Construction changes campus complexion

This week marked the christening of FCC's two newest classroom complexes, the Math, Science and Health building and the Speech and Music building.

The structures are part of the district's $20 million master plan to modernize the campus and meet the provisions of California's Field Act, which holds that schools must meet certain safety standards to prevent earthquake disasters.

The science building was accepted as complete only last week by the Board of Trustees, although some equipment has yet to be installed. The final cost of the three-level building, which houses more than 58,000 square feet of teaching area, is $3,083,000, which will be shared almost equally by the district and the state.

"In general, the building is more conducive to learning than 45-year-old McLane Hall," said Dean of Sciences Dr. Ray Cramer. The structure will offer better lighting, furniture and equipment, more blackboard space, study carrels, services for the physically limited, easier accessibility and security, and more central storage space.

Its more exotic aspects include an interactive computer housed in the math lab, a dental hygiene clinic, a museum featuring primarily life science and earth science exhibits, a greenhouse, an animal room, and eventually closed circuit television. With its nine lecture rooms and 12 labs, the building can accommodate about 800 students at a time, according to Dr. Cramer. "Because the science building is generally the most complex building on any college campus," said Dr. Cramer, "no one architect or dean can design the whole thing. Much credit must be given to all the instructors in this division who spent an untold number of hours researching and working on plans in addition to their regular teaching loads and without compensation."

Dean of Humanities Franz Weinschenk also had high praise for the instructors in his division who worked on plans for the Music and Speech Building. "They were involved in the planning from the very beginning," said Weinschenk. "I'd like to express my sincere gratitude and admiration for all the work that they contributed."

The music building will be financed by state and district funds to the tune of $828,000, and encompasses more than 20,000 square feet of teaching space in its two levels.

The building features a 117-seat recital hall -- a "little gem," according to Weinschenk -- a recording alcove adjoining both the band and choral rooms, an electronic piano lab, a videotape recorder for the speech classes, individual practice rooms, new pianos, and a harpsichord assembled by instructors Merle Sons and Alex Molnar.

Weinschenk definitely feels that "the quality of students' work will improve," because of better equipment and conditions, less overcrowding, a better flow pattern of both students and storage, and a higher motivation on the part of the students.

The Music and Speech Building will be followed by a $2.5 million Arts Center, which is slated for completion by next fall. The complex will house the drama department and a 450-seat theater with attractions like a three-way stage potential, a hydraulically raised orchestra pit and padded chairs.

Other edifices which will be constructed by 1975 as part of the district's master plan include a $1.2 million Language Arts Building, a $1.8 million Business Education Building, a $1.6 million Student Services Building, a $6 million Administration Building, a $1.3 million Social-Science Building, and a $1.5 million addition to the Arts Center for the home economics and art departments.

FCC bus routes

Fresno City College has set up four bus routes to provide free transportation to and from the campus for students who live in distant areas.

Dean of Special Services Richard Cleland said the schedules have been designed to get students to the campus by 7:45 a.m. and to leave the campus at 4 p.m.

A new stop this year will be in Clovis, at Clovis and Shaw Avenues, to serve the growing number of Clovis students attending the Fresno campus, he added.

The general routes:

1. From the Madera area through Kerman to Central High School and the Edison High School area.

2. From Nipinnawassie down Highway 41 through Pine-dale.

3. From Bass Lake through North Fork to O'Neals and Four Corners.

4. From Meadow Lakes through Auberry and Clovis to the college.

More information on the schedule may be obtained in Cleland's office.

Creighton heads Board

David L. Creighton at 35 has become the youngest person ever elected to serve as president of the State Center Community College District Board of Trustees.

Fresnan Creighton was elected on a 4-3 vote at the board's reorganization meeting two months ago. The loser, Harry E. Hiraoka of Fowler, was reelected vice president of the board.

Dr. Edward R. Mosley of Fresno was named secretary on another split vote, over Rudolph S. Johnson of Dinuba.

The 1971 election to the board of Creighton and Dr. Mosley also marked a couple of firsts. Creighton, then 33, was the youngest person ever elected to the board, and Mosley was the first black.

Fall figures show night classes hike

Fall enrollment is living up to expectations at City College. The number of day students continues to remain about the same and the number of night students continues to climb.

Admissions Dean Ward Lasher said day enrollment by last Friday totalled 7,456, down just 22 students from the comparative day a year ago.

Registrar Allyn Gerard, who works with Dr. Lasher, predicts a peak day enrollment figure of 7,660 to 7,690, or very close to the peak last fall of 7,683.

FCC's record fall enrollment came two years ago; the 1971 figure was 8,032. Last year FCC's day enrollment levelled off instead of continuing to climb. Other colleges throughout the state and nation have experienced the same trend.

However, night enrollment continues to see not just a year-to-year, but a semester-to-semester increase. The Friday figure is 5,294, but this does not include day students taking night classes and about 1,500 students in off-campus classes who are registering this week at the first session of these classes.

Evening Dean Larry Martin looks for about 7,400 night-only students plus some 1,500 day students taking night classes for a total evening enrollment of about 8,900.

This would be about 400 students more than last spring and about 1,100 students more than last fall. The spring enrollment usually runs higher than fall in evening division; Martin says night signups could top 9,000 next semester.

Housing the students may be a problem, however. The Fresno campus can only accommodate about 7,500 night students, and it is scheduled for capacity operation now. The college could accommodate more only by adding more off-campus classes, Martin said.

Win string on line

Rams host Huskies

Fresno City College will put its unbeaten string of 11 consecutive games, including one tie, on the line Saturday when the Rams open the 1973 season by hosting the East Los Angeles College Huskies at 7:30 p.m. in McLane Stadium.

East Los Angeles, a 14-7 loser to the Rams a year ago in LA, was 2-5 in the Southern California Conference last season and Al Padilla has taken over the head coaching chores after three years as the Huskies' offensive backfield coach.

ELAC should have experienced hands in the defensive secondary, at linebacker, and in the offensive line, but Padilla is looking long and hard for a quarterback capable of putting it altogether.

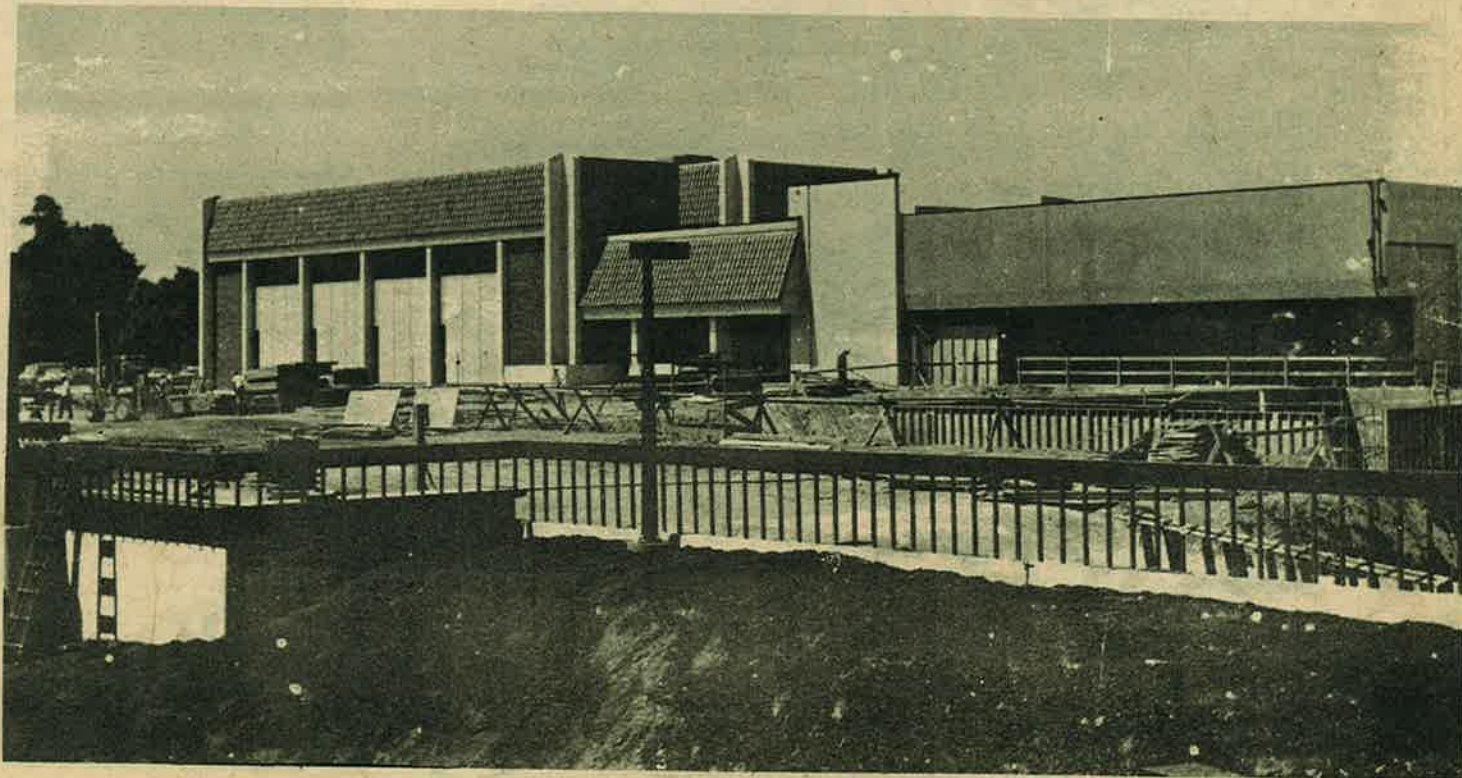

Among the candidates for QB are freshmen Paul Hernandez and Mark Jones, and veteran Dave Bravo, who played at tight end and linebacker last year. ELAC's Maurice Robinson, a defensive back last season, has been switched to wide receiver to utilize his speed and running ability.

Linebackers Jim Castanon, Richard Rowe, and Mike Long, and safeties Bernard Hall and Mike Jackson also impressed.

Freshmen cornerbacks Vince Borjas and Mark Givens are pushing veterans Ron Cox and Roger McFall for starting jobs at the corners. Daryl Lazar, an excellent defensive tackle, banged up a knee in the Hancock scrimmage and may miss the ELAC game.

The Rams will probably also be without the services of full-backs Dave Harbour, out after an appendectomy, and Gerald Bratcher, sidelined with a hamstring pull, Saturday night.

Ram boss Clare Slaughter will probably start Casey Clinger at fullback and Jeff Johnson at tailback. Rick Jelmini will be back at quarterback, Glenn Cotton at split end, Brian Hill at tight end, and Scott Leonard at tackle, with the remainder of the offense made up of freshmen.

EDITORIALS

Welcome back!

The Rampage wishes to add its voice to those of others who are greeting new and returning students to the Fresno City College campus this week.

College is a good place for you if you make it a good place. Take what it has to offer, academically, athletically, socially, even spiritually. Give of yourself — to the school, to others, to the work given you to do.

Much is new about the campus this year. New buildings. A new superintendent. Some new administrators and new teachers. It is a year of more change than usual.

Maybe it can be more of a "new" year than usual for you. A better year. We hope this is true for you and for us. Welcome!

Journalism, anyone?

One of this school's unsung tales of heroism is how we heroic Rampage staffers, small in number but big in quality, manage to get this paper out every week and earn All-American ratings while we're at it.

It isn't easy. And that's why every year about this time, in an article or an editorial, we issue a call for help.

The Rampage is produced by the students in Journalism 5, a two-unit course in newspaper production. It takes work but you learn and you grow and you derive great satisfaction.

To be a reporter or editor you must have had journalism experience in high school or elsewhere, or must have taken Journalism 3 or 4. No prerequisite is necessary, however, to serve as a photographer or circulation manager or member of the layout staff.

See Peter Lang, the Rampage adviser, to transfer into Journalism 5. Be a part of a winning tradition.

Swim, fencing classes offered

The college is offering short night classes in swimming and fencing for people who want to develop skill in either sport or simply enjoy the exercise.

Coach Gene Stephens will conduct the "Swimnastics" class, open to all ages from eight months up. It will continue every Wednesday night for six weeks beginning Sept. 19 in the college pool.

"It is just a fun opportunity for families that can also provide learn-to-swim instruction in a family setting and will also include the excellent conditioning aspects of swimming," Stephens said.

Athletics Director Hans Wiedenhofer will teach a six-week introduction to fencing course on Monday nights beginning Oct. 1. It is open to anyone able to handle the equipment.

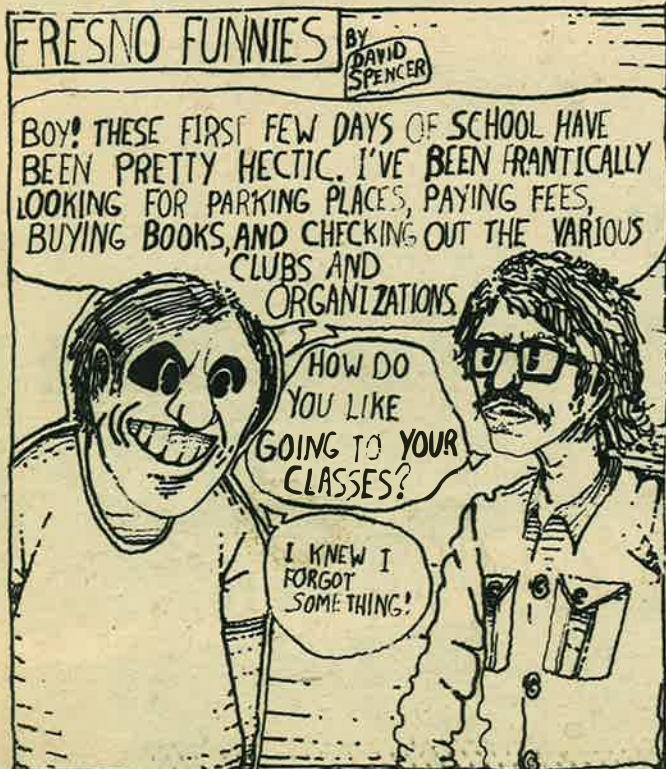

Wiedenhofer said it is co-sponsored by the college and the Fresno Fencing Club. Emphasis will be on techniques, equipment, rules, strategy and physical conditioning.

Both courses involve no fees, textbooks, grades or academic credit.

The college also offers a two-unit credit course in fencing, also at night. This one goes for 18 weeks and began Tuesday.

RAMPAGE

The Rampage is published every Thursday during the school year, except final examination periods and holidays, by students in the Newspaper Production classes. McCully welcomes students Welcome to Fresno City College. The 1973-74 college year will be an exciting time of change on our campus. Many of you will be the first students to use the outstanding facilities in the new Science Building and in the Speech-Music building. At the same time still other facilities will be under construction.

Some new faces on our staff and staff members in new assignments will, no doubt, become familiar to you as the year progresses. The fresh energy and ideas they bring to the college will, I am sure, have impact on our total program.

Among you you will also see many students from various backgrounds. Increasingly, older persons, women, members of minority groups, handicapped students, and veterans are seeking the services of the community college to which they are entitled. This rich mix of persons from different backgrounds is certainly one of the strong points of our institution. I extend to you the invitation to learn from each other both within and without the classroom. Few times in your lives will be as fruitful for learning about other people and through them learning more about yourself.

Amid all these changes in faces, facilities, and fellow students, some things will remain constant as they have throughout the long history of this institution. The quality of the program and the people who teach it, you will find, remain at levels that insure your success in further education or in a vocation. The dedication of the staff will continue to be directed at helping you reach goals at City College quickly and efficiently. And finally, the institution will continue, as it has in the past, to depend on your input to keep the college's operation, program, and activities efficient, relevant, and stimulating.

Best wishes for a successful college year.

... and so does Bill Neads

It is a pleasure and privilege to welcome this semester's student body. I sincerely wish each of you the best of luck in your academic pursuit while attending Fresno City College. At the same time I would encourage you to participate fully in the social and co-curricular activities on our campus.

Your student government has been and is now working to create and maintain a wide variety of programs which we anticipate will touch the special interest areas of nearly everyone.

This semester your student body card will admit you to many entertaining and informative events, including: intercollegiate sports, original old time flicks in the evening, concerts and dances, student plays and musical performances, a hypnotist act, guest speakers, as well as other special activities.

On the other hand, student loans, scholarships and limited student jobs on campus are available with your card. Your student body card can also be used to receive discounts from some local merchants.

One of my goals as student body president is to make student government more responsive to student needs. If you have ideas of your own, something you would like added or changed, drop by our office. If you simply want to get involved, drop by. Our office is open daily and is located above the bookstore (SC 205). Your student senate meets every Tuesday at 1:00. All students are welcome to attend. Participate, you just might get something out of it!

Sincerely
BILL NEADS
Student Body President

Dental clinic open to public

The services of the City College Dental Hygiene Clinic are now available to the public.

Trained dental hygiene students perform the work under the direct supervision of the professional staff.

Minimal fees, including a one-time per family registration fee, are charged for full and partial X-rays and prophylaxis (teeth cleaning).

The clinic also offers instruction in preventative dentistry aimed at preventing cavities and controlling plaque buildup, according to Dr. William B. Varty, director of dental hygiene.

Clinic hours are from 9 a.m. until noon each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Persons interested in using the services of the clinic should call for an appointment at 264-9400.

The clinic is on the court level of the new science building off University Avenue.

The Dental Hygiene program, one of the few in the state and the only one in the central San Joaquin Valley, prepares students to function in dentist's office where they provide dental health education, remove deposits and stains from teeth, and expose and process dental X-rays.

18-year-olds can go anywhere

New regulations coming in the wake of the 18-year-old-adulthood law make it possible for a California youth 18 or over to attend any California community college he wants to.

A student may become a "resident" of any community college district, gaining the right to tuition-free attendance, simply by moving there and saying he intends to remain.

This does not apply to students from out of state or foreign nations, who must pass through a one-year waiting period before becoming residents of a college district for admission purposes.

The state legislature passed a law providing for the one-year waiting period for out-of-staters to acquire resident status.

The regulation defining a California 18-year-old as an adult for residency purposes was adopted by the California Community Colleges Board of Governors, and applies the same to all college districts in the state.

Ram forecast: a powerhouse

With thoughts of an unprecedented fourth state large school football championship undoubtedly on his mind as another grid season draws to a beginning, head coach Clare Slaughter took his squad to Atascadero Saturday morning for a game-type scrimmage with Hancock College.

The 1973 Ram team is obviously not the same one that rolled to an 11-1-1 season record last year, including conference and state championships. Gone are All-American defensemen Rod Perry (University of Colorado) and Tom Ryska (Stanford), honorable mention All-Americans Curtiss Wright and Dan Upton, along with many other blue chip performers. In fact, graduation wiped out the entire starting defensive line and most of the offensive line.

But Slaughter and his aides were blessed with a talented influx of freshmen, including 18 performers from the latest City-County All-Star game, and Fresno appears to have the "horses" to be a power on the California CC scene once again.

Returning at the vital quarterback slot is confident and experienced Rick Jelmini, the most valuable player in last year's state championship game and a spirited leader. Letterman Jim Tate is also back, along with newcomers Bob Melenbacker and Tom Koelewyn.

Casey Clinger, CC's top rusher and scorer last season with 873 yards and 10 touchdowns, returns to reclaim his starting tailback role. Clinger, a small, quick back adept at squirting through miniscule holes in the opponent's defensive wall, is also a fine blocker and rarely fumbles.

Back too is speedy Jeff Johnson, who, after Clinger was hurt, came off the bench to earn top offensive honors in last season's state title game with 105 yards rushing and one TD. Freshman tailback Steve Franklin will also get a long look.

At fullback, injury and illness have already taken a toll. Powerful Dave Harbour, a 1971 starter, had an appendectomy and probably won't be full speed until the first league game, while letterman Gerald Bratcher pulled a hamstring that should put him out about a week. Harbour and Bratcher give the Rams a pair of potentially outstanding fullbacks, while newcomers Del Engstrom, John Scott, and Cortez Robinson provide sufficient depth.

Fresno appears particularly loaded at wide receiver. Split end Glenn Cotton, the Rams' top pass catcher last year with 25 grabs for 459 yards and three scores, is back looking better than ever. Ralph Reagan, who can also play safety, is a top frosh prospect at split end, along with Otis Lovell and Sam Maliniak.

Four newcomers are battling for the starting flanker berth, including talented Tony Jackson, Fred Thomas, Steve Angelich and Randy Holland.

Veteran tight ends Del White and Brian Hill are both excellent players and will probably, as they did a year ago, take turns relaying Slaughter's play selections to QB Jelmini. And White has developed into an exceptional field goal kicker. Also out for tight end is Vernon Willete, who played at Riverside College four years ago.

The offensive line is a question mark, particularly at tackle, where depth is a concern. Scott Leonard, a starter last year, appears to be a shoo-in for one tackle slot, while freshman Robin Kezirian, the only high school athlete in history to play in all three City-County All-Star games (football, basketball, baseball), should be the other starting tackle.

Letterman Mark Doris, who may also play tackle, and newcomers Nick Kalender, Harold Cline, and Kraig Soderholm are the top guard prospects.

Four freshmen are waging a battle for the starting center job, including Mike Barker, Steve Shearn, Jay Imrie, and David Smith.

The emergence to stardom of massive but unproven Greg Boyd, 6-7, 257, at strong side defensive tackle, Ram coaches feel, is vitally important to CC defensive plans for 1973. Boyd certainly has the size and strength, but saw only limited action last season playing behind All-American Ryska in his first year out for football ever.

Veteran Daryl Lazar will probably man the quick-side tackle slot, while frosh Hans Wiedenhoefer and soph Don Watson, who's sidelined with torn ligaments in his ankle, vie for the starting role at middle guard.

The strong-side inside line-backer job should be won by rugged Jim Castanon, a starter last season, while veteran Richard Rowe should start at strong-side outside backer. On the quick side, Mike Long, a starter until he was hurt last year, will most likely start on the inside, while impressive yearling Rick Berry should patrol the outside.

Mike Jackson, with seven interceptions last year, and Bernard Hall, with four, return to give Fresno a pair of outstanding safeties. Veteran Mike Aprile is a better than adequate backup.

Roger McFall, a starter last year, and Ron Cox, a spot starter a year ago, may both win starting cornerback jobs this season, but freshmen Vince Borjas and Mark Givens have other ideas.

Drama tryouts planned

Tryouts are planned Tuesday for two planned fall Theater Arts productions, Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors" and "The Bald Soprano," a one-act play.

Tryouts will be at 7 p.m. in the auditorium for "Comedy of Errors," which offers 11 male and six female speaking roles.

Tryouts for "The Bald Soprano" will be at 4 p.m.

Students interested in working in the technical area are asked to get in touch with either of two instructors, Charles T. Quinn or Charles T. Wright.

Don't thumb rides

Mounting evidence from police and highway officials across the nation indicates that violence against youthful hitchhikers — especially girls — has become a major crime wave.

Consider just these chilling statistics, noted in a July Reader's Digest article: nearly 70 percent of all rape victims in Boulder, Colo., last year were hitchhikers; in Boston the figure was 33 percent.

In Berkeley, 30 percent of the rapes committed in the first two months of 1973 followed the abduction of hitchhikers.

Writes author Nathan Adams in the article: "In the case of a girl who hitchhikes, the odds against her reaching her destination unmolested are today literally no better than if she played Russian roulette. Police estimates, victim interviews and a polling of young hitchhikers reveal that one out of every six will become the victim of some category of sex crime, ranging from indecent exposure to forcible rape."

Teachers get 5% salary increases

Administrators and teachers have been granted a 5 percent salary increase along with an increase in fringe benefits amounting to nearly 1 percent of total pay for the 1973-74 year.

The wage boost went into effect this month for most of them, with the increased fringe benefits, including a new plan of paid dental insurance, starting next month.

The adjustment, reached in negotiations between the board and a nine-instructor Certifi-cated Employees Council chaired by biology instructor Charles Moran, affects 354 people at FCC and Reedley College.

Total cost of year-to-year increases will slightly exceed $400,000, including also an 8.5 percent pay raise for teachers in the evening and summer programs.

The district also raised the mileage allowance for teachers using their own cars on college business from 8 cents a mile to 10 cents.

'Pay as you go' plan sends tax rate up

The board of trustees, sticking with their "pay as you go" plan of financing new construction, has adopted a 1973-74 budget which means a five-cent raise in the property tax rate.

Assistant Superintendent Sam Wheeler told the board the new budget will mean a tax rate of about 76.6 cents per $100 assessed valuation, as against a 71.6 rate in effect the past three years.

The budget, including Fresno City and Reedley Colleges, district administration and special programs, comes to about $23.2 million.

The board expects another five-cent raise next year, when the construction program hits its peak, and then a sharp decline with the completion of the building program.

About half the money to pay for the new buildings comes from state funds, the other half from property taxes.

Firm offers $500 grant in program

A scholarship valued at $500 is available to City College students currently enrolled in business administration, advertising or communications programs.

The scholarship, funded by the Walter W. Cribbins Company of San Francisco, is limited to students studying sales promotion and related fields at western universities and colleges. The Cribbins Company, active in sales promotional services since 1915, is offering the scholarship as part of an anniversary celebration.

The award will be presented on the basis of a thesis or research paper on a subject of the writer's choice, illustrating "The Role of Sales Promotion in Advertising". The paper may be a case study or may represent original research on the effectiveness of speciality advertising as a medium of sales promotion.

Entries should be submitted to Richard Ebel, Director, Public Relations, Speciality Advertising Association International, 740 N. Rush St., Chicago, Ill. 60611, and must be postmarked before midnight Dec. 1.

Contest judges include Ebel and two faculty members of the University of California at Berkeley, School of Business Administration.

Further information is available from Don Watson, FCC financial aids officer.

Ethnic plan studied

District and college administrators are examining recommendations by an advisory committee to hire more minority administrators and teachers and to upgrade the ethnic studies programs.

The FCC Advisory Committee on Meeting the Needs of Disadvantaged Students, chaired by James Hansford of Fresno, last month urged the board of trustees to:

1. Develop a formula based on ethnic minority student population at the college for staffing the ethnic studies program.

2. Create two assistant financial aids director positions, one to be filled by a black and one by a Chicano.

3. Restructure the ethnic studies section as a subdivision of the humanities division with a fulltime resource instructor and a lead teacher with six hours of released time from a regular teaching load.

The board referred the matter to administrators for study and determination of implications of the recommendations for Reedley College, FCC's sister college in the State Center Community College District.

David Creighton, president of the board, observed that any recommendations that would cost money would have to wait until 1974-75 because the 1973-74 budget already has been adopted.

Law course on TV

A three-unit college television course on "Law for the 70's" will be broadcast on KMJ-TV beginning Sept. 17. The class, subtitled "Law for the Layman," will be screened Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings from 6 a.m. to 6:30 a.m.

The professionally-prepared series of half-hour programs is being presented by a television consortium of five Central San Joaquin Valley Community Colleges. Donald P. Lyden, who has practiced law since he was admitted to the California Bar in 1959, is the on-screen instructor. He is a graduate of UCLA and the UCLA School of Law.

Topics covered in the course will include a study of California law structures and systems, and such practical information about law as adoptions, dissolutions of marriage, contracts, laws dealing with property, leases, wills, probate, liability, and legal procedures concerning business operations.

Students should be prepared to purchase a course syllabus for $1.50. Students enrolled for credit will be required to come to the campus twice during the semester, for a midterm examination and, in January, for a final examination. At City College the instructor of record will be Robert Kiel.
