Eight senators out-- academic ineligibility

Eight members of the spring semester ASB Senate were dismissed from that body Monday by the college administration for either weak grades or failure to carry enough academic units.

The senators affected were notified in a memo from ASB Adviser Dave Dickie. One of the ousted senators said he and some others will contest the action.

The memo, in part, reads "according to current information supplied by the Records Office, the following senators are as of this date notified that they can no longer serve on the ASB Senate due to GPA or unit load deficiency."

The group includes Al Canales, William Gore, Phillip Kennedy, Al Cowings, Paula Grigsby, Brett Rodger, Genardo Valverde and Marvin Wiggs.

It was not specified which were too low on grades and which are not carrying enough units. The minimums are a 2.0 grade point average and eight units.

Rodger said he and others will contest the action. "This was all planned to get rid of the people they didn't like," he said.

ASB President Sue Sorensen said she did not initiate the action, and was advised of it only moments before the senators were notified.

As 14 voting members are needed for a quorum and there are 21 ASB officer and senator positions, the Senate will be without a quorum until the vacancies are filled.

Vacancies between elections ordinarily are filled by appointment of the president with the approval of a majority of the remaining members.

Teacher contract still unsettled

by Julie Benitez
Opinion Editor

SCCCE instructors and other certificated personnel brought in the new year and a new semester without a new contract. Although the State Center Teachers Federation and the district have been negotiating for almost a year now, instructors have been working without a contract since last June.

Attention was called to this matter when FCC instructors held an informational picket here last August. Their intention was to speed up the negotiations and they succeeded, but along with moving up negotiations a conciliator was called in to work with the two parties.

October saw the two parties go into "fact finding." In this three people, each representing a different segment of the negotiations, were appointed. They included District Negotiator Ronald Glick, Rudy Kne for the Federation and Dr. Grady L. Mullennix, the panel's impartial chairman.

The factfinding committee released its report on the disputed issues Jan. 9. The Federation was ready to accept the report in its entirety, said Harold Sadler, chairman of the instructors negotiations committee, but the district disagreed with a few of the recommendations rendered by the committee.

SCCCE Chancellor John S. Hansen had this to say: "I don't think we're very far apart but there're still some issues to be settled."

The main problem seems to be focused on the grievance procedure, with the district not wanting to give binding power to an arbitrator, and the instructors preferring it.

Last Friday, Sadler went to the Central Labor Council executive board to seek a sanction for instructors to strike. Although they refused the request, the council did allow them a conditional sanction, with an embassy committee to sit in on the next round of negotiations.

If this does not help, Sadler said, the council will "give us full sanction to strike with all their resources available to us." He went on to say that a strike center was being established "just in case anything should happen."

When asked how much more the instructors were willing to wait before demanding action, he said "I don't know, but as long as it takes to reach an agreeable contract." He declined to comment any further on the possibility of a strike, stating that he didn't know what would happen.

Head Start center to open off campus

by Sam Tull
Editor in Chief

After nine years of waiting FCC finally has a day care center... sort of.

Sometime next month Head Start will open a center near the FCC campus which will make available a pre-school education program for 40 children of qualifying FCC students.

The center will be about a mile from the campus on San Pablo between Olive and Belmont Avenues.

"Although it was originally hoped that a site for the center could be found on the campus," said Ed Burke from Head Start, "for five years we've been trying and couldn't get any kind of program for FCC. This is a good beginning."

With a Dec. 31 deadline for available federal funds to be committed to a center for this college, the Board of Trustees for the SCCCE met on Dec. 21 and decided that none of the proposed sites on campus could be used.

At this point, Head Start officials arranged for the City of Fresno to use the site of the old Washington Junior High building on San Pablo.

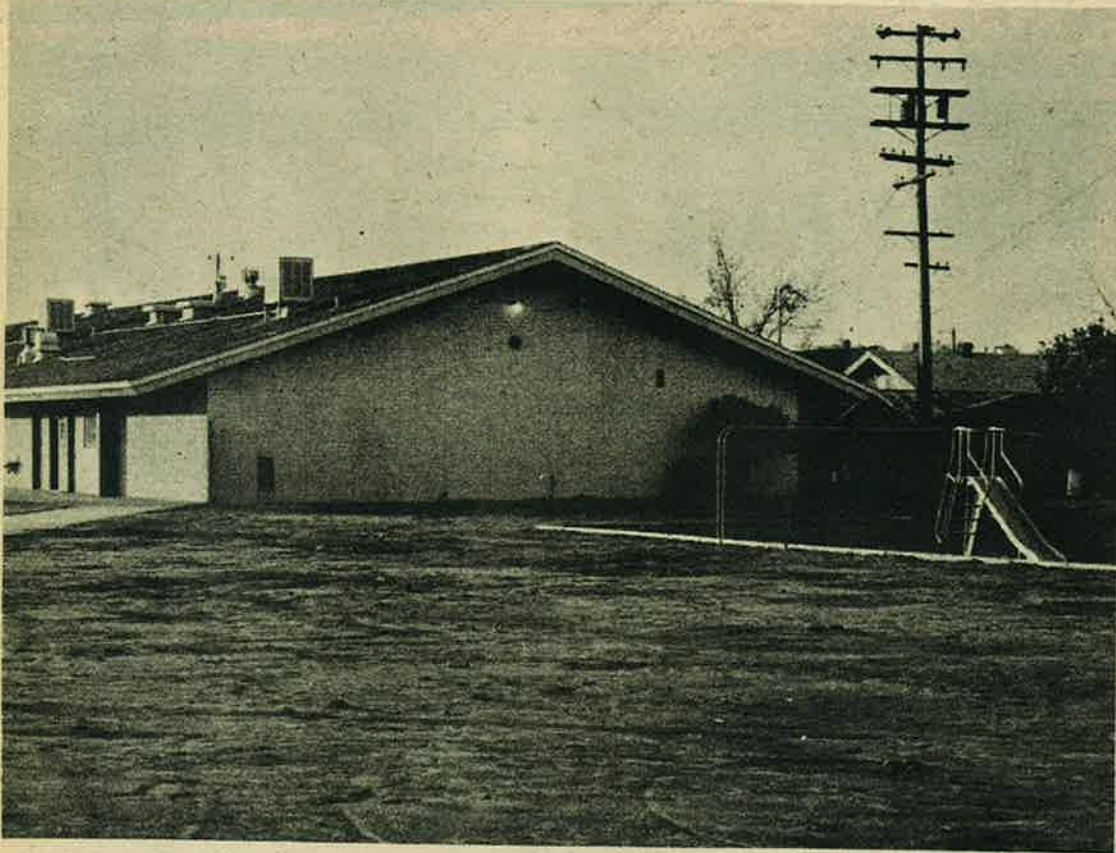

Because the Head Start center will not be located on the campus but will instead be part of the Area 2 Community Center, not all the available slots for the program will be open to children of FCC students.

Of 80 children that the program will accommodate, 40 of them will be children of students and 40 will be children of Area 2 residents.

Burke stressed the fact that this program will not be a day care center where students leave their children to be "baby sat." "Head Start is a pre-school education program for children from 3-5 years old," says Burke.

The program will include physical exams for all the children and will provide one meal (lunch) a day plus a snack. Activities will include lesson

Feb. 2 last day to seek evaluation

The last day to apply for a degree evaluation for May graduation is Friday, Feb. 2. Students who did not receive a degree evaluation during the fall semester must apply for one at the admissions and records office, SS-102, Counter A.

Students who received an evaluation during the fall semester will receive another evaluation this semester, and there is no need for them to apply again.

Kappans will hear Gephart

FCC Kappans are reminded that the chapter meeting of Jan. 30 will feature Bill Gephart, executive director of CEDR.

The meeting is set for the Residence Hall Dining Facility at CSUF and will begin at 6 p.m. Free parking is available off Cedar Avenue in Lot G.

Courses held in Madera

FCC is offering a number of courses in Madera during the spring semester.

Classes in sociology, English, business, administration of justice and health ed will be offered nights at 7 p.m.

If you plan on taking classes in Madera only, you can register at the first class meeting. If not, you must enroll at FCC. For more information call 442-8614.

Beal, Taylor concert here

The popular and talented dance duo of Tandy Beal and Ron Taylor will be shown in a special concert to be held at Fresno City College on Saturday, Jan. 27 at 8 p.m. in the Theater.

This dancing team utilizes an off-beat style of dancing which includes stylized hand and foot gestures as entertaining as they are interesting to see.

The concert is being sponsored and supported by culturally attuned Fresnoans who wish to see professional concert dance continued and expanded in the community.

Tickets for the concert are $3, general and $2 for students. Reserved tickets and information can be obtained by calling the FCC office of community services at 442-8256.

Exhibit for Roy De Forest

FCC and the Fresno Arts Center will present the work of Roy De Forest in the FCC Art Space Gallery. The showing starts Jan. 21 and will run until Feb. 16.

A reception will be held Jan. 21 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Danish gym team to come

Rosager's Danish Gym Team will appear at FCC at 8 p.m. Jan. 26.

The program will include tumbling, vaulting and dancing as well as special Danish folk dancing.

Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for students and children under 12. For more information call 442-8256.

Yosemite film to be presented

"Yosemite: An Ecological Visit," an Audubon wildlife film, will be presented at FCC on Saturday.

The film will be shown in the Theatre at 7:30 p.m.

The college police department has a new supply of telephone emergency stickers. Contact their office at ext. 8201 to obtain them.

First-week miseries--lines and more lines

by Laura Batti
Managing Editor

It's that time again, the dreaded first week of school. I can see all the old familiar signs typical of the first week.

There're those lines. There are so many long lines on this campus that you feel like you're getting pushed from one to another. You want to get your books? It's just a two-hour wait in line.

You want your report card from last semester? It's easier to go and hunt down every teacher you had last semester and find out what you got from them.

You might get in to see your counselor one of these days when hell freezes over. And for you poor, misguided students who decided to register late, the classes will be over by the time you finally get registered.

But don't worry, when this first week finally gets over the lines will dwindle. By then, of course, you won't need to go to the bookstore or see your counselor; you'll be too busy studying for that test the next week.

Chapman retires after 5 1/2 years as chancellor

by Ken Enloe
Photo Editor

Former SCCC Chancellor Charles E. Chapman, who retired on Jan. 5, says he is leaving with pleasant memories.

Dr. Chapman was selected chancellor in the summer of 1973, after he helped to establish the first community college system in Ohio. He has been involved in administrative roles since 1948, and in teaching since 1947.

He was in the U.S. Army for five years (1941-1946) in which time he rose from a private to a major. He has also been a credit manager/adjuster, a ranch manager, salesman, truck driver, and a lumberjack.

Dr. Chapman said he did not encounter any serious problems in his 5 1/2 years in office here. "This is a good district," he says. "The programs are extensive, the student body diverse. I like to think of the student body of both campuses (FCC and Reedley) as a microcosm of our society."

"We have people coming here from all walks of life. I do think the district needs to work on improving its image. People don't understand the role of the district in the community."

He feels that a community college district has an obligation to meet the educational needs of the community that supports it. To meet these needs, local control is necessary.

According to Dr. Chapman, this local control is slipping away. He cites an example; there are over 400 laws dealing with every facet of running FCC — from athletics to student financial aid to wages and salaries.

He feels that this rash of laws can be traced back to the judgement that people need to be treated equitably. Dr. Chapman feels that this results in a loss of local control, and that some of these laws could be eliminated.

Reflecting on his 5 1/2 years in office, he said it was professionally satisfying, and that he was happy to have made so many friends during that time. He does feel that 5 1/2 years is long enough for one person, though. He said change is healthy for both the person and the institution.

He termed establishment of a child care center a desirable goal. It is within the perspective of the financial spectrum of the district, it would comply with state laws, and it would fulfill student needs. He also said there is no substance to accusations leveled that the Board of Trustees has stalled on picking a site for the center.

In terms of unfulfilled goals and ambitions, he said he is leaving no unfinished business, but he added, "An institution would ideally have a blueprint for its future planning and programming. If I could have left this, I would have been most pleased."

Finally, when asked if he had any regrets, he replied promptly, and with great authority, "Nope!"

Hansen takes district helm

by Doug Hamilton
Staff Writer

On January 6, John S. Hansen, former vice chancellor, education became the new chancellor, replacing Dr. Charles E. Chapman, who retired Jan. 5.

Hansen had served as vice chancellor since 1975 and prior to that he served as assistant superintendent, education, for almost nine years.

From 1947 to 1957 he served at College of the Sequoias, the first four years teaching and the last six years teaching and as dean of students.

"As far as my appointment is concerned, I think probably we are going to put more emphasis on program evaluation and making sure that our resources are best utilized in the best possible way in terms of providing benefits to students," Hansen said.

He went on to say, "community colleges in California bring many benefits to the taxpayers and represent a real educational bargain. In this post-Prop. 13 era, the challenge for this district will be to continue to provide significant and meaningful educational programs and services despite reduced funding availability."

"As chancellor, my primary objective will be to support and further the efforts of the board of trustees, administrative personnel, faculty members, and classified staff in their efforts to meet this challenge," he added.

In 1961 he became president of Grossmont College, San Diego.

His past and present professional activities include membership in the association of California Community College Administrators (ACCCA), ACCCA Committee on Personnel Relations, American Association of Community and Junior Colleges, Commission on Instruction and subcommittee on assessing success in teaching, California Community Colleges Technical Advisory Committee on Capital Outlay Planning, president of Beta Theta Field Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, president of the San Diego County Junior Colleges Association and service on 12 community college accreditation teams.

He received a bachelor's degree from CSUF and a master's from Stanford University. He also has completed additional graduate work at these two institutions as well as Claremont Graduate School.

Head Start center

planning, bi-lingual and bi-cultural activities and field trips. The program is divided into four classes of 20 kids each with a teacher and two teacher assistants for each class.

Head Start also provides family counseling and assistance for the families of children enrolled in the program.

With the center being a mile from campus, Head Start will provide a shuttle bus which will pick up the children from their parents here on campus and take them to the center and then return the children (after their daily four-hour schedule) to the campus. Since the program is only a half day in length, parents will have to make other arrangements to care for their children if they have classes all day.

Even though the program will not be located on campus, Burke would like for any interested Child Development majors here at FCC to volunteer for work with the program when it starts.

"If the students can get involved with making this program work, maybe in the near future we can get a center established on campus," said Burke.

Asked if this student involvement and support was effective towards establishing a center, Burke replied that he felt the students had generated a lot of public opinion and support and if students continued to be supportive and involved, the possibility of an on campus Head Start center could become fact.

Representatives of the Head Start program will be on campus next month to begin taking applications from students for admission of their children to the program.

As Head Start's deadline to find a center neared last semester, many FCC students became involved in supporting the establishment of a center here on campus.

Through such methods as letter writing campaigns, on-campus demonstrations and attendance at Board meetings these concerned students let their needs be known to the community, administration and Board of Trustees.

Clare Slaughter steps down

Bill Musick will become new head football coach

by Henry Gutierrez
Sports Editor

Clare Slaughter has wanted to take a summer vacation during his 32 coaching years and now he can do so without any qualms whatsoever.

Slaughter stepped down as head football coach. The announcement was made at a press conference last month at Ratcliffe Stadium's fieldhouse. Slaughter has been head coach at Fresno City College 20 years.

FCC assistant Bill Musick will take over the Ram helm with the same staff as last season.

Slaughter, whose record stands at 136-61-6 with four state championships, will remain two more years on the Ram PE staff. This fact has coach Musick pleased.

"As far as asking him for advice, I'm sure I'll go to him many times in the future," Musick said. "I really hate to see him go — all of us do. I'm glad he'll be around two more years."

The 58-year-old Porterville product went to the University of the Pacific, where he was an All-Western Conference standout. He also received his BA and MA degrees at the Stockton campus.

After stints at Galt and Sanger High Schools, Slaughter was hired at FCC as a Ram assistant coach. After three seasons, he was elevated in 1959 to head coach, after predecessor Hans Wiedenhoefter was named athletic director.

As for Musick's career, the Madera High School grad, after a two year stint in the Army, was a member of Bakersfield College's Metropolitan Conference championship teams. The 41-year-old Musick was a member of Fresno State's unbeaten Mercy Bowl team.

He went to Fresno High School as an assistant coach, and moved to FCC in 1965. Musick also guides the Ram wrestling team, a fact that was touched upon by the media crew. He was uncertain of the status as wrestling mentor for the next season.

Musick, for 14 seasons has been a Ram assistant. Other assistants, Bill Wayte and Jack Mattox, were also thought of as possible replacements to Slaughter.

Mattox also was interviewed for the job, but Musick says the staff should remain the same. "I don't think it's a problem. I think it's going to be great," Musick said. "We've worked together very closely at least 10 years and we get along super well. I'm looking at it as a plus, rather than a minus."

Sarah Pinson rejoins winning women cagers

Carrie Johanns shows defensive concentration in a December victory over Gavilan of Gilroy.

by Henry Gutierrez
Sports Editor

The women's basketball team has taken a 10-4 overall record and is currently 1-1 in Valley Conference action. Carrie Johanns and Linda Harvey have given the Ram team a potent backcourt combination. The two have gone one-two in scoring most of the season.

Sarah Pinson will regain her eligibility this semester after being ineligible during the fall. Pinson, who was declared scholastically ineligible, played in her first game last night and will bolster the Ram inside game.

The Ram women, like the men's squad, dropped their opener to American River and defeated Modesto to even their record. After last night's league game against Reedley, the Rams will travel to Stockton with the men to play against San Joaquin Delta and will come home Jan. 27 to host Sac City.

OCK TALK

Spring sports outlook bright

by Henry Gutierrez
Sports Editor

In the sports world three things are certain — the Chicago Cubs fading, Ali winning back the world championship, and the Los Angeles Rams choking.

The Rams continued their luck in post-season play with a 28-0 loss to the Dallas Cowboys. While these three things, like death and taxes go on, sports at FCC have been drastically changing in the past semester.

Clare Slaughter stepped down from his dynastic throne as one of the nation's top junior college coaches after 20 years of service. Assistant Bill Musick was chosen to carry on the chore of guiding the football squad. Having seen both of these dynamic men at work, the Rams will be at both a loss and a gain.

The wrestling team has enjoyed a crop of outstanding members, with Paul Bolanos and Larry Kaprielian as the two men that have given the Rams a 3-0 mark in league matches. Both of these fine athletes have been chosen as JC Athletes of the Week.

Men's basketball is at a 2-2 league mark, with Craig Cleveland and Rick Ryan as the mainstays of this well-balanced squad. The women are enjoying a 2-1 conference mark and the play of Carrie Johanns and Linda Harvey is to be praised. The spring sports officially began practices this week and are the process of getting ready for their campaigns.

I look forward to the many athletes that will be in dedicated practice to hopefully bring a championship to the Ram campus.

Cleveland, Ryan consistent

Men's basketball team 12-8 overall, 2-2 in VC

The Ram basketball teams beat Reedley here Wednesday night. The men won 108-65, the women 51-36.

The men's basketball squad had an un merry Christmas and unprosperous New Year up until now. The Rams have been able to build an 12-8 overall and a 2-2 league record. Since Christmas the Rams have been 3-4 and have entered crucial Valley Conference league games.

The Rams have had the consistent play of Craig Cleveland and Ricky Ryan to keep their games close. These two first-year players have been the main instruments in the Ram scoring attack, along with Ron Chatman and Keith Postler.

One of the holiday losses was a forfeit due to disciplinary problems. Coach Chuck Stark said it occurred due to disturbances at a motel, and he added that no vandalism occurred. "I told them our main objective in going to the tournament was to play basketball and since they weren't ready to play, we came home," Stark said.

After dropping their league opener 77-74 to American River, the Rams posted a win over Modesto and lost a close contest to Cosumnes.

FCC travels to Stockton to play San Joaquin Delta on Jan. 20 and will return to the Ram gym on Jan. 27 to host Sacramento.

Hall of Fame

Alma mater honors Townes

Instructor William Townes will be inducted Feb. 2 into the Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Sports Hall of Fame. Townes, a chemistry teacher, was a member of the SIV football team and participated as a hurdler for the track squad from 1938-41.

Townes was born in Carbondale and moved to Fresno in 1958. After teaching jobs at Fresno High, Roosevelt, and Hoover, Townes came to teach at FCC in 1968.

Townes' induction will increase the Hall's number to 39 athletes. Such sports greats as basketball star Walt Frazier, football quarterback Jim Hart, and 100 yard world record holder Ivory Crockett are other honorees.
