race with an Olympic Torch, which eventually led to a fraternity stag party.

Miami-Dade Junior College

The M-D Junior College's bookstore in Miami, Fla. recently received paper caps and gowns for use in graduation ceremonies this year.

The reason for the paper attire was that it was easy to dispose of, although the gowns would cost more than the cloth kind.

The Warhoop reported that El Camino College students near Torrance, Calif. are having a campus book drive.

The purpose of the drive is to send books and magazines to the American Institute in Ethiopia, to an orphanage in Mexico and to the 101st Airborne Division in Viet Nam.

The Redwoodmen held their annual celebration of the College of the Redwoods Corsair Days.

One of the events of the celebration was a bed race through the streets of Eureka, Calif.

University of California instructor, Alvin Nickel spoke at the Church Music Conference Friday, at Pacific College.

High Language vs. Low

Slang Shows Extremisms

By BILL PEYTON

Two top-notch students were overheard talking after a biology lecture on purine and pyrimidine bases in relation to DNA construction.

"I've got a new shadow and she's out of sight, man," one said.

"Play it cool this time," the other advised. "Don't blow your mind or she'll turn you off."

Charades

What is this popular sound charade of renaming things and actions?

Dictionaries label such talk slang, which is a slang term itself. The word's origin is unknown, yet slang has a universal following.

Many languages coin a number of words or phrases, then cast each term aside as it becomes unfashionable or misunderstood.

Probation

Fowler's Modern English Usage points out that many slang words or phrases perish, a few establish themselves and, in either case, during probation they are accounted unfit for literary use.

Like other wars, the Viet Nam war has produced a colorful invasion of slang.

For instance, a Marine Corps infantryman is a "grunt."

"Thud" is an Air Force growth for the F-105 Thunderchief, many of which have been shot down.

Goofballs And Peanuts

Drug jargon includes "barbs," "candy," "goofballs," "sleeping pills" and "peanuts" for one variety of barbiturates. Such is the world of slang.

What about the other extreme—too-formal English? Do you ever find yourself rereading 52-word sentences and still not understanding?

Do you come across textbook jargon like "effectuate" for "effect" and "contextual meanings are signaled largely by intonation clues" instead of "intonation suggests meaning?"

Secret Language

The New York Times magazine

proposes that slang and too-formal English have two things in common. Each is designed to be almost a secret language, understandable to members of the club.

Also, both use substitution or redundancy, disregarding normal English.

What are we to do with our schizophrenic language? Shall we continue attending lectures on DNA nucleotides and leave the classroom slinging out-of-sight slang?

Aristotle's Advice

Alert people may take advantage of the dilemma by following Aristotle's advice.

"What we need is mixed diction," he said 23 centuries ago.

Sheridan Baker, in The Complete Stylist, says diction should not be too low, high, simple or hard.

Choose the high word for high effect or get tough with Anglo-Saxon specifics, Baker says.

Mixtures

The mixing of Latin and Anglo-Saxon, as John Crowe Ransom has noted, is what gives Shakespeare much of his power:

This my hand will rather
The multitudinous seas incarnadine,
Making the green one red.

FCC Instructor Attends Psychology Convention

By PAUL SMITH

Thomas Marshall, a psychology instructor at FCC, attended the 47th annual Western Psychological Association in San Francisco Thursday through Saturday.

Marshall and some 2,900 other teachers and students went to the convention to get a first-hand look at modern day psychology.

"Psychology," Marshall said, "is divided into two groups, the behaviorists who believe everything about a person's character can be proven scientifically if enough human data is presented, and the phenomenologists who believe that some things defy scientific measurement."

Characteristics Of Monkeys

One phenomenologist, Dr. Harry Harlow, professor of psychology at the University of Wisconsin, said, "Monkeys don't resemble humans, but humans have many characteristics of monkeys."

Dr. Harlow made this point when he narrated the film, Contact, Comfort and Mother Love.

It has been shown to many psychology students at FCC.

Behaviorist Herbert Feigl, professor of philosophy at the University of Minnesota, said in his discussion of a mind-body monism, "You can never understand the human being by pure scientific observation. Immediate experience or a person to person response is needed."

"The computerized method," Marshall said, "can predict all human behavior if given enough data."

"However, the phenomenologist feels that such problems as intermediate conscience, intuition or extrasensory perception cannot be broken down to an objective measurement."

Exhibits at the convention were presented by 52 textbook companies, who revealed current progress reports on recent developments in psychology.

"This is outstanding," Marshall said, "because the information won't be available in student textbooks for five or six years."

Welch Plans College, Community Program

Directing the Sunday Evening Series, a community service program, is only one of the many duties of Timothy Welch, public information officer, but he stated that it is also the most time consuming.

Welch noted that there are many problems involved in arranging a series of this sort, only a few having to do with contracting the speakers.

"The main problem is getting the speakers when we want them," he said. "There are a great many speakers coming out here in March of 1968, but we cannot feature them all in one month."

Budget Problem

The budget also poses problems. He stated that they hope to get a good line-up of speakers spaced accordingly, without exceeding their total budget.

"Even after the contract is negotiated there is still the threat of other problems arising," Welch said.

After Welch gets the contracts signed and "tied down," he hopes nothing happens to cause a cancellation.

"This year, for instance, one of the speakers we had scheduled got sick at the last minute," he said. "We had to look around for a speaker who had a big enough name to attract interest but who we could also afford."

"We are actually pretty worried until we see them walk down the ramp of the plane."

Welch explained that the way in which the speakers are contracted holds down the initial cost of each performance.

Booking Agents

A list of persons whom the community service committee composes is sent to the junior college booking agent. The booking agent gets in touch with as many of the persons as they can and tries to arrange speaking tours to several junior colleges at a time.

"This way," Welch explained, "the speaker is paid per tour, and this decreases the initial fee each college has to pay."

Welch announced that the series for next year will feature six or seven speakers, none of which have been contracted for yet.

'American Way Of Death' Author Tells Crowd Her Autobiography

By MARSHA MARTIN

Author Jessica Mitford confessed before a crowd of approximately 600 people in the FCC Cafeteria Sunday that she became a writer because she was unemployed and unemployable.

To the delight of her audience, Miss Mitford told of several experiences she had while in the process of writing The American Way of Death. It is an expose on the robbery taking place in some American funeral homes.

In one instance, Miss Mitford had a television debate with one of Denver's leading undertakers in which he offered to bury her for $150, but she had to turn him down because several other undertakers had offered to do it for nothing "if she would hurry up," she said.

Spanish Civil War

At the age of 19 Miss Mitford ran away to the Spanish Civil War with Esmond Romilly, a nephew of Winston Churchill. She eventually married him. He was killed in World War II.

At one time Miss Mitford was subpoenaed to appear before the House on Un-American Activities Committee because of participation with a left-wing civil rights group. She was never called to testify.

Dangerous Lawyer?

In 1955, Miss Mitford's husband, Robert Treuhaft, was listed by the activities committee as one of the 10 most dangerous subversive lawyers in America. He was cited because of legal advice that he had given to the Minute Women for Peace.

In writing one of her books, Miss Mitford's sister Nancy told her it was much like having a baby. It only takes nine months.

"Mine was much more like having an elephant; it took almost two years," she said.

"The American Way of Death was never meant to be a book," Miss Mitford said. "It was only to be a brief essay, but it took two years to write and sold over 100,000 copies in hardback and over half a million in paperbacks.

"When undertaking an assignment I try to deepen people's understanding of the world in which they live, so that they will not be unthinking people, but will be able to form some opinions."

Roving Reporter Gets Opinions On Present Student Government

Since student body elections for the fall semester will be held May 17, students were asked their opinion of this semester's Student Council by the Roving Reporter.

Carol Mann, business major: "Compared to last semester, they're not getting hardly anything accomplished. They're having too many arguments and taking too long to settle their disputes."

Linda Lutz, physical education major: "I really don't know too much about it. I think it is a little better than last semester's."

Jim Melikin, general education major: "One thing, they are doing a good job putting on dances. I was on Student Council for two semesters, 1965-66, and at that time I thought it didn't give students what they needed. Now they're revising the dress code and letting the students have more voice in the council."

Helen Rohrig, elementary education major: "I don't know anything about them. They haven't done anything startling to distinguish themselves."

Steve Penny, sociology major: "To be truthful, I don't know anything they've done. It is unfair for me to say anything about the Student Council because I'm not that well informed."

Kathy Lowry, political science major and student body representative: "We have accomplished numerous things this semester that have been, or will be of benefit to the students on this campus. But somehow I feel we could have been more effective if we had worked more as a body representing the students instead of representing ourselves."

F. Emmett Mahon, police science major and commissioner of international affairs for the student body: "It seems to me that the Student Council has turned into steamroller government. It's broken up into many factions. Anything that gets done, gets done despite personal feelings."

Tim Wright, police science major and student body vice president: "Since this was the first Student Council I have served on at FCC, I can't really give an opinion. However, the people that served with me were great."

"Student Council was grand, and I only wish I had the grade point average to run for vice-president again. The kids were great, and the advisers were out of sight."

Cap And Gown Reservation Set

Tuesday is the deadline for graduates to make reservations for cap and gown rentals, Mrs. Jewel Dettinger, bookstore manager, said.

May 31 is the last day to request refunds for students who will be unable to graduate.

The rental cost is $3.75.

Graduation announcements are also available in the bookstore.

Carty Says Lack Of Use Closes Library Weekends

Jackson Carty, head librarian at FCC, said there is insufficient use of the library to warrant keeping it open weekends. Only one out of 50 students are using the library for research purposes, he claims.

Whether or not students are using the library for research in books or in search of mates, there is inadequate need at present for library hours on Saturday and Sunday, he said.

Future Needs

"If there should be a need shown in the future," Carty said, "we would request the funds necessary to keep it open over the weekends."

He said the trend at this time appears to be away from keeping college libraries open on weekends.

"Even the larger colleges and universities are closing over weekends due to insufficient use," Carty continued.

Library Hours

The FCC library is currently open Monday to Friday from 8 AM to 5 PM and 6:30-9:20 PM.

The library may remain open for summer sessions.

Debaters Go To Berkeley For Tourney

The FCC debate squad will participate in the Spring Experimental Tournament in Berkeley tomorrow.

The students are Rick Lehman and Tom Stringfield, debate; Cathy Flynn, Bill Lerrigo, Paula Cohen, Tina Gyer, Kathy Spencer, Ed Reid, Spencer Kendig, Lehman and Stringfield in both oratory and interpretive.

Franz A. Weinschenk, FCC debate coach, said the tournament will include a new feature — the cross-examination.

"The new format," Weinschenk said, "should prove both interesting and challenging to the debaters."

Tournament participants in debate will be limited to nine-minute orations and will speak on the topic, "Resolved: That the United States should substantially reduce its foreign policy commitments."

The oratory and interpretive sections will include the usual three rounds.

Students from all California junior and state colleges will be participating in the Berkeley tournament.

Election Activities To Start Friday

The student body fall semester election activities will start tomorrow with a candidates' breakfast at 7 AM in Cafeteria Conference Room A.

The breakfast is primarily for the candidates to introduce themselves to each other.

A nominations assembly will be held at noon in the Student Lounge to acquaint themselves with the student body and give their campaign speeches.

Campaigning will begin Monday and the election will be Wednesday. There will be one central voting booth on the lawn between the Administration Building and McLane Hall.

Peace Corps Teachers To Talk Monday

Miss Beulah Bartlett and Miss Blythe Monroe, retired teachers who served in the Peace Corps, will speak at Hattie Mae Hammat Hall Monday at 8 PM.

The hall is located on the corner of San Pablo and McKinley. The program is free to the public.

Campus Custodians Make Clean Sweep

By LLOYD CARTER

The maintenance men at FCC are experts in finding lost things.

The 33 men of the custodial staff often find rings, keys, books, and even clothes while cleaning the campus. These articles are turned in to the lost and found booth in the faculty mail room.

Along with finding lost things the men have many other duties.

George Johnson, director of maintenance, said the custodians are in charge of "all cleanliness and sanitation at FCC."

The maintenance men are divided into custodians in charge of the buildings, and groundsman in charge of the campus grounds. The men keep the campus clean, do repair work and cleanup after school affairs such as dances, dinners and other events.

The custodians work around the clock with 14 men on the night shift and the others work a staggered schedule.

Johnson said each of the men at FCC is in charge of about 18,000 or 19,000 square feet of the campus.

Circle K Elects New Officers, Robinson To Be Next President

By BEV KENNEDY

Tom Robinson was elected 1967-68 Circle K president in elections Tuesday.

Other officers of the men's service club include Tim Jackson, vice president; Stan Florentino, treasurer; Jim Moore, recording secretary; Bob Price, corresponding secretary; Craig Knight, sophomore representative, and Daryl Sensano, historian.

A freshman representative will be elected next semester.

Gary Ennen, past president of Circle K, said the club has donated a $50 scholarship ($25 each semester) to be awarded to a second, third, or fourth semester FCC student.

To be eligible for the scholarship, a student must have and maintain a C average and have a need for financial assistance.

DECA

FCC's chapter of Distributive Education Clubs of America will hold its fourth annual employer-employee banquet Tuesday at 6:30 PM in Pardini's Restaurant.

The banquet will be in honor of students in the merchandising experiences classes and their employers. Robert C. Revis, Pacific Southwest regional director of Sears, Roebuck and Company, will be the main speaker.

AGS

Seven members from the FCC chapter of Alpha Gamma Sigma, the honor society, attended the state convention in San Diego last weekend.

FCC delegates were Doug Calhoun, Doug Nelson, Rick Patton, Jim Shaver, Donna Fremming and Barbara Carlson. They were accompanied by Mrs. Helen Bever, an adviser.

Members attended workshops on civic responsibility, interclub organization and college-community responsibility.

Council Selects Handbook Helpers; Establishes Ram Awards Deadline

A committee to assist in the preparation of the Student Handbook for 1967-68 was selected in Tuesday's Student Council Meeting.

Karen Christensen, Steve Matos, Rick Patton and Greg Maloney are the committee members.

May 19 is the deadline for applications for the Gold and Silver

Ram awards, according to Jim Adair, a council representative.

The applications may be turned in at Student Center 222.

At the meeting the council also cast their votes for the person they felt should receive the outstanding leadership award for this semester. The recipient will be announced at the council's annual banquet May 25.

FCC Rams Set For WC Relays

By HENRY LOZANO

Ram track and field performers are preparing for the 41st Annual West Coast Relays tomorrow and Saturday.

The two day classic will feature many of the nation's top athletes assaulting world records at the high school, college and university level. The JC competition will be on Saturday only, starting at 1 PM at Ratcliffe Stadium.

FCC Track Coach Erwin Ginsburg is expecting exceptional performances from sprinter Sam Davis and weightmen Gary Rossi and Mike Wood.

"We were unfortunate to temporarily lose the services of one of our top men, Ervin Hunt," Ginsburg said.

Hunt pulled a muscle while running the 440 relay in the fifth annual Valley Conference track and field competition Saturday on the Modesto College track.

"There was no question in my mind that we could have taken first place if we hadn't had this misfortune," Ginsburg said.

Fresno Loses

At the VC Relays, American River College with 122 points edged out Fresno, who scored 97. They were followed by College of the Sequoias, 82½; Modesto, 90½; Sacramento City College, 79, and San Joaquin Delta College, 32.

Hunt did not get to defend his meet title in the 120 high hurdles or 330 yard intermediate hurdles. However, he will be put into the Northern California meet. He is section leader in hurdles and the triple jump.

Sam Davis took the 100 yard dash in 9.5, the 220 in 21.3 and the long jump at 24-4½ to win the outstanding performer honor. He also anchored the quarter-mile relay time to finish in second place, despite Hunt's injury.

Growdon's Best

Fresno's Marty Growdon placed second in the quarter mile with a life-time best of 48.2.

ARC's mile relay team nosed out FCC in 3:20.0 despite a dynamic finish by Growdon. The Rams were clocked at an identical 3:20.0.

Mike Wood won the shotput event at 52-1 while Gary Rossi took the discus gold medal with a 158-0 toss.

"Good Job"

Coach Ginsburg felt that the FCC "boys did a tremendous job."

"Some of them recorded their best times, and we hope to do even better when we go to the Northern California meet."

The Rams will continue to vie for qualification to the state meet when they travel to Chabot College in Hayward to compete in the Northern California Trials Wednesday at 3 PM.

Ram Golfers Finish Season

The FCC linksmen completed their 1967 golf season with the Valley Conference Golf Tournament held Monday at the Kings Country Club in Hanford.

The 36-hole tournament pitted the six conference teams against each other for qualification into the State Golf Tournament in Monterey May 15.

"The six best golfers in addition to the two top teams in the conference qualified for the state championships, said Ram Coach, Hans Wiedenhoefer. "None of our golfers qualified, but Ed Mastropoalo came within two strokes of qualification."

COS Second Win

College of Sequoias won the conference flag for the second year in a row with an 8-2 dual match record. Sacramento City and American River College tied for second at 7-3; San Joaquin Delta College was fourth at 6-4, and Modesto Junior College and FCC tied for fifth at 1-9.

In their final league match of the season on May 2, FCC golfers lost to COS, 384-413. The top Ram medalist was Dave Multinovich with an 80.

Late Start

Commenting on the 1967 golf season Coach Wiedenhoefer said, "Although the FCC golfers started to improve their individual scores late in the season, it was too late to do much good. I was, however, very pleased with their efforts and we hope to do better next year."

The seasonal averages for the Ram linksmen are Multinovich, 82.2; Mastropoalo, 82.4; Allan Blaine Ghan, 84.5; Roger Stiles, 84.6; Jerry Borton, 88; Dave Sammarco, 90.7; John Higginbotham, 94; and Ted Karas, 87.5. The team average is 86.7.

Baseball Team Slates SJDC Doubleheader

The Ram baseball team will travel to Stockton to play San Joaquin Delta College in a doubleheader Saturday at 12:30 PM.

It will be the last encounter of the year for the Rams and their coach, Len Bourdet.

The Rams have met Delta once previously, losing both games of a doubleheader in the league opener Mar. 18.

Commenting on this year's team, Coach Len Bourdet said, "The team has a chance to finish second in the Valley Conference standings. If they can do this I would consider the season successful."

Inexperience

Bourdet said the inexperience of this year's team stems from the fact that there are only two second-year men on the roster.

The Rams ran into some bad luck in the race for second place in the VC standings when they lost to the College of Sequoias Giants Tuesday 5-1.

The contest was scheduled to go nine innings with a second game to follow, but the first game was shortened because of rain at the end of the 7th.

The second game was also unable to be played, and was postponed until the following night at Recreation Park in Visalia. The outcome was not known by this printing.

Losing Pitcher

Bill Gavello was the Rams' losing pitcher, but was the victim of four errors which accounted for five unearned Giant runs.

Gavello allowed only five hits, and didn't give up any earned runs.

The Rams took a quick 1-0 lead on Steve Shannon's home run at the top of the first.

The Ram lead was short-lived, however, as the Giants scored an unearned run in the bottom of the first.

From that point on it was strictly a pitchers duel, until the bottom of the seventh when COS scored four unearned runs.

The Rams' VC record is now 8-9, which leaves them one game behind American River who is now in second place.

Net Team Travels; Tourney Scheduled

By PAUL SMITH

Ram net team members travel to San Mateo tomorrow for the northern regional tennis tournament.

The matches will begin at 9 AM Friday and Saturday for finalists who qualified last week during the Valley Conference tournament in Fresno.

Approximately 20 doubles and 40 singles teams will be in the tournament to qualify winners for the California State Tournament in Visalia May 19 and 20.

New Experience

Tennis Coach Charles Stark said the tournament would be a new experience for him, as he has never coached a college tennis team in tournament competition.

"I hope we can keep our morale going, which we have built up in the last four matches," Stark said.

The team has won three of its last four matches after dropping its first six league contests. The team has a 7-7 record.

Rams Defeat ARC

The Rams defeated American River College last Thursday 5-2 in a match that was rescheduled due to rain earlier in the season.

"Our last two matches have been a very strong team showing," Stark said, "with the American River match the climax of the season."

John Gray and Everett Norcross combined to defeat ARC's Jim Powers and Dennis Hyler in the Valley Conference match 6-4; 6-4, to capture the doubles title.

Two Team Members

The two team members will represent FCC at the state tournament in the doubles competition, with Gray also seeded for competition in the singles.

Stark said he was happy about the efforts of the two players and the whole team in general.
